General Frank Blair's Acceptance-He is Sensitive on the Subject of "His Race."

The following is the speech made by Frank

Blair at Tammany Hall, last evening, signifying his acceptance of the Democratic nomination for the Vice-Presidency.

I accept the platform of resolutions passed by the late Democratic Convention, and I accept their nomination with feelings of the most profound gratitude. And, sir, I thank you for the very kind manner in which you have con veyed to me the decision of the Democrativeyed to me the decision of the Democratic Convention. I accept the nomination with the feeling that your nomination for the Presidency is one that will carry us to certain vietory (applause) and because I believe that the nomination is the most appropriate nomination that could be made by the Democratic Convention. The contest which we wage is for the restoration of constitutional government (cheers) and it is appropriate that we should make this contest under the lead of one who has given his life to the maintenance of constitutional government. (Renewed cheers.) We make this contest for the restoration of those great principles of government which belong to currace. And, my fellow-citizens, it is long to our race. And, my fellow-citizens, it is most proper that we should select for our leade a man, not from any military life, but one who has devoted himself to civil pursuits—one who has given himself to the study, to the under-standing of our Constitution and its maintenance with all the force of reason and judgment. My fellow-citizens, I have said that the contest before us was one for the restoration of our Govbefore us was one for the restoration of our Government; it is also for the restoration of our race. (Loud cheers.) It is to prevent the people of one race from being exiled from their nomes —exiled from the government which they formed and created for themselves and for their children, and to prevent them from being driven out in exile or trodden under foot by an inferior and a semi-barbarous race. (Applause.) In this contest we shall have the sympathy of every man who is worthy to belong to the white race man who is worthy to being to the white race. What civilized people on earth would refuse to associate with themselves in all the rights and honors and dignities of their country such men as Lee and Johnston? (Voices, "None, none,") What civilized country on earth would fall to do honor to those who, fighting for an erroneous do honor to those who, fighting for an erroneous cause, yet distinguished themselves by a gallantry never surpassed? (Applause.) In that contest for which they are sought to be distranchised and to be exiled from their homes—in that contest they proved themselves worthy to be our peers. (At this point there was ominous slience, followed by repressed clapping of hands and faint cheers.) My fellow-citizens, it is not my purpose to make any lengthened addiess, but simply to express my gratuide for the great and distinguished honor which has been conferred upon me; and now from my heart I reiterate the words of thanks that fell from my lips when I arose.

Green Clay Smith, Another Renegade from the Republican ranks, also made a speech, and said:—I call upon all men here, and I call upon all men throughout the length and breadth of this great country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, running over the proud plains of the West, and reaching high up upon the Rocky Mountains, and then down to the Pacific—to THOSE WHO Desire Brilliancy of Complexion must purify and enrich the blood, Which HELMBOLD'S CONCENTRATED EXadhere to the nominations that were made here by the great National Democratic Convention. PHILADELPHIA, July 10—The nominations of the National Democratic Convention are heartily ratified by the Philadelphia Democracy. A salute of one hundred guns was fired at Independence Square last night, and an overwhelming meeting was held at the Democratic Headquarters. The rejoicings were kept up till a late hour, the arrival of the Americus Ciub from New York, and their escort adding to the entbusiasm. Hasson, "The Fenian," and What He Will Do!

Equally exhilirating was the telegraphic effusion of "John Hasson, Representative of the Fenians of Philadelphia." Perhaps the Philadelphia public, especially the Fenian portion of it, was not aware of John Hasson's existence. That there is such a Democratic individuality

That there is such a Democratic Individuality is proved by the City Directory, however, which locates him in six different places in the city. The fact is also sustained by the following:— To the Chairman of the Democratic Ratification Meeting, New York,—PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Philadelphia sends greeting to New York. She promises the city by at least 7000 msjority, and perhaps 10,000, and the State by from 15,000 to 20,000. Pennsylvanians appreciate the fact that while they were preparing for an attack, the troops of New York, thrown forward by Governor Seymour, were here and on the battle ground, and not only saved the State but the Republic. We also believe that in the but the Republic. We also believe that in the nomination of Francis P. Biair the eighth article of the Democratic platform—"Protection to American citizens abroad, or fight"—will be Representative of the Fenians of Philadelphia.

