NEWS SUMMARY.

City Affairs. -While the West Philadelphia Hose Company were proceeding along Twenty-fourth street last night, to the fire at Twenty-fith and Lompard streets, they were attacked by a crowd of roughs, who soon cleared the rope and took possession of the carriage. They then commenced smashing the vehicle, and had succeeded in inflicting pretty severe injuries before they were driven away. They twisted one of the bells from the frame and carried it off with them. The attacking party are supposed to have belonged to the party known as the 'Schuylkill Rangers," with whom some of the members of the West Philadelphia had a difficulty a few days since.

—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the irfant son—a fine child, seven months old—of Mr. Wakefield, who resides at No. 1138 S. Thirteenth street, was smothered to death under the following circumstances:-The child had fallen asleep, and the mother had placed him in bed, and after covering him up with bed-clothes, left the room to attend to some household affairs.

As the child appeared to sleep longer than usual, Mrs. Wakedeld went to the bed to take a look at her babe, and found that he had managed to crawl or wriggled himself under the bed-clothes, and noticing that he lay perfectly still and had an unnatural expression, Mr. Wakefield tookinim from the bed and summoned assistance, when it was soon discovered that the little fellow was dead, he having become suffo-cated under the bed-clothes.

-The alarm of fire last evening, about half past 9 o'clock, was caused by the barning of the iron foundry and pattern establishment of Rodgers & Owens, in Lombard street, above Twenty-fifth. The building is a one story brick, extending back a quarter of a square to a small street on the south. The firm own the building, and had on hand a large stock of castings intended for different railroads, all of which were more or less injured by tire, water, or breakage. The loss will amount to about $8000, upon which there is an insurance in the Fire Association for $3000.

Francis Divine, twelve years of age, residing at Eleventh and Christian streets, arm fractured; Thomas McFadden, fifteen years of age, residing at No. 1327 Shippen street, hand injured by being caught in a picker at Eleventh and Catharine streets; James Waters, aged thirty four years, residing in Richmond, nand injured; Patrick Donovan, aged thirty-eight years, residing in Montgomery county, injured by falling into a well; William McNamee, aged twenty-four years, restling at Third and Monroe streets, badly injured by being stabbed in the thigh.

A man was run over and killed on the Reading Railroad, near Nicetown, Thursday evening.

Domestic Affairs.

 Gold closed yesterday at 134%.
 There was a full Cabinet meeting yesterday. -Treasurer Spinner still remains in a precarious condition. General Frank P. Blair, Jr., had an Interview with A. J. yesterday.

—General Buchanan succeeds Gen. Rousseau by virtue of seniority.

— General Rawlins has returned to Washington much improved in health.

-New York rejoices in fifty Internal revenue storekeepers not assigned to duty.

-Louis Lane, colored, was yesterday convicted of murder in the first degree at Pittsburg. -Generals Porter and Babcock, of Grant's staff, have returned to New Orieaus from Texas. -Sixty agents and clerks of the Freedmen's Bureau have been discharged at New Orleans.
- A company of infantry and battery of artillery were sent to Norfolk from Richmond yesterday.

-The trains on the Central Pacific Railroad are running, on schedule time, six hundred miles from San Francisco.

—Arkansas, through a Tennessee medium, expresses surprise at General Horace Porter's report. The medium is Memphis.

-Representative Banks is to prepare a bill providing for the United States to assume a protectorate over Hayti and S. Damingo. -J. W. Beatty, a burglar, was yesterday sentenced at Lebanon. Pa., to ten years and four mouths imprisonment in the Eastern Peni--Yesterday Secretary Schofield sent to the House of Representatives the claims of the officers and crew of the United States gunboat De Soto, for salvage against the United States steamer Leviathan. -Edwin S. Whitfield, a cotton manufacturer of Memphis, was yesterday murdered in that delectable city by a gambler named Doran; and even Memphis is indignant, and there are threats of trying Doran before Judge Lynch.

Foreign Affairs.

