On Thursday afternoon the trial of George S Twitchell was continued, the following being the commencement of the proceedings for the

At 4 o'clock J. T. Prait, Esq., made the opening for the defence, saying:

May it please the Court, and you, gentlemen of the Jury—Now devolves mon me, as junior counsel for the prisoner, the humble yet important duty of opening to you his defence, and stating the points upon which we expect to establish his innocence. Up to this time you perceive the prisoner's mouth has been closed, and no word has been said in his defence. Ever since that fatal might he has been kept in silence and suspense, and the ear of justice seems to have been closed against him lest some favorable word should have got to those who were to be the judges of his case. Even the public press, which should be the guardian of liberty and innocence, and which is the great moulder of public opinion, has in this case, with a few honorable exceptions, taken side with the commonwealth, and by unfair innuendo and open argument worked against him. I need not warn you against the danger of heing influenced by prejudice. You know by every day's experience how men's minds are warped and wronged by it. We want you to try this case as did the Greeks of old—blind to everything else than the case before you.

On this Sunday night, when the ministers of God were performing their sacred offices throughout this broad community, this poor, defenceless old woman was brutally murdered. Thus lar we agree with the commonwealth. Our law, and that of the whole civilized world, requires that the assassin should be speedfy and surely punished; and we support that law. But the law of Pennsylvania does not ask the blood of as innocent man; no man shall suffer until his guilt has been proven most conclusively. I may here say that this case is purely and solely circumstantial, and we will argue that it is most uncertain, unreliable and deceptive, citing case after case where many an innocent man has been sacrificed by it. We are to guard strictly against such a sacrifice in this case.

As part of our defonce we well show you the prisoner's excellent character. I know tha At 4 o'clock J. T. Pratt, Esq., made the opening for Holse.

Here the gentleman intimated that as the hour fixed for adjournment had arrived, he would prefer concluding his address on Saturday.

After stating to the Jury why the law imposed the necessity of keeping them excluded from the public from the beginning to the close of this trial of life and death, the Judges adjourned the Court until to morrow morning at 10% o'clock.

Amnesty Proclamation of President Johnson, By the President of the United States of America:

Whereas, The President of the United States has heretofore set forth several proclamations, offering amnesty and pardon to persons who had been or were concerned in the late rebellion against the lawful authority of the government of the United States; which proclamations were severally issued on the 8th day of December, 1863; on the 20th day of March, 1864; on the 29th day of May, 1865; on the 7th day of September, 1867, and on the 4th day of July, in the present year: and Whereas, The authority of the Federal government having been re-established in all the States and territories within the jurisdiction of the United States, it is believed that such prudential reserva-tions and exceptions as at the dates of the sald several proclamations were deemed necessary and proper may now be wisely and justly relinquished, and that a universal amnesty and pardon for parti-cipation in said rebellion, extended to all who have borne any part therein, will tend to secure perma-bent peace, order and prosperity throughout the land, and to renew and fully restore confidence and fraternal feeling among the whole population, and their respect for and attachment to the national government, designed by its patriotic founders for the general good;

Now, therefore, be it known that I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by the Constitution, and in the name of the sovereign people of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare, unconditionally and without reservation, to all and to every person who, directly or indirectly, participated in the late insurrection or rebellion, a full pardon and amnesty for the offence of treason against the United States, or of adhering to their enemies during the late civil war, with restoration of all rights, privileges and immunities to their enemies during the late civil war, with restoration of all rights, privileges and immunities under the Constitution and the laws which have heen made in pursuance thereof.

In testimony whereof, I have signed these presents with my hand, and have caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, the twenty-fifth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and of the independence of the United States of America the ninety-third.

By the President:

F. W. SEWARD, Acting Secretary of State.

The full pardon and amnesty proclamation just issued by the President includes Jeff. Davis, Breck-nridge, Jacob Thompson, Mason, Slidell, and all others who were directly or indirectly engaged in the late insurrection or rebellion. The parties the late insurrection or rebellion. The above named are now in foreign countries. SOUTHERN SPIRIT.

Excellent Advice from a "Reconstructed Rebel," The New York Tribune of yesterday said editorially:-Mr. W. W. Boyce was a prominent member of Congress from South Carolina for seven or eight years immediately preceding the war, and was one of that body of flerce secessionists who scouted the idea of waiting for the co-operation of other States, and insisted that South Carolina by his tellow-Rebels a man of more than average ability and influence. We hall, therefore, his words of advice to the Carolinaus, printed elsewhere, as among the most cheering signs of a return of common sense to the fire-eating politicians. The following is the article referred to:-The Hon. William W. Boyce, of South Caro-ina, prefaces a letter to the Southerners with the remark that the election of General Grant is a protest against political assassinations in the outh, and adds that President Grant will undoubtedly, if necessary, employ the whole military power to establish equal rights throughout the United States. Mr. Boyce next recom-mends a policy for the South, as follows:— First, You ought to regulate the relations between the whites and the blacks so as to have as much harmony and good feeling as possible between them. To this end nothing is o efficacious as kindness to the blacks. Second. You ought to have perfect tolerance of political opinion. Let every one, white and black, vote as he pleases, and trust to your tact and natural influence for a just share of political power.

Third. You ought to extend a cordial and kind welcome to the Northern people to settle among you, without regard to their political opinions. Once you did this, the troubles of the future would be largely overcome, and your material progress would be wonderful. See what immigration is doing for the Northwest, in spite of its austere climate. Think what immigration would do for the genial South.

Fourth. You ought to seek to conciliate the Federal Government. Remember the Scripture injunction: — "Agree with thine adversary quickly." The Federal Government for the present, and for years to come, means the Republican party. Do not wage a frantic war against this party. Remember that the Democratic party is not strong enough now to be of any service to you. Be calm and conciliatory, and wait the course of events. It would be fortunate if you were in that independent condition that both parties North would bid for your support. Fifth, General Grant will, I think, earnestly desire to make his administration national, and restore real peace and harmony to the late belligerent sections. Afmoderate conservative course on the part of the South will facilitate is policy in this direction.

Sixth. In conclusion, the thing you want is peace. To get peace, you must procure it by peaceful means. Let the Republicans and De-mocrats North wage a bitter war against each other if they choose; your condition calls for
