NEW YORK, June 15.—The base ball match on the Union Ground, Williamsburg, between the Cincinnati and Mutual Clubs, was decided this afternoon in favor of the former by a score of 4 to 2. There never was its equal for sharp playing. The betting was 100 to 80 before commencing on the Mutuals, who made nothing in seven innings, and one on the eighth and one on the ninth, when the betting became even. The Cincinnati made one run each on the first and second, and two on the ninth innings. About four thousand persons were present, who were very orderly. To morrow the Cincinnatis play the Atlantics, and on Thursday the Eckfords.

citement have disappeared.

London, June 15.—The Times says the speeches of Stratford de Redeliffe and the Archbishop of Canterbury leave no doubt as to the result of the bill. While they dislike it and are unable to persuade themselves that I General of Subsistence.

House to assent. The practical good sense and patriotism of these speeches contrast strongly with the one of Bright's party effo-

The Telegraph says: - "After the first night's debate on the Irish Church bill, the issue cannot be doubted."

The Star says:—"Since the speech of the Archbishop of Canterbury everything appears immediately favorable to the bill." The Admiralty Court has ordered the sale of the steamer Alexandra, built for the Rebels, and has directed the proceeds to be lodged with the court.

LETTER FROM JOHN BRIGHT. John Bright has written a letter to a meeting in Birmingham, in which he says if the House of Lords delays the passage of the Irish Church bill they will stimulate discussion on subjects that might slumber for years. The value of a constitution which gives a majority in one house in favor and in the other against a given policy may be ques-tioned. Why is it that, when the crown and Commons are in harmony with the nation, the Lords are in direct opposition? As long as the House of Lords act in harmony with the country, they may go on for a long time; but when they thwart its course they may meet with unpleasant accidents. It hopes the counsel of a few good and wise men in the House of Lords may prevail. The Times to-day says:—"The restoration of the tranquillity of Paris was the only result which could reasonably be anticipated where the citizens were indifferent and the military force immense. It rejoices that the result was obtained without bloodshed. Nothing now hinders the Emperor from adopting the constitutional course which the elections invite. Another battle in the streets might be made the cause for an indefinite postponement of public liberties. Paris, on second thought, chose the more moderate among the Liberal candidates for the Legislature, and by her indifference rebuked violence. There can be no excuse now for holding a city too hostile for conciliation."

LONDON, June 15 .- In the House of Lords to-night a great number of petitions against the Irish Church bill were presented. Lord Cairns gave notice of a question to ascertain if the Government intended to endorse the opinions contained in John Bright's last letter.

Lord Grey said he, felt all the circumstances under which the bill was sent to this House, but urged Lord Harrowby to reconsider his motion for postponement in view of the consequences which might result should it be carried. If the bill before them passed at all, it must be materially amended. The House of Lords now had, but might not hereafter have, the power to amend.

The result of the late elections was emphatically in favor of the bill, and it would be imprudent for the Lords to oppose it. If they were successful for a moment they would soon have it returned, perhaps in a more objectionable form. He urged the consideration of the amendments in a fair and conciliatory spirit, and exhorted the House to accept the measure with dignity, and not incur the odium of the people by a collision with the House of Commons, which represented the deliberate opinion of the nation.

The Archbishop of Dublin complained of the hard, ungenerous, and illiberal manner in which the Church was treated, and denounced the bill. He thought, if it was necessary, it might have been less severe.

The Bishop of St. David said the superior sanctity of church property was not to be considered, but the best means to apply it in view of the public need.

He disapproved of excessive demonstrations of Protestantism, and said he valued its ascendancy not as it was political and religious, but as it was moral and beneficial. He considered the Irish Church an anomaly. It had failed to fulfil its mission, and promoted discord. He urged the passage of the bill to a second reading, and afterwards the introduction of amendments.

The Duke of Richmond explained that though he felt the injustice of the bill, after great hesitation, he had reso ved to act in opposition to his party. He was sensible of the inexpediency of popular agitation, and was informed that the constitutional course was to pass the bill after amending the objectionable clauses, and leave the responsibility of accepting an amendment or of withdrawing the biil on the Government,

The Bishop of Peterborough opposed the bill, and appealed to the House to act firmly and impartially, and not to humiliate them selves by abdicating abruptly their constitu tional position, beseeching the nation to spare them, because they were utterly contemptible and useless.

Speeches were also made against the bill by Lords Penzance, De Grey, and Monck. The House again adjourned without action.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

The Concluding Ceremonies. The interesting and imposing ceremonies attending the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of St. John's Commandery, No. 4, of this city, were concluded last evening with a grand ball at the Academy of Music. It was the grandest affair of the kind ever witnessed in Fhiladelphia. It is estimated that about seven thousand persons participated in the festivities, and notwithstanding the immense crowd, the arrangements were so complete that there was not the slightest confusion. The interior of the Academy was splendidly decorated, the most noticeable feature being two immense pyramids of flowers, and a floral arch stretching from the stage boxes on either

Before the ball opened, St. John's Commandery formed on the stage with the Grand Commandery. A welcome was extended to the visiting Knights, and the oration de-livered by Hon, Richard Vaux. While these proceedings were in progress, the house presented a most brilliant appearance. Every seat in the three tiers was occupied with ladies in full ball costume, while the striking uniforms of the Knights made up a scene never before witnessed in the Academy. At the close of the oration the promenade commenced, every lady being presented with a bouquet as she reached the dancing floor.

