Foreign Affairs.

HAVANA, Dec. 22.-Intelligence has been received here, that Colonel Aguerro, Betancourt and twelve other insurrectionists arrived at Neuvitas yesterday as prisoners; also, that a number of wounded Spanish officers and soldiers had arrived at that town for medical treatment. All the journals are unusually silent on affairs in the insurrectionary district. There are many rumors of engagements between the troops and the insurgents. One report states that Colonel Benegussi has been defeated in an engagement near Holquin, but the Diario denies the correctness of the report, and asserts, on the contrary, that nearly all the soldiers lately arrived from Spain have been sent to the seat of war. The reports that the people of several towns on the Havana railroad had joined the insurrectionists, and that several bands of insurgents had been formed, are not confirmed.

HAVANA, Dec. 22 .- The Pais newspaper, and organ of the Cuba party, ceased publication to-day. The editor says: "We are not permitted to treat with sufficiently ample liberty questions of vital importance to the country, and the time when we shall be able to do so seems far distant. We have been obliged, when attacked, to renounce defence, or to give answers which have been mutilated by the censorship. The censor has always been hostile to our principles, although the same principles today prevail throughout the Spanish peninsula. The pen is useless in our hands, and under the present circumstances it would be incompatible with our dignity to remain in the editorial chair. We prefer to guard the most absolute silence rather than attempt to continue our existence in the impotence to which we have been reduced."

MADRID, Dec. 22 .- The elections for the Cortes in this city passed on with comparatively slight disturbances of public order. All the monarchical candidates are elected. The Republicans carried Seville and Barcelona.

It is stated on official authority that up to the present moment 6000 troops hove been sent to reinforce the army in Cuba, and more will soon follow. The government announces that it will never abandon a colony of Spain. Lisson, Dec. 22 .- A crisis has taken place in the Cabinet. De Silver has resigned, and Count Cavatlero has accepted provisionally the Ministry of Finance, and the Marquis of Bandlera that of Foreign Affairs.

MADRID, Dec. 22.—It is reported that the United States has sent a special envoy to Spain to negotiate for the purchase of Cuba, and his arrival is daily expected.

Adjourned Meeting of the Controllers-Resignation of President Shippen. The last meeting of the Board of School Controllers was beld yesterday afternoon. President Shippen occupied the chair. It is the last time that he will fill it, his much regretted resignation taking effect from January 1st.

A batch of communications was received from the various school sections.

The First section announced certain promotions n their list of teachers. The Sixth section asked for sundry school re-

The Sixth section asked for sundry school removals.

A resolution was adopted appropriating $2636 for deficiency in the appropriation for rental of school houses in the city generally.

The inspector appointed to examine the various new school buildings recently creeted and in course of erection, reported the cost of the same.

The inspector, Mr. George Essler, lauds the manner in which these buildings have been erected.

A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Property to report what action is necessary to avoid the large expenditure of money to architects in the erection of new school buildings.

On behalf of the Board Mr. McBride, a member of the body, presented to Mr. Shippen an elaborate

On behalf of the Board Mr. McBride, a member of the body, presented to Mr. Shippen an elaborate fruit casket, appropriately inscribed.

Mr. Scanton was called to the chair, and after addresses of regret by Mr. Wetherill, Green and others, the Board adjourned.

Upon retiring, Mr. Shippen said:

I have no language, gentlemen of the Board of Control, by which I may give utterance to the feelings which move me at this moment; I have no eloquence with which I may adorn the words of thanks that rise from a grateful heart for these manifestations of your kindness, and for the generous manner of expressing your appreciation of my public ner of expressing your appreciation of my public services. I shall carry with me into my retirement the most pleasing remembrance of the goodwill and courtesy which you have always extended to me, and shall never forget the tributes you have this day been pleased to award me. I know well, remtieven, that great retorms have been made in gentlemen, that great reforms have been made in our system of public education, especially during the past year, and perhaps I have to some extent been instrumental therein, but the credit belongs not to me. Yours was the work and labor in the main, and I am willing only to share with you in due degree whatever of credit may attach to these

