MARION RUHL

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW. Opinion by Attorney-General Hour. The Attorney-General, under date of April 21, 1869, in reply to a letter from the Secretary of the Navy, gives the following opinion:—

the Navy, gives the following opinion:—

Hox. A. E. Boars. Secretary of the Navy—Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of April 3, 1869, in which you ask my opinion upon the true meaning and effect of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1868, which fixes the number of hours constituting a day's work of laborers, workmen, and mechanics in the employment of the United States, taken in connection with the act of July 16, 1862, which provides "That section eight of the act to forther promote the efficiency of the navy, approved December 21, 1861, be amended to as to read as follows:—That the hours of labor and the rate of wages of employes in the navy yards shall conform, as nearly as consistent with the public interest, with those of private establishments in the lumediate vicinity of the respective yards, to be determined by the commandants of the navy yards, subject to the appraval and revision of the Secretary of the Navy. In reply I have the honor to state, that the whole subject was fully considered in the opinion of my predecessor Mr. Evarts) to the President on the 25th of November, 1868, to which I beg leave to refer predecessor (Mr. Evarts) to the President on the 25th of November, 1868, to which I see leave to refer you, and from the conclusions of which I see no reason to differ. In my opinion the statute of Jame 25, 1868, has nothing to do with the compensation to be paid workmen in the navy yards, and leaves that to be determined under the provisions of the act of July 16, 1862. The provision that eight hours shall constitute a day's labor has no tendency whatever to show whether the day's labor thus established shall be paid at a lower or higher rate than a day of ten be paid at a lower or higher rate than a day of ten hours' labor, or at the same rate. The rate of com-pensation is still left by law to be determined under the rule prescribed by the statute of July 15, 1862, so as to conform as nearly as consistent in the public interest with those of private esta blishments in the immediate vicinity o the respective yards, to be determined by the commandants of navy yards, subject to the approval and revision of the Secretary of the Navy. If private establishments in the neighborhood conversal these tablishments in the neighborhood employed their hands five hours the day only, there would obviously be no justice in reducing the wages of those employed in the navy yards for eight hours to the amount paid by the day in private establishments, and the law intended no such result. On the other hand, I find nothing in the stante which requires hand, I find nothing in the statute which require hand, I find nothing in the statute which requires you to pay the same price for eight hours' labor which private establishments pay for ten or twelve, as the amount of service rendered or the quality of work made the fewer hours in the navy yards equivalent in value to the longer time hired in private establishments, or for some other reason make it consistent with public interest.

consistent with public interest.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

E. R. Hoar, Attorney-General.

In consequence of the above opinion, the Secretary of the Navy sends the following circular letter to commandants of navy yards and stations:

NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22, 869.—Sir:—The act of Congress, approved June 25, 868, constitutes eight hours a day's work for all 1868, constitutes eight hours a days work for all laborers, workmen, and mechanics employed on behalf of the Government. While thus establishing the length of a day's work, Congress omitted to repeal the act of July 16, 1862, requiring the wages of employes in the navy yards to conform, as nearly as consistent with the public interest, with those of private establishments in the immediate vicinity of the yards. Until these laws are openied, the departments must abide by them. The chariment has no authority to extend the hours of bor by making more than eight hours a day's work but it has the right to employ mechanics, workmen, and laborers extra hours, and to pay them provata for extra labor. Where, therefore, necessity exists for extra labor, you are at liberty to exercise your discretion in the matter, so as to assist the working classes, and at the same time do justice to the Govermment. Very respectfully, A. E. Borre, Secretary of the Navy.
