CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

Miot at Hampton Desperate Retaliation of Regrees. FORTRESS MONSOS, Dec. 25.—To-day another affay occurred in Hampton, by which one man was shot and another almost beaten to death, while several others were injured by flying missiles.

About 1 P. M. Thomas Lattimer, Deputy Sheriff of Elizabeth City county, who resides in Hampton, had some difficulty with a colored boy some ten or twelve years old, and a colored man came along and took the boy's part. Lattimer was considerably under the influence of liquor at the time, and after abusing the negro a few minutes deliberately pulled out a revolver and shot him through the head. His wounds were dressed by Dr. McLaughlin, and although he still lives, but little hope is entertained for his recovery.

As soon as Lattimer shot the negro he went into his house and locked himself in. The Drews among the freedmen spread rapidly, and soon a crowd of them began to assemble about news among the freedmen spread rapidly, and soon a crowd of them began to assemble about Lattimer's house. Some of the citizens, fearing a riot, endeavored to quell the excitement, but seemingly to no purpose. The riot act was then read, but before it was finished, stones were hurled through the windows and a rush was made for Lattimer's house. He endeavored to escape by jumping through a window but was met by the moband almost beaten to death, He was saved by the interference of two or three growd to the jail.

solored men, who carried him through the growd to the jail.

The riot lasted about half an hour, during which time the excitement was intense. Gons, pistols, and stones were used freely, and several persons (non-combatants) were injured. Dr. Hope is reported to have been shot while dressing the wounds of a colored man, but his unds are not serious.

As soon as the riot commenced a messenger was immediately despatched to the military post about a mile distant, and a guard was at once sent to quell the disturbance.

Robbery and Murder by a Negro in Virginia.
From the Norfolk Day Book, Dec. 25.

A most diabolical attempt at murder and successful robbery was perpetrated in Southampton, on Sunday night last, by a brutal negro, on the person of one of the clerks in Mr. Pretiow's store. We get our information from the passengers by last night's train on the Norfolk and Petersburg Railroad, from which it appears that on Sunday night a negro by the name of Henry Williams went to Mr. Pretlow's store and aroused the clerk, who was asleep. On being admitted he stated that he wanted some camphor for his wife, who was sick. The clerk, unsuspicious of anything being wrong, put up the camphor, and the negro handed him a one dollar bill; the clerk going to the cash drawer for change, was in a bending position, when Williams drew a pistol and shot him, the ball taking effect in the neek. The object of the negro was robbery, as he immediately took pos-session of the money-drawer, and carried off a bag of money, containing about eighty dollars In gold, silver, and currency, with which he made off. The physician attending the wounded young man pronounced the wound to be fatal. We understand that the negro Williams made his appearance early yesterday morning at the store of Mr. S. H. Marshall, at the Ivor Depot, it is thought to carry out his murderous scheme there also, but finding two young men present there, he was frustrated. We are glad to be enabled to state that this villain was arrested yesterday and lodged in jail. On his person was found all the money with the exception of about five dollars.

The Newark Mystery Cleared Up. The Newark (N. J.) Advertiser of last evening

"Detective Brant and Officer J. B. Smith, after having made a thorough investigation of the affair that has caused so much talk, and given affair that has caused so much talk, and given rise to so many rumors throughout the city—the finding of the pools of blood on the Morris canal, and the suggestive holes in the ice, with the hats near them—have doubtless solved the myslery. The story when correctly told runs this way:—A man named James Harrison, after finishing his work on Christmas Eve, went into the lower part of the city to collect some money. On his way he stopped at one Harrigan's saloon, and drank freely. From there he took the path along the canal. Opposite the foot of Mouroe street he fell down from the sidewalk, which at this point is four or five feet above the canal, into the canal, cutting his head in two or three places, from which the blood flowed in large quantities. He called loudly for assistance. quantities. He called loudy for assistance. Two men heard him and came to his relief. With much difficulty—for it is probable they were intoxicated—they pulled him out and placed him again on the walk. He then turned his steps towards home, stopping frequently on the way to drink. Arriving at his house he want to had any sleph soundly till vesterder. went to bed and, slept soundly till yesterday, in total ignorance of the rumors that his mishap had given rise to, and of the efforts that were being made to recover his body from the bot-tom of the canal. He claims one of the hats that were found, and thinks it probable that the other belongs to one of the men who came to his assistance."

An Alabama Tragedy.

The Tuscumbia (Ala.) Times of the 10th relates that on Sunday, the 8th, at Dr. De Graffenreid's house, on the road between Courtlandt and Tuscaloosa, a terrible tragedy occurred. A Mr. Briggs, a Methodist preacher, who had been at one time confined in the lunatic asylum at Tuscaloosa, was staying at Dr. De Graffenreid's. Early that morning the doctor and Mr. Briggs were sitting by the fire, and Mr. Briggs was abusing his wife, from whom he had been separated, when Dr. De Graffenreid told him he ought not to abuse his wife so, whereupon Briggs picked up a half-made axebandle and struck the doctor on the head, axehandle and struck the doctor on the head, felling him to the floor. He then struck him signin, killing him instantly. Mr. Noah, who is an old man, rushed in to help the doctor, and he was immediately killed with the same weapon. Mrs. Noah, hearing the noise, went into the room, and Briggs killed her in the same manner. A little boy who was in the room saved his life by getting under the bed. He says that after Briggs had killed all these he went around and struck them each one a heavy blow on the head. After he had satisfied himself that they were dead he took a pair of shoes belonging to Mr. Noah, and left the house in his stocking feet.

