MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC. | Merit. This order confers nobility, and it is Mrs. F. W. Lander.

Among the names of the few really eminent actresses now upon the American stage, that of Mrs. F. W. Lander (Jean M. Davenport) is certainly entitled to the first position. In the higher walks of tragedy and comedy she is equally at home, and the fame and popularity which she has won are legitimate tributes to her abilities and cultivation as an artist and her private worth as a most estimable lady. Both personally and professionally she is an ornament to the stage, and her appearance at the Walnut Street Theatre during the present and next week in a series of her best personations will afford rare pleasure to many admirers of the beat styles of dramatic art.

Jean M. Davenport was born a. Wolverhampton, England, on the 3d of May, 1829. Her father was originally a lawyer, but his tastes and inclinations predisposed him to the drama, and he accordingly left the bar for the stage. He became the manager of the Richmond Theatre, and his daughter Jean made her first appearance there in 1837, when only eight years of age. The character in which she made her debut was the "Little Pickle," in a plece va riously known as the Managers' Daughter, the Spoiled Child, and the Young Actress, Jean made a hit in this part, as she also did in that of Richard the Third. She was the first represen' tative of the hump-backed tyrant that appeared upon the boards of the Richmond Theatre after the death of Edmund Kean, and the hat she wore was one which that great actor had been accustomed to wear in the same part. After her debut she appeared with success in the principal cities of England and Ireland for a couple of years, and iu 1839 she was brought to the United States, She made her first appearance in this country at the old National Theatre in Loonard street, New York, which was at that time under the management of the late James W. Wallack. She played a series of "star" engagements in other cities, and in 1842 she returned to Europe, where she sojourned for several years in France and Italy, for the purpose of completing her education. In Paris she studied music under one of the best masters, and the talent which she manifested for the art was so great that it was a matter of discussion with herself and her friends whether she should not forsake the dramatic for the operatic Her final choice, however, was stage. in favor of the drama, and she zealously applied herself to the cultivation of her powers and to the study of the best models. In 1845 she again appeared upon the London stage, at the Olympic Theatre, and played Shakespeare's "Juliet," "Julia" in the Hunchback, the "Countess" in Love, and other characters of like importance. She speedily became a favorite with the public, but a serious illness compelled her to retire from the stage in the midst of an unusually successful season. Absence from the public gaze, however, did not diminish her popularity, and when she returned to the stage she was complimented by a testimonial benefit, under the auspices of the Lord Mayor of London. In 1846 she went to Holland with an English company, and remained for about two years, and her refined and elegant style of acting excited much enthusiasm among all classes. In 1848 Miss Davenport made her debut as a public reader in England. Fanny Kemble had not then taken up this line of art, and Miss Davenport therefore had the field to herself. Her first reading was given in Oxford, but she after wards gave entertainments in the other principal British cities. She was the first reader of Shakespeare since the time of Mrs. Siddons who was competent to interpret the works of the great poet, and her performances attracted large audiences of the best classes of society. In 1849 Miss Davenport came to the United States for a second time, and the successes which she achieved determined her to reside here in future. The death of her father, in July, 1851, rendered it necessary for her to return to England to settle the affairs of his estate, which task being accomplished, she again crossed the Atlantic, and made a decided impression by her performance of the parts of 'Peg Woffington," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," the "Countess," "Letttia Hardy," and "Camille." In 1855 she visited California, and since then she has been to Eugland twice. On the 30th of October, 1860, Miss Davenport was married to Frederick West Lander, at San Francisco, and she retired from the stage. Mr. Lander was at that time a civil engineer, and a Government agent for pacilying the Indians in the Western Territories. When the Rebellion broke out Mr. Lander offered his services to the Government, and was made a Brigadier-General-A high-toned gentleman and a brave and honorable soldier, General Lander left an unsulhed memory when he fell in battle on the 3d of March, 1862, His widow, instead of wasting her soul in impotent grievings for his loss, devoted herself with ardor to the cause to which her husband's life had been sacrificed. She organized an efficient corps of nurses, and until the end of the war she exerted herself to relieve the wants of the sick and wounded soldiers of the Union army. In February, 1863, Mrs. Lander made ber reappearance on the stage at Niblo's Garden, New York, in the drams of Mesal sance, Ris' tori introduced a new line of characters soon after, and her signal triumphs revived the interest of the public in the best forms of dramatic art. Mrs. Lander took advantage of the furore which was created by Ristori's acting, and she made her first appearance as "Elizabeth," in an excellent adaptation of Giacometti's drama, at the National Theatre, Washington, in April, 1867. Since then she has performed "Elizabeth," "Mary Stuart," "Medea," and other of Ristori's roles, in all the principal cities of the United States, and the remarkable merits of her personations are universally acknwledged. Mrs. Lander will perform "Marie Antoinette" for the first time during her present engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre.

only granted to the most distinguished persons in civil life. -Auber is at work on a new opera. He will complete his eighty-ninth year in January. -Amusements are dull in New Orleans, and the performances of two minstrel companies are the only attractions in the dramatic or musical line that the inbabitants of the Crescent City are at present able to support.

