The exercises, consisting of reading of the Scriptures, essays, recitations, and singing, and performances on the piano, were all of a superior character. The reading and original compositions far surpassed what is usual on such occasions. The general appearance of the school and the school-room was very attractive, the latter being decorated with flowers and the drawings and paintings of the pupils, which gave evidence of great proficiency in those arts. The whole performance was creditable alike to teacher and pupil. We congratulate the people of West Philadelphia that they have such an institution right in their midst for their daughters, and we also congratulate the Principal, P. A. ...The conduct of the Viceroy of Egypt in the mat ter of the Suez Canal is strongly censured by the semi-official Turquie of Constantinopie. It says that the Viceroy "gives himself the airs of an independent sovereign," and that he "contemptuously ignores" the suzerain rights of the Porte. Alluding to the report that the object of the Viceroy's European tour is to induce "one of the great powers" to raise its consulate in Egypt to the rank of a legation, and to negotiate with the other signituries of the Treaty of Paris for the purpose of obtaining the neutralization of the Suez Canal, the Turquie says that this would be an act of treason which would nutlify all the pr be an act of treason which would hullify all the pri-vileges given to Egypt by the Sultans, as well as the concessions which its governors only owed to the generosity of their suzerains. The documents," it adds, "which will shortly be published will prove that the Viceroy has been wanting in the first condi-tions of respect to his suzerain, and it will be neces-sary for the Sultan to correct the fault of his vassal by binself inviting. by himself inviting, in an autograph letter, his allies to the inauguration of the Suez Canal."

-A decree just issued by the commandant of the garrison at Kolberg, in Pomerania, amusingly illusgarrison at Kolberg, in Pomerania, amusingly tilustrates one of the inconveniences to which royalty in Prussia is exposed. It appears that during the late tour of the Crown Prince in Pomerania, the people of Kolberg came into the streets with flowers to greet him on his entrance into their town, and that several of them, auxious to give a practical proof of their loyal entrustasm, showered bouquets in his face. The confequence was, says the commandant, that his Royal Highness entered the hall of the palace "with his eyes full of tears" caused by the pain of the scratches he had received; "notwithstanding which," he adds, "our Hohenzollern was so extraordinarily good-natured that he overlooked this monstrous treatment, and continued to behave this monstrous treatment, and continued to behave with that winning friendliness which is so charac-teristic of him." The commandant then proceeds to exhort the inhabitants in future to be more care ful and considerate when presenting flowers to royal personages. "When the son of the Sovereign walks in the street, the people should either with the deepest humility offer him a flower in their hands, or scatter flowers before his feet, but they should not recklessly cast them in the air so as to cause wounds. like the projectiles of an enemy," —In these days, when the aristocracy are so much derided and decried for their want of sympathy with the ordinary impulses and emotions of humanity, we gladly welcome any indication on the part of members of the order that they are not altogether exempt from those touches of nature which make the whole world kin. An incident is mentioned in the Northern Ensign which shows that dukes, after all, are not so very different in their moral constituan, are not so very different in their moral constitu-tion from other people. "It would appear," we are told, "that the Duke of Sutherland has been much graiffed by the discovery of gold on his estate, and that he entertains kindly feelings towards the dis-coverer. He brought with him on this occasion a valuable gold watch, which he presented to Mr. Odl-christ. On the watch there is inscribed, "To Robert Gilchrist, from the Duke of Sutherland, 1869."

-It is to be hoped for the sake of lovers of caviare that Russia will be so good as to take steps to pre-vent the Caspian sea from again catching lire.