London, Jan. 8 .- The request of the Sublime Porte for a postponement of the conference on the Eastern question for a few days, in order that time might be gained for instructing the Turkish representative, has not been acceded to, and the sessions of the conference will certainly open in Paris to-morrow.

The Sultan has consequently been compelled to telegraph at length from Constantinople his instructions to I jmil Mohamed Pacha, the Turkish Ambassador at Paris. There is no question that a part of these instructions are. that if the discussions in the Conference extend beyond the Sublime Porte's ultimatum to the Grecian Government, that the Turkish representative shall immediately withdraw. The Turquie, official paper at Constantinople in its issue of yesterday, says if the Turkish representative withdraws from the Conference war with Greece will be inevitable. LIVERPOOL, Jan S .- A vessel which arrived yesterslay from Fayal reports that the American ship Yorktown, from London, November 6th, for New York, has been obliged to put in there with loss of masts, etc.

Par's, Jan. 8.-The outflow of specie trom the bank of France still continues. By the regular weekly statement published to-day, it is shown that the amount of bullion in the vaults is 27,500,000f. less than at the corresponding period

Paris, Jan. 8 .- The Spanish Cortes is about to establish a corps of observation on the Pyrences. Despatches from Madrid report that much agitation prevails in Spain.
Paris, Jan. 8.—A rumor is current here that an insurrection has broken out in Milan. HAVANA, Jan. 8 .- The proclamation of Dulce is tavorably received by a majority of the people, but is distinced by the extremists of the Spaulsh Cuban parties. It is rumored that an interview will soon take place between Dulce and promiment revolutionists in Havana. Should this meeting be successful, it would tend materially to the restoration of peace. News has been received from Nassau that a schooner recently arrived there from Cuba, after successfully landing fifty recruits and two thousand muskets for the insurgents. A correspondent of the New York Times, at Bayamo, says the revolutionary chiefs have concluded to issue a proclamation making all slaves free, and fixed a day after which they shall receive pay for their lab ir, and they pro-pose to carry this resolution into immediate HAVANA, Jan. 8 -The British war steamer Eclipse has arrived with late and important news from Port-au-Prince. The Haytieu steamer Saluaye selzed the British schooner Conch, from Saint Maile with a cargo of codee and cotton and carried her into Port-au-Prince as a prize It was reported that the United States Consul at Aux-Cayes has been roughly handled by the revolutionists, but the story is not credited. There was a fight at Aux-Cayes on Christmasday, in which the citizens and troops defeated General Piquet.

HAVANA, Jan. 8 .- The Gaceta will publish tomorrow a proclamation by the Captain-General, granting a general and absolute amnesty for all political offenses, and pardoning all persons, whether now confined in prison, or hining, or absent from the country.

General Dulce will issue another proclamation to-morrow, dissolving military commissions, and restoring full jurnsdiction to the civil courts, and in a few days he will promulgate a law establishing to e liberty of the press. The public prints will be permitted to discuss, without the intervention of the censor, all questions except hose relating to slavery and the dogmas of the Catholic Church.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Exempted from Tax.

WASHINGTON, January 8 .- The House passed the Senate bill exempting naval machinery for the Government from the internal revenue tax, with an amendment providing that the tax which had accrued prior to April 1, 1868, shall not be included. When the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Military Academy Appropriation Bill, General Logan began a speech against what is known as Jenckes! Civil Service bill. He regard8 the bill as wrong in principle, and opposed to the genius of our institutions. He regarded the manner in which the bill had been received by the people and press as an alarming indication of a tendency to establish an aristocracy of office"

A Murderer Executed.

ROME, N. Y., Jan. 8 .- William Henry Casswell, the murderer of Abby Elizabeth Saunders, whom he first seduced and then killed, was hung here at 12.50 this afternoon.

Failure in Boston.

Boston, Jan. 8 .- Messrs. Lowrie, Blood & Hammond, wholesale dry goods dealers, failed here to-day. Liabilities not stated.

