On Saturday night Patrick Black and a man named Burke were walking along Water street, and when they reached Lombard street they were attacked by a party of roughs, and robbed of all the valuables they had on their persons. John Ryan and John Smith, alias Waffles, were arrested and held to bail by Alderman Tittermary for highway robbery. ### GENERAL GRANT.

His Return from West Point, The N. Y. Times of this morning relates the following:-The President elect, accompanied by Mrs. General Grant and General Dent, of his staff, returned to the city from West Point last evening, and resumed their quarters at the Metropolitan Hotel. They left West Point on Metropolitan Hotel. They left West Point on the 4 P. M. train yesterday, being escorted by General Gilmore to the depot, where denoral grant purchased tickets for the party himself, and, taking seats in one of the ordinary passenger cars (and very ordinary they are on that train), rode quietly to the city unannoyed by any demonstration whatever on the route. Probably not helf a dozen passengers on the train of six or eight cars were aware of the distinguished company in which they were travelling, and as the people living on the line of the road were not expecting General Grant's return before Monday, they were not on Grant's return be ore Monday, they were not on the lookout 'or "that famous cigar." During their sta" of twenty-four hours at West Point the party enjoyed the hospitalities of General Pacher, Superintendent of the Military Academy, at whose house Gen. and Mrs. Grant enjoyed the society of their son Frederick, which was the principal object of their visit there at this time. Yesterday morning General Grant, in company with General Pitcher, Colonel Black, and Generai Dent, went out and witnessed the usual Sunday morning inspection of the cadets on the Campus, but the remainder of the day, until their departure for New York, was spent in-doors—none of the party attending service at the chapel. On Saturday evening, while General Grant and his military companions were over the river at Cold Spring dining with Governeus Kemble, the band connected with the Military Academy serenaded Mrs. Grant at the residence of the Superintendent-the greater portion of the selections being, by a curious coincidence, from the music of the great composer, Rossini who but a few hours previous had breathed his General Grant intends to remain in New York until Friday next, during which time he will partake of the hospitalities of our citizens in a quiet way, but is still, as ever, averse to any public ovation or formal demonstrations of any kind. Before returning to Washington he may pay a visit to Boston, from many of whose lead-ing citizens he has received urgent invitations. He proposes, between now and the time he is required to assume the arduous duties of the Presidency, to enjoy a little relaxation, and to visit several of the leading Atlantic cities, pro-vided he can be allowed to do so in a quiet way.

DISASTER.

The Collision at Fulton Ferry, New York.

The despatches to THE EVENING TELEGRAPH on Saturday announced the occurrence and many of the details of the fearful collision at Fulton Ferry, New York, by which a number of persons were killed outright and twenty-four seriously, some fatally, injured. The following testimony at the Coroner's investigation indicates that the dreadful calamity was the result of carelessness:-

George W. Broach, who was a witness to the occurrence, makes the following statement:— About 74 o'clock this morning I went on board the Union ferry boat, at the Fulton Ferry, New York side, for the purpose of coming to Brook-lyn; when I got on board the boat I went to the front, where there were about a dozen persons standing beside myself; shortly after I got there I saw the other boat, which I believe was the Hamilton, coming from Brooklyn towards the slip; the boat on which I was was in the slip nearest the South Ferry, and the coming in boat would naturally take the slip on the other side; when I first saw her she was about two hundred feet off, and was headed directly for the boat on which I was standing; she was crowded with passengers, so much so that her forward part was depressed considerably below the usual level; she kept advancing in the straight line towards the boat on which I was, until she came so near that I saw that a collision was inevitable, and with the others who were stand-ing on front of the boat I stepped back some paces to avoid the shock. At the same time the passengers on the approaching boat were cized with a panic and altempted to get back out of the way, but so great was the crowd of people and wagons behind them that they could not move very far. In a few seconds, and during the confusion or the victims trying to save themselves, the approaching boat came up to the boat on which I was with such force that owing to the depressions of her forward part, she rat under the guards, and, striking the under ow, was veered to one side, so that, with the force at which she was moving, the forward portion of the ladies' cabin was entirely toru away. When the Hamilton ran under the guards of the Union there were a number of people wounded, and a number of ladies were also injured. What I wish particularly to state is, that while the Hamilton was approaching towards the slip at a high rate of speed, and in such a direction as made it apparent to every one that a collision must occur, there was not the slightest perceptible diminution of her speed, and, to me, the accident appeared as the result of the most reckless carelessness on the part of the pilot in charge of the boat.

