THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH-TRIPLE SHEET-PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1867.

THE FIRST INTERNAL REVENUE DISTRICT.

To the E itor of the Evening Telegraph:-

John W. Frazier, Assessor of the First District in this city, appears to have an uncontrollable passion for newspaper notoriety, and not satisfed that in the past he has gained no credit in such course, he is out again in the Dispatch of last Sunday in support of his district, upon the matter of distilled spirits, seeking by the same false reasoning and disguised statements as heretofore used, to mislead the community into the belief that the distillers in his district are all pursuing an honest business, making fall and correct returns, and paying the whole tax for which they are liable under the law. Mr. Frazier is great on statistics, and whilst holding to the view "that figures don't lie," evidently recognizes the idea that it is the easiest thing in the world to lead public opinion to false conclusione, by offering figures repre-senting aggregate results, when the design is to cover up abuses which would be disclosed by detail statements. Having tried this "dodge" on previous occasions without rebuke, Mr. Frazier is bold enough to repeat it. Thus, with a flourish he states that, in the five months ending Sist of October, 1866, there was collected in hi district, as tax on distilled spirits, the sum of $416,453 90, and for the same period of 1867. $316,703 16; but he does not show, or attempt to show, how much of the spirits upon which said amounts of tax were collected, was manufac tured in his district; and it is in this omission that he intentionally attempts what we may mildly characterize as a deception. The aggre-gate amount of tax paid in a district does not in any way show the quantity of spirits made in such district, for the reason that by far the largest portion of such tax is on spirits made in other districts, and removed therefrom under transportation bonds, placed in bonded ware house at the secciving district, and removed therefrom for consumption upon payment of tax.

Mr. Frazier knows, beyond all doubt, that by far the largest portion of the whisky tax recrived in his district (probably three-fourths or more) was collected on spirits manufactured in other districts, transported in bond to his district; and yet he presents his statement in such manner as to leave the impression that all the tax collected was on spirits made in his district. We will not characterize this apparent attempt at deception as we think it deserves.

Mr. Frazier has in his office the records which will enable him to show how much of the amounts stated by him to have been collected in his District was for tax on spirits manufactured in his District, and we hope he will not hesitate to give it to the public, giving also at the same time the number and aggregate capacity of the licensed stills in the District (he may leave out the illicit ones) for the periods to which the collections reterred to apply, and the public can then form some estimation of the manner in which he is managing his District, and how far he is entitled to the high praise he is, in the absence of all modesty, so constantly claiming.

The comparison made by Mr. Frazier between the receipts for taxes on spirits in the First and Second Districts, for the reasons stated, proves nothing as regards the quantity of spirits made in each district-it only proves that more whisky has been taken out of bond in the First than in the Second.

Mr. Frazier also gives in the Dispatch a copy a letter addressed by him to one Michael Haggerty, a rectifier in the First District, whose place of business was put under restraint by Collector Diehl of the Second District, under authority duly given to him by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to seize in all the districts of the city; which authority still stands unrevoked.

In this letter Mr. Frazier not only denies the right of Mr. Diehl to act in the premises, but ignores the authority of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and overrides an express provision of the act of Congress. This is certainly a most pitiable position for an assessor of an important district to occupy. It evidences an ignorance of the law, upon an important point, which is inexcusable in an officer, and argues strongly against his competency. There is another point in the course pursued by Mr. Frazier, which goes strongly to show that he neither understands his rights nor his duties under the law. The case of Mr. Haggerty, in question, is one of seizure, in reference to which the Assessor can have nothing to do-the law gives him no power whatever in such matters. The process of seizure is limited by inw to collectors and such other officers as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may specially appoint. Mr. Frazier also parades in the Dispatch miserably written letter, addressed by him to the Commissioner, the main purpose of which, as it strikes us, is to prevent any supervision over the district through other agencies, which may lead to a more efficient protection of the interests of the Government. The publication of this letter (which could only have been made with the consent of Mr. Frazier) before even a reply could have been received from the Commissioner, is such a violation of the obligation of secrecy which is supposed to surround official correspondence, as to deserve the severest condemnation. It is due to Mr. Dichl to say that the authority given to him by Mr. Rollins was a voluntary act of the Commissioner, and that having received it. he telt it to be his duty to act under it whenever occasion required: this authority, as we have beforestated, remains in full force. "ONE WHO KNOWS."

Instead of pursuing the usual route from Cin-cinnati to Louisville, I went from Covington to Lexington by way of the Keutucky Central Railroad, and from Lexington by way of the Louisville, Cincinnati, and Lexington Railroad to Louisville, Wa recommend this route come Louisville, Cincinnati, and Lexington Railroad to Louisville. We recommend this route, going or returning, to those disposed to vary their iravel. It takes you through the celebrated blue grass region of Kentocky, and past the home of Henry Clay: but the long drough hav so parched vegetation, that the green fleids looked like stubble ground, and stock in some parts was suffering for want of water. Lexing-ton I had no opportunity of seeing, as I reached it at dusk, and left it early in the morning. I stald at the Southern Hotel, one of whose proprietors, a Unionist, was morning. I staid at the Southern Hotel, one of whose proprietors, a Unionist, was Mayor of the city at the time of its surrender to Kirby Smith. This Rebel General we heard spoken of in the kindest terms by even those "his were bitterly opposed to the cause in which he was enlisted. His moderation and the strict discipline of his forces were in marked contrast with the conduct of some of the freebooters who desolated the soil. It was our first experience at an old-fashloned Southern tavern, a rambling sort of structure, with long communicating galleries. The good cheer, com-fortable coal fires, and cleanly chambers, how-fortable coal free, and cleanly chambers, how-ever, made the experience an agreeable one. The Central Railroad is under the Presi-dency of Mr. Q. H. Kelth, and the Louis-vitle, Cincinnati, and Lexington Railroad under that of Mr. W. H. Dudiey and under the Superintendency of Mr. Samuel Gill. Both roads are evidently well managed and well kept up. The latter company are building a new road to Cincinnati, and which branenes off from the main stem at La Grange, twenty-seven miles from Louisville, and makes the distance from Louisville to Cincinnati about one hundred and three miles, a route which will make an important through route. The completion of the road will command a large ahare of travel.

