"Le Prophete."

"Le Prophete." Meyerbeer's opera of Le Prophete was pro-duced in handsome siyle last evening to s very large sudience. The performance was a deci-ded success, and it was an event to be remem-bered, as the opera has never been given in this dity more than once in the course of a great many years, and the requirements for its suc-cessful presentation are so many and so g ent that it is not likely ever to become nack a yed. The plot of the opera is founded on the caffer of John of Leyden, the leader of the singular Arabaptist insure cion which originated in a portion of Germany in the sixteenth century

The plot of the opera is founded on the ca eer of John of Leyden, the leader of the singular Arabaptist insurr cilon which originated in a portion of Germany in the sixteenth century This outbreak was a struggie for political and feligious liberly, and the combination of fabaliciam and knavery which obsrac terized it makes a curious study. Tue sub-ject is highly dramatic, and none out a composer of the highest genius could wor-thily interpret it. The sombre coloring of the opera will provent it from ever becoming ex-tensively popular, but such a performance as that of last evening is one that no lover of lyric att will readily forget. The composer has ad-mirably worked out his theme, all the obarac teris are strongly individualized, and the powerful situations of the drama arefiliustrated by nucle every way worthy of the subject. The cast last evening was a strong on a motion bas not been equalled on the stage of the fost something of the freshuess of ten years ago, is a great artist. In Paris Le Prophete is always produced with a full ballet and grand accessories, which could scarcely be expected at an occasional perform-ance like that of last evening. Md'lies Wes-mael and Zuccoll gave one or two graceful dances, but they scarcely represented the com-plete ballet accompaniment that probably belongs to the opera, and they did not add greatly to the effect. Indeed, the introduction of a ballet in a work of this kind is an incon-gruity, and it would not have been a matter of regret if the feature had been omitted entirely.

BECAUSE A PERSON HAS A BAD Couge it should not be interred that Consumption has set in, akhough a case of Consumption is rarely met with unaccompanied by a distressing Cough. Where, however, a predisposition to Pulmonary Disease exists, a Cough, if left to itself, strains and racks the Lungs and wastes the general strength, and soon establishes an incurable complaint. In all cases, then, it is the safer plan to get rid of a Cough, Cold, or Hoarseness without delay; and for this purpose no remedy acts more promptly or surely, or with more benefit to the organs of the Chest, than Du. IT IS & noticeable fact of the last two or three months, that whatever the weather may have been during the week, Sunday has invariably come to us with its most smiling face and gentle aspect. However wintry the week days, the last two or three Sun. days have given us spring in earnest, and many a man and boy has been vered with himself that he has not secured his spring suit with which to replace the onable and shabby overcoat and winter dress So we take the liberty to suggest that all such chagrin be saved from to-morrow by the purchase to day of a new suit, or at least a fine spring overcoat, at Wana' maker & Brown's Oak Hall. If you have been in the habit of having your clothes made to order, you will be surprised to find how line a class of clothing they sell ready-made, equal in every respect, and fa cheaper, than the custom work of many of our best merchant tailors.
