The Money market continues to work closely, and the demand for temporary loans of cur-rency, though greatly diminished within the last two days, is still quite up to the ability of the market to supply. Money is evidently becoming more abundant in our midst, and a few days may witness a material fail in the usurious rates which have been demanded for loans in the open market. This change would be very speedy if the banks would be more liberal to the business public than they now are, but as long as the pressure of the money demand is thrown, as now, on the street, the Shylocks will continue to control the terms of the market, to the great detriment of the inte-rests of every branch of national industry. The ruling rates for loans on call were about  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on Governmenst or good stock securities, but the terms on the street ranged from 10@14 per cent. for good to choice paper. The busi-ness in the outside market was entirely limited to absolute wants, the high rates effectually checking all business enterprises involving risks as to the issue. Government securities were active and strong at home and abroad, and gold in consequence was a little off. The quoation at 12 M. was 131].

Reading Railroad was in better demand, with Camden and Amboy Bailroad at 123. Pennsyl-vania Bailroad was not so firm, and sold at 59.

Outrages by the Spanish Anthorities on the English and American Flags. Havans correspondence to the 24th ult. says: The war steamer Cherub, bearing advices to the British Consul-Generai, brings from Nassan news of an act apparently of the grossest vio-lence committed on an American ship in Eoglish waters, and in charge of an Eoglish official. On the 16th, while lying in the Bana-man waters, the brig Mary Lowell, from New York, was captured by the Spanish war steamer Andaluza. In the absence of her master, who had gone to New York for orders, his vessel having been detained at the Bahamas some time by Spanish steamers, she was left in care of a British custom house officer. According to de-positions made before an English Justice of the Peace, the brig was boarded by sixteen armed Spanish steamers, she was left in the and a southeast point of Little Ragged Island. An English official was on board at the time, and the brothers Wilson, who, as pilot and master, sailed her, declare that she was entered in spite of protests to that effect, and others that the brothers. Wilson, who, as pilot and master, sailed her, declare that she was entered in spite of protests to that effect, and others that the brothers. On being warned that he was insulting the American flag, he or his rep-resentative declared that he did not care; it was his duty to take the brig, and he was bound to have it. It was supposed that the ill-gotten prize would be brought to Havana. Governor Walker, of the Bahamas, is believed to have made indignant representations respecting the United States is no less earnest in demanding that justice be done, and the honor of the Ame-rican flag righted. — — — The brig Mary Lowell was captured in coming into the harbor from man-of war anchorage. The Spanish captain had announced his inten-tion to take her if she came out six miles from land. When captured she was clearly within British jurisdiction. Telegrams of these facts have been sent to the United States admiral at Key West and to the authorities at Washing-ton. DOUBLE SHEET-THREE CENTS.

The Indian Appropriation Bill -Movements of the United States Squadrons.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. The Pacific Railroad.

WASHINGTON, April 3.- The Senate committee on the Pacific Railroad had up to-day the question of fixing the junction of the various Pacific Railroads, and agreed upon the amendment which is to be proposed, giving to the President of the United States the power to designate the place of junction, and if he deems it expedient, to appoint a board of civilians not interested in any roads to make thorough examination of the whole subject, and fix the junction and report what should be done to make the Pacific Railroads efficient. In the meantime all bonds ought to be withheld, in order to carry out the provisions of the laws and make the roads first-class.

The Tax on Whisky:

No decision has been reached to day by the Senate Finance Committee as to fixing the time for paying the tax on whisky in bond. A large whisky lobby is here at work in favor of extending the time:

Texas and Virginia,

The Reconstruction Committee had up the Virginia and Texas question this morning, and heard arguments in favor of holding the elec-tion in Virginia under the present constitu-tion, also arguments in favor of and against the Texas Constitution.

The Indian Appropriatians,

The amount of money involved in the Senate amendments to the Indian Appropriation bill is two and a half millions of dollars. The House will resist these amendments, which are nearly all swindling jobs in the interest of the Indian sgents. If the Senate does not recede the bill will fail.

Despatch to the Associated Press. Southern Reconstruction.

Southern Reconstruction. Washington, April & — The Reconstruction committee held a long and interesting session this mouning at which the Texas question first came up for discussion, and General Dawes made a speech in opposition to the Constitution proposed by the late Convention, and in favor of a division of the State. Ex-Governor A J. Hamilton was present, and put many interrogatories to the speaker, whichicalled forth animated replies. The Virginia question was then taken up, and a mixed commission of about twenty Re-publicans and conservatives appeared, two of whom, Messrs, MiKenzie, of Alexandria, and Grenshaw, of Richmond,imade earnest appeals for the passage of a bill allowing the submis-sion of the constitution to a vote of the people, on the terms agreed to by the Senate at the last session, namely -allowing the disfranchis-ing clauses to be voted on separately. It is un-derstood that the committee will report in favor of postponing the election in Texas, and defer-ring action in the case of Virginia until the next session.