IN PRISON. United States Marshals Van Winkle and Lyn-Albany, N. Y., whither they went in charge of Abderson, Patterson, Gouldman, and Elsom, convicted in Richmond some weeks ago of conspiracy to defrand the Government of the tax on whisky. The Dispatch says:—Mr. Lynnam took the convicts to New York city, where he was joined by Van Winkle, and they went together joined by Van Winkle, and they went together by railroad to the capital, where the penitentiary is situated. Marshal Lynham gives an interesting account of the trip, the prison, and the demeanor of the prisoners. The latter were visited, before they left Richmond, by scores of relatives and friends, who expressed deep sympathy for them in their downfall. On their way they appeared still hopeful of some relief, if not by pardon, of going to a place where the discipline would not be severe, hard work exacted, or close confinement required. The officers treated them as kindly as their duty would permit, and at Albany gave them a fine dinner at the hotel. They were then driven out to the penitentiary, and placed in charge of General Pilisbury, the veteran commandant, by whom they were at once assigned to quarters. Here the convicts completely broke down, seeming to believe that pletely broke down, seeming to believe that with the departure of the marshals ended their communication with the outside world, or at least with home. They were at once obliged to submit to the cropping of their hair, prepara-tory to assuming the prison uniform, which consists, not of our old Virginia broad, striped domestics, but of a jacket of black stuff, grey pants, and cap and snoes of peculiar fashion.

BEECHER.

How He Stands-Grant Has His Hearty Sapport.
The following is Henry Ward Beecher's letter

The following is Henry Ward Beecher's letter in favor of Grant:—

To the Editors of the Boston Daily Advertiser:
—I left Brooklyn on Monday, July 6, but not before the World had published that I had, on Sunday morning, in a political sermon, come out for Chase for the Presidency, and against Grant; and I have seen the story every day since racing through the papers. There is not a word of truth in it. The sermon was not political, and it made no aliusion either to Grant or Chase. The application of some of its paragraphs, in either direction, was the work of the reporter of the World, not mine.

I have never been a Chase man. I have for years, as a leader in public affairs, deemed him, like his greenbacks, as promising more on the face than they are worth in gold. While the New York Independent was lauding him as a demigod, and the New York Tribune was using his name to obscure the prospecies of Grant, I heartily and openly disagreed with both of them, for I thoroughly liked Grant and thoroughly distrusted Chase. He is a splendid man to look upon but a poor man to lean upon. Ambition lifts some men towards things noble and good—makes them large and generous. Other men's ambition biurs the sharp lines and distinct makes them large and generous. Other men's ambition blurs the sharp lines and distinctions between right and wrong, and leaves them, in the eagerness of over-selfish desires, to become a prey of bad men. I have for years felt that Mr. Chase's ambition was consuming the better elements of his nature.

In the liked Grant from the first. Solid, unpretentious, straightforward, apt to succeed and not spolled by success, wise in discerning men, skillful In using them, with the rare gift (which Washington had in an eminent degree) of wisdom in getting wisdom from other men's councils—I confidently anticipate that, great as his military success has been, he will hereafter be known even more favorably for the wisdom of his civil administration.

The seven-fold humiliations and recantations through which Chase was required to go for a Democratic nomination, only to see the smiling Seymour looking benignly down upon his lost estate, has no parallel except in the immortal history of Reineke Fuchs. There will now be no third candidate between Grant and Sey mour. It will be a fair fight between rugged honesty and plausible craft. HENRY WARD BEECHER. Boston, July 8, 1868.

THE ERIE DISASTER.

Particulars of the French Creek Catas-trophs-The Killed and Wounded.

A special correspondent of the Pittsburg Chronicle, writing from Eric July 9, says of the late Eric Rallroad disaster:— The train, which consisted of one baggage car, two passenger coaches, a sleeping car, and some empty passenger cars, left this city at 7-20 P. M., with about fitty passengers aboard. Toe train proceeded as far as the bridge without accident, but the engineer states that as soon as the locomotive ran on the bridge he left the structure sink. Suspecting some hing was wrong he pulled open the throttle valve with the intention of jerking the train over. The engine and tender passed over to the other side in safety, but as soon as the passenger cars touched the bridge the structure gave way, carrying two of them down with it. The tender of the engine was thrown from the track, and the baggage car fell backwards from the farthest abutment and was shattered to pieces. The smoking ca-was precipitated into the scream, and the coach, was precipitated into the stream, and the coach, following it, fell upon it, and inclosed it like the rim of a telescope. The forward end of the sleeping car fell over the abutment on the west side of the bridge, and rested on the top of the preceding coach, while the other end was held in an inclined position by the trucks catching on the coping of the bridge.

