Ancedete of Dr. Parr. The London Athenaum says:--

'Many must have heard the late Leonard Horner tell the following story of Dr. Parr whom he knew intimately. remember that Mr. Horner was present, but we of record, morally and physically. Dr. Parr and others were staying at a country house.

Among the guests were two Americans, who made no bones of differing from the Doctor. So Parr sud, 'Do you know where you come from, gentiemen? you come from the place to which we used to send our thieves!' This made the host angry, and he gave the Doctor a sharp rebuke for his rudeness, which made him quit the room in high sulks. The rest of the company walked out on the lawn, where they amused the Americans with stories of the Doctor. There was a heavy black cloud over head, and suddenly there came out of that cloud the word Tham (Pair-lisp for Som) in the Dector's voice. The company stared, a word or two was spoken about the curious directions which unexpected sounds will take, and the conversation proceeded. Presently the awful word was again thrown from the cloud.

"'And nearer, clearer, deadlier than before.' There was now surprise and alarm and all the party set off to find the Doctor. They found him in his bed-room, and the explanation was more sufficient than satisfactory. In his mood he had chosen to sit down with his pipe on the top bar of a very deep old-fashioned grate with a high mantel shelf. Here he had tumbled backwards, and was doubled up between the back and the bars. His only way of calling for help was by sending his voice up the chimney; and the warning was the echo from the cloud. It we could but think he had heard the previous conversation by the same channel, the poetic justice of the calamity would be enhanced. Say that he tumbled by leaning backwards to listen to it, but do not say we told the story that way."

Death of a Noted Blockade Runner.

The London Morning Sar, of August 11, says:
-"The celebrated Captain of the Emity St. Pierre is dead. The news was received in Liver-pool yesterday from Aden to the effect that the ship Glasgow, of which vessel the deceased had been captain, had arrived at Aden, and that Captain Wilson died on board while on the voyage out from England. There are very few of our readers who will fail to recollect the occurrence which brought Captain Wilson into noto ricty. A lew months after the Southern ports were blockaded by the United States fleet, were blockaded by the United States fleet, Captain Wilson, in command of the Emily St. Pierre, approached the entrance to Charleston with a cargo of gunny cloth from Bombay. was chased and captured by a blockader, and a prize crew were put on board. Captain Wilson explained that he was unaware of the port being blockaded, as he had salled from Bombay before the news reached that port. The explanation was of no use, and the captured ship was ordered to Boston. A lew days afterwards Captain Wilson, having watched his opportunity, "bo'tled" his captors, abered his course, and in due time reached the Mersey all well, where his arrival was haited with delight both by the owners of the ship and the underwriters. A few days afterwards hand, ome and valuable to timonials were presented to Captain Wilson, his officers, and men from the Underwriters' Associntion and the fortunate owners of the ship. The deceased gentleman was highly esteemed in Liverpool.

Foreign Items,

-It is well known in India, though not so at home, that Dr. Bhau Daji, a skilled native physician in Bombay, has for many years made the cure of le; rosy a special object of investigation, with so much success as to entitle him to be regarded, according to local papers, as "one of the benefactors of the world." Latterly, Dr. Bhan has striven to establish an bosoital solely for lepers, where his treatment and regimen can be rigidly administered, and, therefore, more thoroughly tested than heretotore. We learn from a trustworthy eye-witness that there are at present seventy cases under this treatment, "some quite cured, and others in all stages of cure. It is stated that "the cure is slow, varying with the stage of the disease, the age and constitution It is stated that "the cure is slow, varying with the stage of the disease, the age and constitution of the patient, etc., but that in four to eight months wonderful effects are produced;" and that Dr. Bhau is sanguine, not without good reason, that the worst cases can be cured in twelve morths," One "bad" case instanced is that of a student, who under very careful ordinary medical treatment for eight months received no benefit from it whatever, but having now tried Dr. Bhau Daji's regimen and medicine for three months, says he feels sure he will be quite cured by them, and is already not unfit to appear n public. Those who know what leprosy is in India, and how totally European skill and the ingenuity of native vyads have failed in treating this proverbially loathsome and desperate dis-case, will look with interest on the progress of Dr. Bhau Dajt's very hopeful experiment.

ing reaction, but are permanent. Stimulants only afford temporary relief, and have the same effect as giving a tired horse the whip instead of oats. The true way is to invigorate the debilitated system by supplying the blood with its Life Element-IRON, thereby infusing strength, vigor and new life into al parts of the system, and building up an IRON

CONSTITUTION. Thousands have been changed by the use o this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women, and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