R. C. DRUM,

What He Says of the Future of the United The banquet to General Dix took place on June 1 in Paris. In replying to the toast of the evening, General Dix, after some personal acknowledgments, spoke of the future of the United States, and said: -

I believe there are few intelligent persons on either side of the Atlantic who do not expect to see our jurisdiction still further enlarged. If this expectation is realized, it will be through amicable arrangements with other States. We have gained nothing heretofore by violence or injustice; we desire to gain nothing by unworthy schemes of territorial acquisition—those dangerous instruments of ambition by which nations are nearly certain to work out, soon or late, their own downfall. If future accessions of territory come to us, it will be, as in the past, through causes prepared beyond the circle of our own influences, and by agencies higher than our own. It is on this condition only that such accessions will prove a blessing to ourselves or a benefit to mankind. Such is the spirit of the popular movement across the continent of North America. Nearly all the great migrations which history has recorded from the Christian era to the present time, consist of the exodus of barbarous nations from the inhospitable regions in which they were bred, transferring themselves to more genial latitudes, and gaining possession, by brute force, of the treasures of civilization; or of fiery incursions, the offspring of religious frenzy, seeking to propagate creeds of faith by fire and sword. Ours is the majestic, but the calm and bloodless, march of the hosts of civilization, in the ranks of which every nation in Christendom has its representatives, going forth to subdue a wilderness, and to extract from its woods, its soil, and its caverus, by the patient hand of industry, the treasures nature has been accumulating from the beginning of time. In regard to the relations of the great States of the Eastern Hemisphere to each other, we may be said to have been in the past, as I trust we may be in the future, an unarmed neutrality, standing aloof from their rivalries and their conflicts, asserting within our own limits, and with out any of the insignia of military force or preparation, but maintaining through the more powerful agencies of opinion, the principles which we believe to be best calculated to secure our own happiness and pros-perity, and to promote the welfare of the human race. In the spirit of peace, and not of war-of improvement, and not of devastation-of fraternity, and not of aggression-"Across the wide-spread continent our fathers' flag we bear, Each hill and vale from sea to sea the sacred sign en hands shall strengthen ours to hold it high in air, As we go marching on."

What may be our condition and our destiny a hundred years hence, when the vacant spaces between the two oceans shall be filled up, and the reaction of population shall be felt, as it inevitably must be, from the shores of the Pacific, no human sagacity can foresee, We can only hope that there may be nothing in our history during the intervening years to render us unworthy of the prosperity which has been youchsafed to us; that we may go on quietly and steadily to the completion of our great task; preserving our good faith in all things with scrupulous fidelity; respect-ing the laws and institutions of other countries, as we call on them to respect our own; abstaining from all interference in their domestic concerns; nay, more, abstaining from all propagandism, excepting through the peaceful example of good government within our own limits, leaving to Providence to determine in what manner and to what extent the principles of our political system shall, in other quarters of the globe, exert an influence friendly to the advancement and diffusion of knowledge, the progress of improvement in industry and the arts, and the best good of the human race.

Cuba.

Intelligence received in Washington yesterday, from Cuban sources, of the fight which took place between the revolutionary forces and the Spanish troops, near Puerto del Padre, states that the Cuban troops, numbering about two thousand men, were attacked in their intrenchments by the Spaniards with a force of nearly double that number, and were twice repulsed. The loss of the Cubans was ess than a hundred in killed and wounded, while that of the attacking party was three times as great. The Spaniards retreated, leaving a number of their killed and wounded

The result of this battle has had an encouraging effect upon the Cuban army, which is reported to be gaining strength every day from the very best portion of the people of the island. The want of harmony between the officers in command of the Government troops in the field, and the volunteers who have taken possession of the government of the island, is exhibiting itself in the demoralization of the Spanish troops, and the large number of desertions to the Cuban army. This condition of things has given a new impetus and strength to the Cuban cause, the eaders having no doubt of ultimate success. A number of recruits, mostly from Virginia, have left Washington within a day or two to join a force which is rendezvousing on the Southern coast preparatory to joining the Cuban army.

-Three thousand invitations to witness the inanguration of the Sucz Canal are to be sent to notabilities in Europe.

—The theatre in Calcutta is a temporary building of iron, which can be pulled down and packed away, as last season. The bearer of a congratulatory despatch from Lapland to the Pope had to travel 600 miles to reach a telegraph office.
