WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1868.

A New Form of Taxation. THERE are two kinds of taxes recognized by the Constitution of the United States. One is "indirect." Under this head may be classed all forms of taxation which do not fall at an even rate per capita ou each individual; or, it may be more proper to define "direct" taxation as that kind which is assessed so much on each individual, without regard to property, while "indirect" includes every other kind. The latitude given to Congress to legislate in favor of raising revenue, vests an absolute power in the House of Representatives to originate every form of taxation which comes under the head of "indirect." But while the vent is left open the imposition of direct taxes are carefully guarded. The provision for laying them is distinct and unequivocal. The first article and second section says:-"Representatives and direct taxes shall be appertioned among the several States which may be included within the Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed three-fifths of all other persons." It will thus be seen that instead of the present form of taxation the Government has at its disposal an entirely different bill, which will entirely change the mode of collections and the sources from which it will be derived. At present we support an immense number of officers-there are nearly two hundred and fifty assessors, nearly two thousand assistant assessors, and a like number of collectors and deputy collectors, so that a large proportion of the real revenue never reaches the coffers of the supposing that nothing is extracted from the amount collected except what is legally due.

But the enormous amounts dishonestly kept in the hands of the sub-official render the proportion lost to the Government yet more alarming. These facts have directed the attention of Congress to the other alternative, sylvania, the Committee of Ways and Means amount of direct taxes required upon the several States, in proportion to their taxable population, and to report at the next session. The resolution passed without opposition, and the Committee will, probably at the next assembling of the House in December, be pre-parel to make a report. Such a vital change as the adoption of the proposed system would invite of course demands the most mature deliberation. That it has advantages so far as the necessity of collection is concerned cannot be denied; but whether the disadvantages of the appointment would not more than overcome the cheapness of the collection, is a matter for grave consideration. If such a plan as that suggested was to be agreed upon, we would have no more United States officers whose duty it would be to attend to the collection. Congress would free its hands of the details. It would merely apportion to each State the amount which it must raise, and the collection would be made by the State. Thus about $130,000,000 is required for interest on the debt and like matters. There are only thirty-three millions of people, of which say Pennsylvania has two millions. The United States would say to Pennsylvania, "we want nine millions of dollars as your share towards the interest;" and the State would raise it from the inhabitants. We do not quote actual figures, but merely as an instance. Heretofore this mode of taxation has been seldom resorted to. On but three occasions has this been tried. In 1798, in 1813, and 1815. Then it did not give satisfaction. But now it will probably be carefully scanned. The rare occasions on which it has been tried has caused the public to overlook its existence. The resolution of Mr. Getz will attract general attention to it, and will cause many new ideas to be propounded on the subject of the collection of taxes.

Pawnbroking in Different Countries. WE see it stated that a somewhat curious petition has been presented to the British Parliament by a number of pawnbrokers of Loudon, to the effect that, owing to the frequent changes of fashion, fashionable dresses and other articles deposited with them, and required under the existing law to be kept for twelve months, are very often so depreciated in value at the expiration of that time as to be comparatively worthless; and that many persons in consequence avail themselves of this means of getting rid of their wardrobes They, therefore, request Parliament to alter the law so as to allow them to dispose of all articles at the expiration of six months hereafter. We have often thought over this system of pawnbroking, and the publication of the foregoing fact affords us an opportunity for offering some suggestions on the system in general. Our readers are aware that the same system in vogue in this country is in operation in many others; in some with considerable restrictions, in others, like our own, with but few. There are even in some countries where what we might term the American system exists, an institution which, while affording all the advantages of the old pawnbroking system, is free from any of its defects. A person is in want of money; he has say an old piece of family plate; he does not want to part with it from old recollection's sake; he can obtain money on this plate without incurring any risk as to its future redemption; that is to say, he can receive nearly its full value. He is only required to pay what might be considered a nominal rate of interest; and in some countries he is allowed to redeem it by the payment of various instalments, as low as one franc at a time under the French system, or he can always renew it for another year. Consequently there is no danger of its being sold, if he can raise only a little at a time towards its ultimate redemption. The system was adopted originally to loan money to the poor, at a rate of interest only sufficient to pay current expenses. The visit of the Chinese Ambassadors at the present time reminds us that, according to popular tradition, China deserves the honor of having been the first country to inaugurate this system. The origin of it is commonly ascribed to Italy. We know that it has been in operation there for some time. Many people who every day wonder at the pawnbroker's symbol of the three ball's, are perhaps not aware that it formed part of the coat-of-arms of the celebrated Medici fam-We will leave to antiquarians the pleaily. sure of hunting up the origin of the adoption by that family of so curious an emblem. Although it is always a pleasure for us to go over "Notes and Queries," yet we have not time at present. We therefore indicate the source from which such information can be gained, and leave the further pursuit at present to others.

