THE CAMPAIGN.

Speeches of Hon. Lyman Tremaine, of New York, and Bayard Taylor, of Peansylvania.

Concert Hall, as usual, was densely crowded last night with an intelligent audience, to at-tend another of the series of meetings lately held here. The meeting was organized by Hon. Charles Gilpin taking the chair. He said that if Pennsylvania does on Tuesday next her whole duty, it will settle great questions of importance to the country at large. He then introduced HON. LYMAN TREMAINE.

of New York, who was greeted with great applause.

He said that he had the right to come before the people of Pennsylvania and speak in a Presidential contest, and the same as regards the State election, as it will have a powerful effect on his own beloved State. He rejoiced that the walls of sectional division had been destroyed. I come to-might to plead the national issues, because we all have a powerful interest in the success of the interests of this great country. The influence that Pennsylvania and New York combined nave the power of creating is too great to be overlooked. In all great questions they have been found acting and voting together. At this juncture the honor and wetlare of the country, the perpetuity of our free inst-tutions, and sel the blessings of civil liberty, cemented by the late war, demand the elevation to the Presidency of the greatest captain now living in the world (applause), and the great pacificator of his country, Uiysses S. Grant, (Great applause.) On the action of the people on the 3d of November next depends the luture

The speaker then compared the Presidential contest of 1860 with the present one, discussing the issues involved in the former. The old Republican party offered the blessings of liberty to every man, wherever born. The Federal party opposed these laws and were overthrown. Where stands the Democratic party to-day? They say that 4,000,000 of people, native born, shall have none of the liberties for which Thomas Jefferson himsell contended, and go further and say that they shall be remanded to servitade. That party then declared that irredom of speech was an instienable right that every man should enjoy. Where is the conservative party to-day? In a large portion of the republic men fare ruthlessly murdered for de-manding this right. The election of 1864 was then discussed, together with the Chicago Con-vention, and the connection of Horatio Seymour with its declarations. Where would the coun-try have been if that party had succeeded? Thanks to Providence, that party which had sprung to arms when traitors poured their shot on Fort Sumter assembled in convention at Baltimore, and declared that there should be no compromise with traitors. (Loud ap-plause.) Discarding the advice of traitors to throw overboard Abraham Lincoln, they said Abraham Lincoln and no other man shall be President. (Loud cheers.) In the language of that immortal saint, they declared that this Government, made by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth. (Applause.) When the vote was proclaimed the Rebellion staggered down to its death-bed; thanks to Him who preserved us, and thanks to Ulysses S. Grant, who never lost a battle, the last nail was driven into the collin at Appomattax Court House. (Applause.) Thanks to him, the old stars and stripes, God bless them! float over every foot of Rebeldom. (Loud applause.) Now, though the contest of 1864 was important because on its result depended the fate of the nation, it sinks into insignificance with the present. The question now is, whether loyal men who saved the nation shall govern it, or whether Bebels who were overthrown shall now regain possession of the reins of power. (Applause.) He then discussed the causes of the nomina-tions at New York in connection with the re-solves of the Rebels prompting it, and their reception by the convention. Hampton, after the convention, at a meeting in New York, called the citizens of that place to register an oath that if there was a majority of white no matter how many bayonets were brought to bear, Seymour and Blair should be laced in the White House. After his return to Charleston he said that when they were elected he would again bring out the old Reb I flag and unfurl it to the breeze. The speaker then dis-cussed the duties of a President when entering on his official career. He then resumed: Does any man consent to see the Government overthrown, and the States thrown to the winds, or that 4,000,000 of people, after tasting the blessings of liberty, will consent to be thrown upon the ground and the iron heels of their former masters again placed upon their necks Do they suppose that people will stand tamely by and see thus done? No! If this purpose is car ried out there will be blood up to the horses' bridles. (Applause.) No! It is because we wish to avoid it that we have placed at our the great warrior whose key-note is, "Let us have peace." (Loud cheers.) What becomes of the amendment abolishing slavery if these governments are overthrown? Would not this amendment be declared abolished, and the manacles again placed upon 4,000,000 freemen? This is the reflection to which we are invited by this party which claims to be the descendant of Thomas Jefferson. What, then, becomes of the fourteenth amendment? What becomes of the Rebel debt? What is there to prevent its adoption if this amendment is repealed? What prevents the restoration to power of the Rebel eaders? What becomes of the provision that the emancipated colored man shall not increase the power of the South? What becomes of that provision protecting the rights of colored men? All their bulwarks are proposed to be swept away by this New York platform. It is proposed to place political power in States in the hands of the Rebels, ten that in case of a foreign war they can take the power of their States and strike when it is most effectual, and thus restore the lost cause. This question needs no turther discussion-it is plain to all. This platform means, for the first time in our history, that a party should disregard all order and law. It means bloodshed and war. It means that the Execu-tive power shall be built up on the ruins of the legislative and judicial departments. It means that our sacred debt shall be repudiated, that the power shall be placed in the hands of Rebels who will not protect loyal men. If you mean to sustain this party and this platform you will vote for Seymour and Blair. The speaker then reviewed the antecedents of the candidates as conclusive evidence of the dispositions of both He continued at length on this subject, being frequently applauded, and closed by entreatin all to come forward in this hour of the country's peril and vote for Grant and Collax. At the close he was given three hearty cheers.

