THE TAMMANY

is the name of the new place of public amuse ment on East Fourtcenth street, near Third avenue. It is not a theatre, nor a concert saloon, nor a music hall, nor a pavilion, nor a pretty-waiter-girl establishment. My reminiscences of Fox's theatre, on Walnut street, above Eighth, in Philadelphia, are not very recent, but I should say that the performances at the but I should say that the performances at the Tammany bear a general resemblance to those of that favorite Philadelphia resort. Only the Tammany, having been a very large and handsome hall, has been converted into a vastly larger and handsomer temple of amusement than the Paila-delphia affair. It will contain about three thousand. Its seats consist of orchestra chairs. an orches ins circle, and a single balcony. The balcony and orchestra circle are very extensive, and the broad lobby beyond affords plenty of standing room. It is in this portion of the building that the principal performances are carried on. So far the resemblance is to a large theatre, where the entertainments are exceed-ingly missellaneous. The distinctive features of the Temmany are found in a bevy of amalier saloons included on different floors of the same building and also in the general price of admis-sion, fifty cents. It is these addends which make the Tammany what it is, and give it a make the Tammany what it is, and give it a character apart from that of any other place of amusement in this country. Let us first see, however, what the entertainment proper con-sists of, and then inquire into these little bits of attraction that are thrown in. The entertainment at the Tammany com-mences at the good old bour of ball past seven. On the opening night, last Monday, the insu good ad scars was delivered at a outsiter mast goral address was delivered at a quarter past seven, and the curtain fell some time between one and two o'clock on Tuesday morning. Since one and two o'clock on Thesday morning. Since then the programme has been put through with a triffe more celerity, and the last notes of the "Star Spangled Bauber"—the signal for the auda nee to depart—vibrate a few minutes before twerve. The programme is divided into four parts, in which songs, dances, burlesques, pantomimes, gymnastics, proteanism, and or chestral music quickly alternate with one another. The orchestral selections, which in-troduce each of the four parts are mostly from Meyerbeer and Verdi. By the time the first Mayerbeer and Verdi. By the time the first overture from Les Huguenots is over every sait is taken, and hands are ready to applaud Mr. Robert Green in the ballad of the "Wreath Mr. Robert Green in the ballad of the "Wreath of Roses," and induce him to sing, as an encore, a classical composition about a little man in grey, which feat he performs with an amount of facial contortation and muscular exertion which seems to threaten apoplexy. To this succeeds the ballet of "Les Folies," which is probably as good a name as could be given to such a bewildering co useation of twinkling limbs, and which introduces Mad'lle Bonfanti among the same flashes of applause that need to chara terize her entree st Niblo's. Bonfanti remains sole among the dansenses for the blackiemains sole among the danseuses for the black-ness of her hair. It is dressed with the same neat exactitude as ever, brushed plainly to-wards the top and back of the head, from which two short curis depend on the right hand side. Blonde hair is epidemic across the ladies of the corps de ballet and danseuses generally. If they cannot have Lydia Thompson legs, they can have Lydia Thompson locks, and they revenge th maelves acc rdingly. After "Les Folies" comes Bishop's Madrigal chores, the "Men of Haritch," by a quartette of men and a chorus of youths. I hardly think this portion of the programme will survive this week. The vocal performances of the youngsters, whose ages range from ten to fif-teen, are receen hy in quality, and the entire assemblage is somewhat suggestive of a Sunday School cluss practising its anniversary exer-cises. Then Mr. Frace Clarke sings a comic Tonsy for some the comprehensive refrain of cises. Then Mr. Ernee Clarke sings a comic Topsy Toy song, the comprehensive refrain of which is "Squeak, squeak, squeak," and dis-tributes three gutta percha Topsies among the audience. Miss Lizzie Dashwood, an expansive female, dressed in bronze colored bools and a large white apron, sings a hoydenish reminis-cence, the burden of which is, "I don't care, for I like a little game," the last four words being accompanied by an indescribable action of the legs and shoulders. A "Wooden-Shoe Dance," by Messrs. Moffit and Bartholomew, winds up the first portion of the programme, and gives the audience five minutes breathing space. The second part is dedicated to the "Pages' Revel," a " corygraphic extravaganza," by Mr.

