The Democracy and the National Loan. WHILE one portion of the Democratic party, and especially the Rebel wing, accept the doctrine of Frank Blair, that the main question at issue is the destruction of the reconstructed governments established in the South by the Congressional policy, another portion, of no inconsiderable importance, lay special stress upon financial issues, and labor unceasingly to give prominence to the doctrine that the Government bonds should be redeemed in greenbacks. Heratio Seymour, who in his letter of acceptance referred so often to "thinking men," as a class whose opinions possessed supreme value, that he evidently wished to convey the impression that he belonged to this important portion of the human family, made an earnest effort before the New York Convention assembled, to impress his party associates and present supporters, with the folly and injustice of their attempts to insert the Pendleton plank in their political platform. But his efforts proved unavailing, and his opposition to the iniquitous scheme of repudiation was silenced by the questionable honor of a Democratic Presidential nomination. There is now, therefore, scarcely a single authoritative voice in the opposition raised against the general Democratic clamor for dishonoring the national bonds. While the Rebels deem this issue of secondary importance to the object nearest and dearest to their hearts, of restoring Southern State Governments that shall be disloyal to the core, and in every ramification, they do not pretend to offer any objection to the decreed financial policy of their party, for they stand at all times ready to injure and punish in every possible manuer those who were true to the nation in the hour of its peril. The Democratic party, North and South, has, therefore, become essentially a party of repudiation, and it is a matter of paramount importance to all who are interested in the maintenance of the public credit to prevent the triumph of that organization. We are aware that attempts are still made to run with the hare as well as the hounds, and to promote on the one hand the circulation of Democratic organs, which fill every edition with attacks upon so-called "bloated bondholders," while privately these revolutionary doctrines are characterized as mere buncombe, devis d to split the ears of the groundlings; but he must be blind, inclearly perceive that, exclusive of a few individual exceptions, the Democratic party, as a mass, favor repudiation, while the Republicans, as a party, strenuously oppose it.

One of the greatest defects of the modern Democratic organization is that it is under the control of leaders who have no real sympathy with the people, no regard for their true interests, and no accurate knowledge of their real wants and sympathies. The controlling spirits of the party, North and South, are aristocrats of the most malignant type, who habitually use their more ignorant associates for purposes which the latter never fully comprehend. It is only in this double ignorance of the uppercrust and under-crust Democracy that the fallacy that there is a marked distinction and antagonism between the bondholders and the people could have originated.

The number of subscribers to the national loan has been estimated at three millions. It embraced almost every man or woman of the North possessing a small amount of surplus means, during the flush times of the war, who sincerely and earnestly desired the triumph of the Union cause. The financial annals of the world would be searched in vain for anything approaching the unanimity with which the patriotic American people contributed their money, in large and small sums, to sustain the Government. The poor man was even more ready to buy his fifty or hundred dollar bond than the rick man to invest in his five thousand dollar bond, and a very large proportion of the large bonds were indeed purchased by Savings Institutions or similar corporate bodies, which were acting as the accredited agents of small depositors.

A variety of motives combined to ensure these immense subscriptions. The Government loans were advertised everywhere as a first-class investment, payable principal and interest in gold, and full faith being awarded to these promises, we well remember that the predominant sentiment of the period was:-"We will stake all we can command upon the triumph of the Government, for if it fails everything will be worthless, while, if it succeeds, we know that it will faithfully redeem its plighted faith !" But although thrift and prudence may have united with patriotism in stimulating and producing the flow of treasure into the national coffers, shall the nation forever blast its future, and check the nobler impulses of its citizens, by teaching the terrible lesson that it is unwilling, in the times of peace and prosperity, to redeem pledges made in a period of gloom and adversity? It was the proud boast of the country, after Lee's surrender, that not only had the armies of the Union triumphed, but that its financial friends had shared in the glory and profit of the national victory, while capital invested in Rebel leans was annihilated by the same blow that vanquished Rebel cohorts. The country could commit no more fatal error than to adopt a financial policy that would prove this just judgment a delusion and a snare.

The Rebel Commissioner and the Exchange of Prisoners. WHATEVER else they may lack the Rebe

ing in audacity. Next to their cruelty it is their predominating characteristic. Few, how ever, have shown a more brazen front than the late Commissioner of exchange of prisoners on behalf of the Confederacy, Robert Oald, who, if we remember rightly, had been Prosecuting Attorney of the District Court of the United States, at Washington, during the Buchanan administration, but who abandoned that office and made his exit to Richmond about the time the Confederacy was being organized, on account of his overweening love for treason. This Rebel Commissioner being now quite willing to resume his old position, or to gain some other office under the United States Government as it would be reconstructed on a Rebel basis if Horatio Seymour should unfortunately be elected President of the United States, has undertaken, as his share of the political campaign, to arraign the conduct of General Grant in reference to the exchange of prisoners. Without entering elaborately into the merits of the question he attempts to discuss, it is an amply sufficient answer to all his allegations to simply refer those who are anxious for correct information on such subjects to the conduct of Rebel officials as established by the sworn testimony taken from Union prisoners by a Commission of Inquiry composed of physicians of the highest authority, which was appointed by the Sanitary Commission. Nothing further will be needed to satisfy any rational mind that the statements of Mr. Ould and his associates deserve no more credence than the allegations of a gang of pirates as to their treatment of the passengers of scuttled ships, or the protestations of a band of fiendish savages in regard to their treatment of white captives. The men who robbed, starved, and murdered Union prisoners at Libby, Belle Isle, and Andersonville, are capable of anything, and we have no more faith in their arguments or assertions than in their humanity.

