France regains her Rheuish frontier. It is not because France has irreconcilable prejudices against the interests or conveniences of others, She would willingly admit any modifications suggested by just susceptibilities or conveni-ences of her neighbors. For instance, she would be satisfied, instead of taking forcible possession, in which she has no material interest, to agre to the organization of a neutral line that would keep guard on her frontier and protect her security; in one word, she would be satisfied with any arrangement interposing the Rhine between her and Germany. Is this asking for too much? No; there is no disinterested power that could raise such a pretence, and, and, per-haps, there is not one that does not desire it.

CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY .- Before Alderman Beitler, two men named Edward B, Sullivan and Dennis O'Neill (alias Robert Short), have had a hearing upon the charge of conspiracy to defraud John Dorian, doing business on Willow street, out of whisky valued at $321. O'Neill went to Dorian's place of business, represented himself as the proprietor of an establishment at Second and Prime streets; bought the liquor, and said that the casg would be paid for it on delivery. The whisky was delivered, but the cash was not paid. O'Neill then tells Dorian to come at a certain time and get his money. A bar-tender by the name of Melon, who was present at the time, disclosed the fact that the two had agreed in the following way, to keep Dorian out of his money. Sullivan was to stand upon the opposite corner, and when he saw Dorian enter, was also to come in; it being arranged that he should not be recognized by O'Neill. He was then to present a bill and demand its payment, thus securing the money due Dorian. Melon also deposed that the establishment was owned by Sullivan, and not by O'Neill. The latter said after the transaction "Didn't we fix the thing nice ?"

Sullivan was held in $1000 bail to answer, O'Neill in $1500.

CORONER'S INVESTIGATION .- Coroner Daniels this alternoon held an inquest on the body of Robert McCormics, who died at the Hospital from injuries received in a quarrel at Brown's stables, on German street, below Third, on the 26th of August last. It was in testimony that McCormick and a man named Robert Dougherty got into a fight, during which Dougherty struck the deceased over the head with a pl'ch fork. POLITICAL.

-Hon, Thomas D. Eliot, of the First District Massachusetts, atter ten years of service in Con-gress, proposes to retire. Among the candidates named for the successor are:-Hon, Mr. Buffin ton, who has previously served the district; Hon. William T. Davis, of Plymouth, and Cap-tain Prince S. Crowell, President of the Cape Cod National Bank.

-Hon. Alfred Ely has declined to be a candi-date for Congress in the Rochester District, and recommends the nomination of Judge Noah Dayls as a candidate of the highest character and capacity, whose unanimous indorsement by the County Convention of Orleans, he says, ex-presses the uncontested preferences of the people of that county, as well as of a very large proportion of the Republicans of Monroe.

-The World before Seymour was nominated thus gave an expression of its opinion of all who assail General Grant:--"His career is a lesson in practical Democracy; it is a quiet savire on the dandyism and puppyism, and the shallow affectation of our fashionable exquisites, as well as upon the swagger of our plausible, glib tongued demagogues."

-General Carl Schurz has arranged to visit Buffalo on the 10th instant, and speak to his German fellow-citizens on the political questions of the day. He also speaks in Albany September 7: Syracuse, September 8; Rochester, September 9.