presence of Rebels in the Democratic Convention, be said that the past should be recall d, as it was closely identified with the Democratic party. A party that refuses to march with events will find itself trampled upon. The old men may still think the country is at a stop, but, thank God! the young men are alive, and want no such pesce as crowns a Bebel general with garbauds in New York, and shorts a Upion man in Georgia. (Applause) I am strongly inclined to believe that tens of thousands of honest men now tens of thousands of honest men now belong to the Democratic party, being unwilling to leave it, or not understanding the issues correctly. We know that the facts laid down will have but little effect on the great mass of the Democratic party. There is one throg, however, that will break it up, and that is the boys educated by the war, who will more than counterbalance what is gained by coffe-pots and stolen seals. (Loud applause.) He alluded to the fact that every where in Europe alluded to the fact that everywhere in Europe in the cottages are suspended the pictures of Abraham Lincolu, because every one is begin-ing to understand the grand principles of liberty. The speaker then spoke of the different parties in Europe, describing each at length. The only men in sympathy with the Democratic party men in sympathy with the Democratic party are the Tories of England, the Reactionis's of Germany, Louis Napoleon, Cardinal Antopell, and Isabelia, late of Spain. Russia and Brazil followed our lead by emancipation, and the workmen of kngland were encouraged to demand manbood suffrage, and they will get it. Everything that tends to break down encroachments on liberty is valuable to the people of Europe. The speaker asked any young man in hearing of his voice, who intended to vote the Democratic licket, to weigh these facts. If an Irishman, whether he would cast a vote to gladden the hearts of his enemies in England? If a German, why he would do that which would meet the cordial shouts of his tyrants at home. If an old fossil of a Democrat, I will say nothing, for they are not politically alive since the Fugitive Slave law gave out. Schuyler Col'ax said to me a few days ago: - "I am sure we will succeed, because I cannot believe that God has forgotten our country." The gentleman then took his seat amid rounds of cheers, and the meeting dispersed at a late hour with cheers for Grant and Colfax.

A MEETING OF THE IRISHMEN

favorable to the election of General Grant was held last evening in O'Neill's Hall, at Broad and Lombard streets. The meeting, which was preliminary in its character, organized by electing Clarence Burden, Esq., President, and Peter M. Monarty and H. Huuchins, M. D., Secretaries, The object of the meeting was then explained as being the endorsement of the meeting called for this evening at Concert Hall, which will be ad-dressed, among others, by Colonel Bark. who was confined in British prisons for espousing the cause of Ireland. A roll was then opened for the signatures of those sympathizing with the purpose of the meeting of this evening at Concert Hall, when a number of names were obtained. Brief but effective addresses were then made by Colonel Fitzgerald, H. Hutchins, and others.

terday morning was fixed for the commencement of the game between the United States Twenty two and the English Eleven, but owing Twenty two and the English Eleven, but owing to the disagreeable rain which set in about 12 o'clock, it was delayed until within a few mnutes of 3 o'clock, when the Eleven, having won the toss, sent in Jupp and Humphreys, the latter replacing Shaw, who appeared in the former match. The bowlers for the Twenty-two were C. Newhall and Norley, the professional of the St. George's Club of New York. Newhall started the bowling, and his second ball went off the b-t of Humphreys into the hands of C. Newhall. Smith then joined Jupp.

hands of C. Newhall. Smith then joined Jupp, and for one hour and twenty minutes they defied the bowling of Newhall and Norley, neither of whom seemed at home. Scoring presty rapidly off Norley, he was relieved, and Meade was substituted. Maiden over after maiden over was now the order of the day until the twenty-first over, when Smith cave a chance which was beautifully taken by Baird at long field. Smith's total of 34 consisted of one of 6, three 4s, five 2s and singles. With the fall of this wicket the telegraph announced 63 runs. Griffiths took Smith's place, and added twelve repidly to the score—Jupp, in the meantime, playing steadily for several singles, three 2s, one 3, and two 4s. Griffiths was disposed of by C. Newhail, by a beautifully lodged ball. Thud wicket for 79 runs. The next five wickets fell for 25 runs, owing to the fielding of the twenty-two, which through the entire inning was of a superior order. At five o'clock eight wickets were down for 104 runs. The game was then called, to be resumed this morning.