The Civil Tenure Office Bill is not yet signed, but will be, and notification thereof probably sent to the House to-day. It is now discovered that the Senate got the advantage of the House, in the compromise on the bill agreed upon by the conference committee. It is regarded by eminent lawyers who have carefully examined it as less of a repeal in its present shape than was at first supposed. The disturbed condition of affairs in Cuba, and the recent proclamation of Dulce relative to vessels found ineCul an waters, is giving rise to considerable discussion in Government circles. The Secretary of the Navy has taken precautions to have a large force placed in Cuban waters to watch after American inter-

States and England cannot fail to exact satis-faction for it. A rumor has been prevalent that Santiago de Cuba has been taken by the insurgents, and a letter in the Diario gives very strong color to the report that 600 or 700 men have disembarked within three leagues of Matanzas. AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the "Medico-Chirurgical Review" on the subject of the Extract of Sarsaparilla in certain affections, by Benjamin Travers, F. R. S., etc. Speaking of those discases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury, he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic, with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable, as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

"I now make this disclosure that I may have peace with God.

(Signed) 'GEORGE S. TWITCHELL, Jr." In the presence of Rev. George Bringhurst and William B. Perkins.

Mrs. Twitchell Leaves the City. This morning Mrs. Camilla E. Twitchell left the city, under circumstances which would appear to lend the countenance of truth to the above arraignment of her by her husband for the murder of Mrs. Hill. About a week ago she visited the condemne1 man in his cell for the last time. She then had a conversation with the Rev. Mr. Bringhurst, in the course of which she manifested the liveliest concern as to whether her husband had said anything to his spiritual adviser which would implicate her in the murder.

She inquired especially if Twitchell had made any statement about the crime. Mr. Bringhurst responded that he had. Then the wife inquired if he had made a confession, to which she again received an affirmative response.

MIS. Twitchell then inquired if her husband had made any statement concerning herself in connection with the murder, to which she likewise received an affirmative response.

"Yes," said Mr. Bringhurst, "he has told me all about it."

"Then," exclaimed Mrs. Twitchell, "he is a villain-the greatest villain on the face of the earth!"

She then directed her inquiries to the day of the execution, asking if Twitchell intended to make any statement on the scaffold. She was assured by Mr. Bringhurst that he intended to do so. This brought out the inquiry as to whether any newspaper reporters would be present, and when she was told that such would be the case, she exclaimed :-"That would be bad !"

Since the day on which this conversation occurred, Mrs. Twitchell has not been near the cell of her husband, and this morning she left the city for parts unknown.

The following letter was received recently by gentleman in New York from Mr. J. Stuart BLACKHEATH PARK, Kent, March 11 .- Dear Sir:-Immediately on receiving your letter of January 19 I wrote to Sir Charles Trevelyan, Sir-Immediately on receiving your letter of January 19 I wrote to Sir Charles Trevelyan, who is the principal author of Competitive Ex-amination as applied to the Civil Service in England and India. He at once undertook to write to you, and to farnish you with all the in-formation in his power, and I presume he has done so before this time. The question seems to me, if possible, even more important in the United States than in this country. I have long thought that the appointments to office, without regard to qualifica-tions, are the worst side of American issultations; the main cause of what is justly complained of in their practical opera-tion, and the principal hindrance to the correc-tion of what is amiss; as well as a cause of ill-repute to democratic institutions all over the world. If appointments were given, not by political influence, but by open competition, the practice of turning out the holders of office at every change in politics, in order to reward partisans, would necessarily cease, and with it nearly all the corruption and the larger half of the vinience of mere party conflict. I have been delighted to see that Mr. Jenckes' mea-sure meets with iscreasing support from dis-interested opinion, though it will have to en-counter the utmost hostility from the profes-sional politicans, who are great perverters of free government.

A London correspondent of the Chicage Tri-bune writes:— Portraits of General Grant are fixed in the shop windows, and the press teems with specu-lations on his character, his opinions, his future policy. The prevalent notion decidedly is that he entertains sentiments towards Eng-land the reverse of thoses o lavishly distributed by Mr. Reverdy Johnson. Literary men greatly admire his reticence and the style of the sen-tences which they find attributed to him, but politicians are uneasy.

admire his retleence and the style of the sen-tences which they find attributed to him, but politicians are uneasy. A night or two ago I was in the society of some eminent men-legislators, travellers, and authorities on questions of finance-when the subject of American credit came up, and an interesting conversation ensued. The majority of the company believed the United States had not only power but the will to pay off their debt and maintain their bonor unsulted in the eyes of the world; but a few able men were equally positive the other way. Their argu-ment was that when the young men of the South enter upon the full enjoyment of their political privileges, they will unite with the bemccratic party at the North, and by taxing the bonds, or some similar trick, force on a policy of repudiation. Turged that a new moral world had become disclosed in America; that those who rule the neart and keep active the conscience of the na-tion have as keen a sense of honor as any public men in the world. The discontents smiled, and whispered "sentiment." In a few years' time, they repeated, a class would be dominant in the States to whom the repudiation of the debt must give a positive satisfaction, and who will see in the strength of the country sufficient compensation for the stain on her escutcheon.

WASHINGTON. April 3.—Mr. Cole introduced a joint resolution making Sau Diero. California, a port of delivery, and asked its immediate consideration. But Mr. Morrill objected, and it was referred to the Com-mittee on Commerce. Mr. Summer introduced a bill to repeal the act to prevent the importation of certain persons (siaves) into the United States, when, by the laws thereof, their importation is prohibited. This bill, he said, was designed to repeal the only law relating to slavery remaining upon the statute books of the United States, and as it had been favorably resorted by the Judiciasy Committee and passed by the Sanate at the last session, he hoped there would be ne oppo-silion to its immediat consideration. Mr. Davis objected, and the bill was laid on the table.
