THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH-PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, MAY 31, 1869.

The second annual return of Decoration Day was celebrated yesterday in the various cemeteries and burial grounds in and around the city of Philadelphia. The exercises at each place were of a grand and imposing character, and were witnessed by thousands of people who had assembled to participate in the honors which were being done to the heroic dead.

Nearly one hundred members of Post 161 discharged the duty of decorating the graves in Mount Moriah and the Woodlands, and thousands of people were present, the majority of whom waited at Woodlands until the Post had returned from Mount Moriah. At the latter cemetery about five hundred graves, all within one enclosure, were beautifully decorated, and an impressive address was made by Dr. J. T. Walton. The Post was accompanied by three large wagons filled with flowers, and displayed a number of handsome silk flags. It compris a fine body of men, who thoroughly performed the solemn office they had undertaken.

Post No. 8, G. A. R., decorated the graves of 800 soldiers buried in Glenwood Cemetery. The post was in charge of the commander, W. A. Allison; adjutant, David Ginther. The ceremonies were opened with prayer by Rev. James Neill. A quartette choir kindly volunteered for the occasion and sang the opening, closing, and decoration hymns, all written for Decoration About one hundred soldiers' orphans from Northern Home, under charge of A. Spangler, Esq., sang a hymn appropriate to the occasion. A flag was then placed on each grave by young ladies, under the superintendence of Dr. McNiehol. The orphan children then placed a bonquet of flowers upon each grave.
Odd Fellows' and Mechanics' Cemeteries contain the bodies of about 360 of the heroic dead, of which 278 are located in Odd Fellows'. The duty of decorating these two cemeteries was assigned to Posts 2 and 161. The former met at the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic, on Chesnut street, above Eighth, and having formed, marched, under the command of General Robert L. Bodine, to Broad and Race streets. where they joined Post 2, under the command of Colonel George P. McLean. These two bodies, with an escort composed of Company A, Baxter's Fire Zouaves, Captain J. W. Ryan, and a delegation of the Gray Reserves, Capt. Malone, then proceeded to the Mechanics Cemetery, after which they marched into Odd Fellows'.

Post 19 performed the decorating ceremonies at Laurel Hill, Mount Vernon, and Mount Peace Cemeteries yesterday afternoon. They assembled at Grand Army Hall, No. 809 Chesnut street, at 1:30 P. M., and proceeded out Ridge avenue to Laurel Hill. The companies of the Post participating were:—No. 1. Captain Wor-rall; 2, Captain Robinson; 3, Captain McCarty; 4. Captain Waterhouse; 5, Captain Stroud. Post was under the command of Major A. R. Calhoun, Company B, Baxter's Fire Zouaves, and A, B, and K, of Fritz Zouaves, acted as a guard of honor. The turnout was excellent. Post 19 numbering upwards of two hundred, and the Zonaves fully one hundred and fifty. Post No. 71, West Funk commandant, left their headquarters, No. 329 Washington avenue. at one o'clock, and visited Ebenezer, Gloria Dei. Union, and Lafayette Cemeteries, and Wharton street burial ground. Company I, Fritz Zonaves, under the command of Captain Mason, acted as a guard of honor, and were accompanied by eck's Brass Band. The colors with the Zouaves belonged to Colonel Coilis' regiment. Ensign B. J. Bailey, who had carried this flag through the entire war, very appropriately was the standard-bearer on this occasion.

Post No. 5, to which had been assigned the decoration of the graves in the New Philadel-phia, Philanthropic, Machpelah, Mutual, phia, Philanthropic, Machpelah, Mutmal, Bishop's, St. Paul's, and Ronaidson's Cemeteries, assembled at headquarters, in Kater Hall, on South street, near Fifteenth. There were about forty members present. They wore citizens' dress, white gloves, and blue silk badge the name and number of the Post inscribed thereon.

At Germantown, Post No. 6 of the Grand Army of the Republic formed into line, and, under command of Captain James Byram, proceeded to the several cemeteries in the following order: Fisher's Lane, St. Stephen's M. E. Church, Trinity Lutheran Church, St. Luke's P. E. Church, Market Square Presbyterian Church, Zion Evangelical Church, Rittenhouse street; First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Knox's; Haines Street M. E. Church, Mennonite, Main and Herman streets; German Baptist Church, Franklinville; St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Franklinville. The extended programme of Post No. 6 prevented them from visiting burial grounds beyond Germantown, and in order that the graves of the soldier dead at Chesnut Hill should receive the same recognition as elsewhere in the city, the citizens resolved on a celebration of their own.