-The Prussian senators have not seen the end of their troubles yet. Their cry for re-trenchment has been visited upon them with humorous vengeance. When the Rhenish members presented themselves the other day at the Bureau to obtain, as is customary in that simple-minded country where it is the candidate and not the voter who is compensated, their travelling expenses, they received to their amazement one thaler less than they had paid. On their remonstrance the clerk politely pointed out to them that since the last session certain branch lines had been opened by which they might have saved just three shillings. It was useless for the senators to plead that they had not used these new lines because they never heard of them, and, indeed, they were not quite open to traffic. The M. P.'s paid, but their grumbles are loud and continuous.

—The sculptures from Halicarnassus, which, on their arrival in London, were deposited in temporary sheds erected for their reception outside the British Meseum, are now in process of removal to the interior, and will be disposed of in the Egyptian, Elgin, and Roman galleries. In the Koman gallery an additional shelf has been provided for a number of ancient busts, and the walls are colored to a higher shade of red, adapted to give effect to the marbles. A statue of Hadrian, from Cyrene, of great antiquity, is also placed in this gallery. Some very interesting statues from the recently-acquired Farnese collection have been arranged in the Egyptian saloon; the bassi relievi, and detached friezes, together with a figure of Mercury and the ancient copy of the famous Diadermenos, are now exhibited in the different sculpture galleries.

-The Russian Government has decided upon assisting the starving Finns by sending them out bodily to colonize the Amoor regions. An old German vessel has been bought for this purpose at the price of 30,000 roubles, and the emigrants will be carried by instalments from Bremen. Every man is to receive, on his arrival, two hundred acres of ground free of taxes, for twenty-four years, together with the necessary implements, cattle, etc. This stock, as well as the expenses of the journey, is to be repaid in eight years' time, by instalments, to commence after the fourth year. The four-and-twenty years over, the colonist will be called upon to pay a tax for his land, at the moderate rate of twenty-four roubles annually. It is said that the Finns are very grateful, and that both they and Russia are likely to profit greatly by this colonization. -The statement issued on behalf of Mr.

Peabody's trustees appears to dispose completely of the complaints concerning the administration of the fund, for in the first place an account is given of the occupations of persons in possession of the buildings already erected, and in the next it is shown that these tenants receive low wages and pay a very moderate sum as rent. It was Mr. Peabody's own design to assist the industrious poor, not to do the work of parochial authorities by attempting to deal with actual pauperism. The poor, as he believed, suffer many disadvantages from not having comfortable and decent homes, and to the supply of this special want he wished his fund to be devoted. When three excellent rooms can be had free of rates and taxes for 5s. a week, with baths, washing-rooms, and laundries in the house for the use of tenants, it is obvious to us all how much reason there was in the charge that the fund was being turned into a "commercial speculation." It is quite evident that the complainants wrote, as many people like to write, without taking the trouble to acquire proper information beforehand.

-If there had been any doubt as to the current of popular opinion in France on the subject of capital punishment, it would be set at rest by the conclusion of the trial of the Marseilles prisoners. It is clear that there is no crime so horrible, no murder so crueland dastardly, but that the discriminating eye of a French jury can discover in it the extenuating circumstances which save the perpetrator from the guillotine. There never was a case more surely proved than that against the man loye. He had not only supplied the poison which had enabled two of the wives to kill their husbands, but had actually persuaded one of them to commit the deed. From beginning to end there is no shadow of excuse for him. He murdered for pay, Yet this wretch is sentenced not to death, nor even to penal servitude for life, but only for twenty years. Mdmes. Ville, Gabriel, and Fanny Lamberte are let off with the same punishment, Salvago being condemned for life. As to Flayol and Marie Dye, they, as might be expected, escaped scot free. Joye himself appears to have thought that in his instance the proverbial laxity of a French jury would give way, for whilst in prison he tried to commit suicide in three different ways. This was just the instance where death inflicted by justice would have the deterrent effect which mankind has always ascribed to it.