The "Mont de Piété." as the institution is called, exists besides Italy in Russia, Holland, Belgium, and in the principal cities of Germany. At the principal institutions in Paris the loans are made upon securities, the value of which is assessed by twelve appraisers. Although this, like similar offices elsewhere, were originally established for the benefit of the poor, yet the most profitable customers of late years have been the rich; nearly 400,000 out of 1,200,000 articles deposited annually consisting of jewelry and articles of luxury, the value of which forms three-quarters of the amount advanced. There are about fifty Monts de Piété State, but is eaten up by salaries. This is in France, about one hundred in Holland, and twenty in Belgium. The Paris organization to which we again refer as being on a larger scale probably than any other, is under the charge of an administrative council, the President of which is usually the Prefect of the Department of the Seine-they are now under the superintendence of a Select and yesterday, on motion of Mr. Getz, of Penn- Committee; within the last few years, however, they have been more extensively used was instructed to inquire into the expediency by the poor. Our readers will doubtless reof reducing the expenses of collecting the in- member the statement made lately of the ternal revenue, by abolishing the offices of ransom, on a large scale, by Louis Napocollectors, assessors, etc., and assessing the leon, of articles deposited in the Paris branch in consequence of the hard times in Paris.

> It is somewhat remarkable that this institution has never yet been introduced into Auglo-Saxon communities. It does not exist in Great Britain or in her colonies, nor in the United States. Is it not adapted for the social life of these countries?

Another Step in the Right Direction. Hon. James W. Osborne, United States Senator elect from Florida, one of the first of the Senators from the reconstructed States, applied for admission to his seat in the upper House yesterday, and was admitted by a vote of thirty six to six. Thus one by one the chairs of the Senate so long standing vacant are filled, and before the President's gavel announces the close of the session we expect to see every one of the empty seats filled by members who truly represent the sentiments of the majority of the people of the Southern States. Among the list of the applicants we miss the names of the Rhetts, Barnwells, Hamptons, Soules and the like. By their treason they have forfeited their high places, and the power once so absolutely their own is now given to a class whom they affected to despise. It is now the day for others to enter the ring of the monopoly and try whether patriotic ability does not equal in law-making the intellect which only breeds treason. So far the wheels of the new Commonwealth have been revolving without a jar. They have adopted a Constitution based on justice to all men. They have ratified the 14th article of the Constitution, and having taken the preparatory steps, are now prepared to wield a potent force in the deliberations of the nation. All true Americans will hall this progress with sincere satisfaction, and the flag with thirty-seven stars will no longer be an emblem of questionable signifi-

PENDLETON'S FRIENDS are "very shaky," says the New York Sun. It adds:-They virtually concede the impossibility of securing his nomination, and, as has been before stated. many of them admit the impolicy of pressing him. Mr. Pendleton is now understood as endorsing these views, and will be content with a strong complimentary vote if he can succeed in defeating all other Western candidates, so as to keep the field open for himself when the party shall be more thoroughly organized and on its feet. He will, however, oppose Seymour to the bitter end, considering the ex-Governor's speech at the Cooper Union, on Thursday night. as a direct stab at him. And, by the way, that speech has raled a great commotion in the camp. It has completely revolutionized the sentiments of the middlemen of the party, and knocked Pendleton's financial theories completely out of mind. There seems to be no loubt that it will form the basis of the financial plank in the Democratic platform.