Alfred Dorlan testined that he resided at No.
33 Laurens street, Brooklyn; went on board the Hamilton on Saturday morning, just as she was about to start; the boat was very crowded, so much so that one gentleman refused to cross and went ashore; saw nothing unusual until we were about to enter the slip: saw a propeller, which appeared to be lying in front of the mar-ket slip; when we were in the middle of the river the propeller was abreast of the ferry slip; there was a strong flood tide running at the time: have been daily crossing the ferry for the past 20 years; saw nothing unusual on Saturday morning; my impression is that the engine was stopped as we were entering the slip; there was a strong eddy at the end of the pier, which, when it struck our boat, carried us down towards the Union; I heard two bells ring in quick succession just as our bow entered the slip; I saw there would be a collision, but I supposed the boat would stop before she did, as the engine was then backing; I heard some one on the upper deck call out for the passeng rato get back; I looked up at the pilot-house, and I saw the pilot, Mr. Albertson, standing at the wheel; afterwards I heard the crash and the women screaming; saw the boy lying on the deck, with a rail lying across his body; I took

The New York Money Market.

From the Herald. "After a lengthened period of stringency in money and an unusually depressed condition of the stock market, the week closed with a sudden cessation of the causes which produced the stringency in the one and the decline in the other. Friday last marks the day of the greatest depression in stocks, the vaines of which had continued to fall in the face of an easy state of money brought about as early as last Taesday. The reason of their doing so, in contraristy to the general rule that prices advance when money is of which had continued to fail in the face of an easy state of money brought about as early as last Thesday. The reason of their dolog so, in contraristy to the general rule that prices advance when money is abundant, was the deep-seated distrust engendered by several previous pretended withdrawals of the greenbacks locked up by the combination of bears who engineered the whole crisis, the effect of which each time was to induce renewed speculation and consequent heavy losses. Operations in Wall street were conducted with a caution which produced duiness. Those who had their margins swept away were of course out of the street, and those who had suffered to the extent of a fraction, large or small, of their capital, had less to invest, and were more careful about locating that little. At the same time, money began to be abundant in the city. Exchange turned in favor of New York. The use of the three per cent, certifica es made money easier in the banks; ions were scrutinized with more care, and a general conservative feeling pervaded financial circles. The combination found that the elasticity of business was beginning to cover the gap in the currency produced by the tying up of the twelve or fifteen millions greenbacks. On Thursday and Friday an sppearance of another 'locking up was produced through the exchanges of the Bank of the Commonwealth. On the latter day the public, who had commenced to distrust there signs as much as they had those of an easy money market, wavered in doubt, then became ranic-stricken and let go of their stock. Prices touched their lowest the 'bears' purchased, covered their short contracts and brought the greenbacks to light once more.

"The rate for money during the week was seven per cent, currency, with a few exceptional transactions at this rate in coin on Monday and during a few hours on Friday. Balances after banking hours in some instances did not command more than six, and for the cash in 'short' speculations in Governments a higher price weigh for the paid.

Programme.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Despetch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, November 16.

The Dyer Court-Martial, which met this morning, attracted a large crowd, and the interest in it, which had pretty well died out, seems to be revived. General Rodman was the only witness examined to-day-It not expected anything new will be elicited beyond what was brought out by the Ordnance Committees of the two houses.

The Cuban Filibuster Committee, which was announced to call upon the President and Secretary Seward to-day, has not made its appearance. It is hardly probable that any con mittee will come here for the purpose of asking the Government to consent to engage in such business.

Secretary Seward, who had an interview with the President to-day, expresses the opinion that no organization of importance exists in the United States having

absence from the city, and the published statement that he refuses to consider applications for office, does not diminish the size of the bundle of letters received every day at the headquarters bespeaking various places under his administration, from Cabinet positions down to petty post offices. Gen. Badeau, Grant's secre'ary, has a way of disposing of these which, however it may fail to gratify the senders, cer tainly gives Grant little trouble. The "Intelligencer" of to-day contains a three-column article praising Thaddeus Stevens as a statesman and patriot. It holds him up as an example to living public men of all parties.