With some of you I have long been associated in the cause of public education, with others but a twelvementh. I cannot leave you without bearing public testimony to the activity, zeal, promptitude, good sense and sound judgment which have so happily distinguished your official action. You have marked the year now closing by wise legislation. You have, with thoughtful consideration, regulated, graded and harmonized the course of study, to the incalculable advantage of our schools. With a determinant mined hand you have seized upon the overburdened text book list, and reduced it by judicious discrimination. You have extended your fostering care and helping hand to the Boys' High School and to the Girls' Normal School, so that each stands pre-eminent. You have yielded to the long-standing and well-founded complaints of parents and of medical men of undue pressure upon the minds of children, and have adopted efficient reformatory measures. You have inversed the system of examinations. You have improved the system of examination of teachers, and have wisely rearranged the whole subject of teachers certificates. You have overthrown the old and injurious rules relating to transfers, so productive of ill feeling between the several school sections. You have paid marked attention to the crection of the new school edifices which are now springing up all around us in all directions, and have given to the city of Philadelphia school accommodations second to none in America; and you have done so with the same economy which has so well marked your administration in other expenditures. You have been most careful of the public funds committed to your disbursement. You have watched with a jealous eye each bill presented, and have rejected such as were extravagant, unnecessary or unauthorized. You have been watchful over school supplies, and have dealt them out with a liberal and careful economy. You have sustained and encouraged the Teachers' Institute in its laudable efforts to elevate the teachers' profession, and in a corresponding degree to benefit all of our schools. You have spared no effort to provide suitable companyation for the above to provide suitable compensation for the able and zealous corps of teachers who are toiling in the city's service; and though in this respect you have city's service; and though in this respect you have thus far failed, for want of inherent power in your Board, you have, at least, done your duty in the effort, and I am convinced, from the tone of popular sentiment, so far as I have been able to gather it, that the community appreciates the faithfulness, zeal, intelligence and sound judgment exercised during the past year in educational matters; and that, persevering in this course, you will always be sustained against every opposing power. If, however, our children are deprived of an elementary course of musical instruction, if we are virtually prohibited from the introduction of healthful physical exercise for our introduction of healthful physical exercise for our eighty-five thousand scholars, and if the city of Phi adelphia is prohibited, also, the services of a superintendent of public schools, and thus stands

I will ever bear them in grateful memory. May God prosper you, one and all, in your public and private avocations, and may you each receive the reward of duty well and faith-As my last official act I have now to declare this Board adjourned sine die.

solated in our group of cities, and in this respect suffers in comparison, I can bear witness that the fault rests not upon your inactivity, and yours should not be the blame. May I not further add, if our fifteen hundred teachers full to receive their salaries when due, in no degree does the fault rest upon you. Let it be placed where it belongs. I need scarcely renew the assurance that my retire-ment is prompted alone by reason of the demands upon my time 'by private business; but for which, I could be with you and work with you for years. THE HILL MURDER.

Proceedings of Yesterday Afternoon's The following are the proceedings of yester.

those given in THE TELEGRAPH:-

day in the Hill murder case, in addition to those given in The Triegraph:

At three e'clock the Court met, and Mr. Morrell proceeded: Leaving the kitchen I went up stairs and into the dining room; seeing the cushion saturated with bloed, and a pool of blood on the floor at the head of the sofa, I traced the blood from the sofa to the window in the little back room, and on the sash discovered a smear of blood; there was no blood on the south and west walls of the dining room; there was a light burning from a drop in this room; I conserved between the head of the sofa and the west wall a rocking chair, and the sakes of a segar on the window sill by it; there was a well lit fire in the grate; I also observed a chair by the contre table, under the gas drop; a chair facing the sofa, and, if my memory serves me aright. I saw drops of blood upon it; I went down into the kitchen, where I found Mr. Twitchell washing Mrs. Hill's head; Dr. Zantzinger had her body placed in such a position as would facilitate respiration if there was like left, and, after examining her, said she was dead; Mrs. Twitchell was standing near when he said this; I had no further conversation with him as to the cause of the death; but after standing off from the body and observing Mr. Twitchell, Mrs. Twitchell was standing near when he said this; I had no further conversation with him as to the cause of the death; but after standing off from the body and observing Mr. Twitchell, Mrs. Twitchell and who was in the house that nlight, and was answered by some one; Mr. Twitchell, Mrs. Twitchell and, saying, "will no one do anything?" while I was standing off from the relet some one said, "did you hear that groan?" Twitchell said, "she groans, she lives;" I said, "she didn't grean, she is dead;" I rold Mr. Howard that Twitchell was the ground that frequently heard barking before this; could hear them from my house, but not so much since the house hind been closed in the wood on the breast, a gray mixed undershirt, which had a collar, he had no white muslin or linen that night was confused, doing

The Court ruled out any conversation between the witness and Mrs. Twitchell in the absence of the prisoner.