-There is no new thing under the sun. The velocipede mania which is now at its height in France was very violent in England fifty years ago. A colored engraving published by Ackerman in February, 1819, shows the "Pedestrian Hobbyhorse, now exhibiting at 377 Strand, Mr. Johnson, patentee, 75 Long-Acre." It is identical with the twowheeled velocipede now to be seen all over Paris (where it has penetrated to the stage in Hop-o'-my-Thumb, at the Athenée), except that it was worked not by treadles attached to one of the wheels, but by putting the feet to the ground on each side, just as the present French velocipede has to be started. The description given on the engraving says: -This machine is of the most simple kind, supported by two light wheels running on the same line; the front wheel turning on a pivot, which, by means of a short lever, gives the direction in turning to one side or the other, the hind wheels always running in one direction. The rider mounts it and seats himself in a saddle conveniently fixed on the back of the horse (if allowed to be called so) and placed in the middle between the wheels; the feet are placed flat on the ground, so that in the first step to give the machine motion, the heel should be the part of the foot to touch the ground, and so on with the other foot alternately, as if waiking on the heels, observing always to begin the movement very gently. In the front, before the rider, is placed a cushion to rest the arms on while the hands hold the lever which gives direction to the machine, as lever which gives direction to the machine, as also to balance it if inclining to either side when the opposite arm is pressed on the

As was the custom of the day, a cloud of colored caricatures at once appeared, the legend beneath one of which, published by Tegg, representing a race between a horse and the velocipede, carries the origin of the machine further back. "This famous hobbymachine further back. "This famous hobby-horse was bred in Germany; after winning everything there, was shipped for Long-acre." Another, published by John Hudson, of Cheapside, is a fierce veteran mounted on a velocipede, which is called "The Dandy Charger." One of Tegg's shows Richard III offering his kingdom for a horse, and Sir offering his kingdom for a horse, and Sir William Catesby, instead of replying, "Withdraw, my lord, I'll help you to a horse," says, "My liege, here's a swift hobby will convey you from the field as fast as your legs will permit you." The following weak lines appear on another of Tegg's engravings: -

You have heard of old Pegasus flying, no doubt, But our Hobbies now beat him, good lack, For when you are tired of riding about, You may carry your horse on your back.

Curiously enough, these rhymes have almost an exact counterpart in "Le Petit Poucet," where the actor who enters on the velocipede makes his exit carrying it over his shoulder.

-It is evident, from a letter of Mr. R. Coningsby, says the Pall Mall Gazette, that the workingmen are not in any way responsible for the insult lately levelled at Mr. Reverdy Johnson. As we have believed all along, notwithstanding the very positive contradictions put forward, "the middle-class advisers" of the working men have contrived to cast this reproach upon their name. The Reform League did not put a stop to the dinner in its official capacity; but the leaders of the League did, prompted by their invariable desire to associate their names with everything in which the workingmen are taking a part. According to Mr. Coningsby's statement, the person who is chiefly responsible, as far as public acts were concerned, for most unworthy treatment of the American Minister is Mr. Beales, that well-tried and judicious friend of the workingman. He thrust himself into the affair apparently with a predetermined purpose to bring it to confusion; but behind Mr. Beales were "the well-meaning men who, without the possibility of publicity direct the tremendous power of the trade unions." It is probably not difficult to identify the "gentlemen who are in the habit of giving private advice" to workingmen. Their temper too clearly betrays them. One can hardly fail to recognize the little knot of extreme politicians who use their influence with the working classes to gratify their personal predilections and disseminate their sour fanaticism. The wonder is that the workingmen themselves do not understand and resent this dictation and "back-stairs and resent this dictation and "back stairs interference." Are they not able to form an opinion of their own upon a point of common civility? Must they go to Mr. Beales for guidance? Mr. Coningsby makes a half-pathetic lament over the influence of M. Beales and the other "private advisers." He would have tithdrawn from the visers." He would have withdrawn from the whole affair at once, but thought it better to remain to the end, in order get the message conveyed to Mr. Johnson by men who might be trusted "not to shake their fists in his face." He explains, however, that he and his friends were perfectly able to carry out the projected dinner to Mr. Johnson, but "were not able to ensure him against possible annoyance from some of the gentlemen who meet weekly to decide upon the policy of Great Britain. Perhaps Mr. Reverdy Johnson may recall certain influences in his own country which may render Beale's quite intelligible. Future American ministers will be very careful how they have to deal with English workingmen.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Girard Trust in the United States Supreme Court, Supreme Court.

