Mr. Mary C. Glouster, thirty-four years, residing in Birmingham, Pa., was yesterday at Gloucester, was badly burned by her clothes taking fire from the flames of coal oil. John F. Casey, nine years old, residing at No. 165 Latona street, had his collar-bone broken by a fall. Christopher Wetting, thirty-five years old, being broken by being run over, Dennis Casey, aged six years, had a leg broken on Saturday by a fall in the yard of his parents' residence, No. 510 Penn street. He was taken to the Hospital. At half-past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon John Johnson left from the platform of a passenger car at Second and Chestnut streets, and was seriously injured about the head. He was soon dead, conveyed to his residence, No. 174 South Second street, James Dulan, aged to five years, was run over and killed on the Chestnut Hill Railroad last evening about 7 o'clock. The deceased was terribly mangled. He lived in Centre street, and leaves a widow and two children. The Coroner was notified by his neighbors.

On Saturday evening, Mary Lindau, sixteen years old, residing on Third street, above Catharine, was so badly burned, by her clothes taking fire, she died on the following morning before daylight. She was sitting in a room at the time of her occurrence, and being near a furnace, it is supposed that she fell asleep, and that her clothes catching fire from the coals in the furnace, the fire had made considerable progress before she was aroused.

Telegrams received to-day by the Government state that Puerto Principe continues in the possession of the Government troops, with Valenzuela as commander, who ridicules the idea of having a time of his own by the revolutionists, but, on the contrary, says he has commenced operations against them.

A report received here from Spain that General Prim advocates a Bourbon dynasty causes much rejoicing among the other royalists. A battalion of volunteers, principally veterans, organizing for active service in the field. The revolutionists hold Biarritz and other towns. There is much excitement here and in the surrounding country. The revolution is thought to be decreasing, and the general opinion is that it will die out on the arrival of troops expected from Spain.

The Cuban republicans claim that the revolutionists are receiving reinforcements, but are induced to believe by the Government through private letters to the contrary. It is now known that great suffering exists in the revolutionary districts on account of the scarcity of provisions.

The report up-coming in Vuelta Abajo proves to be a mere. All accounts agreed that the main body of rebels are ballyhanded and wan an amputation.

The revolutionists in Havana are again making progress.

HAVANA, Nov. 22.—Lerundy to-day reviewed 6000 volunteers and the whole fire department of this city, the members of which have been armed and drilled. They made a very fine appearance. These forces, united with the regular troops in and around the city, constitute an army of 12,000 well-organized men, all of whom can be placed at the disposition of the Government in case of need.

Glouster today publishes a manifesto of the Provisional Government at Madrid, making liberal reforms in the government of this island. It has been transmitted by telegraph, railroad, and other channels to all towns in the interior. It is the general opinion that the circulation of this document in the disturbed districts will prove a powerful auxiliary in putting an end to the revolution. A heavy storm from the north prevails in the gulf.

Please Pity the Blind.

Some benevolent persons will perhaps collect a poor miserable looking man, who, with a placard "I AM BLIND," hanging on his breast, stood shivering in the cold on Wednesday last under the windows of the building on Broadway lately known as the Southern Hotel. His eyes, one mass of inflamed sores, appeared to suffer terribly from the piercing cold wind, and attracted a good deal of pecuniary sympathy from the passers-by.

Further down Broadway, on the curbstone near Canal street, a poor woman was seated, soliciting pennies from the charitable. She, too, had a placard over her bosom announcing her blindness. At this moment a drunken sailor came up, and saying, "Come, get up, old horse," deliberately kicked the poor creature in the side. "Och, ye replieh yer, how dar ye hithrate a poor hool widdi, what's goven seven chilher a stharn to hame!" moaned she, and then began to cry pitifully. A reporter of the Tribune, who happened to be passing, joined the bystanders in comforting the "poor widdi," who reaped a rich harvest from their contributions. Now comes the strange part of the story. Our reporter, who had a visit to pay in the Brandreth House, close by, was astonished to witness, on leaving, precisely the same scene that had taken place on his entrance, an hour before. Suspecting that all was not right, he lit a cigar, bought a newspaper, and set himself to watch any further proceedings. In three-quarters of an hour the farce was played again, a little lower down the street, the same brutality, the same Celtic remonstrances, and more stamps from the bystanders. Determining to see more of this, he repaired to the spot again about 5 o'clock, and found the "poor blind widdi" preparing to go home, helped by a little girl, who was most careful of her. Following at a short distance, our reporter saw them separate at the corner of Water street, the woman taking her placard of blindness under her arm, and getting on first-rate alone. She turned up one of the lone, narrow places out of Water street, and entered one of the lowest class liquor-saloons in which that neighborhood abounds, wishing the landlord, a rosy-faced, sharp-eyed, tubby little Dutchman, "good evening," as she went in.

Colonel J. Whitehead Byron, late of the 88th New York Volunteers, and now a prominent member of the Fenian Brotherhood, has been appointed Brigadier-General in the United States Army by the President.

General Humphrey Colclough, Gilmore, Constock, and Brown, Colonels Casey and Houston, Majors King and Mather, were at Fort Monroe witnessing the military experiments. They left for the North on Saturday night.

Patrick McDonough and Thomas Curley have brought suits, one for $10,000 and the other for $5000, against David Nicholson, of St. Louis, Mo., for injuries received by the falling of the walls of the latter's building a short time since.

Bishop Dorean, of Chicago, refused permission for regular mass, penitential, for the souls of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, O'Brien, and Larrieu, hung one year ago. The delegation passed a resolution deprecating the action of the Bishop.

At St. John's, N. B., the financial panic still continues, the notes of the Yarmouth Bank of Nova Scotia and the Prince Edward Island Bank being refused. The St. Stephen's Bank no longer holds on Saturday, at thirty-five per cent. discount.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—[Isaac] to the New York Herald.—At the reception of the Chinese Embassy by the Queen, Lord Stanley introduced Mr. Burlingame, who briefly addressed her Majesty in the name of the Emperor of China, and expressed a desire that the health and happiness of the Queen, and the people over whom she presided, should be long and lasting. He spoke in the highest terms of the late Sir Frederick Bruce, who, in the course of his address made a present upon the well-known friendship of his Embassy for the United States, and in conclusion presented his letter of credence from the Emperor of China.

Her Majesty, evidently pleased, received the document, and addressing Mr. Burlingame, said she was glad to welcome the Chinese Embassy to Great Britain. She was pleased to greet Mr. Burlingame and the mission, and expressed the belief that it was a step in the right direction.

—Arthur Sketchley's real name is Rose, and he is a renegade curate.

of a basin of cold water and pieces of yellow soap, with a glass of the "water" steaming by his side, and discussing something out of the 5 o'clock edition of the Daily News, with no less a person than the "drunken sailor." "What luck the day, Biddy!" inquired "sore eyes." "Partly good, eh! Mike," responded the poor victim of brutality, as she knowingly leered at the "drunken sailor;" and then they all three laughed heartily, the Little Dutch landlady, who was evidently up to the "job," joining in. Thinking discretion the better part of valor, our reporter paid for his lager and walked out, deeming it imprudent to open out in such a place. Of course, he now regrets that he did not at the time call the attention of the police to the woman, but he was anxious to see the little game played out. He says the "widdy" must have realized the best part of a dollar for every "bratik."