BISHOP MCILVAINE, the venerable head of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of Ohio, has been assailing ritualism in his energetic way. In his late address before the Diocesan Convention of the State he took strong ground against the practice of opening and closing public worship by a procession of surpliced choristers entering the church singing hymns while the congregation stand on their feet. The Bishop objects that the prayer-book prescribes a certain form of words with which to begin morn ing and evening prayer, and that the singing of a hymn at all, and still more so in procession, is a violation of the rules; that the wearing of a surplice by any other person than ordained priests is an unauthorized innovation; and, generally, that this processional singing is a revival of a Romish practice, growing out of "that discontentment with the old ways of our liturgical and Protestant worship, as established by the laws and usages of all the centu-Ties since the Reformation, and out of that morbid coveting of increased ceremonial, of which the extreme ritualism of these days in England, and, in certain places, this side of the ses, is the notorious manifestation."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

AT THE ARCH STREET THEATRE, the new sensational Irish drama entitled The Sons of Idberty, which was first produced on Monday evening, affords intense enjoyment to those who are admirers of the Bowery style of theatri-cals. The drama is certainly a good one of its cals. The drama is certainly a good one of the kind, and the participants are fully qualified to impart to it the true sensational interest. It will be repeated every evening until further police.

Rebublican Mass Meeting - Woman's Suffrage Association - Murder of a Politician-The New Artistes

NEW YORK, July The Republican mass meeting to be held at the Cooper Institute this evening promises to be the largest ever held in the cuy. Generals Logan and Van Wyck and Senator Wilson are in the city, and will positively speak.
"The "Woman's Suffrage Association of America" have spoken. At least its Central Committee have spoken, to wit:—Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mrs. Horace Greeley, Miss Susan B. Anthony, and Mrs. Abby Hopper Globous. B. Anthony, and Mrs. Addit the appreciated at With a kindness which will be appreciated at its proper value, they propose to anticipate and obviate the labors of the National Democratic Convention by preparing a platform for the party in advance. The document will not be amenable to censure for any lack of explicitness or novelty, and will doubtless receive all the attention to which its intrinsic merits entitle it, and which its exceptional comprehensiveness will challenge. Place aux dames! A public trial of the Elevated Railway, in Greenwich street, was made yesterday in the presence of the Mayor and several members of the City Boards. The experiments were so far successful. In a few days the engineers ap-pointed by the Croton Board will publish their nicial report on the project. At about 51/4 o'clock last evening, an alterca-on occurred in the restaurant of Mrs. Oeser, a widow, keeping at No. 2 Rivington street, be-tween Peter Tracey, a Tenth Ward Democratic politician, and a German chemist, Emil Zinsmann by name, which resulted in the killing of Tracey by the German. It appears that Tracey who kept a billiard saloon of questionable repute, at No. 199 Bowery, was intoxicated yesterday, and at about 5½ o'clock in the even-lig entered the restaurant mentioned above and sat down at the same table at which Zins-mann was eating dinner. Tracey commenced abusing the inoffensive German, who had given him no cause or provocation, and finally, though warned by Zinsmann to desist, he ap-plied to the German a most opprobrious and fithy epithet. Zinsmann again warned Tracy to stop his insuit ng conduct, whereupon Tracey sprang from the table, se zed h ' n by the turost with one hand, and struck him in the face with the other. A scuffle ensued between them, and they both fell to the floor, Zinsmann being und rheath. Tracey still grasped him by the throat, and Zinsmann drew a revolver and shot his assatisant in the left breast. The bullet is suoposed to have entered the heart, as death was almost instantaneous. Officer Flynn soon ar-rived at the place and arrested Z namann. By the steamship Pereire, which arrived from Havre yesterday, the new opera bouffe artistes, who are to appear during Mr. Bateman's second season, commencing at Niblo's on the 20 h of July, came to the city, and were furnished rooms at the Metropolitan Hotel. Extensive preparations are in progress for the production of the Grand Duckess. In which they are to appear. Their names are Mad'ile Irma, first soprano; Mad'ile Jeanne Duclos, soprano;

Mad'lie Henriette Rose, second soprano; Mad'lies Larnelle, Sonati and Deseufaus, sopranos; Messis. Aujac, Darlignac and Guldon, tenors; M. Daron, regisseur; M. Francis, baritone; and M. Dennery, chef d'orchestre.

"The money market was quite steady on Saturday, with about the same features as previously reported. Considerable for energy was sent to the country to ampiosate for exchange received, and the demand for loans was quite active. The national banks leeting disposed to keep their resources well in hand until after the quarterly statements are made are cortaling discounts, and this throws more good paper into the open market. Rates of interest are firm at $6910 per cent, in bank, and 106912 per cent, in the open market. Deposits are light, and considerable curreccy being used for purchase of Government bonds and exchange, cause the market to rule closer."
