Special Despatch to The Roening Teleoroph. General Stupord

WASHINGTON, April 28.-Washington has never been more destitute of excitement than now. The hotels are deserted, the departments are without interest, and a season of general duilness in public affairs may be expected. Mere routine business is being transacted, nothing else.

Secretary Boutwell is expected to return from New York on Friday, and Postmaster-General Creswell returns from Baltim at the same time.

The French Legation. M. Berthemy, the French Minister, has turned over the affairs of the French Legation here into the hands of Coult Faverney. The former expects to sall for Europe from New York on Saturday next,

Baron Gerolt. The Prussian Minister will also sail for Europe, on a three-months' leave of absence. Despatch to the Associated Press.

Orders by the War Department.

Orders by the War Department. The following was issued to-day :--GENERAL ORDERS NO. 46. - HEADQUARTERS ARMY, A. G. O., WASHINGTON, April 26, 1568. -By direction of the War Department, the recruiting service is hereby resumed. The regimental recruiting will be conducted under direction of the several regi-mental commanders, according to the general regu-lations of 1863 (paragraphs 985, 986, 987, and 988). The general service will be conducted under four general snperintendents, viz.: at New York City, Cincinnati, Ohio; St. Louis, Mo.; and San Francisco. Cal.; and there will be four depots for collecting and instructing the recruits, viz.: Governor's Island, New York harbor; Newport Barracks, New York; Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; and Benica, California. The General Superintendent of these will report di-rect to the Adjutant-General of the army, and re-ceive all orders from him. The Case of John Russell Young. Editorial from the N. Y. Sun of to-day.

We had the honor, last evening, of receiving official information that Mr. John Russell Young, managing editor of the Tribune, and chief proprietor of the Morning Post and Star of Philadelphia, has seen fit to commence a libel suit against us. The alloged libel excitate in the morning that the second QUEBEC, April 28 .- The Grand Jury have found a true bill against Chaloner for the murder of Ensign Whittaker. The trial is fixed for eged libel consists in the explanatory comments, of sundry letters of Mr. Young's furnished for that purpose by those who can best certify to their authenticity. In these docu-

MANDRARE PILLS

WILL CURE

LIVER COMPLAINT.

AND DYSPEPSIA.

If taken according to the directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver, and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his

UNRIVALLED SUCCESS

In [the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe, a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest, and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach. and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and food will make good blood.

SCHENCK'S

MANDRAKE PILLS

Act upon the liver, removing all obstructions; relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretion of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills

Liver Complaint is one of the most Prominent Causes of Consumption.

SEAWEED TONIC

Is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring the stomach.

THE GREAT REASON.

Why physicians do not cure Consumption is they try to do too much; they give medicines to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop nigh sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies. Dr. SCHENCK, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills, or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy. If a person has consumption, of course the lungs are in some way diseased-either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleural adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. SCHENCK'S three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

BUTLER. Be Thinks Abbett "Had Better Let Sprague In an interview between a correspondent and General Butler, in Washington, the conversa-tions turned to the "late onpleasantness" between Byrague and Abbott. Said Butler:--Abott had better let Sprague alone. If he supposes Sprague is a coward, he will find him-self very much mistaken. Sprague has plenty of pluck. In fact, you know, it was Sprague's pluck that cansed his quarrel with Burnside. Byrague wanted him to make an attack on the enemy, which Burnside refused, and it was that will fight. There is no doubt about that. And he knows what he is about, too.

he knows what he is about, too. Correspondent—Then you are not one of those who believe he is crazy? Butler-Crazy! Bless you, no. He knows very well what he is about. He wants to orga-nize a new party and place himself at the head of the workingmen of the country. That's what he is after. He is earnest, too, in what he says and believes it all. All reformers have been set down as crazy, and Sprague cannot expect to escape that charge any more than those who have gone before him.

Correspondent-Well, but don't you think some of his speeches are curiously put together? Butler-Oh, of course they are. Sprague is not a speaker. He hasn't been accustomed to making speeches, and it would bother almost any man at first to get up in the Senate of the United States to make speeches. He experiences the natural embarrassments of all novices on such occasions. That is the explanation, I take it.

Hoping to draw him out on Grant, I said something about the havoc the cares of office had already made with the mens et corpus of the little President.

Butler-Grant has made just this mistake-he supposed that one man could run this Govern-ment. He started with the notion that he could ret along without advising with any one. Like all men who have had that notion before, he finds that it cannot be done, and the consequence will be that he will fall into the hands of somebody who will run the Government for him. This was about as much as I could get out of him on the Grant question, and therefore I proceeded to another matter.

ceeded to another matter. Correspondent—What are your views, Gene-ral, of the present position of the Alabama claims? This question seemed to please him better than any that I had asked before. Lay-ing back in his chair, and running his hand over his bald head and massive brow in rapid mecosion he approach. succession, he answered:-

"The question pending between this country and Great Britain known as the Alabama claims, but which involves in fact the conduct of the English Government during the Rebellion, does not seem to me to be in a very satisfactory condition for settlement."