The patriotic men, women and children of Branchtown, in connection with their neighbors of Milestown, in the Twenty-second ward, joined together in decorating the graves of the sleeping defenders in and adjacent to those

THE COLORED SOLDIERS.

Celebrationat Lebanon Cemetery.

Yesterday Post 27, G. A. R., and the Colored Women's Lincoln Association, performed the decoration services at Lebanon Cemetery, which contains quite a number of the bodies of colored soldiers. Prior to the interesting ceremony J. C. Bowers pronounced the following oration:-Soldiers and Fellow-citizens:-Another year has passed, never to return, since we last assembled to strew with flowers the graves of our departed heroes, to pay a tribute of respect to their memory, and shed the sympathizing tear over the remains of those patriots who, at their country's call, in her hour of danger and great peril lorgetting all the oppression and injustice that our people had experienced in these United States for more than two hundred years, at the blast of the trumpet, forsook wife, children, parents, pet, forsook wife, children, parents, relatives, friends, and business pursuits, and enlisted under that glorious old flag which then represented a nation holding four and a half millions of men in chains, at the same time denominating this as the Hand of the free and the home of the brave;" but to-day, thank God! by whose inscrutable providence and the bravery of the Union army, black and white, the black flag of slavery has been stricken down and trampled under foot, and that beautiful emblem waves its folds triumphantly over a nation of freemen, with not a single slave treading the soil of this vast republic.

The result of the four years struggle demonstrated the wisdom of the Great Creator in overthrowing the machinations of man. The war was inaugurated for the extension of human slavery to render it national instead of sectional The Government and people, North, South, East, and West (except a minority of radical Republi-cans and Abolitionists), had no intention to interfere with the system; but so great were the losses and ill-success of the Union army, attributable to their not striking at the root of the Rebellion (slavery), that they finally determined it must be wiped out, or they would be forced to surrender to the Confederacy.

That determination was consummated, the Confederates were routed, horse, foot, and dragoons," and to-day we live in the freest tountry on the face of the globe—a country where all men are born free and equal, and will very soon enjoy life, liberty (civil and political), and the purents of happiness throughout the and the pursuit of happiness throughout the

When the Government found it necessary, for when the dovernment today it necessary, for self-preservation, to call upon the colored men of the nation (who at the outbreak of the war volunteered their services, but were indignantly rejected) to assist it, there was a tremendous exeitement among both soldiers and citizens; they exclaimed it was a white man's war, and "nig-exclaimed it was a white man's were cowards, gers" were not wanted. They were cowards, from the enemy; and many other idle tales were 1

circulated They had forgotten, and perhaps many of them had never heard of, the black heroes of the Revolution, that the very first blood shed was Crispus Attucks', a black man. They had forgotten Major Jeffry, also a black man, who during the campaign of Major-General Andrew Jackson, in Mobile, filled the position of "regular" among the soldiers.

In the charge made by General Stump against the enemy, the Americans were repulsed and thrown into disorder, Major Stump being forced to retire in a manner by no means desirable under the circumstances. Major Jeffry, then but a com-mon soldier, seeing the condition of his comrades, and comprehending the disastrous results about to befall them, rushed forward, mounted a horse, took command of the troops, and by an heroie effort rallied them to the charge, pletely routing the enemy, who left the Americans masters of the field. He at once received from the General the title of "Major," though he could not, according to the American policy, so commission him.

Governor Eustis, of Rhode Island, in his able speech against slavery, in Missouri, December 12, 1820, gives the following testimony:—"The blacks formed an entire regiment, and discharged their duty with zeal and fidelity. The gallant defense of Red Bank, in which they bore a part, is among the proofs of their valor." In this contest, it will be remembered that four hundred men met and repulsed, after a terrible and sanguinary struggle, fifteen hundred Hessians, led by Count Donop. The glory of the defense of Red Bank, which has been pronounced one of the most heroic actions of the war belongs, in reality to black men.
"In the attack made upon the American lines near Croton river, on the 13th of May, 1781, Colonel Greene, the commander of the regiment, was cut down and mortally wounded, but the sabres of the enemy only reached him through the bodies of his faithful guard of blacks, who hovered near him to protect him, and every one n was killed

Dr. Harris, a Revolutionary veteran, in an address delivered in 1842, before the Congregational and Presbyterian Anti-Slavery Society, held at Francestown, N. H., said:—'I fought, my hearers, for that liberty you enjoy." Then liberty meant something. 'I served in the liberty meant something. 'I served in the Revolution, in General Washington's army, three years under one enlistment. When stationed in Rhode Island, the regiment to which I belonged was once ordered to a flanking position. This pass was everything, both to us and to the enemy: it was a post of imminent danger. They attacked us with great fury, but were repulsed. They were reinforced and again attacked us with more vigor and determination, and again were repaised. Again they reinforced, and attacked us the third time with the most desperate courage and resolution, but a third time were repulsed. The contest was fearful, Our position was hotly disputed and as hotly maintained.