THE ELECTION of Seymour means war. If he is chosen President there can be no doubt but that the reconstructed Governments will be overturned at the point of the bayonst if need be. We have Blair's word for it. The attempt to overturn them will cause a negro war-and justly. What then? We will be plunged into another vortex of strife, worse even than that from which we have escaped. Elect Grant, and the disappointed Rebels will yield to the decision of the loyal North, and Reconstruction, now so auspiciously progressing, will be happily completed. Which shall it be-peace or war?

Hon. John S. Carlisle, Democratic Senator of the United States from West Virginia, is out in a letter declaring that he must support Grant and Colfax. He says in a dozen words what will be recognized as true by ten thousand Democrats like himself:-"The conservatism of Republicanism nominated Grant. The radicalism of Democracy nominated Seymour." deed, to the signs of the times who does not | The result of this single fact is that all the real conservatives will lend their aid to Grant.

> ALL the loval citizens who vote for Sevmour do what they can to ratify the nomination and approve the conduct of Clement L. Vallandigham. He it was who put Seymour in nomination, and those who favor his nominee do what they can to encourage him. Let the war Democrats remember

> SAID HENRY STANBERY, Ex-Attorney-General, four years ago, "When you come to vote, ask what candidate Jefferson Davis and the Rebels would wish elected, and vote against that man." We apply that test now. Which, Grant or Seymour, do the Southern Rebels Cobb, Davis, Ould, and their fellows, favor? Let the people answer, and vote against that man.

> THE REBELS, captured and paroled and still under their oath, now attempt to dictate to their captors. They tell us that it is the duty of the North, if we love the Constitution, to secure the election of Seymour and Blair. How long in the annals of the world has it been since paroled Rebels teach their captors?

THE IRISH HARVEST .- The total area under cereal crops in 1867 amounted to 2,102,148 acres, a decrease of 77,756 acres on the year 1366, but wheat, oats, and bere gave a larger yield by 0 cwt., 05 cwt., and 02 cwt. per acre, respectively, than in 1866. Wheat, oats, barley, bere, and rye, taken together, produced 8,932,805 quarters, being a net increase of 156,543 quarters in 1867, compared with the previous year, The following is the total produce of the principal crops grown here during the past two years, showing the increase and decrease

HON. JOHN WENTWORTH IS a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Illinois First District, now represented by Mr. Judd, and it is said that he is using his extensive acquaintance and influence and abundant means to effect it. He was the Representative in Congress for ten years, from 1843 to 1855, afterwards Mayor of Chicago, and prominent in other positions, and again, from 1865 to 1867 member of Congress.

Onto is ready for the fight. The Republican nominations for Congress have all been made except in the Third and Tenth Districts, now represented by General Scheuck and Mr. Ash ley. The following are the candidates:-Republicans. P. W. Strader,

Benj Eggleston, Job E. Stevenson, Samuel F. Cary, C. L. Valiandignam, John S. Leedom, Wm. Lawrence, T. E. Griswold, John A. Smith, James J. Winans, John Beatty, Wm. H. Gibson,

The State election takes place October 13. SARCASM .- The following article in the N. Y World to-day is "good." It is a most unwarrantable sarcasm on the isgrate style of the Tribune:-H. G.'s Last Personal.—What a forlorn sketch is this! Because Hiram Ulysses hopes to escape responsibility for the misdeeds of "Simpson Sam," here is H. G. seeking to evade the public eye under the transparent disguise of "Booby." Bobby forsooth! as if any man in his senses could read the following "personal" without recognizing its author! recognizing its author!-

Many - I saw your personal, but it is of no avail your informer is a liar.

BOBBY. The style is the man. "You lie, you viliain."
"Seymour is a liar." "Voorliees lies." Everybody lies, lies, lies, lies! Who but H. G. could thus address a lady, even by way of gindness, and through the "personais" of the H-rald? Suppose one should see a personage in the uniform of a General performing somers aults before a bottle with an impulse and it "second" it "second." a bottle with an imp in it? would it "avail" for that personage to protest that his name was Sidney Sam and not Ulysses Simpson? So, in like manner, when "Bobby" tells "Mary" that her "informer ites," we sil know at once who "Bobby" must be just as well as if we had met him straggling out of Windust's with a snabby white hat set far back on his head and insu-bordinate trousers on his irreconcilable legs.

JAIL BIRDS.-The inmates of the State Prison Connecticut, now number only about 160-the usual average is 200 to 225. Two causes for this decrease are mentioned-one is, that the late Legislature pardoned out about everybody who had any friends or money, and the otherthat criminals can now testify in their own benalf, and some talk so plausibly that juries do not convict.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium, and New Tables, the most desira ble means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium, being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the Insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividence, and the misunderstanding Dividence, and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to couse the Policy-Holder. Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood, to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM FOLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating in-suring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life