SUE MUNDY.

An Eventful History-The Career of a Noted Female Guerilla.

From the Detroit Post. Nearly every pleasant day pedestrians on our principal avenues pass a dark-eyed brunette, of medium size, a plump figure, and richly dressed. In the early spring of 1861 Sue Kliteradge, a lovely girl, just returned from boarding-school, lived upon her father's plantation in one of the rural districts of Kentucky, that hung in a balance, uncertain whether to risk her fate with the new "Confederacy," or hang back. Sue was seventeen, a frequent visitor at the adjoining plantation of Mr. Mundy, an old gentleman whose wife and son, a young man, composed a happy family. One day a company of Union cavalry rode down upon the place, plundered the premises, carried off the valuables, burned the residence, and finally slaughtered the parents, who were defending their own fireside, laying waste the defending their own fireside, laying waste the country in their track, and leaving young Mundy and Sue orphans indeed. Young Mundy was at last aroused, and while being carried off a pri-soner no word escaped his lips but "Sue." When asked his name, he replied "Sue," probably the effects of a disordered brain. His linen being examined, the indelible name of "Mundy" was found and are a state he are buown as "figure found, and ever after he was known as "Sne Mundy," the constant terror of Union citizens and soldiers in that section.

released on parole, he immediately such is my respect for him and his abilities that I would be happy at any time to give him any belp if he required it. Mr. John D. Stockton, a friend, for whom I have a great regard, did twice or three times during the past six months borrow from three hun-dred to one thousand dollars of me, but has always remedit a remediate size and the size and be has not promitily repaid it within a few days, and he has not owed me for a long time. He always borrowed on his own account, and not on account of any other. This I would not now mention, but he states so himself in his paper to-day, and the article in the Sun asserts that I had been deeced by Mr. Young for the Morning Post.

I will conclude by saying that my loans were those of friendship; and I was then too glad, as I will again be too glad, thus to help a worthy, upright young gentleman in the honest pursuit of an honest living.

I am respectfully, BENJAMIN H. BREWSTER.

On account of the owner's removal to another city.

