A discussion took place in reference to the wages no v received by journeymen carpenters. William Waliace contended that journeymen carpenters had a right to protect their interests by demanding such wages as would afford them a comfortable living, and raise them above the possibility of pauperism. He suggested that $250 or $250 should be fixed as the proper price for a day's labor. Other remarks were made, when a resolution was adopted fixing the wages at $250 per day from this date. After some further business, of no public interest, the meeting adjourned until this evening.

The key to the safe n which we kept our securities was locked inside of our fire-proof book safe, the doors of which were literally cut to pieces; from this they obtained the key to the other safe and opened it. Fortunately we had one of your Bargiar-Proof Banker's Chests inside, in which our valuables were deposited. This they went to work at with a will, and evidently used up all their time and tools in vain attempts to force it. The night was dark and stormy, and the fact of their knowing where our key was kept shows that their plans were well matured. They tried wedging the door and body or the Chest, an the faithful safe bears evidence of the labor and skill devoted to the work. All was useless, and it is with great satisfaction we report that upon opening it we found our securities all safe, and can therefore cheerfully indorse the Burglar-Proof work recommended

You will please send the new safe purchased by us to our counting-house, and take the old one, to show that some safes are still manufactured worthy of the DAVID DOWS & CO.