RECEPTION OF GENERAL G. B. MCCLELLAN. Yesterday afternoon one would have thought that all the voters in the city of Philadelphia were in the parade that was gotten up for the purpose of welcoming General George B. McClellan on his return after an absence of four years in Europe. It was an immense affair, requiring nearly three hours in passing one given point. There were no partisan banners in the line, this feature having been positively prohibited by the General. At least three-tourths of those who participated were citizens who remained at home during the late war for the preservation of our country. The thorough-fares through which the procession passed were crowded with men, women, and children, who cheered the General as he passed along. The procession was formed on Broad street at 1 o'clock, Chief Marshal General William McCandless,

Aids-Colonel Charles J. Biddle, Major Joseph Aids-Colonel Charles J. Biddle, Major Joseph N. Piersol, Colonel Peter G. Ellmaker, Colonel George H. Bardwell, Major David P. navy caps. Cavalcade of Thirteenth, Four-teenth, and Fifteenth wards, commanded by Anthony Morin, Edmund G. Booz, and J

Brotty. The procession moved over the prescribed route, occupying two hours and a half in passing, and everywhere General McClellan was received with the greatest enthusiasm, the men cheering lustily and the ladies waving their handkerchiefs. The General acknowledged the compliment by bowing to the multitude with uncovered head. On reaching Ninth and Chesnut, the Committee of Reception escortes General McCleilan into the Continental Hotel, to review the parade. When the head of the column of soldiers arrived at the main entrance to the Continental the line was halted a few moments, and General McCleilan addressed them as tollows, being frequently interrupted by the most hearty and tumultuous cheers:-

GENERAL M'CLELLAN'S ADDRESS.

My Fellow-citizens :-- You who have to-day honored me with your presence, will you accept my earnest and heart/elt thanks-all that I have to offer you in return for an honor that I will remember so long as memory serves me. My comrades, I can receive no more welcome greet ing even in this my native city than the sound of the same cheers that have so often met me in camp, on the march, and upon the field of battle. They recall strange and most eventful history. Here, on this spot filled with the earliest and peaceful associations of my childhood, they arouse the stern and stirring memories of a checquered career; the place where I stand re-calls to my mind the quiet days of the peaceful life; the faces I see and the voices I hear carry me back to the realities of war and battle-the me back to the realities of war and back of the spenes of your sufferings, fortitude, and glory. Upon days that tried men's soils these shoats were an earnest that I could implicitly rely upon the heroism and devotion of the army. They always evinced the love and sympathy which united us. When I parted with you on that sad November day, that none of us can ever forget, your voices proved to me that under new com-manders you would lose none of your ancient heroism. They were the echoes from Malvern, South Mountain, and Antietam, and were the certain guarantees for your conduct at Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Wilderness, and the crowning victory at Rickmond. Soldiers ! whether of my own old army of the Potomac, or of the gallant armies of the West, 1 thank you from the depths of a soldier's heart for this welcome. So long as I am upon this earth I cannot lorget the bonds that unite us in the memory of our fallen comrades-of perils shared in common, and the great love and confid uce you have ever given me. Come what may, I am sure that, in the future as in the past, we will ever be found side by side, in war as then, in peace as now-for our country.

At half-past 6 o'clock a dinner was given at the Continental to the staff officers, by the reception committee. General Zulick presided. A number of toasts and sentiments were given, and appropriate responses were made. At half-past 11 o'clock at night the General was serehaded at the Continental. Being called upon he said:--"Before retiring for the night, I must thank you for this reception at the close of the happiest and proudest day of my life. My teel-ings are too deep for utterance. I have the deepest pratitude and love for you all. I bid you good night." Short addresses were made by E. O. Perrin, Esq., of New York, and Generals Zulick and McCandless.