"One of my objects," said Dr. Harris, "in stating these facts, is this: there was a black regiment in the same situation, yes, a regiment of negroes, fighting for liberty and independence; not a white man among them but the officers, stationed in this dangerous and responsible position. Had they been unfaithful or given away before the enemy, all would have been lost. Three times in succession were they attacked with most desperate valor and fury, by well-disciplined and veteran troops, and three times did they successfully repel the assault. and thus preserve our army from capture. They foughtthrough the war, were brave, hardy troops and helped to gain our liberty and indepen-

General Jackson gave his testimony in regard to the soldierly qualities and courage of the black troops at New Orleans in 1814. I think it has been fully proved that in, all the great con-flicts in these United States, the colored men have displayed as great conrage, loyalty, and patriotism as any other class of her citizens. We are all aware of the deep hatred existing towards colored troops in the late Rebellion by the white people. In this and other States the Governors issued proclamations forbidding their transit over their territory, and compelled them to reach the seat of war by steamers or sailing vessels, to avoid being mobbed, as was the case in this city on several occasions, one being a sergeant-major in a South Carolina regiment. who escaped by reaching and finding shelter in the house of a colored citizen, followed by a band of desperadoes.

Fellow-citizens:—It would be superfluous for me to recount to you the daring deeds which characterized our departed brethreu on many a hard-fought battle-field. No danger, not death itself, deterred them, but amid the roaring of the cannon, the bursting of the shell, and the sharp crack of the rifle, dealing blood and carnage entting down thousand and tens of thousands of their comrades, they continued to rally unde and bear aloft that flag which they so dearly loved, and pressed forward, as was attested by their immortal deeds at Port Hudson, Olustes Fort Wagner, Petersburg, Charleston, Richmond, and other places too numerous to men tion, and aided greatly in compelling the Confederate army to surrender to the great hero of the age, the illustrious General U. S. Grant (the black man's friend, the man of few words but great deeds), at Appointtox Court House, Vir-

In bringing my remarks to a close, for I will not weary your patience, permit me to say those men did not die in valn, but gave liberty, citizenship, and participation in the Government (both State and National) to you, and to me, and to our people throughout the whole country. We can boast of our Senators and Representatives, our Lieutenant-Governors, our ministers and consul-generals to foreign nations, and ere long, no doubt, "our Senators and Representatives in Congress assembled." We can truly exclaim. 'The world moves.'

In conclusion, my friends, you are aware that we have convened here to-day under the auspices of Post No. 27 of the Grand Army of the public, aided by the ladies of the Colored Women's Lincoln Association, by whose polite invitation I stand here to address you on this occasion-an association that took great interest, during and since the war, in the welfare of the sick and wounded soldiers, and alleviated, as far as they were able, their wants and sufferings; and now that their bodies have been consigned to the deep clods of the valley, they feel they still have a work to do.

Consequently, we are here this afternoon to again decorate with garlands the graves of those of our brethren who laid down their lives on the alter of their country, and whose names should, and no doubt will, be indelibly impressed upon the hearts of our people from generation to

Let us teach our children to go and do likewise, and continue the good example set them by their fathers and mothers. It is right and roper that we should meet together at stated eriods, to strew with the beautiful flowers of the field the graves of those now sleeping their last sleep until the final resurrection, and let our children dedicate the thirtieth day of May in every year to commemorate the memory those heroes who sacrificed their lives in defense of their country.

"Farewell, gallant soldier! you have fought your last battle, And gene to your rest in the heavens above, Where the roaring of cannon and musketry's rattle No er is heard in those regions, but where all is love,"

Ladies of the association, you have accomplished noble deeds worthy of all imitation, but press forward in your glorious enterprise, and patience and perseverance the great object of your organization, the rearing of a monument to the memory of the departed, will be accomplished, and not only the present, but generations yet unborn will point with pride and pleasure to the marble shaft pointing heavenward, and rise up and call you blessed.