This property consists of S acres of land at the corner of Oak lane and Jenkintown road, 71/2 miles from the city of Philadelphia; 11/2 miles from Oak Lane Station, on the North Pennsylvania Railroad. (In Cheltenham township, Montgomery county, just beyond the city line.) It is one of the most elegant Country Seats near Philadelphia, midway between the York and Second Street Turnpikes, on a country road known to be remarkably good both in summer and winter. All who are familiar with Chelten Hills and Cheltenham know that the scenery of this section is unsurpassed in this country. and that the most beautiful residences of our bankers, merchants, and lawyers are located in the immediate vicinity. The society and surroundings excellent, location very healthy, splendid views of hill and vale, wood and water (a pleasant lake being within one hundred rods, affording boating in summer and skating in winter). This property is convenient to churches, post office, schools, stores, etc. The improvements consist of a modern pointed stone mansion, built and finished throughout in the most substantial and elegant manner, with five porches surrounding ; ceilings 12 feet high, good cellars, with cemented floors; hall 10 feet wide, with fine staircase. There are 18 rooms, divided as follows, viz. :- Parlor, sitting, dining, breakfast rooms, pantries and kitchen on the first floor; 5 spacious chambers, library, store-room, bath-room, and watercloset on the second floor; servants' rooms and large elegantly-decorated billiard room on the third floor, with number of closets throughout. The ranges and heating apparatus, most complete, put in by first-class city builders. The water cannot be excelled in quality, and the supply is unlimited, while the arrangements for its distribution in the house are perfect. Hydrant in the cellar, hot and cold water on the first and second floors, and full supply for all demands guaranteed by an admirable engine in an outbuilding, which supplies the enormous tank In the top of the house. There is an out wash-house, with good range; ice-house, filled with excellent ice from the lake; two fine out water-closets, and all these adjacent buildings surrounded by a good brick pavement. returned and interred the charred remains of his own parents, as well as the body of Mr. K. Taking a solemn and fearful oath of vengeance, and accompanied by Sue, who was now without home or friends in this wide world, he started for a neighboring camp of bushwhackers or guerillas, where he was received with open arms, and was soon promoted to the office of commander of the force, while Sue, disguised and passing by the name of "Kit" -- an abbreviation of Kiteradge-proved invaluable as a spy, a fearless rider, and of undoubted bravery. Kit, after serving nearly two years as spy and general planner for the band, found her health failing. Disguised, and armed with the highest testimonials, she succeeded in securing a position on the staff of General Cleburne, the hardest fighting Irishmen in the Rebel army. This position she held, doing her duty like a man, until the battle of Atlanta, July 12, 1864, in which Pat. Cleburne was killed. Returning to her youthful hero and his band, she again revelled in the carnival of blood, and though her evil spirit was willing, the flesh was weak, and Kit was again transferred to duty at Andersonville. Prisoners who have shared the hospitality of that celebrated camp will perhaps remember a short, stout, and muscular lleutenant, with flashing black eyes, a face smooth as a maiden's and cruel as though a fiend incarnate lurked within. This was Sue Kiteradge, the amiable young boarding-school miss, the cheerful companion, the once wealthy heiress, the beautiful maiden and firm heiress, the beautiful malden and hrm friend of young Mundy, whose life to her was dearer than her own. Sue Mundy and a part of his band were captured and tried by court-martial. Kit was present during the whole trial, and used her greatest influence, but of no avail. Sue Mundy was convicted and hung at Louis-sulla Way in March 1895. The flowing hair ville, Ky., in March, 1865. The flowing hair hung about his shoulders, and when his youthful corpse was taken down and laid in his narrow bed, the bleeding and broken heart of Sue Kiteradge was buried with it; and now, a wanderer on the face of the earth, homeless and friendless, she lives without hope of heaven or mercy, forsaken and dishonored, and cast away, best certify to their authenticity. In these docu-ments the principles and methods adopted by their writer in the management of his three papers are unreservedly set forth. He fancies he has suffered $100,000 damages. We presume that when he gets it be will be happier than he is at present. The reasons for exposing these transactions of Mr. Young appear to be very clear and very conclu-sive. He has for some years occupied a leading place in the control of one of the most important and influential journals of the country. That jour-nal owes the position which it holds in the public nal owes the position which it holds in the publi-esteem to the honesty and conscientiousness with which it has been conducted. Its chief editor and it which it has been contained in the term and the principal proprietors are upright nen, aboutinating duplicity, and saying frankly what they think and what they mean. But in selecting Mr. Young for his responsible office they have put themselves into the hands of one who is, according to the evidence of his own letters, an unscrupulous intriguer, who has need his great power to obtain money for strucof his own letters, an unscrapulous intriguer, who has used his great power to obtain money for strug-gling papers in Philadelphia from timid politicitans, promising them in return the support of the Tribune, and who has dishonorably conveyed the news of the Associated Press from the Tribune office to his Philadelphia partners. In this case he has not broken any statute hav; he has promised nothing more than he was able to perform; he is not guility of any offense of which the criminal code takes cognizance. The only methcd of reaching, checking, and punishing his wrong-doing is to bring it to the bar of public ophilon; to expose it; to hold it up as it is. His des ds have been committed under the cover of the respectability and good influence of the press, and it was for the press to take action against them. This was for the press to take action against them. Th is what we have done, and, under similar circun stances, we should not fail to do it again. In makin the exposure, it seemed necessary to introduce de tails not immediately connected with the main points, but which were useful to corroborate them penns, but which were useful to corrobotate taken and shed light upon their nature. It is a mistake, we think, to assert, with the Ecen-ing Post, that such an exposure as this inflicts a per-manent stain upon the reputation of the press in general. The standing of newspapers depends upor the ability, independence, and honesty of their con ductors; and that standing cannot be seriously com-mended by the discovery that an unworthy person ductors; and that standing cannot be seriously com-promised by the discovery that an unworthy person, wearing a semblance that does not belong to him, has wormed himself into the management of one of the great journals. The Post would still enjoy that degree of confidense which such men as Mr. Bryant, Mr. Godwin, and Mr. Nordhoff have gained for it, even if some other person connected with it should prove guilty of pros-tituting its influence to base ends of his own. In the same manner, the Tribune will retain the high posisame manner, the Tribuns will retain the high posi-tion due to the talents, learning, and integrity of Mr. Greeley, Mr. Ripley, Mr. Smalley, and their honora-ble though less conspicuous associates, notwithstand-ing the exposure of Mr. Young's dishonesity and in-trigue. There is nothing so good and wholesome as truth, and no better cure has been discovered for any moral malady than to bring it into the light.

-Miss Ellen Bostian, of Sunbury, Pa., adver-tises herself a candidate for School Superintendent of Northumberland county.

-Rev. J. H. Noyes regards planchette as the Devil's final substitute for the pocket gods of the heathen.

-Mr. Menard, the colored Congressman, promises a portrait of himself to every subscriber of his paper.