was then introduced, and received with great applause. He said he was not at all a politician, but he was happy to believe that nothing more was pecessary to set before the people except one point. We are much concerned in the result of the coming election on the indus rial and commercial prospects of the country. It is well, however, to know how our contest is regarded in foreign countries. Europe has become of late nearer to us, and the late improvements in science oring nations nearer together; and their interests, also. are more materially connected. Our partisan excitements do not reach them, and they see the issue unbiassed. When I first arrived in Europe, in 1867, I found that there was a considerable difference of opinion as to our affairs. The opinions of the people of Europe during the apostacy of Johnson and the impeachment trial were greatly divided, but now the leading spirits all tank that the inte-rests of the people demand the election of Grant and Colfax. The name of Grant is almost as much a household word in Europe as that of Abraham Lincoln. I was glad I could tell them that he possesses many of the virtues of that lamented man. The results of our late war are closely watched and generally understood. There is one point, however, that is not. When asked if there would be any repudiation, I said, "No: the American people could buy a kingdom and pay for it afterwar.s," In alluding to the The following was the score: - and the number of churches and memoership greater than ever before. Twelve churches were reported as being without pastors. Appeals from different churches were then made Tae Committee on Arrangements for the next year reported as follows:-That the next meeting be held at the Memorial Church; Rev. G. H. Peters to preach the opening sermon; Rev. J. H. Castle to preach the of Christ;" Rev. J. S. Kennard to be alternate; Rev. A. F. Shanafelt so write the circular letter. The Committee on Obituaries presented their report of the deaths among the members of the a-sociation since the last annual meeting. The report was adopted, after which Rev. Dr. Castle led in prayer. Addresses were then made by several clergymen respecting the deceased.

The evening session was occupied with a free conference. Several addresses were made and prayer offered for the prosperity of the churches embraced in the association. The Convention then adjourned.

VESSELS IN PORT .- There were at this port at the close of the past week 10 steamships, 11 ships, 20 barques, 22 brigs, and 23 schooners. CITY ITEMS.

COUNSELFOR THE CARELESS .- The body is machine, and carelessness in its management is as sure to lead to evil results as carelessness in the management of a steam engine. Yet the last thing that most people think of is the protection of this delicate plece of the Creator's handlwork from the subtle causes of disease by which it is surrounded. It is no easy thing to mpair the system when in rains; but there is no distantly in fortilying it against many o the dangers to which it is exposed. Guard against nervous debility. At the first symptom of this forerunner of more serious allments, sustain the flagging energies of nature with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BIT TERS. Take it regularly and persistently, until bodily vigor is thorougaly restored. It creates an appetite promotes-or, it might as properly be said. competshe complete digestion of the food, regulates ecretive action of the liver, tones and invigorates the bowels, improves the condition of the blood, and gives firmness to the nerves. Upon a system thus trengthened and regulated in all its important functions, the fogs and exhalations of autumn, pregnant with the elements of intermittent and remittent ever, can make little or no impression. Whoever upposes that fever and ague is an unavoidable agu in Certain districts, at this season of the year, is egregi ously mistaken. As effectually as a draught of cold air is shut out by the closing of a door, this complaint and all disorders of a miasmatic type may be pre vented by the use of the BITTERS. When sickness ote? Regarded either as a preventive or a care for cyspepsia, billousness, intermittent fever, nervous aisorders, general debility, or constipation of the boweis, this pure vegetable preparation stands alone FINE FRENCH CALF BOOTS AND GAITERS .- The man who has never experienced the pleasure of wearing a pair of boots made by William H. Heiweg, can be avoided by a means so' safe and simple, is it not the merest fatuity to nealect the proffered anti-

is to some extent an object of commiseration. We peak knowingly, having worn Helweg's boots for years. Their comfort, however, is not their only recommendation, as they are made of the best mate rial and in the very best manuer. Heiweg will not employ an incompetent workman; therefore his work is always first-class. His store and factory is at No 535 Arch Street, next to the corner of Sixth.

JEWELEY.-Mr. William W. Caasidy, No. 12 South Second street, has the largest and most attractive asortment of fine jewelry and sliverware in the city Purchasers can rely upon obtaining a real, pure article furnished at a price which cannot be equalled. He also has a large stock of American watches in all varieties and at all prices. A visit to his store is sure to result in pleasure and profit.

SPEER's STANDARD WINE BITTERS, made of pure native Wines, combined with Peruvian Bark, Chamomile Flowers, Calamus, Snake Rott, Wild Oberry Bark, Ginger, and other herbs and roots, assis' dig-s tion, give an appetite, and impart vigor and tone to the system, Sola by Droggists and Grocers.