The Washington Tragedy. The Washington Chronicle of yesterday gives

tragedy in that city:-"On Christmas night, as John Laughman, David Ellwood, and Michael 8, McHenry were turning the corner of L street north and Connecticut avenue, the former ran against a colored man who was passing up Connecticut avenue in company with a woman. He, it is said turned and drawing a revolver fixed at said, turned, and, drawing a revolver, fired at Loughman, who fell, saying 'I am shot.' Both man and woman, in the confusion, escaped. Officers Rossiter and Taylor were soon upon the spot, and assisted in removing the wounded man to the house of Mr. William Luney, in the immediate neighborhood. Dr. J. C. Crogron was called in and pronounced the J. C. Croggon was called in and pronounced the wound a mortal one, the ball having entered the left breast one and a balf inches below the left nipple, near the region of the heart, and passed out of the back. Yesterday the sufferer was removed to Providence Hospital, where he was removed to Providence Hospital, where he received the kindestatientions from the Sisters of Charity, and, though there were no hopes of his recovery, he was still alive at 9 o'clock last night. Laughman is a stonecuter by trade, and unmarried; he has been boarding at the house of Mrs. Davis, corner of Twelfth and F streets. The police are on the lookout for the murderer."

Was He Robbed ! The Pittaburg Chronicle of last evening gives the following dubious case of robbery:-the following dublous case of robbery:—

"Yesterday morning, a man giving his name as Daniel Ulrich, hailing from Keotuk, Iowa, arrived at the Union Depot, on the 10:40 train on the Pittsburg, Fort Wavne, and Chicago railroad. Sceking out the officers of the depot, he announced that he had been robbed of a pocketbook containing $4500 in bills, and five $100 bills, and five $100 bills, and five $100 bills, and five his, and had been contained in a wallet which he had carried in an inside vest pocket, and showed an awkward, ragged cut in his vest, which, he said, had been made by the thief. If that be true the thief succeeded much better than he deserved, for, from the appearance of the cut, true the thief succeeded much better than he deserved, for, from the appearance of the cut, he was at best but a bungling thief. Mr. Ulrich said he could not tell whether he had been robbed on the train or while standing on the depot platform at Fort Wayns, and had not the slightest idea as to who committed the robbery. He seemed not to feel his loss very heavily, and after stating his case to the officers and requesting them to do what they could, he went on East last evening apparently in a very philosophical state of mind. Doubts are fresh expressed, in some quarters, as to whether he was robbed at all."

THE ALLEGIANCE QUESTION.

"Historicus" on American Naturaliza-tion.

"Historicus," who, it will be remembered, sequired considerable reprintion in England as a writer on international law upon the various points elicited during the American civil war, endeavors to answer the question, "Who is a British subject!" in a long letter to the London Times. "Historicus" (Mr. Harcourt) writes under the influence of the telegraphic abstract of President Johnson's message relative to the principles upon which the English Government principles upon which the English Government bases its claims of British citizenship, and the inability of an English subject to expatriate himsell.

First, Mr. Harcourt endeavors to ascertain who, according to the law of England, is a natural born Bruish subject, and as such entitled to the protection of the British Crown. The simple doctrine of the common law is that every man born within the dominions of the Crown is born within the legiance of the Crown and is a British subject, whether the parents are British subjects or aliens. By a statute of George II all children of natural-born British subjects born abroad were made natural-born The maxim of this indissoluble atlegiance which is here laid down has no place in the doctrine of public law. It had its origin in a system which is obsolete, and found its applica-tion in a condition of society which has passed

A new order of things has arisen. That great and never-ceasing tide of emigration, in which the sons of English soil seek in other lands a fortune which the limited resources of their own country deny to them, is a phenomenon for which the conceptions of the feudal law made no provision. The consequence is, that the English Government is in the presence of political facis which are wholly irreconcilable with any legal theory.

Mr. Harcourt says: - It is in vain that we proclaim the doctrine, Nemo potest exuere patriom, while year by year thousands and tens of thousands of our subjects are transferring their allegiance to other Governments and incorporating themselves in other States. These are facts which the technicality of the law may refuse to recognize, but of which an enlightened statesman-hip must needs take account. Mr. Harcourt believes that the Allegiance acts should be reconstructed, both with respect to the acquisition of citizenship and also as to expatriation. Here are his suggestions:-

First. British citizenship should belong, as of course, only to persons born of British parents, domic led in the British dominions. Second. The children born to toreigners in the British dominions should, as to France, have the capacity to take up their citizenship.

