The Last Act of Spanish Cruelty-The Recognition of Cuba,

THE latest intelligence from Havana affords a new illustration of the brutality of the Spanish officials who misgovern Cuba. A fleet of transports, with many state prisoners on board, was despatched on the 20th, under the convoy of a Spanish frigate, to the insa-Inbrious and inhospitable shores of Fernando Po. This island is near the coast of Africa. and the doomed Cuban patriots are consigned to a fate more dreadful than instant death. When the Spaniards attempted to colonize it, near the close of the last century, they were repelled by the natives, who num. ber about 10,000 or 12,000, and whose hostility to the unhappy beings consigned to their shores may be not unnaturally anticipated. But even if the Cuban patriots escape massacre, and survive the maltreatment of their captors, they can scarcely hope to avoid fatal disease. At one time the British attempted to colonize the island, but they were compelled to withdraw their garrison on account of the fearful inroads of fever among the soldiers, and a majority of the British colonists fell victims to the same fell destroyer, so that it is a well-attested fact that the climate is fatal to the white race.

This barbarous policy cannot fail to exercise great influence in strengthening the sympathy already felt in this country for the Cuban revolutionists. It gives a new proof that the Spanish cause is not only bad and bratal, but desperate, for such cold-blooded cruelty is the act rather of frightened cowards trembling with the fear that they are on the eve of downfall, than the deed of men conscious of their strength and confident of the perpetuation of their power.

As the proposition to authorize the President to recognize Cubs whenever she establishes a de facto government is under serious consideration at Washington, there should not be a moment's further delay on the part of Congress in passing the resolution offered by General Banks. It has become vitally necessary as an act of humanity and justice, a" well as a wise measure of governmental polity.

The Cuban cause, in the present crisis, has irre-istible claims upon the friendly aid of the American people. The revolution was begun six months ago. Struggling at first without arms or ammunition of approved pattern, rude weapons were made of the peculiar woods of the island; but the movement commenced under so many difficulties so warmly enlisted the popular sympathy, that at this moment, we are informed on reliable authority, the revolutionists have in the field at least twenty-five thousand men well armed and equipped, and their General-in-chief in his recent appeal claims that they have 70,000 men doing duty. They have not only gained and held possession of a large portion of the territory of Cuba, but have successfully encountered the Spanish troops in many engagements; and it must be remembered that, notwithstanding the reports forwarded from time to time, under the surveillance of jealous authorities, of partial Spanish triumphs, the patriots steadily maintain their ground, and practically govern nearly all the regions not in the immediate vicinity of well-garrisoned cities. At first the revolution was spontaneous, and different leaders maintained sway in different departments, but unity of action is now established, and the national energies are consolidated under the direction of a Supreme Junta and a single commander-inchief. This outbreak would never have gained such formidable proportions if it had not been aided and encouraged by an immense majority of the population, approaching a unanimity only broken by the dissent of a horde of Spanish officials, and a few citizens of Spanish birth, who esponse the cause of the homa country from pride of race and origin. It deserves our sympathies on every ground. It is based, at the outset, on aspirations identical with those which inspired our revolutionary anceators to throw off the tyraunical yoke of Great Britain, and there is great force as well as truthfulness in the declaration of General Cespedes that the patriots are resisting a foreign power which seeks to crush them to the earth, and which, with no appeal but that of arms, persists in appointing tyrannical citizens of its own country to rule and eat up the substance of the Cubans. They have groaped under the pressure of onerous "taxation without representation" for centuries. and their remonstrances have only served to intensify their sufferings.

view of the exciting events now transpiring in Cuba, this country is morally bound to imitate this example as closely as she can without committing a flagrant viola tion of the law of nations. The Cubans not only desire to be free, but the next dearest wish of their leaders is to seek protection and future prosperity under the star-gemmed banner of our own Republic; and in aiding them to demolish the Spanish yoke our own national interests would be promoted, allke by the extension of our commerce and the probable annexation of one of the most fertile portions of the earth.

Free Speech in Germany.

BISMARK is usually considered a conservative and an upholder of the preregatives of royalty, but it is a significant fact that the results of his polloy have been to stimulate the growth of liberal ideas in all parts of Germany. From the defeat of Austria and the consolidation of North Germany came the pacification of Hungary, the abrogation of the Concordat, and the legalization of civil marriages in Austria; and the absorption of the petty German States and principalities by Prussia has done much to encourage those who have esteemed the idea of a united Germany as a hopeless dream. Not long since the North German Parliament granted the largest freedom of debate to all the diets of the confederacy, and we are happy to believe that this is but a step towards extending still further the bounds of free speech. Austria, which appears to be engaged at present in a generous rivalry with Prussia to keep up with the liberal spirit of the age, has just made a similar advance in the right direction. The cable appounces that a royal decree has just been published establishing trial by jury for offenses against the press law. This is a very great concession from what has been considered as one of the most illiberal and despotic geveruments in Europe, and will do much towards building up a great free press, and causing that general diffusion of intelligence which is essential to the prosperity of any nation at the present day.

In contrast with the example of Prussia and Austria, we see in France Napoleonism binding the chains of despotism firmer than ever. The Emperor appears to be aware of the fact that his popularity is on the wane, and as the signs of the times indicate that the fate of his dynasty is becoming more and more uncertain every day, his efforts to perpetuate his power and secure the succession to the imperial throne for his son have something of the impotent energy of despair. The King of Prussia and the Emperor of Austria have chosen the wifer part in recognizing the rights of the people, and they will be better prepared to withstand the shock of the revolution which now seems to be impending in France, and which, if it comes, will annihilate the Bonapartes.

