THE WHIPPING-POST.

An Assault on our New Castle Correspondent, and a Rejoinder, We have received from a person residing in Wilmington, Del., the following communication in reference to the recent letter of our New Castle correspondent describing the public flogging which transpired in that town on Friday To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph.

Your correspondent "WASHTENAW," in depicting the barbarities of the whipping-post at New Castle (which, by-the-way, there are very many persons in Delaware who earnestly deplore), is guilty of a breach of gentility and likewise of truth when he attacks a Christian minister and his congregation (neither of whom need extenuation at my hands) in the following language, which appears in your paper

"If the Rev. Aifred Cookman, formerly of Philadelphia, but now stationed at Grace Church, Wilmington, one of the most magnificent editices of the kind in the country, were to rise in his elegant pulpit and half whisper an intimation that he regarded the whipping-post as alightly out of its proper place in the midst of a people professing to have surrendered themselves to the christianizing and refining influences of the gospel, the chances are that he would, in turn, receive very loud intimations from the occupants of the luxurious front pews that he had seriously impaired his prospects of usefulness in that particular field of labor."

Now, sir, such scurridous innuendo, cast at a man whose voice is ever, in the pulpit and out of it, raised in fearless denunciation of cruelty, wrong, and injustice of every shade, and against a congregation nine-tenths of whom stand with him shoulder to shoulder in his advanced ideas of liberty and progress, is a shame to the man who wrote it, and it is charity to him to suppose him utterly ignorant of the people upon whom he comments so unjustly, getting his text, perhaps, from some of the very, very few in this community, whom "lean-visaged envy" prompts to such uncharitable and unjust in-

Wilmington, Del., May 18, 1869.

In answer to the above mild-tempered attack upon our correspondent, we present his own response, as follows:-

By a very dexterous use of the scissors the "truthful" gentleman who is a member of Grace Church has contrived to select a passage from my letter of last Saturday, which, taken by itself, may be contorted into a reflection upon the Rev. Alfred Cookman. Nothing was further from my intention in writing the sentence quoted by "Truth;" and when the whole paragraph is read consecutively, nobody but a model Delaware Christian could so contort it as to cause any reflection upon Mr. Cookman, whom I know, from frequent attendance upon his pulpit ministrations in this city, to be "a man whose voice is ever, in the pulpit and out of it, raised in fearless denunciation of cruelty, wrong, and injustice of every Yet I was informed, on authority which I chose to regard as reliable, and still so regard, that Mr. Cookman has not yet had a word to say about the Delaware system of justice. I do not and cannot believe that he has become an advocate or apologist of the pillory and the lash, and do not regard his silence in the pulpit as proof of it. But I am assured that a very large proportion of Mr. Cookman's congregation are flery advocates of the instruments of torture, and "Truth" himself confesses that one-tenth of the congregation are a little lukewarm when they are summoned to stand shoulder to shoulder with their pastor "in his advanced ideas of liberty and progress." One-tenth of a congregation, even in such an elegant structure as that in which the Grace Church people worship, could create a great deal of "unpleasantness," in case they had occasion to listen to the promulgation of views upon the subject of "wolloping niggers and mean white people not entirely in harmony with their own. Two and two, when put together in the usual way, generally make four, and the people of Grace Church are to be themselves the judges of what sort of doctrines they will listen to, and what sort of doctrines they will not listen to. The case of Grace Church was cited by me merely to illustrate the point which I made in my New Castle letter, and which no man who subscribes himself "Truth" can gainsay, even by the freest use of such words as "scurrility," "breach of gentility and truth," and "shame," that it is not only respectable and Christian to advocate the whipping-post and the pillory in Delaware, but intensely respectable and Christian to do so. Moreover, when a newspaper correspondent drops down upon Delaware from Philadelphia or New York, and touches up the beastly scenes enacted every six months in the jail-yard at New Castle, in colors approaching the truth, he meets with a reception at the hands of the venerable antediluvian Christians of that locality which is quite the reverse of hospitable. Prima facie he is a "lying carpet-bagger," and a prima facie case is generally satisfactory to a Delaware jury, who do not care to trouble themselves about details of evidence, especially when these details might operate against their prejudices, and place their devotions at the shrine of St. Pillory in a rather unenviable light.

In conclusion, I will commend to the attention of "Truth" the following extract from a recent number of the New York Methodist;-

"Whipping is an economical punishment, inasmuch as it saves the expense of a decent jail. And so the negroman or wench who steals a ham or robs a hen-roost must be lacerated with the sheriff's 'cat-o-inne-tails.' We have ourselves seen a white man sentenced in Delaware for larceny to imprisonment and thirty-nine lashes. And yet the judge was a gentleman and a Christian, and seemed un conscious of the barbarity of the law which he administered. Yes, rebuild the pillory! but the culprit who will stand there first, last, and always a spectacle to the country, will be—Delaware."

The Methodist is an orthodox sheet in Mathon.

The Methodist is an orthodox sheet in Methodist eyes, and yet regards the pillory as a fit subject for the denunciation of the Church.

Still Another Complaint and Response. A gentleman residing in New Castle writes us a note stating that our correspondent, in describing the antics of Mr. Dobbs at the time of the entertainment in the New Castle jail yard, "has done an old and respectable citizen of our town (New Castle) gross injustice, in the false use of his name, by applying it to the unseemly conduct of an individual in the yard," the person whose name was thus misused being at the time confined to his house by a severe illness. The writer of the communication thinks that our correspondent "was evidently imposed upon by some village liar"-people reared under the shadow of the pillory, it seems, will prevaricate occasionally. There was no such prevarication in this case, however, as our correspondent was not aware that there was a person by the name of Dobbs residing in New Castle, and applied that name to the exuberant individual merely in a generic way, suppressing his real name out of consideration for the two little boys whom he had in "training." MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

"Faust" by the Richings Troupe. Gounod's opera of Faust was performed last evening for the benefit of Mr. J. F. Zimmerman, the treasurer of the Richings troupe. The very unpleasant weather had the effect of keeping the operagoers at home, and there was consequently not so large an attendance as there should have been. The opera was very creditably rendered throughout, and Miss Edith Abell, who appeared as "Marguerite" for the first time, achieved a decided success. This young lady has improved wonderfully during the eighteen months that she has been upon the stage, and both in her acting and singing she appears to have a just appreciation of the requirements of the lyric drama. Her personation of "Marguerite," although a little crude in some respects, was very good indeed. She acted with much force and expression, and sang remarkably well. With practice and study Miss Abell will be able to make a decided impression in this role. Mrs. Seguin is one of the best "Siebels" on the stage, and Messrs. Campbell and Castle sustained the parts of "Mephistopheles" and "Faust" with good effect.