Third. As to descendants born abroad of English parents who are domiciled abroad, an election should be given to become citizens, to be testified by certain prescribed formalities. Fourth, Every British subject should be al-lowed to withdraw bimself from the State by some formal act disclaiming his citizenship.

Fifth, Certain acts should be defined as constituting in themselves a forfeiture of citizen-ship, whether so disclaimed or not. The London Times editorially supports the views of "Historicus," and says:The important question, however, is one of policy rather than of law, and we freely admit that, on grounds of policy, not to say of common sense, the argument for revision is irresistible. There are certainly hundreds of thousands, and probably millions, of chizens of the United States whom our law regards as British subjects to all intents and purposes whateoever. No statesman can justify such an anomaly, which, it must be remembered, has two aspects. these Irish emigrants owe allegiance to her Majesty, it may also be doubted, at least, whether they are not entitled to our protection against conscription, yet it would have been utterly impossible for our Minister at Washington to warrant them such protection during the late American war. In short, our present theory is quite untenable when any practical strain comes to be put upon it, and, as "Historicus" justly contends, its maintenance may at any moment become the source of very serious embarrasament. We see, then, no good reason why the British Government should decline any triendly overtures that may be made by the United States with a view to its amendment.

NEW YORK MERCHANT PRINCES.

From the N. Y. Com. Adv. of last evening. In the city tax assessment list for 1867 appear the names of about 150,000 property owners, all In the city tax assessment list for 1867 appear the names of about 150,000 property owners, all taxpayers. The total tax levy for the year is $21,889,655 98, or an increase of $4,938,888 10 over the levy of 1866. At $2507, the per cent on the $100, which is the current rate of tax, the entire property value of the city would be about $690,060,000, according to computation; but it is in fact one-third more than this, or nearly $1,000,000,000, the fact being that property in this city is assessed at one-third be ow its full valuation. Among the most opulent taxpayers are William B. Astor, whose aggregate tax, exclusive of the national tax, is $400,000; his tax on $2,000,000 of personal property; and William Astor pays on $20,000 personal property; and William Astor pays on $20,000 personal property; and William Astor pays on $20,000 personal property of $250,000; of this sum nearly one-quarter is derived from his personal property of $200,000. Cornelius Vanderbilt pays on $1,200,000 personal property was on the real estate tax, pays about $80,000 tax on his Harlem Railroad extensive city domain. Peter Goeist, at Broadway and Nineteenth street, is assessed on $250,000, and pays an equal amount on property in trust: Robert Goelet on $100,000; Jonathan $200,000, and pays an equal amount on property in trusi; Robert Goelet on $100,000; Jonathan Thorne on $450,000; Christian G. Gunther on $100,000; Alexander Stuart, the sugar refiner, on $300,000, und Robert L. Stuart on $250,000; Jonathan Sturgis on a like amount; Robert Hoe on $75,000, and his relative, Peter S., on $20,000; the Appletons pay on $140,000—William D. Appleton on $100,000 of it; the Harper family on $170,000, of which $60,000 is possessed by James H. Harper, $50,000 by Fletcher Harper, Sr., and $40,000 by John Harper. Paron Stevens, the hotel-keeper, is taxed on $125,000. $100,000; Alexander Stuart, the sugar refiner, on EMERATION STATISTICS .- The number of alien emigrants who landed at New York from the 1st of January until the 25th of December last year was 227,443; for the same period of this year, 358 days, 239,065, being an average of 640 per day, and showing a gross increase in emigration in 1867 of 11,622. On the 1st of January, 1887 (in addition to the reserve fund of $300,000), the balance in bank to the credit the Commissioners of Emigration was $24,072.95; and the aggregate receipts from that date until yesterday were $652,647.09, making a grand total of $596,720.04. The disbursements during this period were $556,039.03, leaving a balance of $110,681.01, and the $300,000 reserve fund before named in the treasury of the Board. At this time in the year 1863 there were upon the island, in charge of the Commissioners, emigrants and children of emigrants, 850 in all; in 1864, 965; in 1865, 1156; in 1866, 1191; in 1867, 2200-almost twice as many this year as in any previous one at the same date, and this, too, at a time when the city is healthy.

NEORO MAJORITY IN THE SOUTH CAROLINA Convention .- The Marion (S. C.) Star has the following:-"In the list of delegates elected we find fifty-four whites and sixtythree negroes. In three districts-Chester, Horry, and Lancaster-all the members elect are blacks, and in several we notice three, and even four negroes to one white man. believe that it is generally conceded by all right-minded and honorable men in Carolina, that the Convention was defeated, but that resort was had to skilful manipulation and cooking à la Hulbert of the official returns, by which process the military managers have succeeded in figuring up a small majority in favor of the Convention."

BREAKAGE.—Two young men have been convicted of breaking no fewer than two hundred and fity five iron chairs in the Boulevards and Champs Elysées. In add tion to the cost of the chairs, 1785f., the accused were fixed
