"LET US HAVE PEACE!"

The Great Jubilee at Boston-The Most Tremendous Noise on Record in Prospect-Preliminaries of the Monster Concerts.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BOSTON, June 12. Boston is in a state of intense excitement; the reparations for the great Peace Jubilee are all but complete; the city is full of strangers, and the cry is "Still they come," and while the managers are felicitating themselves upon the brilliant prospects for the success of their enterprise, all Boston is happy in having the eyes of the world upon it, and in anticipation of the money that the thousands of visitors are expected to expend in the city during the coming The Coliseum.

The Coliscum, as the immense building in which the festival is to be held is called, is rapidly approaching completion, and now all that remains to be done is to put the finishing touches on the decorations. It stands mostly upon St. James' Park, and is 500 feet in length and 300 in width. The principal front is on Boylston street. The building is of wood, out it is put together in the most substantial manner, and it has been ornamented with great good aste, and when filled with people it will present a splendid appearance. The upright walls are 35 feet height, and the middle of the roof is 100 feet from the ground. Galleries extend around the whole of the interior, and the parquette will occupy the space between them, there being no sea's beneath the galleries. The portion of the aulitorium appropriated to the orchestra is 110 feet deep by 115 feet wide, and it is raised two feet and nine inches above the parquette floor. The chorus seats rise from three sides of the orchestra, and in the rear of the chorus will be placed the grand chorus and orchestra. About two-fifths of the which building will be devoted to the chorus and orchestra. Admission to and exit from the building will be facilitated by twelve large doorways, three on each side, so that in case of any alarm the place can be emptied in a comparatively short space of time. The building will be lighted by gas from 2400 burners, which will consume about 14,000 cubic feet per hour. The Rehenraals.

The chorus rehearsals are progressing satisfactorily, the societies from Boston and the neighboring towns having sung together several times with results that promise well for the grand final performance. It was intended to hold a grand rehearsal in the Coliseum on Monday, but this will be impractiticable, as the workmen will be completing the final arrangements. The rehearsals will therefore be held at the Music Hall and Tremont Temple instead. The solo singers hold a general rehearsal at the New England Conservatory this afternoon. On Monday evening the firemen will rehearse the anvil chorus at the Collseum.

In the grand orchestra the larger cities will be represented in about the following proportion:-

New York......400 Cincinnati..... .300 Hartford... Boston 300 Hartford.
Philadelphia 60 St. Louis
Baitimore 30 Albany

various other cities and towns. The following classification has been made;— Violins......230 French Horns..... ouble Basses..... 70 Tubas ... 10 Tympanies (pairs) . . . 4 Harionettes ..... 10 11 Total......498

The grand orchestra for oratories will be augmented in proportion. The combined brass, reed, and stringed instruments will probably aggregate about eleven hundred. The orchestra will doubtless ete ever organized. o the largest and m The Big Drum.

The great bass drum, which was constructed under he direction of the veteran drummer, Nahum J. Saldwin, is eight feet in diameter; the heads being nade from the hides of two mammoth oxen, and apon each end is painted the motto, "Let us mye peace." It is about three feet through from head to head, and the rim is painted ed, white, and blue. Mr. Baldwin prosounces it perfect in all its parts, and the manuctures state that no larger drum can be made uness the hides of elephants are employed for the seads. The fact of the drum having been contructed under the superintendence of Mr. Nahum Baldwin gave rise to a ridicujous report that Baldwin, the Irish giant, had been engaged to

Ditermission—Fifteen Minutes,

The following is the "Hymn of Peace" written for the occasion by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes:-Angel of Peace, thou hast wandered too long. Spread thy white wings to the sunshine of love! Come while our voices are blended in song— Fly to our ark like the storm-beaten dove— Fly to our ark on the wings of the dove—

Speed o'er the far-sounding billows of song, rowned with thine olive leaf garland of love Angel of Peace, thou hast waited too long! Brothers we meet, on this altar of thine, Mingling the gifts we have gathered for thee, sweet with the odors of myrtle and pine,

Breeze of the prairie and breath of the sea— deadow and mountain and forest and sea! Sweet is the fragrance of myrtle and pine, Brothers, once more round this altar of thine! Angels of Bethlehem, answer the strain!

Hark! a new birth-song is filling the sky! ond as the storm-wind that tumbles the main Bid the full breath of the organ reply— Let the loud tempest of voices reply— Roll its long surge like the earth-shaking main! Swell the vast song till it mounts to the sky!