3 Just below the point where the accident occurred a dam had been constructed across French creek, and the water was consequently between six and seven feet deep. The bridge was about 15 feet above the water, and about was about 15 feet above the water, and about fifty feet wide. Nearly all the passengers were in the two cars that fell into the stream, and five were killed or drowned, and about eighteen injured. A scene of almost indescribable ex-citement prevailed among those of the passengers who were unburt, but as soon as they could escape from the wreck they organized themselves into a working party for the pur-pose of rescuing the more unfortunate passengers, many of whom it was feared would be drowned before assistance could be rendered. The sluice gates of the dam were thrown open, and in a very short time the water had fallen three or four feet. In the meantime, had fallen three or four feet. In the meantime, however, parties were energetically at work rescuing those who were in reach, and when the water nad receded the bodies of five persons, who had either been killed outright or drowned, were taken from the wreck. The names of the dead were Miss Aggie Brainard, aged twenty-three years, of Eric; Mrs. Priscilla Frees, of Flat Rock, Seneca county. Ohio, and her two chilthree years, of Erie; Mrs. Priscilla Frees, of Flat Rock, Seneca county, Ohlo, and her two children, aged respectively fourteen months, and two years and four months; and a little girl, aged three years, daughter of Scott Patton, of Erie. Of the wounded, Conductor Boyce, who was in charge of the train, and Miss Jane McCreigh, of Concord, Erie county, were the most seriously injured. The others sustained contusions and bruises of various kinds, but none are dangerously injured. none are dangerously injured.

The Drowning of the Davis Family at Holyoke, Mass. From the Springfield Republican, July 9.

The persons drowned while crossing the ferry at South Holyoke to Williamanset on Monday were, as first reported, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis and son, of this city. On Monday after-noon, Mr. Davis hired a horse and carriage, and took his wife and son to ride, They, by the steam ferry, crossed the Connecticut river to South Holyoke. After being gone a brief time they returned to the ferry to recross. When they were near the centre of the channel, Mr. Davis asked Mr. Smith for the pall that was used for watering horses. Mr. Smith pointed it out to him, and stepped into the engine room. On coming out he discovered that Mr. Davis had let down the forward chain, had taken off the bridle, and was giving the horse some water from the pall. He told him it was very careless, but Davis said the horse would not drink with his bit in, and at the same moment started for another pall of water, leaving the horse standing with his bri-Davis had gone but a few feet when the horse started for the front of the boat. Mr. Smith caught him by the nose and foretop, but in his exertions was carried over with im, Mr. Davis going off at the same time. One of the norse's feet struck Mr. Smith, who was hurt in the hip. After going down twice he came to the surface just forward of one of the paddle-wheels, and with the utmost exertion cleared them, caught hold of the stern of the boat and got aboard. It was a most extraordi-

The carriage meanwhile hung by one wheel to the torward end of the boat, and Mr. Smith's idea was to extricate it, if possible, so as to let the horse rise and swim to the snore. To accomplish this he ordered the engineer to swing the boat round, and that proving ineffec tual, the steam was reversed and the boat tarted back, when the carriage sank entirely from view. The efforts were useks, as doubt-less all were drowned before he had time to do this, and probably the father and mother be fore Mr. Smith had got upon the boat

He saw the boy rise to the surface after getting on, but was so exhausted that he could not spring to save him. The people gathered in crowds on the snores, and a search for the bodies was immediately began. The body of the woman was drawn out in the carriage, and her hoop-skirt was found so much sattential in per hoop-skirt was found so much entangled in it that it was found necessary to cut it out. Mr. Davis was forty-three years of age, and married his wire, whose maiden name was Harriet Rider, in Dover, N. H., both being at that time residents of Portsmouth.

The Mississippi Election.

