

NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, April 22, 1869. All yesterday morning the Tombs Police Court was in a state of great commotion. All the representatives of the world of Spiritualism were there; and if the spirits themselves were half as plenty as the authors in the flesh, it speaks well for the curiosity of the age-worshipers. "Miraculous" testimonials, medical men, clairvoyants, fortune-tellers, and all the kit and crew that advertise and follow in the wake of Spiritualism, were on hand, including several dingy beauties in Bloomer costume. Judge Edmunds was almost as much a cynosure as the memorable Mummer himself. Spiritualists from Poughkeepsie, Troy, Utica, Rome, Syracuse, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and Boston were on hand; and on taking his seat Justice Dowling found himself confronted with an audience largely composed of wispy-haired cosmopolitans. If he had been a man of weak nerves, those nerves would not have strengthened by the fact of his having received the previous day a note from a spiritualist, signing herself "Amelia V. Brooks," who promised for threatened to deliver a few remarks on her hobby during the progress of the trial. No opportunity was given for these, however, and Bloomers was compelled to hold his tongue. The examination was not nearly so interesting as it had promised to be, greatly to the disgust of Oakley Hall, who had had it postponed from last week solely for his own delectation. There was not much evidence on either side. One or two hoary-headed beings gave their evidence that Mummer had produced phantom photographs, which they had recognized as the likenesses of their parents or defect progeny. A great deal was looked for from Judge Edmunds, but that gentleman refused to commit himself, and limited the tenor of his remarks to the announcement that his attitude towards the phantom photograph question was that of liberality. Mr. Jeremiah Gurney, a photographer of nearly thirty years' standing, witnessed that he had never been able to detect any trickery in Mr. Mummer's operations; and there being numerous other witnesses to be heard on both sides of the question, further examination was postponed until to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, at which time Justice Dowling is expected to bring to bear upon it a maturally judicial craftiness.