The "Jurn into the Caspisa"— had scarcely prepared us for such a conflagration as was last month witnessed by the inhabitants of the borders of that great Salt Lake, resulting in the destruction of innumerable fishes. Badku, or Backu. in the vicinity of which are the naptha wells, whence the inflammable substance exudes and spreads itself over the surface of the water, attracted the atten-tion of travellers in the last century. Bell writes, in 1715, "In the neighborhood of Backu are many fountains of naptha; it is a sort of petroleum of a brown color and inflammable nature. The Persians burn it in their lamps. No rain can extinguish it, but the smell is disagreeable." Knez Galitzen, who was sent in 1746 on an embassy to Nadir Shah by her Imperial Majesty Elizabeth Petrowna of Russia, says of the naptha of Backu, "The Persians load it in bulk in their wretched veesels, so that sometimes the sea is covered with it for leagues together. When the weather is thick and hazy the springs bol When the weather is thick and hazy the springs doin up the higher, and the naptha often takes fire on the surface of the earth, and runs in a flame into the sea in great quantities to a distance almost incredible." In the days of Queen Elizabeth, when Englishmen were possessed of a keener spirit of commercial enterprise in the respectations of English. I say than at present the mote regions of Central Asia than at present, the attempts of English adventurers to carry their wares through Russia into Persia led, in a subsequent through Russia into Persia led, in a subsequent reign, to an act of Parliament being passed to regu-late the Caspian trade. In the chart of Captain Woodroffe, who surveyed the coasts of the Caspian in 1743, close to Backu is a spot designated "the everlasting fire." Judging from recent accounts the supply of Naptha is inexhaustible, and it is to be housed that the Capt will appoint some coasts (see hoped that the Czar will appoint some one to look after these dangerous springs. It will be a sorry consolation to those who have added the consumption of caviare and toast to the few pleasures of life to be told that, at the cost of some hundred-weights of this delicacy, the Daghestanees and other barbarians are enjoying so singular a spectacle as that afforded by many thousands of square miles of watery waste burning like a prairie—a revolution of the elements which to us would simply mean caviare at a guinea a spoonful.

WASHINGTON.

Exodus of Politicians to Virginia-Chief Justice Chase Bidding for the Presidency-The Cuban Envoy.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Virginia Campaign. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegrap

WASHINGTON, June 26.-General Van Wyck of New York, Colonel Forney, and several other stump speakers from the North, have gone down to Virginia to take part in the campaign. Both parties are working with great energy. The chairman of the Republican State Central Committee says Chief Justice Chase is working in a quiet way for the success of Walker and the conservative ticket, and during his recent visit to Virginia did all he could to encourage the conservatives. The Chief Justice has already commenced laying pipe for the Presidency in 1870, and his friends announce that he will be the candidate of a new party to be organized out of the Democratic and Republican parties.

The Workingmen's Friend. It may be of interest to the workingmen to know that the new Secretary of Navy, unlike his predecessor, is a pronounced friend of the Eight-hour law, and of the rights of the working classes generally. There is no danger of his asking the Attorney-General for a new opinion on that subject.

Another Change Expected. It is stated that soon after Attorney-General Hoar returns he will resign, and that the President will appoint a man from Pennsylvania as his successor. This is the reason given for the appointment of a man from New Jersey as the successor to Mr. Borie, instead of giving the place to a man from Pennsylvania.

The Cuban Envoy Lemus is preparing a memorial to be presented to the Secretary of State, setting forth new reasons for the recognition of the belligerent rights of Cuba by the United States. Among other arguments used is this:-That Spain has no regular legitimate representative of her authority on the island since the abdication of Dulce, and that in point of fact the Spanish volunteers are as much rebels against Spain as the Cubans. Lemus says all he wants is authority for the Cubans to purchase arms and munitions of war in the United States the same as Spain is allowed to do.

Deepening the Mouth of the Mississippi. Despatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 26 .- The Secretary of the Treasury has been officially advised, from the War Department, that it has official information to the effect that the United States steam dredge Essayons has increased the depth of the channel at Passa l'Outre, mouth of the Mississippi, from fifteen to eighteen feet, and that a steam vessel drawing 1714 feet of water passed out over the bar on June 17.

Appointments. The President to-day appointed John T. Delaplaine, of New York, Secretary of the U.S. Legation at Vienna, and W. M. Wood, Surgeon U. S. N., to be Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy Department, in place of J. J. Howitz; appointment to date from July 1.