Babies, Plano-Fortes,, and Sewing-Machines.

It is not our fault if people who have been denied the usual amount of common sense will persist in buying and reading THE EVENING TELEGRAPH. That such people do buy and read it we infer from a communication sent us a day or two since by an individual styling himself a "subscriber." We print the communication in question verbalim, as follows:-"Can you induce the Legislature to pass a law to allow a man the advantage of the three hundred dollar exemption law, and one hun-dred dollars for every child beside, and making it invalid to waive that right in any instance? Also, to exempt a sewing-machine from seizure for debt? And if you could induce them to exempta piano that has been purchased by in-staiments, or any other way, you would be doing an act of charity, particularly to the unfortunate." From this it will be seen that our "subscriber" is not altogether what was called in old times a "natural." He evidently has either been to Harrisburg in his own'proper person, or has studied carefully the reports of legislative doings, for he appears to be firmly grounded in the belief that our law-makers can be induced to do almost anything, especially in the way of exempting certain favored interests from all the burdens and liabilities that should attach to them for the common welfare. If we should take it into our head to induce our law-makers to provide for guaging the amount of property to be exempted from seizure by the number of infants in a family, what an extraordinary increase in the population of the State would be witnessed when 7 o'clock. we are permitted to look over the next census returns! And what a thrill of dismay would prestrate the corner groceryman when he glanced over his accounts and saw that Bumpkins, whose bill had been running up for a whole year without a settlement, could defy the constable because he is the father of a round dozen of children, with a prospective annual increase of one as long as the sturdy companion of his bosom should be spared to him Then what an impetus would be given to the traffic in sewing-machines ! Every family of limited resources would forthwith order one of these useful instruments, the bill to be collected on delivery. But let the goodwife once get her clutches upon the patent stitcher! The credulous agent who struck a bargain with her would then discover how egregiously he had been swindled. He would rush before an alderman with his claim, only to listen to the goodwife as she declared, under oath, that all her household traps combined, including the confiscated sewing-machine, are not worth more than five hundred dollars, while her property exemption is swelled to a round thousand by virtue of her having been seven times a mother ! So, also, with the "unfortunate" people When the Spanish-American republics who own planos, "purchased by instalments began the movement which finally resulted in or any other way." Pay down your first the downfall of Spanish rule everywhere on instalment, cart your instrument home, and the mainland, Great Britain displayed not only then defy the collector and the sheriff ! If you great readiness in recognizing the very first are so fortunate as to have been "unfortnorganization of the revolutionists, but in grant- nate," your wife can open a shirt store and ing material aid of every description. In your daughter give lessons in music, without a creditor darkening your door, and without the prattle of a half score of youngsters disturbing the complacency of your happily "unfortunate" soul ! We advise our "subscriber" to consult McKinstry, the legislative genius who is now moaning over the cinders of his Bucks county barn. Such a delicate task as engineering this baby-exemption law through the Legislature should not be entrusted by him to the hands of bunglers like Henszey and Davis.

A Difficulty with Venezuela.

THE SO-called Republic of Venezuela does not appear to regard the obligations of treaties and its plighted word as of any special consequence. A few days ago a budget of correspondence between ex-Secretary Seward and a special agent of the Venezuelan Government was sent to the Senate, from which these facta appear. In April, 1866, a convention for the settlement of certain claims of American citizens against the Venezuelan Government was entered into between the two countries. Claims amounting in the aggregate to $4,800,-000 were presented to the commission appointed under this convention, of which amount $1,250,000 were allowed, it being stipulated that this sum should be paid by Venezuela to our Government, for distribution, in ten equal instalments. Some time since the first instalment of $125,000 fell due, according to the above stipulation; yet it has not been paid, and the special agent of Venezuela now in the United States has instructions to ignore entirely the award of the commission.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs have had the subject under consideration, and it is understood that they are prepared to make a report in favor of demanding from Venezuela a strict compliance with the terms of the treaty. In fact, no other course is left open for us to pursue. Venezuela for years was the best regulated of all the South American republics, enjoying comparative peace at home and a fair share of respect abroad. But a year or so ago a disaffection against the Government of Marshal Falcon manifested itself, resulting in his expulsion from the country. Since that event, the republic has fallen into the anarchical state which appears to be so congenial to South America; and now we are made, by this attempt at repudiation, to experience the consequences. But neither the interests of our citizens nor the dignity of our Government can suffer the de facto authorities of Venezuela to inaugurate with us this favorite line of South American diplomacy. The sooner the committee make their report, and the Government takes a decided stand, the better. A few sharp blows at the outset will save a great deal of wrangling in the future.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE informs us this morning that the question concerning the property of the Italian clergy has been definitely settled. But not a word is vouchsafed concerning the manner of settlement, and we must await advices by mail for about ten days, before we can get at the particulars. If the man who fixes up the cable telegrams in London had been favored with a petty horse-race, his pen would have been much more prolific, and a great lot of twaddle of not the slightest interest to the people of this country would have been sent over the cable, regardless of expense.

Aside from this aspect of the struggle, the revolutionists have boldly unfurled the fisg of emanoipation, and while they stand forth as the foes of every form of slavery, the Spaniards persist in the maintenance of bondage alike over the black and white men of the island. It is a square fight for freedom for all on the one hand, against tyranny over all, except the few favorites of the oppressors, on the other.