Witness—I never knew or heard of such a thing before it was communicated to me by Mrs. Twitchell; I have never said that it was well known throughout the neighborhood that she had money about her person, fer until after the murder I knew nothing about it; I heard him say, "Oh! my God! My poor mother!"

F. A. Morrell, sworn—Corroborated the preceding witness, his father, up to the time of going into the yard, at which point he said. When we had gone out into the yard where the body had laid, I found the poker lying within three inches of the edge of the blood; we went up stairs and examined the rooms, and when we returned to the kitchen Mr. Twitchell asked me to go for his father, and I went: it was about an hour before we got back, and then Mr. Twitchell had been strested.

Dr. Richard Levis, sworn—I sealed these packages (a bundle and box that were hunded to him); I have here a coat, vest, pantaloons, shirt, collar, cuffs, boots, sleeve buttons, pieces of clarpet, an upper set of artificial teeth. coal scuttle, candlestick, a spot that had been removed from a hard, non-absorbing surface, the latter presented by Dr. Shapleigh, and a poker, presented to me for examination by the District Attorney.

Wm. Warnock sworn I am a detective: I identify these articles of clothing as those taken from Mr. Twitchell on the night of the murder; the cuffs, collars and sleeve buttons were not taken from the spece of oil cloth I saw the Chief cut from the floor in the middle of the entry outside the dining-room door; this piece of oil cloth I saw the Chief cut from the floor in the middle of the entry outside the dining-room door; this piece of oil cloth I saw the Chief cut from the floor in the middle of the entry outside the dining-room door; the presence of oil cloth I saw the Chief cut from the floor in the middle of the entry outside the dining-room door; the presence of oil cloth shape of oil cloth were not out of inspection, and a low magnifying power shows small blood clots held in the meshes of the texture of the garments. Blood presents no sprinkled spots, large soaked spots and smeared places.

Processes for the detection of the presence of blood have been gone over in the cases of all these articles. First, the solubility of these stains in water; the negative action of ammonia upon all of them; the coagulation and discoloration of all of them by boiling, and others, present the blood corpuscles of a mammal. Of course the blood corpuscles could only be seen by the microscope. The coal-scuttle contains anthracite coal, fragments of a comb and a few gray human hairs. The cinder on the candlestick shows blood in a diluted state. By an examination of that cinder I found it to be printed matter, and with the aid of lenses detected words. There was blood upon the bottom of the candlestick. This coat has sprinkled spots, soaked places and smeared spots. There is a marked smeared place on the right lappel of the coat; a smeared spot on the right sleeve cuff; sprinkled spots are numerous ors the front of the coat. I counted forty-five sprinkles on the outer part of the right sleeve.

It is evident that when the coat received the blood it was not buttoned, for otherwise he would have been protected in parts which have blood. The vest bears a marked smeared spot and some evidence of sprinkles. The shirt is only marked with sprinkled spots; these are upon the bosom; the direction of these spots is uniformly upward from right to left. There are faint markings of blood on the sleeve bands of the shirt. The cuffs present minute sprinkled spots and also places from which it is evident fath it has come in contact with blood, or blood parts counted on the shirt was twenty-nine; the pantaleons present sprinkled spots, and there is also some solling of blood in a dilute condition; the bottom the reason that small clots of blood remain in the texture beneath the surface; the collar presents a few minute sprinkled with blood on the inte veapon; I observed the blood spots on the western wall of the room of this building, and found them sprinkled The scaked spot may be made simply from a larger spot getting upon the surface long snough to saturate it; this is due to contact with clotted blood or friction of a bloody surface with a body. The smeared spots upon the coat and vest could be caused by the carrying in of the body. If the body was carried while the blood was in a flowing condition. I think some of the soaked spots might have been so produced. The sprinkled spots could not have been caused by the carrying in of a dead body, for there would have to be connected with the carrying in some cause for the smaltering or sprinkling of blood in a fluid condition. In a living body, where an artery is cut, the propelling force is the action of the heart, which of course is wanting in a dead body. All the tests have been applied in my examination, and I have no hesitation in saying that these staims that I have stated are all mammal blood.