The second part is dedicated to the "Pages' Revel," a "corygraphic extravaganza," by Mr. H. B. Farnie, Possibly I have not yet been able to measure the height or depth of Mr. Farnie's genius, but I presume his is of the kind which is shackled by no such inferior considerations as those of orthography and etymology. The profundity of the epithet "corygraphic extravaganza" I have not been altogether able to fathom, but presume it has a remote bearing upon the somewhat un familiar art of choregraphy. In this choregraphic ex travasanza, then (and I feel certain that Mr Farnie will excuse my correcting the spelling of the play bills), the spectator is certain of two of the play bills, the speciator is certain of two things, one of which is that Bonfanti dances with wonderful grace-such as no arms, poor little lady; she is all legs-and that Messrs. Maginey and Green give a poor imitation of the two men-at-arms in Genevieve. Poor as it is however, it is represented and and is, however, it is rapturously applauded and twice repeated. Part third is troduces Messrs, Sheridan and Mack in one of those peculiarities. "The Broad-way Swell and thel Brooklyn Belle," which have hitherto been confined almost exclu sively to the minstrel halls, and which are repulsive illustrations of what is termed by the profession "the wench business." Then Mr. Parker affects to get drunk on stills, and Misses, Kelsey and Maddox excente a pis de deux. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Love give a clever parody on Ajler Dark," the shrill voiced boys scream forth another "Madrigat.' and at length the sensation of the evening twice repeated. and at length the sensation of the evening occurs in the transept flight of Monsteur and Madame Senyah, concerning whom however, since they have been in Philadelphia, I say nothing. I might remark, indeed, that the youth of New York, arrayed in the most gor-geous necktles, crowd at this moment every foot of standing room, and that the new Tam-Part fourth introduces the pantomime of and the whimsicalities of the clown Mr. Maffit, who, unlike the scriptural Nico-demus, is decidedly lanky. The Victorelli brothere give their triple trapeze feat, which, in point of ease, daring, and concert of action I have never seen surpassed. Here follows what might be called part fifth, for the curtain fails might be called part after for the current lane for some minutes to allow the setting of the grand allegoric scene representing the "Birth of the New Year." It is a subject inspired by Black Crookism, but is subject inspired by bit the New Year. "It is a subject inspired by Black Crookism, but is solidiently daziling and lavish in its display of calcium lights and female flesh to act as a crown to the night's entertainments at the Tammany. The other saloons to which reference has been made are as yet incomplete. They con-sist of a "Salon de Concert," where an orches-tra, Punch and Judy, Magic Tableaux, and French Velocipedes are brought into action; a "Divan," where attendants in Turkish cos-tumé serve visitors with coffee and pipes; a "Buffet," where everything to drink can be had for money; a "Cafe aux Dames," where lees, pastry, confectionery, and suppers are to be produced for the paying; a 'Cafe Amuşant' and Dorlan's Oyster Rooms-the "Cate Amuşant" and Dorlan's Oyster Rooms the style of oysters fatronized at the Folton Market will obtain. Smoking is permitted in the Buffet, the Divan, and the Cafe Amuşant. The various attendants and the Cafe Amusant. The various attendan are attired in the Tammany Amusement Com-pany's uniform of cadet grey, faced with sear-iet, and rendered emblematic with two in wrought tomahawks. The collee are indicated by caps and the letter P: the doorkeepers by the letter D; the ushers by the letter U; and the Taking it altogether, then, the Tammany is an institution which New Yorkers will not willingly let die. It furni-hes amusements of a better class and more cheaply (han amuse-ment mongers at first believed it would. When it is complete in all its details, its popu-larity will grow instead of waning. Some of larity will grow instead of waning. Some of its features need expunging. The scouer, for instance, the "Madrigal" with its "chorus of nations, the "matrix with its "elorus of youths" is swept away the better. Even as it is, however, the Tammany is great: the wig-wam is not to be despised. These city sachems whose best wisdom is the windom of enjoy-ment assemble there night after night, and, burying the hatchet of business cares, smoke the pipe of pleasure, the calumet of caronsal. Attr Batta ALI BABA of "66" will be performed this afternoon and evening, with the farce of An Odd Lot. AT THE AMERICAN attractive exteriainments will be given this afternoon and evening. CARL SENTZ' and Mark Hassler's Orchestra will give a performance at Musical Fond Hali bis afternoon.