-Mr. Hooley, in addition to his establishments in Philadelphia and Brooklyn, will shortly open the Odeon in Williamsburg, which he has recently purchased for $47,000.

Dramatic Notes.

-Mr. Edwin Booth will commence an engagement in Detroit this evening, during which he is expected to appear as "Hamlet," "Richelieu," "Brutus," "Bichard III," "Benedick," and "Claude Melnotte,"

-Mr. F. S. Chanfrau is playing "Sam" at present in St. Louis.

The City Amusements.

AT THE CHESNUT Jarratt & Palmer's ballet troupe will appear this and every evening during the present week in the spectacular drama of Undine. The piece will only run for one week, as the troupe is engaged to appear in New York.

AT THE ARCH six standard comedy perfomances are on the bills for the present week. This evening Mrs. Inchbald's comely of Wives as They Were and Maids as They Are will be given, in which Mrs. Drew, Miss Price, Mrs-Clara Fisher Maeder, Mr. Barton Hill, Mr. A. Everly, Mr. Mackay, Mr. James, and Mr. Wallis will appear. The afterplece will be the Loan of a Lover, with Mr. Cralg and Miss Fanny Davenport as "Peter Spyk" and "Gertrude." AT THE WALNUT, Mrs. Lander will appear as

'Elizabeth, Queen of Eogland." Mrs. Lander will be supported by Mr. J. H. Taylor, who will personate the "Earl of Essex."

AT THE AMERICAN, the Gregory Family of acrobats and gymnasts will conclude their engagement after the present week.

AT HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE, the laughable burlesque of The Grand Duchess of Gerolstein will be performed this evening.

CAEL SENTZ'S ORCHESTRA MATINEES WILL open the season in Concert Hall on Thursday afternoon, October 8, with an attractive programme. Mendelssonn's celebrated "Reformation" symphony and Karl Hohnstock's "Grand Fest Over ure," both new compositions, will be presented for the first time. The subscription price to the series of thirty concerts is placed at the low figure of $5. This will induce very many lovers and students of music to purchase se son tickets, for, in addition to the great pleasure of hearing such superior music, there is much instruction to be derived. Many novelties are announced to be brought out during the season. The orchestra has been enlarged, and the repertoire freshly stocked with new importations from Europe.

thing in this sublunary world obtains more consideration than the preservation of that blessing with which nothing earthly should be put in comparison, viz .:health. This is a dangerous season, and it does not find the human system in the best condition to dety its perils. To use a homely phrase, the torrid summer weather "takes the starch out of people." and leaves them limp and languid. The fires of vita'ity burn low. The naturally feeble are unusually depressedthe naturally strong are not as vigorous as they might be. Seven-eighths of the community frei more or less the influence of the atmospheric changes which produce the malarious diseases common in October and November. It is as a protective against the effects of these changes that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH HIT-TERS have obtained no small portion of their celebrity. The GREAT VEGETABLE TONIC OF THE AGE is not only a specific for Chronic Dyscepsia, Indigestion, Billousness, and Nervous Complaints, but also a preventive of malarious epidemics. Whoever wishes to be insured against an attack of intermittent or remittent fever (both of which prevail to a melaucholy extent all over the country), will do well to resort without delay, to this famous invigorating and antibilious specific. Quinine has had its day. It leaves a sting behind, and physicians are beginning to discard is. But HOSTETTER'S BITTERS become more popular and command a vaster sale with each successive season, simply because they produce a better medicinal effect than any of the powerful poisons used as tonics, and are at once a safe and palatable preparation.

WE understand that Mr. Jobson, formerly consulting surgeon and dentist to the royal family of England, is at present in this city, and that during his stay (at No. 614 Washington Square) he may be consulted by those requiring aid or instruction in the profession with which he has been so long associated. We believe he intends to introduce here the celebrated remedies of his distinguished colleagues in the royal household-Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Banjamin Brodie, Sir Henry Halfo d, and the great Dr. Aber. cromble, author of "The Intellectual Powers"-for gout, rheumatism, indigestion, consumption, and all impurities of the complexion, as well as the remarkable medicine, the Tokos, discovered by him in Australia, the long-sought antidote to the deadly bits of the cobra di capello, and the most powerful resto rative known.

A COLD SEEMS & SMALL AFFAIR .- Most people neglect it. Who minds it? Yet a Cold may turn to Consumption, and then follows almost certain death. Take a Cold in time, then, that is, take Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, the well known standard remedy for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthuna, Brouchitis, and all Pulmonary Complaints, and your Cold will disappear, as well as all apprehension of danger.
