NUMBER CCXIX.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

The pleased appearance of Mr. J. L. Selfridge when he received the "gold ring" from the Pages of the House.

Mr. Speaker Clark receives a "vote of thanks" from the House. He has it photographed.

The Member from Philadelphia reads over some of the measures he voted for, under such seductive titles as "An Act amendatory to an Act relative to the carrying trade on the State highways, for the better regulation of the same, etc.

He Reflects. and finds out on further reflection that, although largely interested in the Forwarding Business on Broad street, he has voted for the tearing up of the rails on that street, including the turnout that

He waxes warm in his indignation and adjourns any further action at present. His only hope is to get back to the Legislature the next acssion, so he can help to undo all he has done in

A gentleman was walking down the street the other day, when he saw two boys on the sidewalk apparently searching for something. One of the boys remarked, just as he reached them:-"Well, ten dollars is worth hunting after."

So the gentleman stopped and searched awhile. Finally he got tired, and said to the boys:-

"Have you lost a ten-dollar note?"

"No, sir," said they; "but we didn't know but what we could find one." A LITTLE boy, on being asked his age on his return to school in September, replied that he was seven in April. "Seven!" said the questioner, in some surprise; "your mother told me last September that you were more than seven. You must have been eight last April." "Yes'm, I was eight; but mother said I was too small for eight, so she put me back to seven." CRUELTY TO ANIMALS,-"What do you drive such a pitiful-looking careass as that for? Why don't you put a good heavy coat of flesh on him?" asked a friend of an Irish carman, referring to his horse. 'A heavy coat of flesh, mayourneen! Be all the blessed powers, now, when the poor crayther can searce carry the little flesh there is on 'lm!" $ CLIMAX .- "My son," said an affectionate father, at the foot of the stairs, "arise and see the newly-risen luminary of day and hear the sweet birds singing their matin song of praise to their great Creator; come, while the dew is on the grass, and tender lambs are bleating on the hillside; come, I say, or I'll be up there with a switch and give you the soundest thrashing that ever you had in all your born days."

"Gorham, I understand you can sneeze any time you want to; is that so?"

"Yes, I suppose I have that little gift." "Queer; let me hear you now, this minute."

"Oh, I don't want to now." Who dare sit before the king with his hat on?

A coachman.

IRRELIGIOUS NEWS.

MEETING OF THE BROAD STREET TRACK SOCIETY. THEIR PROCEEDINGS.

At an early hour on Friday morning of last week the Society met on Broad street, near

The President of the Society was early on the ground. The work of reforming Broad street was their object. The President informed them that no time was to be lost. The people were in darkness, and if anything was to be accomplished it must be done by determined effort. The work of converting Broad street and disturbing the "sleepers" in that district, so given to railing, was then commenced with great vigor. Before high noon of the same day the street began to show signs of a change of life. Its old ways had been thrown aside, and a new purpose of life seemed to be everywhere prominent. It is hoped that the reform will prove permanent. Below we give a view of Broad Street Track Distributors at Work.

EARLY RISING .- A gentleman from Nevada being asked by an old lady in relation to the welfare of a favorite scapegrace of a nephew who had gone to that State, informed her that "the young man had died from early rising." This puzzled the old lady very much until, by dint of inquiry, she learned that "early rising" is the Nevada phrase for hanging.

As BAD AS ANOTHER .- A wife wanted her husband to sympathize with her in a feminine quarrel; but he refused, saying, "I've lived long enough to know that one woman is as good as another, if not better," "And I," retorted the exasperated wife, "have lived long enough to learn that one man is just as bad as another, if not worse."

The "oldest inhabitant" admits that it is sweet to have friends you can trust, but more convenient to have friends who "trust" you.

CRIMINAL QUERY .- Can a prisoner who commits himself also form his own conviction? Why are fowls) fashionable birds? Because they always appear dressed for dinner.

Is a pretty woman called a toast because she is exposed to the fire of so many glances?

Can a watch be said to be perfectly dry when it has a running spring inside?