James Maher, the man who was arrested many weeks ago on a charge of complicity in the Rogers murder, was brought up yesterday morning before Judge Cardozo on habeas corpus. District Attorney Garvin stated that he knew no reason why the prisoner should be longer detained, and Maher was accordingly set free. It serves him right, don't you think so, after having been boarded and lodged at a public expense of two dollars per day for the last three months? The case of John S. Young, the ex-detective, versus the Police Commissioners, likewise came up in Supreme Court, on an order to show cause why a mandamus should not issue, directing the commissioners to vacate the order of dismissal rendered by them against that functionary. The affidavit contained no information whatever that was new, and after reading them the case was adjourned until next Monday, when the arguments of counsel will be submitted. There is an effort being made to accommodate the great unwashed with free baths, at all hours between sunrise and 10 P. M. To that end, it is probable that various points on the Hudson and the East Rivers and at Central Park will be suitably prepared. A plan having this end in view is to be submitted to-morrow evening at room No. 18, in Cooper Institute. This clearly outburst will be a blessed thing, if it can be consummated. At any rate, a place to flop and float in will just suit the "floating" population. Notwithstanding Mr. Grinnell's Machiavelian arrangement, the rush of Custom House "beats" still continues. They never remain the same. Old ones are going, and new ones coming all the time. The countenances are forever changing. Indeed, the countenance of one man has been observed to "change" between his entrance into Mr. Grinnell's presence and his exit out of it. Probably Mr. Grinnell has learned how to say "No" more perfectly than any other functionary at present holding office in the United States, for he is employed all the time in saying it, and still the rush continues. The second avenue car strike has terminated. The conductors, drivers, and directors held a mass meeting at the terminus yesterday afternoon, when a compromise was proposed and accepted. The terms of the compromise are that the drivers resume work according to the new time-table proposed, but that they make only the old number of trips, namely, seven, but that all who choose to make eight trips will receive twenty-five cents extra. Such drivers as do not choose to make the eighth trip will have substitutes provided for that trip. These terms gave general satisfaction. The cars, which had stopped running for the previous day or two, immediately began again, the directors were cheered, and "drinks all round" trembled in the balance. A quick calling himself J. Walter Scott has just been undergoing an examination at the Mayor's office. If all that is alleged against him be true, he has swindled hundreds of people who are induced to place faith in him through the misrepresentations of a "forzen" pamphlet entitled "University Almanac and Business Book." Dr. Scott's place of business is styled the New York Medical University, is situated at No. 8 University Place, and has the appearance of a private house. The doctor's plan in his pamphlet is to print as references the names of persons, with addresses annexed, and evidently picked miscellaneously from the directory, with now and then a distinguished name thrown in. According to this pamphlet, General Grant, General McClellan, Mr. Seward, and several other very public men of note, owe their life and health to him. He rescued them from the jaws of death, and reinstated them in the concert-room. His terms are $100 for a "perfect cure," or the money returned. The first portion of this programme he is never known to fall in executing, viz., the pocketing of the $100. The perfect cure he ultimately effects is curing his patients of their credulity, and the money goes towards paying the expenses of removal towards another part of the city, when that particular locality grows too hot to hold him. Madame Parepa-Rosa appeared last night as retorted in person and around in voice as ever. Steinsway Hall was crowded, and the vanity of the singer must have been gratified to the top of its bent by the magnitude of her reception. Such a voice as hers is of itself a beneficence to the world, and there are amateurs who regard Parepa as a great artistic instructor. I presume she learns in suffering what she teaches in song, and extracts from "rheumatism" what she dispenses in rotolades. What a modest and charming address, by-the-by, Carl Rosa has on the stage! He is almost as boyish in "great" life as he is in the concert-room. Madame Rosa looks after the money matters, and Mr. Parepa is the violinist always. The presentation of colors to the 7th Regiment, on the occasion of the eighth anniversary of their departure from this city, was a magnificent and extravagant affair. It took place at their armory on Fourteenth street. Eight thousand dollars were expended in flowers alone. The air was heavy with the sighs of them, and several ladies were removed fainting from perfume. The design in dress was bravere and patricienne. Some ladies came in walking costume; some wore the train that is so becoming in the parlor and drawing-room; some sported the utmost extravagance in this feature of dress; and out of the thousand feminines present two and a half were in full ball costume, the half one being a little girl. Oakley Hall, who delights in such things, made a loud, limpy speech, and all next day the rooms were thrown open to the public. That "Messe Solennelle"—and Strauss has made a mess of it indeed, with his premature advertisements—is positively announced for next Thursday evening. The Cubans in this city were much disappointed the other evening at Miss Kellogg's failing to put in an appearance. She was to have sung for them, but, understanding her "biz," probably thought better of it, since she is soon to return to Europe, where it will not be popular for her to be known to have sung for the Cubans. I have a startling announcement with which to conclude this letter. The last night of Il Trovatore is announced. And so, yours incessantly, ALI BABA.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements.
AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC Giuseppe de Brabant will be given this evening.
To-morrow La Grande Duchesse de Gerolstein will be performed for the first time in this city by Mr. Grau's troupe, for the benefit of Mr. George Hood. As there is considerable curiosity to see how Mr. Grau's artists will compare with the original representatives of the characters in this amusing burlesque, there will doubtless be a crowded house.
AT THE ARCH Lotia will appear this evening as "Little Nell" and the "Marchioness."
To-morrow evening Lotia will have a benefit.
AT THE WALNUT the burlesque of the Female Party Three and the drama of Miriam's Crime will be performed this evening.
Shakespeare's birth and death will be commemorated to-morrow evening by the appearance of Mr. J. H. Hackett as "Faust" in the Henry VIII. of Windsor, after which the fifth act of Midsummer Night's Dream will be given, and the performance will conclude with the burlesque of Leontes.
AT THE CHESTNUT The Field of the Cloth of Gold will be performed this evening. To-morrow Mrs. Oates will have a benefit.
AT THE THEATRE COMIQUE Miss Susan Galton will appear this evening in the operettas of "69" and Lisben and Fritzen.
To-morrow a Marriage by Lusterni and No Song, no Supper, will be given.
AT THE AMERICAN an attractive entertainment will be given this evening.
THE SEIZER-HASSLER'S ORCHESTRA will perform at Musical Fund Hall on Saturday afternoon.
A TESTIMONIAL TO MR. JEAN LOUIS.—On Thursday evening, the 22nd inst., Mendelssohn Music School Society will tender to Mr. Jean Louis a grand complimentary testimonial at Musical Fund Hall. Mr. Louis is a very accomplished musician and a very successful teacher of the art of music, and the concert will be tendered as a slight token of acknowledgment for valuable services rendered and the appreciation in which he is held as a man and an artist. All the prominent vocal and instrumental solo talents in the city have volunteered, and a good orchestra has been engaged. Mr. Louis will doubtless receive a very substantial compliment at the hands of his numerous friends and admirers.
SIGNOR ETTORE BARILLI will give a grand operatic concert at Concert Hall to-morrow evening, assisted by several of his pupils and a number of eminent artists. A fine programme of the best music will be presented.

CITY ITEMS.

TWAS DYING.
When a weary traveller might have been seen dragging himself along the rough and rugged road leading to a quiet little hamlet nestled among the hills of Pennsylvania. The golden beams of the setting sun lit up the scene in quiet splendor, and filled his soul with holy peace. Stopping for a moment to take a view of the beautiful panorama, he slowly resumed his tiresome journey, until coming to an old forgotten graveyard at the outskirts of this obscure village, he entered the crumbling gateway, and was filled with rank weeds and straggling wild flowers, and turning to the right, he sought a rude grave in the southeastern corner of this dilapidated city of the dead. Finding with much difficulty the object of his search, he with unwearyed knee knelt beside the moss-covered slab, and with his knife removing the moss which years of neglect had spread upon the cold, discolored marble, he read by the faint light of the setting sun this

EPITAPH.
HERE LIES THE BODY OF JOHNNY NOAKS, WHO, when he lived among the folks, Bought all his clothes of CHARLES STOKES. He died from eating artichokes.