The Ceremonies in Camden. Post No. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, under the command of Mr. Charles Cotting, visited Newtown and Evergreen Cemeteries yesterday, for the purpose of decorating the graves of the fallen heroes of Camden and vicinity. At Ever-green the friends and relatives of Colonel William B. Hatch, of the 4th New Jersey, who was killed at the battle of Fredericksburg in 1862, had tastefully decorated his monument and grave with ensigns and flowers before the arrival of the processioe.

The Post numbered about seventy-five men, followed by a floral car, and wagon filled with little girls. The orations were delivered by Colonel Harbert and Rev. L. Davies.

Foreign Affairs.

LIVERPOOL, May 30 .- J. L. Motley, United States Minister, arrived here to-day, and was received by the Mayor of the city and the American Consul at this port. The Liverpool Chamher of Commerce will present him an address to-morrow.

Paris, May 29.-Ministers Burlingame and Washburne gave a farewell banquet to General Dix at the Grand Hotel to-day. Over two hundred and fifty guests were present. General Dix dines with the Emperor at the Tuileries on Thursday Jules Favre has been declared not elected, but vill contest the election of his opponent. The official journal denies the rumors that the French troops are to evacuate Rome.

Madrid, May 29 .- The appointment of Caballero de Rosa as Captain-General of Cuba is gazetted. It is rumored that a new Provisional Ministry will be formed, to remain in office until October next, when a plebiscitum is to be taken to decide the question of sovereignty. Several officers have been arrested at Tortosa, charged with conspiring for the restoration of the ex-Oneen Isabella.

MADRID, May 30.—General Caballero de Rosa ails on June 15 for Havana. Lisbon, May 29.—Reports from the war in Paraguay are conflicting, as usual, although it was represented in Rio Janeiro that the allied forces were about to make an immediate attack. It is said, on the other hand, that the allies have no reliable information as to the whereabouts of Lopez. Also that nothing has been heard of General McMahon, the American Minister.

HAVANA, May 27, via Key West, May 29 .-The steamer Salvador successfullly landed her men and munitions at the port of Nuevas Grandes, north coast. A British war steamer and two Spanish cruisers falled to eatch the Salvador. A Spanish force landed soon after, out the filibusters were already on their march The expedition which landed in the Bay of Nipe comprised a large steamer (name not given) and the steamship Perit, from New York. Immediately upon landing, the fillbusters threw up intrenchments and mounted eight guns, sweeping the bay. On the 16th instant, the Spanish war steamer Marsella entered the Bay of Nipe and was received with a sharp fire from the artillery. Two shots took effect in her hull, compelling her to withdraw. She then went to Manati, and in company with the Spanish gunboat Africa, returned. After several shots had been exchanged between the steamers and the shore batteries several hundreds of Spaniards were landed, and, making a detour to the rear, took possession of the guns which the filibusters had | been compelled to abandon. The insurgents had only retired for the purpose of reforming. That done, they returned in force, made a brilliant charge with the bayonet, retook all the guns, and compelled the Spaniards to retreat in disorder, with a loss of forty-five killed and one hundred wounded

On the 16th instant a severe engagement took place four miles from Puerto Padre. The insurgents attacked a force of 1000 Spaniards convey ing provisions to Tunas. The battle took place along the margin of the river, and lasted several hours, and every attempt of the Spaniards to cross was repulsed with severe loss. They were shot down in the river, actually dyeing the water with their blood. Finally, the Spanlards were driven back with great loss and com-pelled to abandon the design of provisioning Tunas. They acknowledge a loss of thirtyfour killed and one hundred wounded, but the insurgents claim that their loss was much heavier. The Spaniards retreated to Puerto Padre, where they were awaiting reinforcements at last accounts. One thousand men, under General Ferrer, had arrived from Puerto cipe at Nuevitas, and were about to march to reinforce Puerto Padre. Ferrer will command all the Spanish troops there. Puerto Padre small scaport town on the north coast of Cuba between Hibara and Malaqueta Bay. The locality is reported to be swarming with insurgents. The Cubans are jubilant over these successive victories, which have evidently been gained by the patriots, as all the information has been obtained from Spanish sources. Never were the Cubans more sauguine of achieving their independence than at the present day

HAVANA, May 27, via Key West, May 29,— The Government is in great straits for coal, and will probably lay an embargo on all that is in Cuba. Reliable information from revolutionary sources reports that Count Vamaseda's force have been driven out of Bayamo by the insur gents under General Marmol, and that Valmaseda himself has been captured. Two hundred [Spanish troops have died of the cholera. The soldiers are reported shoeless and discontented.