There has not been for a long time, if ever, a greater swindle in the way of an election than that just closed in Mississippi. Planters have followed their hands to the polis and overawed them with threats of discharge, expulsion from the community, and all manner of violence if they did not vote the Rebei ticket. Scores have been driven from North Mississippi, and been compelled to leave everything benind to save their lives. Many from De Soto county have called upon us who have thus fled for safety, but not until repeatedly threatened with death by some of the most respectable people in that county.—Memphis Post, July 7. FROM BALTIMORE TO-DAY. Vance Again on the Rampage-Great Democratic Dissatisfaction. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph.

Baltimore, July 11 .- Ex-Governor Vance, of North Carolina, a former Rebel General, returning from the Democratic National Convention, made a two hours' speech here last night, at the Democratic headquarters, upon the occasion of ratifying the Seymour and Biair nomination. Wade Hampton expected to speak to-night. There are a good many here once somewhat inclined towards Democracy who begin to think too much rebellion and Southern secessionism s being crammed down their throats for comfort. They think Rebels and those who tought to destroy the country ought to be given back seats, rather than crowd home-hungry Democrats out of the front ones. There is evidently a growing dissatisfaction at such unprofitable lavoritism. Old soldier boys in blue and Jack Tars declare they will not stand it. From the N. Y. Herald of to-day.

The following communication has been addressed to us in relation to certificates of stock, with a view to guarding against forgery:—

"The alteration of certificates of Fort Wayne and Cleveland and Putsburg stock noticed in the papers of this cate, whereby quite a loss must entail upon the unfortunate holders of said certificates, and the demonstrated fact that alterations can be made which will defy the closest imspection and scruting, save examina ion at the transfer back of the company issuing the stock, awaken in the minds of bankers and brokers, who cally pass certificates through their offices, the vital consideration of the best means of guarding against repetitions of this kind of fraud. As it is a full of the street that certificates shall not exceed one hundred charges each," some distinguishing and unalterante mark so prominent as to cache the eye of the receiving clerk should be placed upon every certificate for inactional amounts. This of course can only originate with the company is suited the stock, and I take it to be the duty of every such company to use every safetuard possible for the protection of dealers as well as themselves. A plan suggests itself to mewis, cutting the corners of cranicales sufficiently to aitract the cycle of the receiving clerk. Let every certificate for seventy-five or more shares and less than one bundred shares have one corner on off. Let every certificate for twenty-five shares or more, and less has finy shares, have three consers on off. Let every certificate for twenty-five shares or more, and less has a siny shares, have three consers on off. Let any certificate for less than twenty-five shares have lour corners cut off. Let any certificate for the state of the certificates with one hole for every ten shares is part thereof east than one hundred shares. The my opjection ty this latter mude to the tot of great mutiliarion of the certificates.

"The railway share market has been on the whole strong, especially for Reading, which advanced to 97½, but the volume of business was not large. Erie was an exception to the rule late in the afternoon and declined to 70, apparently under a hammering process. At a meeting of the Erie Board, heid to-day, some important business was transacted. Messrs. Daniel Brew and D. S. Gregory resigned their positions as directors, and Messrs, John Steward and James H. Basker were elected in their stead, Mr. Drew's resignation was rendered necessary in order that a contract made with him by the company might be carried out, and a vacancy will not unitkely be created to enable him to return to the board. This contract involves the saie to Mr. Drew by the company of the fifty-four thouse the board. This con ract involves the saie to Mr. Drew by the company of the fitty-four thousand Mr. Drew by the company of the fifty-four thousand shares or stock a y-othecated with him at 70, the present marker price. The board retired the whole of the floating debt of the Company, amounting to about to ee millions and a half, and voted to windraw five millions of the common stock from the man's of the public, and to advance the rates of fare and freight. The resignation of Mr. Drew left the Treasurership vacant, and Mr. Jay Gould was elected in his place. It is probable that these changes will restore perfect hermony occurrent the Erra and Vanderbilt parties, the two new directors, Messrs steward and Banker, being nominees of Mr. Vanderbilt, and the effect upon the affairs of the Eric Company can harely fail to be bene-ficial."

"Money continues at 3.95 per cent on call,
with a trifle less activity, but lenders find no difficulty in placing their fauds at the highest rate on iniscellaneous securities. At the close, there were large offerings at 3 per cent, on Gov-ernments, but the rates on stock collaterals were unchanged."