Will give a performance at Musical Fond Hall this afternoon. MADAME PAREPA Rosa's two concerts next week at Concert Hall will present unusual attractions. Mme, Kosa is herself so popular that she would be sure of large and appreciative audiences, but she has also secured supporting talent of more than usual claims to notice. Mr. Brookhouse Bowler, Signor P. Ferranti, Mr. Carl Ross, Mr. Pattison, and Mr. George Coloy are all accomplished artists. One of the great features of the entertainments, however, will be the performances of Mr. J. Levy, the fa-mous English cornet-player. This gentleman has never appeared in this city, but the testi-monials that he has received both in Europe and Americs, with regard to his wonderful command over a difficult and uppromising instrument, are such as to excite much carlothis aftern. instrument, are such as to excite much carlo

LA COTERIE CARNIVAL -- Messrs, Abel & Risley have identified themselves with masque-rade balls, and the idea of a winter without one of their brilliant entertainments at the Acaof their brilliant entertainments at the Aca-demy of Music is so distressing that we decline to think of it. The public have begun to look forward to the "Las Cotorie" ball as the great event of the season, and as the star-spangled globes which herald the approach of the carni-val season are promineodly displayed in all parts of the city, the masqueraders are begin-ning to make their preparations for partici-pating in the festivities. Messrs, A bel & Risley announce Monday, January 11, as the night when the balt will come off. The time is short and the subscription list limited, so that those who propose to take part in this affair should secure their tickets without further delay. Miss ANNA E. DicKINSON, the champion of humanity and the rights of man, as well as of her own sex, will discourse at the Academy of Music on Friday evening of next weak on a the "Wrongs of Woman and the True Remedy."

"Wrongs of Woman and the True Remedy." The press of New England speak in the most favorable terms of this appeal in behalf of that very large class of female operatives, and others, thrown upon their own resources for a livelihood, hampered as they are at every tarn by the appearance operation of the sterner by the ungenerous opposition of the sterner sex and the cupidity of unprincipled employers, who insist on a woman's doing a greater amount of labor than a man in the same field amount of hador than a man in the same held of employment, but at much less pay. This question of the status of woman, and her rights before the law, is exciting considerable atten-tion both in England and this country, and that Miss Dickinson will treat her subject in such a manner as to command for it the atten-tion of her heaters we do not doubt We are deanly interested in al) projects that are likely deeply interested in all projects that are likely to advance the interests of women and to secure for them a fair day's wages for * fair day's work. and as Miss Dickinson has given this subject earnest thought and attention, we commend her lecture to the public as one likely to prove interesting and profitable. The sale of secured seats will commence on Tuesday morning at Gould's, No. 925 Chesnut

LEWING MACHINES AS HEALTH-PRESERVERS. It is not the least argument in favor of the universal adoption of the sewing Machine, that they are among the greatest promoters and savers of health The needle has carried its hecatombs to the grave, and to that class of victims the advent of the Sewing Machine has come like a dispensation of mercy. Iudeed, there is no subject upon which one's pen is actuated by deeper convictions, or moves with more ernest z al, than in advocating the widest adoption of these health, life, and labor-saving instruments. Of the various Bewing Machines in use, there are many reasons for preferring the "Grover & Baker," sold at No. 730 Chesnut street. They are opera ed with greater ease, and do their work more satisfac. torily than others, and they also perform a variety of the more ornate and elegant classes of sewing which no other sewing machines attempt. For this and other reasons, wherever the Grover & Baker instru ments have been exhibited in competition with others, they have carried off the paim of victory.
