THE FINE ARTS.

The Opening of the Spring Exhibition at the Academy.

The fifty-sixth annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts opens to-day. On Saturday evening a private view was given for the benefit of artists, amateurs, and critics and, as usual on such occasions, the galleries were so crowded that it was impossible to make a very close examination of the works of art, or to gain more than a gene ral idea of the character of the collection which is supposed to show something of the progress of American, and especially of Philadelphia, art during the past year. The exhibition is very unsatisfactory, whether compared with those of former years or whether considered as an expression of American art. There are, perhaps, fewer really worthless pictures than on some former occasions but the general average of the works is not up to the usual mark, and the refusal of a large number of the Philadelphia artists to contribute has obliged the Academy to fill up the many vacant spaces with their own property, which undoubtedly has a value of its own, although it has not the claim to novelty, and at the annual exhibition the public expect and have a right to see something new. Indeed, the works of art belonging to the Academy constitute nearly three-fifths of the exhibition, while the remainder is largely made up of pictures that have been exhibited to the public at various times during the year, and the contents of private galleries. These suffice to fill three of the rooms, and although some of our younger artists have contributed works of merit and promise, the only important American picture is Professor Schussele's "Esther Denouncing Haman," No. 96, which was painted for the Academy. Messrs. Rothermel, Edward Moran, George C. Lambdin, Isaac L. Williams, W. H. Willcox, John Faulkner, George F. Bensell, E. B. Bensell, Peter Moran, and other prominent artists are not represented at all, and others have sent either old works or but a

This state of affairs is the result of the quarrel between the Academy and the artists, which culmiated last year. This unfortunate difficulty has produced its natural results in the poorest exhibition that we have had for many years, and in depriving the artists of the best possible means of putting their works before the public. That the Academy has not done its duty in its relations with the artists is certain, and there is a general feeling that as the institution is managed at present there is but little reason to hope for an improvement. Both parties stand upon their dignity, and it seems that it is almost hopeless, with the bitter feeling that prevalls, to expect for any movement towards a reconciliation from either side. The Academy of Fine Arts, however, as the oldest institution of the kind in the country, and in support of its pretensions as a school of art, owes it to itself and the public that both in its annual exhibitions and in its general management it should do more for the advancement of art in Philadelphia than it has done hitherto. Pub-Mc opinion places the burden of the disagreement with the artists upon its shoulders, and a new line of bolicy is therefore imperatively necessary if it hopes to retain anything of its standing among the art institutions of the country.

If the Academy has failed to keep up with the spirit of the age, and to carry out the purposes of its foundation, the artists themselves have acted un-wisely in discarding it. The interest of the majority of the public in art matters is not very great, and experience has proved it is almost impossible to get up exhibitions outside of the Academy that will command general attention. By refusing to contribute, therefore, the artists deprive themselves of the best means of informing the public of what they are doing and the progress they are making, and they lose the incentive of competition. A large majority of the people of this city derive their only knowledge of art matters from the spring exhibition of the Academy, and this exhibition is the only one that receives general notice from the press. For these reasons the artists do themselves a positive injury by refusing to contribute; and looking at the matter from a merely business point of view, it seems scarcely worth while to discard a positive advantage which is worth something in dollars and cents, as well as reputation, merely to gratify a fit of spleen, and without some hope of accomplishing beneficial

If the works which are now in the various studios, and which have recently been exhibited in the picture stores and other places where but a comparatively small number of persons see them, had been sent to the Academy, the vacancies which that institution has been obliged to fill from its own stock would have presented a more attractive appearance, and the general character of the exhibition would be much improved.