Madeline Henriette Girard et al. vs. The City of Philadeiphia. This is a case brought before the United States Supreme Court in the city of Washington, on an appeal from a decision in one of the suits brought by the heirs of Siephen Girard against the City of Philadeiphia, to recover the property devised to the city by Girard. The result in Vidal's suit against Girard's executors, reported in 2d Howard's Reports, decided conclusively that the trusts under the Will for the college and other charitable objects were valid, but the heirs now contend that the bequests for municipal purposes are incapable of execution in consequence of the passage in 1854 of the act consolidating the old City and the Districts. The will provides that the remainder of the residue of the testator's personal estate shall be invested as a permanent fund, the income of which shall be applied first to the further improvement and maintenance of the College for Orphans; second, to enable the city of Philadeiphia to provides a pare provement and maintenance of the College for Orphans; second, to enable the city of Philadelphia to provide a more efficient police, and third, to improve the city preperty and the general appearance of the city, and to diminish the burden of taxation upon those least able to bear it. The heirs contend that G'rard's wishes extended only to the improvement of the old city—viz: the two square miles from South to Vine and from the Delaware to the Schuyikill, as it existed at the date of his will, and not to the consolidated municipality of 130 square miles created by the act of the Legislature of 1854.

miles created by the act of the Legislature of 1854.

As the execution of the trust is, as alleged, impracticable for the improvement of the consolidated city, it is asserted that the fund reverts to the heirs. It is claimed that the fund reverts to the heirs. It is claimed that the income derived from the estate beyond the wants of the Girard College amounts to $145,000, and the heirs insist that this sum shall be ratably distributed annually among the heirs.

The case has been taken up on appeal from a decree of Judge Grier dismissing the bill in equity filled by the heirs in the United States Circuit Court. In the opinion delivered Judge Grier says that the effect of the Consolidation act is not that which the bill alleges, and even if it were, the consequences assumed to flow from it are not legitimate. The objects of Girard's charity remain the same while the city, large or small, exists. Whatever the fears of the complainants may be as to the moral ability of the corporation, there is no necessary inability which prohibits it from administering the charity as faithfully as it could before its increase. If the trust be not rightly administered, the courts will compel proper execution upon the complaint that the charity is not properly administered, and it does not appear that there now is, or ever will be, any residue to apply to the secondary object (the prosperity of the city, etc.) If that time should ever arrive, the question whether the charity shall be so applied as to bave the "effect to diminish the burden of taxation" on all the corporation, or only those within the former boundaries of the city, will tion" on all the corporation, or only those within the former boundaries of the city, will have to be decided. In the meantime the heirs at law of the testator have no concern in the matter, or any right to interfere by a bill in Argument in the case by Mr. Ingersoll on be-half of the appellants is still in progress.

HON. J. T. THOMAS,

The Company who own the SPLENDID NEW SKATING RINK

Corner of CHESNUT and TWENTY-THIRD Street have instructed us to offer a limited amount of the stock for sale in shares of Oae Hundred Dollar each. A large amount of money has been expende in the erection of this building, which is 220 by 11 feet. The main hall is 56 feet high. It is confidently expected that the Rink will be ready for use of tickets. Such dividends may be taken in single season, or coupon tickets, which are transferable, Regarding the success of the project there can be no doubt, as the building is intended for a public hall, to be used for Concerts, Church Fairs, Festivals, Conventions, Agricultural Exhibitions, etc It is understood that numerous institutions of similar character in various parts of the country hav been quite remunerative, and it is confidently believe that this will not prove an exception. Further particulars can be obtained at our office.