Cross-examined—I think if a man went to carry in the body of a woman bleeding freely, and her hair had beenlying in a pool of blood, the tendency of the blood upon the hair would be to drip, to gravitate; if the head were thrown round it might sprinkle, but that would not account for the uniformity of the sprinkling; I do not think that blood upon the sieeve could have been produced by coming in contact with the saturated hair, for them there would be more smearing and less sprink ling; I could not say the blood was recent upon the blanket, but judge it was not old from its ready solubility.

Mr. Warnock recalled and cross-examined by Mr. The scaked spot may be made simply from a larger bility.

Mir. Warnock recalled and cross-examined by Mr.
Mann-I got this blanket from the bed where Mr. and Mrs. Twitchell slept, and cut these pieces from it.
Dr. Levis-I applied to these stains all the tests for human blood, and they answered all.
Dr. Zantzinger, sworn-I was called on by some one of the family to see Mrs. Hill on this night, and examined her until satisfied that she was dead; I supposed that she had been dead twenty minutes or a half hour; before I opened the bosom of her dress it had been opened to some extent. Dr. Merritt testified to the matters detailed by the preceding witness.

Edward R. Bowen, who accompanied Dr. Zantzinger to this house, testified to the same effect as that gentle-

Wm. H. Hare corroborated Mr. Bowen. Lieutenant Connelly, sworn—Some ge Wm. H. Hare corroborated Mr. Bowen.
Lieutenant Connelly, sworn—Some gentleman came to see the prisoner at the station-house, and I asked him if he wanted to see counsel about his case, and he said not, for he thought there was a fatality about it;
on another occasion I asked him how he accounted for the blood upon his clothing, and he said by carrying the corpse in out of the vard; I asked him how he got it on his shirt, and to that he made no reply.

At half-past seven o clock the Court adjourned until 'ear this morning. 'ten this morning.

It is thought that the case of the commonwealth will be closed to day, and the witnesses for the defence will be closed to day, and the witnesses for the defenc be expected to be in attendance by three o'clock.

FINE FRENCH CALF BOOTS AND GAITERS.-The man who has never experienced the pleasure of wearing a pair of boots made by William H. Helweg, is to some extent an object of commiseration. We speak knowingly, having worn Helweg's boots for years. Their comfort, however, is not their only recommendation, as they are made of the best mate rial and in the very best manner Helweg will not employ an incompetent workman; therefore his work is always first-class. His store and factory is at No. 586 Arch Street, next to the corner of Sixth.

THE GREAT PICTORIAL ANNUAL-"Hostetter's United States Almanag for 1860," for distribution gratis, throughout the United States and all civilized. countries of the Western Hemisthere, will be published about the first of January, and all who wish to understand the true phi ecophy of health should read and ponder the valuable suggestions it contains. In addition to an admirable medical treatise on the causes, prevention, and cure of a great variety of diseases, it embraces a large amount of information interesting to the merchant, the machanic, the miner, the farmer, the planter, and professional man; and the calculations have been made for such meridians and latitudes as are most suitable for a correct and comprehensive NATIONAL CALENDAR,

The nature, uses, and extraordinary sanitary effects of Hostetten's Stomach Bittens, the staple tonic and alterative of more than half the Christian world, are fully set forth in its pages which are also interspersed with pictorial illustra, tions, valuable recipes for the household and farm humorous anecdotes, and other instructive and amusing reading matter, original and selected-Among the Annuals to appear with the opening of the year, this will be one of the most useful, and may be had for the asking. Send for copies to the Central Manufactory at Pittsburg. Pa., or to the nearest dealer in HOSTETTER'S STOMACE BITTERS, The BITTERS are sold in every city, town, and village. and are extensively used throughout the entire civilized world.

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC .- A call is extended to visit Woelpper & Brother's Ladies' and Gents' Furnishing Goods establishments-one at No. 27 N. Eighth street, the other at No. 245 N. Ninth street. and acquire satisfaction by inspection that nothing in their line can be found better or cheaper elsewhere Why, a man may go there and array himself from top to toe in underwear that fits to a T, and deck himself out with the prettlest of neck-ties, collars, cuffs, what not. A lady can do the same in articles pertaining to feminine use, and render herself awest and pretty in colors of the rainbow, or others more quiet. The Mesars. Woelpper have just at the present time; a most heavy and handsome stock of goods. Their stores are just the places to purchase holiday presents, and articles can be found in them to suit the length of any purse. Don't fall to visit Nos. 27 N Eighth street and 245 N. Ninth street.