During the past year the artists have not been idle. but many works of decided merit have been produced, which for the credit of Philadelphia art ought to be placed before the public in the most prominent manner. There is no good reason why this city should be behind New York in art matters, and it rests in a great measure with the artists themselves whether we are to retain our ancient reputa--tion or not. As an expression of our art standing the the spring exhibition at the Academy is worth all the others put together; it is by this that strangers, as well as our own citizens, judge of the art progress of Philadelphia, and on this account the collection now open to the public is discouraging in the extreme. We hope sincerely that an improvement will take place before another year passes round, and that some effort will be made to bring the artists and the authorities of the Academy to an understanding satisfactory to both parties. A display of liberality and a disposition to do something practical for the encouragement of art, on the part of the directors. would probably have the effect of winning back most if not all of the seceding and would advance the character of the institution and make it really worthy of the regards and support of the public. A system of management that might have answered half a century ago will not do at this day, and the sooner the spirit of old fogyism is banished the better it will be for all parties concerned, and the Academy will become what it ought to have been long ago, a genuine school of American art, entitled to the respect of the artists and the confidence of all who are interested in art matters.

WHILE WAITING FOR A COUGH to go as it came you are often laying the foundation for some Pulmonary or Bronchial Affection. It is better to get rid of a Cold at once by using that sure remody, Dn. D. JAYNE'S EXPEC-

TORANT, which will cure the most stubborn Cough and relieve you of all anxiety as to dangerous consequences. ECONOMY OF ICE.-Why use a half bushel of ice in twenty-four hours when half the quantity can be made to do the same amount of service? To accomplish this great saving use one of BARTLETT'S POLAR REFRIGERATORS, and then even at the present high price of ice you will find this luxury but a small addition to your household ex-penses. Dr. Hall, of Hall's Journal of Health, pronounces the Polar the best in use. Call and examine it at the warerooms of the manufacturer, John S. Clark, No. 1068 Market street. Sold wholesale and retail.

HOUSE CLEANING .- The present being house cleaning time, we would cordially recommend to the notice of housekeepers the advertisement in another part of our paper to-day, of Wincher, Hartman & Co.'s Washing and Cleansing Powder. This powder acts like a charm in cleansing paints, window glass, and household articles generally, and all should have a supply of it. One trial will prove its efficiency and power. It can be had at the grocery stores and of Mr. W. H. Bowman, No. 1156 Frank-ford road.

ODD PELLOWS PARADE.

The bands of music all the time Played while the Lodges formed in time; And countless numbers from afar Came on by steamboat, stage, and car. The thousands filling up the street, Dressed in regalia rich and neat; And in the distance you could hear The bugles sounding loud and clear

The line was formed, and soon the street Re-echoed sounds of many feet; While shout on shout, and clapping hands, Soon joined the music of the bands. Rich banners to the breeze were flung.

And many a widow standing by Gazed on the sight with tearful eye. And said, God speed ye, noble men, Who to the widow's wants attend; God bless this Order, all will say, And never will forget this day.

CONNECS: SENSE rules the mass of the people, whatever the misnamed and misanthropic philosophers may say to the contrary. Show them a good thing, let its merits be clearly demonstrated, and they will not hesitate to give it their most cordial patronage. The masses have already ratified the judgment of a physician concerning the vir tues of HOSTETTER's BITTERS, as may be seen in the immense quantities of this medicine that are annually sold in every section of the land. It is now recognized as greatly superior to all other remedies yet devised for diseases of the digestive organs, such as disrrhors, dysentery, dyspepsis, and for the various fevers that arise from derangement of those portions of the system. Hestetter's name is rapidly becoming a household word, from Maine to Texas, from the shores of the Atlantic to the Pacific. These celebrated STOMACH BITTERS have doubtless created as much sensation in the community for their remarkable cures as any other medicine extant. It is a fact that in the minds of many persons a prejudice exists against what are called patent medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS? Physicians prescribe it; why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their families; why should you reject it? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health. It is the only preparation of the kind that is reliable in all cases, and it is therefore worthy of the consideration of the afflicted. The BITTERS are pleasant to the taste, agreeable in their effects, and altogether valuable as a tonic or remedy for indigestion.

PAIN PAINT.

MY WANTS.

1 Wan't to show you where to go For sorrow or for fun; On Chatham square the people know At Hundred Eighty-one.

A man with headaohe walks in there.
Three minutes it is gone;
"Is WOLCOTT'S place, in Chatham square.
At Hundred Eighty-one.

