The Paris Figaro publishes the following interesting details of the tobacco trade-- is great in prosperity, in education, and in power. All this does not amend but aggravate the case; for if a national Church be not the Church of the nation, it will be the Church of the poor.

This is a great change, and it can only be effected with the aid of much energetic and much costly aid.

In the manner of proceeding we ought, I think, to be governed by three considerations--

To sum up this great subject--Rest as we are, by common consent, we cannot.