I must here express my acknowledgments to Mr. S. B. Voris, an exceedingly well-informed gentiemen in the line of his duty, and who, for many years, has held the position of conductor on the road. His courtesy and kindness added very much to the pleasure of my trip and that of those I had in charge. I now arrived at Louisville, and may, on a future occasion, ask some of your space to relate my experience homeward. A.

A TRIP TO CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE.

To the Editor of the Evening Telegraph:-

We had occasion recently, in a trip to Cincinnati and Louisville, to remark the great change which a lapse of but fifteen years has produced in the architectural character and local improvement of these cities.

Upon reaching Pittsburg, that hive of industry and enterprise, and of which, as Pennsylvanians, we have so much cause to be proud, but hardly to be seen for the smoke, we took the "Pan Handle" route, that is, the Pittsburg, Columbus, and Cincinnati Railroad, to Columbus, and the Little Miama and Xenia Railroad from the latter place to Cincinnati. The former road is under the Presidency of Mr. T. J. Jewett, and the latter under that of Mr. E. W. Woodward as President, and Mr. J. Durand as General Superintendent. We found the route an exceedingly pleasant one as to smoothness and swiftness of transit, and all the arrangements indicating a careful looking-after by those at the head of affairs.

On reaching Cincinnati, we stopped at our old quarters, the "Burnett House," which is in the very centre of business, and we remarked the tavorable change a few years had produced. The variety and good taste of the store architecture it seemed to me exceeded that of Philadelphia, although we may be better able to boast of individual fine buildings. One of the finest structures which happened to meet my eye was the Masonic Temple, built of beautiful stone, the lower part of which is used for stores. Pike's Opera House, which stands upon the site of that which was burnt, surpasses the former edifice. A portion of the second story is used for the opera, and the rest is arranged for stores and offices, somewhat after the plan of the "Forrest

A Philadelphian in Cincinnati and Louisville cannot but remark, the absence of the white marble steps and white doors and shutters of his native city, while a citizen of the shutters of marble steps and white doors and shutters of his native city, while a citizen of those places must be as much struck with their presence when he comes to Philadelphia. The clearness of our almosphere and its freedom from the coal smoke which so infests Plitaburg, and in a less degree the air of Choinnait and Louisville, make the coutrast of which we speak still more noticeable, and give to Philadelphis that appearance of neatness which is so character-istic of it, and which is perpetuated, especially upon Saturdays, with a steadfastness and zeal apparently not much inferior in polar of carnestness to the performance of a religious rite, as many a polished boot could bear wit-ness. Louisville and Cincinnati do not, there-

CORONER'S INQUEST .- The Coroner, on Saturday, held an inquest upon the body of William Wharton, colored, who died at the hospital from wounds received in a tavern, No. 516 S. Seventh street, about four weeks ago. The testimony showed that another colored man, named Wilham Walnsley, was sitting in the place talk-ing to a girl, when Wharton came in and spoke to the female. Walnsley accused the other of insulting his companion, and they retired to the yard. While there, Wainsley struck Wharton in the head with a brick. They then returned to the tavern, where Wharton made an attack on Walnsley, and he again used the brick over the head of his opponent. The injured mau was then taken to the hospital, where he died. A verdict was rendered that the deceased came to his death from injuries inflicted by Wainsley, who was then committed to await trial.

DETAILED .- David Shourds, Assistant Assessor of the Third Division, First District, has been detailed by Commissioner Rollins, upon the recommendation of Assessor Frazier, to take and compare the monthly returns of dealers in dis tilled spirits and rectifiers, with actual sales made by them, and to make assessment for all taxes imposed on the manufacture of distilled spirits in the Third, Eighth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, and Seventeenth Divisions of the First Collection District of Pennsylvania.

THE EARTHQUAKE .- Our Montreal and Central New York exchanges more than confirm the telegraphic reports concerning the earthquake up that way, on Wednesday morning last. The visitations appear to have been felt all along the Central Railroad. At Montreal they were accompanied, one writer says, with a sound resembling a "moaning in the air." Some of the more nervous of the Kanucks thought it was another Fenian conspiracy of some sort.

-"We have frequently," says the Débats, "seen the same battle called by different names. Thus, our victory of Solferino is known in Italy as that of San Martino, and while the Prussians speak of the glorious day of Komiggraeiz, we persist in calling it by the name of Sadowa. Under what name will his-tory record the defeat of the Garibaldians? Remembering the position which they occu-pled, we should have said the engagement of Monte Rotondo. According to the Moniteur, we ought rather, it seems, to designate it as the defeat of Tivoli. A Florence despatch now calls it the combat of Montana."
