PROBABLE SUICIDE.—About two o'clock this morning a man named John Hock, who keeps a public house at No. 440 St John street, had an altercation with his wife, Francisca Hock. He attacked her in a savage manner and put her out of the house, closing the door on her. Finding she could not gain admittance, she proceeded to the police station and enlisted the services of Serveent Marray and the other services of Sergeant Murray and two other officers. They went to the house and demanded officers. They went to the house and demanded admittance, which was refused them. As they were turning from the house, Hock opened the second story window, with a double-barrel shotgun in his hand. He discharged one load, which took effect in his wife's body and neck in twenty-five or thirty different places. Her wounds, however, are not dangerous. The officers effected an entrance, when Hock applied the muzzle of the gun to his head and fired the remaining barrel, carrying away the entire left side of his face. He was removed to the Hospital, and is face. He was removed to the Hospital, and is not expected to recover. Whisky was the cause, Hock having eaten but little for the last eight days, and drinking continually.

THE SKOW.—This morning the weather was decidedly wintry. The clouds lowered and the winds blew. Up to 11 o'clock the sun made futile efforts to penetrate the gloomy canopy which hung overbead. People shivered beneath overcoats, and blue noses were plenty. Once or twice the snowy flakes descended, making little archins think of sleds and Christmas. It was the first snow of the season, and if the old beldame's prophecy have aught of truth, as it came down on the 17th of the month, we will have seventeen snows during the winter. A nice prospect!

"Nassy, P. M."—The celebrated "Petro-leum V. Nasby," a pseudo Democratic postmas-ter, the man who of all others has done more by sarcasm and ridicule to kill Democracy, will lecture in our city, at the Horticultural Hall, on Wednesday next, the 21-t instant. The theme of his lecture is, "Cursed be Canaan." It is represented to be replete with wit and humor; with hard hits at Democratic doctrines; with burlesque genealogical tables; in a word, to be side-splitting throughout. This great man from the "Confederit X Roads" will undoubtedly be replected by a state of the state of welcomed by a crowded house.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Ludlow.
—Testimony was heard upon a writ of habeas corpus in which John Carles and John Kandle were charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud. It was alleged that they contracted to buy of a Mr. Burrows, of North Carolina, certain land, agreeing to pay brandy for it, and when they were called upon to deliver it, it was found they had none in their possession. The case was given fully in our local columns at the time of the hearing before the Alderman. After argument by counsel, the Judge held the case under consideration.

A writ of habeas corpus was before the Court for the ment by counsel, the Judge held the case under consideration.

A writ of habs as corpus was before the Court for the discharge of William Bennet from the charge of interiering with election officers. It was shown that he took bis seat at the poles of the Teath division of the Twentieth ward as the regularly elected minority inspector, and his right being questo led by the judge of the precipict, the metter was referred to the Court, Both Judge Ludlow and the District Attorney decided that he was entitled to his seat as inspector, and so wrote to the Judge. Set I that person refused to administer the oath to him, and when he made a second attempt to enter upon the discharge of his duty, called his for inter ering with the election, Judge Ludlow said thet such conduct was decidedly wrong, and discharged Bennet.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Indge Brew-

Ludlow said that such conduct was decidedly wrong, and discharged Bennet.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Indge Brawster.—In the old Court room a writ of habeas corpus was partially heard, which involved the carooty of a beautiful, bright-eyed boy six or eight years o'd. It appeared that the father and mother had separated, and had agreed in writing that the child should be piaced at a boarding-school, to be chosen by the parents, and he had been attending a very fine establishment in New Jersey. Recently he was seen at his mother's house and, it being alleged that such had clandesthely taken him from the school with the intention of detaining him with her, the father, charging a violation of the agreement, sued out a writ of habeas corpus for his custody. On the part of the lady it was averred that the child was at her house only during the vacation of the school, and was returned at the beginning of the session.

Counsel appeared desire a to come to some amicable selt-ement of the difficulty without further proceedings in court, and thus avoid having anything upon the record that might bring mortification to the boy in after-lie, and the judge, approving of this, continued the hearing in order to give them more time to think and talk upon the subject.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Allison, P. J.

this, continued the hearing in order to give them more time to think and talk upon the subject.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS.—Allison, P. J.—A hearing was had this morning in the case of The Commonweaith ve. Police Lieutenant Theodore Hacker and Officers Whison and Grant, who were charged with assault and battery upon Emanuel Hooper, in violently ejecting him from the election poli of the Tenth precince of the Nineteenth ward, on Tuesday last. It appears that in May last the old Tenth division of this ward was divided into two, the new one called the Fourteenth; and John C. Addis, the judge of the old Tenth, who after the subdivision resided in the Fourteenth appointed Emanuel Hooper judge of the old Tenth, who after the subdivision resided in the Fourteenth appointed Emanuel Hooper judge of this division. On election day Hooper went to the polit to preside, under authority of this appointment, but was met by Addis, who claimed that Hooper's appointment was invalid, and therefore he. Addis, would have to act as judge. He directed Hooper to quit the room, which he refused to do; these policemen were then called in and required to arrest him for unlawful interference with the election officers, and they took him from the place. These facts being testified to by the witnesses, the question arose, whether the appointment of Hooper was valid, it being made by Addis, a non-resident of the division, and if it was not, whether these efficers were not justified in arresting him for refusing to give place to the man who was prima facic entitled to it, he having formerly been the judge of the precinct.