Angels of Bethlehem, echo the strain! The programme on Wednesday will include the overture in Luther's Choral by Nicholai; choruses from the Messiah; "Non pui di fiori," from La Clenenza di Tito, by Mozart, sung by Miss Adelaide Phillips; chorus from Mendelssohn's Elijah; "Let the Bright Scraphim," from Handel's Samson, sung by Madame Parepa-Rosa; chorus from Handel's Judas Maccabonus; symphony in C major, by Schupert, and selections from Haydn's Creation, The third day will be the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, when a grand patriotic programme will be presented. On this occasion the anvil chorus will be performed with a grand chorns, full band of one thousand pieces, one hundred anvils, several drum corps, artillery, bells, etc., all of which will be very fine, doubtless, but the connection between the anvil chorus and the Battle of Bunker Hill is not very clear to any but a Boston

The festival, however, will be a big thing for the Hub, and as a business speculation, at least, it promises to be a brilliant success.

A Pence Jubilee Two Hundred and Fifty Years
It has just been discovered that the great Boston peace jubilee is not entirely without parallel in the history of the world as a musical undertaking. A concert very well worthy in many respects to be mentioned in the same day with it occurred near the beginning of the seventeenth century, at Dresden, under the patronage of the Prince Elector of Saxony. The performance was that of the oratorio of "Holophernes," The cappellmaster proposed to the Prince a performance of extraordinary magnitude, and was rewarded for the suggestion with a gift of five barrels of beer from the electoral brewery, and told to proceed and execute the plan, the State Treasury bearing all the cost. All the musicians of Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, and Poland, were invited to appear at the appointed day in the first week in July, 1615, and the performers assembled to the number of 570 instrumentalists and over a thousand singers. Some of the instruments of the foreign musicians looked very strange to the Dresden people, and the oddest of all were described in the record. A Pole from Cracow, named Rapotzkp, brought, on a wagon drawn by eight mules, "a terrible double bass" fourteen feet high, which could only be played by an artist willing to run up and down a ladder with his bow. The in genious cappellmaster cast even this into the shade by tying a strong ship's rope to the wing of a windmill, to be used as a single-stringed violin, a big saw serving for a bow. Beside these the large coppe kettles of the brewery and a battery of the guns of the period were commonplace instruments. After a week of rehearsal this concert took place in the open air, on the 15th of July, in the suburbs of Dresden, seats having been built in the form of an amphitheatre. The principal male soloist was one Rumpler, a student from Wittemberg, who was allowed free access to the public beer to strengthen his powerful voice, with such excellent effect, that when his bass chimed in with the instruments above (six companies), and four batteries of mentioned, "everything trembled." The prima donna was Bigazzi, from Milan, who received the Vednesday, which will take place on the Common | greatest applause of the day, as she ought, for she sung artificial cadences with such fatal vigor that the same time, by General Grant. The first com- she died three days afterwards. The greatest violin player of that day, Signor Scipio, of Cremono, was also present, and gave a spice to the entertainments also to be present. The General left by playing on his instrument while holding it behind

Wernor Ciadin; but no arrangements have yet been The finale of the programme was a grand double fugue, representing the Israelites and Assyrians engaged in a furious battle, the realistic effect of which was heightened by the two parties of chorus singers throwing apples at each other. This feature especially pleased the electoral sovereign, and he presented the cappellmaster with a reward of fifty

Boston has still something to do to surpass all this.

GENERAL DEBILITY IS NATURE'S APPEAL FOR HELP. --Thousands of persons, without any specific allment, are the victims of languor and lassitude. The unthinking are apt to confound this species of inertion with laziness, whereas it usually arises from a want of organic energy, for which the subjects of it are no more responsible than the near-sighted are for their defective vision. Such persons, although they may be free from pain, are as truly invalids, and as much in need of medical aid as if they were termented with the pangs of scute disease. They require a TONIC and ALTERATIVE that will rouse and regulate their torpid organizations. In cases of this kind HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS produce an immediate and most favorable effect. The debilitated and desponding valetudinarian, who feels as if he were but half alive, who shuns company, and has no relish either for business or pleasure, is metamorphosed by a helef course of this most notent regetable innigorant into a quite different being. The change effected by the BITTERS, in his bodily and mental condition, is a surprise to himself and to his friends. He mopes no longer; the active principle of life, which seemed affliction itself, but an incitation to discuss, no time should
