A LIVELY TIME

oging and Scuffling in a Washington Depot-n ex-Commercial Agent and Colonel the The crowd usually assembled at the Washington depot at the departure of the train for Baltimore, at noon yesterday was thrown into considerable excitement by the report of a pistol fired in the ladies' car. A rush was made for the scene of commotion. It appears that Mr. E. Dorsay Etchison, formerly commercial agent at Matamoros, who left that place for Canada, where he has resided for three or four years past. where he has resided for three or four years past. came on here two or three days ago, and this morning with his daughter took seats in one of the cars of the train then about to start. Shortly after he was seated he was approached by Colonel W. R. Lount, formerly of Tennessee, but now of this of Tennessee, but now of this city, who, tapping him on the shoulder, said, pointing to a friend who had accompanied him:

"This is my friend, Captain John Nye, and I have called with him to see why you have been going about the city threatening to kill me on sight. I have done nothing to you, and would like to see you outside the ear for an explanation." Mr. Etchison rose from his seat as if to accompany them, and Colonel Lount and Captain Nye, brother of the Senator, turned to leave tain Nye, brother of the Senator, turned to leave the car. It appears as the party moved out Colonel Lount, who was walking in advance of Etchison, suddenly looked round and found a pistol pointed at his back. He had but the alternative of warding off the shot. Lount turned quickly, and in throwing up his arm the pistol exploded, the ball taking effect in the left hand, breaking the finger. Lount planted his fist upon Etchison's nose, smashing the bridge and knocking the individual down. Lount then seized the pistol, and catching Etchison by the throat, put the pistol at his head, remarking, - secondrel, you ought to have your brains blown out, but I spare your life for sake of your family." The employes of the car seized the combatants and were about to separate them, meanwhile two policemen appeared and took the parties into custody. There were a number of ladies in the car. It may be imagined that they were not in the most serene state of mind, not a few taking an opportunity to give vent to their feelings. Etchison, during the combat, accused Colonel Lount of improper conduct with his wife, who has for three or four years past lived a portion of the time in Canada, but a greater part of the time here, boarding at the same house with Colonel Lount. Colonel Lount claims that he was unarmed except with his walking stick. The parties were taken to the station house. Lount was released on parole and Etchison held for a hearing. At 6 o'clock this evening the case came up before Justice Walters. Etchison was present, his face in a very dilapidated condition, and was supported by two lawyers. After some preliminary conversation outside, the case was called up. The Justice asked Lount whether he had any charges to make. He replied he had none a realization of the reserved that the remarked that the none. A policeman then remarked that the re-port of a pistol was heard in the car. Lount re-plied that a pistol was heard to explode, but he thought that the person who held the weapon was too much of a coward to fire it; so he supposed it went off by accident. The whole affair terminated in smoke. Etchison will leave for Memphis, Tenn., at once.—N. Y. Herald.

John Bright in Office. Mr. Bright, in answering questions in Par-liament, in his character of President of the Board of Trade, unites in a marvellous degree the freedom and boldness of the popular tribune with the caution of the Government official. The remarks with which he accompanies his direct reply would, in the old Whig days, have made Lord John Russell's hair stand on end; and as to Sir Robert Peel—but the thought of what he would have done is too appailing to be pursued. A close observer of Mr. Bright, a writer who is in the House of Commons every evening, says that more and every day the right honorable gentleman mellows into excellency and originality as a minister of state.

He is by nature or by habit peremptory in his manner and phaseology. These attributes he retains, with a difference; for, though they re used with much effect for the purpose of official "lending off," they are tempered by a tone of conciliation, which makes him pleasing even to postulants whose requests, direct or indirect, he is obliged to refuse, and that with precision. Then, too, his humor is always at his call, and is infused into his answers, and the little speeches he has made with as much judgment as effect. Somehow. too, the presence of Mr. Bright exercises an insensible influence on the conduct and demeanor of his colleagues, even of the very highest. It may well be taken that the knowledge of his keen political powers, his contempt of fussiness and shuffling, and all the lower arts of officialism, to say nothing of his avowed intention to "show up" his colleagues whenever they deserve it, must operate on that body generally and indivi-dually.

NEW GOLDEN EAGLE FURNACE.

This is an entirely new heater. It is so constructed as to once commend itself to general favor, being a combination of wrought and cast iron. It is very simple in its construction, and is perfectly air-tight; self-cleaning, having no pipes or drams to be taken out and cleaned. It is so arranged with upright flues as to produce a larger amount of heat from the same weight of coal than any furnace now in use. The hygrometric condition of the air as produced by my new arrangement of evaporation will at once demonstrate that it is the only Hot Air Furnace that will produce a perfectly healthy atmosphere.