The Judge concluded to require the defendants to enter into recognizance in $500 to appear at Court, where the subject should receive a full investigation.

"TOO LATE."

The Proposed Democratic Change of

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune of this morning contains the following:—

The excitement among the politicians here in regard to the proposed change of front of the Democracy has reached its height, and is already passing away. It came unexpectedly, it has been fully considered, and the majority dismiss it with a groan, saying, "It is too late," "it is too late!" To-night the leading spirits of the party say it was a blunder not easily healed; but the only course left them is to reform their lines and make the best show possible under the circumstances. The position assumed by the World and the Intelligencer has had its effect. It has compelled the malcontents to throw off their masks and make known their grievances. President Johnson is known their grievances. President Johnson is known to have favored the stand taken by the World, and directed his organ, the Intelligencer, to follow suit. His friends could not let the opportunity pass, but took every advantage offered to express their dislike of Seymour and Blair, and to urge the claims of their special favorite. In fact the Johnson men became so enthusiastic over the World's proposal that to be consistent retreat will be impossible with them. Now that their last hope became so enthusiastic over the World's proposal that to be consistent retreat will be impossible with them. Now that their last hope is gone they will give up the contest, and make no secret of their feelings. Hancock is indifferent, and says that he prophesied defeat to his parly weeks ago. His ambition, however, would make him take Seymour's place if it were offered to him, but he would take no position subordinate to Chase or Johnson. So far as, the name of Chief Justice Chase has been connected with this movement, it has been used without his knowledge and against his desires. He remarked to a friend to-day, in alluding to the effort to substitute his name for that of Mr. Seymour on the Democratic ticket:—"I am only a Judge, trying to attend to my business. I do not think it proper for me to take any part in politics, and I have no desire to do so. I have not been actively seeking the Presidency, and shall never seek it. I am satisfied with my present position, and shall be giad to be allowed to attend to it." In reply to a direct question be said that he had never sought to conceal the fact that if he had been unanimously nominated in the New York Convention, with a satisfactory platform, he would have accepted the trust. There can be no doubt, however, that he looks with displeasure upon all reports which in any way connect his name with this change-of front movement. He has never thought of it as affecting himself, nor is there any doubt that he, in common with meny thinking men here, looks upon the whole movement as a tempest without material or workmen. It is generally believed here awong those best informed that if the nomination should now be tendered to Mr. Chase by the Democratic National Committee, with all the enthusiasm and promises which the united Democracy could command, he would reply, in the language of Mr. Seymour, "Gentlemen, I thank you, but your candidate I cannot be."

The persons composing the "Cabal" which is said to have assembled at the house of the Onlef Justice last night, "with said to have assembled at the house of the Chief Justice last night, "with a view of political intrigue," were five in number (excluding the ladies of the party), viz.: the Secretary of War, the British Minister, the Austrian Minister, the Turkish Minister, and one other. Invitations to the "party" were issued before the elections took place. So the reports that Mr. Chase was "closeted, last night with a party of political intriguers" had their origin in that circumstance. Instead of piotting the destruction of Grant and the Republican party, the Chief Justice was probably talking poor French to ladies who could not understand good English. The friends of the change-of-front movement ladies who could not understand good English. The friends of the change-of-front movement claim to have received despatches from the prominent Democrats of the West approving the course of the World, and urging immediate action. The other side deny this and say that they have despatches from the same source directly to the contrary. It is well known that the former telegraphed all over the South yesterdsy, appealing to the Southern newspapers to take ground with the World. The new movement is looked upon as dead, however, and the field is left clear for the Republican standard bearers.

FAIRBURG, Oct. 14.—Governor Oglesby, Decatur:—At Potosi a pole has been raised with two butternuts on the top. DECATUR. III., Oct. 15.—Hay & Mason, Phillips & McDowell, Fairburg, Iii.:—My opinion is that the Democrats acted very silly in raising a pole of such character as to make their party odious, and that the Republicans are acting very silly in getting mad and resorting to extreme measures about it. Let no gun be fired, no man be hurt. The Republicans must desist and go home quietly. The Democrats must do and go home quietly. The Democrats must do

The Democrats ought to take down the pole, or assure the Republicans that they do mean, by this symbol, what it once meant. In this way peace can be restored, the Republicans be brought to reason, and the Democrats can have their butternuts. R. J. OGLESBY.

WASHINGTON.

Tom Florence's Double Dealing The Excitement in Democratic Circles-Binckley Again on the War Path.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. A Weathercock.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.-Thomas B. Florence yesterday admitted to Secretary McCulloch that there was not the ghost of a shew for the election of Seymour and Blair, and in his paper of the same afternoon he claimed Indiana for the Democrats and classed Pennsylvania and Onio as doubtful, with the chances in favor of the Democrats. Tom has one opinion for his friends and another for his readers.

The Excitement over the proposed withdrawal of Seymour and Biair is rapidly subsiding, and the best-informed Democrats say no further efforts will be made in that direction. This proposition will add to their weakness, for those who desire a new ticket declare openly that they will not cor-dially support the present candidates.

Mr. Evarts returned this morning, and he and Binckley were with the President a long time this morn' ing, discussing some new charges which Binck ley brings forward against Rollins.