Here comes a lady with Catarrh; Annihilator goes Right through obstructions which debay The passage through the nose.

The place is crowded, I admit, The sick are everywhere: In private rooms I see them sit, Free office, Chatham square.

Some strip to PAINT from head to hee!. All agres, sexes there— All sorrow flies, and joy they feel, Free office, Chatham square.

Here comes a Bunion, there a Gout Neuralgia leaves the face; And Rheumatism goes right out At WOLCOTT's free cure place.

Cancers and Ulcers, every kind, Most frightful to behold,

Pump Inflammation, out they say. The watchword everywhere; Don't suffer pain a single day, But go to Chatham square.

By turns you laugh, and then you cry, To see the sick folks there; The thousands that PAIN PAINT apply. That go to Chatham square;

Across the Bowels PAINT apply: Put on PAIN PAINT—not spars For Diarrhosa has to fly— Free tests at Chatham square.

A lady having lost each bone Withie her NOSE, applied To WOLCOIT's place, where she was skewe. It was too late—she cried.

She had CATARRH a score of years, And yet she never know "Twas this disease—shed bitter tears When WOLCOTT told her true.

A NOTED doctor in New York Has practiced THIRTY YEARS: He had CATARBH, and had a talk With WOLCOTT of his fears.

Ten years had lost the sense of smell And fifteen years Catarrh; His sight and hearing hurt as well, While ulcers THEOAT did mar.

Well-known he is: none stand more high But yet to WOLCOTT said: I never knew Catarrh was nigh "Till I your statements read.

And then one dozen pints he bought ANNIHILATOR pure— Of WOLCOTT, for Catarrh he sought And found a speedy cure.

His smell was perfect in three weeks; In six his throat was healed: Fine voice returned, and now be speaks; Good singing power reveals. Be on Your Guard.

Drive out these Demons from thy frame. Wait not another hour, But free thyself from all thy pain, Believe! Thou hast the power.

The dread Catarrh Consumption breeds. She flatters but to kill, Perhaps with silence sows her seeds, But works our ruin still.

Perhaps with silence sows her seeds.

But works our ruin still.

Dr. Wolcott is a man of business. He has been in the same office nearly six years, and folks know just where to find him. He has no time to visit race courses or base-ball matches—hardly time to snatch a lunch. People of common sense know that he means just what he says. He has too much honor to make a single take statement.

It is needless for us to state the success he has already achieved in the sale of his old standard remedy, the ANNI-HILATOR, universally patronized for Catarrh and Colds in the head, which is to-day the only leading and reliable remedy for that loathsome yet universal complaint. Still more, he now puts up the ANNIHILATOR in pints instead of heaf of pints, and makes it one quarter stronger and more efficient. He has cured, by the use of this invaluable medicine, not only thousands of almost hopeless cases of Catarrh, but hundreds of weak neves. Many a man whose hands trembled to such a degree that it was impossible to read a newspaper without laying it on a desk, and who could scarcely write their name once a week, find immediate benefit. Plut bottles hold three of the 50-cent holies, and he selfs fifty pint bottles to one of the smaller size. Thousands suffer who would be wholly restored from the disgusting disease, Catarrhi, which leads directly to lung complaints, dyspeptal, week naves, pain in the side and stomach, and liver complaint. Doctors in general do not understand Catarrh, and liver complaint. Doctors in general do not understand tatarth, and two stemachs as minter the stomach and undermines the whole constitution.

Catarrh Snuff will slvays produce Catarrh and aggravate the disease is in the head. You might as well put a plaster on the foot to cure an ulces on the hand. Catarrh is an ulcersation in the head and a running screet the matter isle in the threat and cleas is a simple runs down to the stomach and undermines the whole constitution.

Catarrh Snuff will slvays produce Catarrh and aggravate the disease, a s th. Buy none of the Doctov's remedies unless in pure white wrappers.
CUT THIS OUT, post it up, and hever forget there is one
