THE DEMOGRACY.

Their Conventions-Conclusion of Yesterday's Proceedings Disgraceful Proceedings. We give below the proceedings of the City and County Democratic Conventions, in con tinuation of our reports of yesterday.

THE CITY CONVENTION. The names of James S. Watson and Colonel E. W. C. Greene were finally presented for the permanent chairmanship.

An amendment to continue the temporary officers was offered, and on being put by the President was received with cries of No! That's not according to the rules!"

After some more confusion, the Chair stated that all he desired was harmony, and that he was willing to put the motion that a ballot be taken. This motion was carried, and the Secretaries being appointed tellers, the ballot was proceeded with, being frequently interrupted by the delegates rising in their places and shouting at the top of their voices. At one time two of the delegates got to blows in front of the chairman's stand, but they were separated without having done each other any bodily harm.

The names having been all called, the Chair announced the vote as follows:— James S. Watson......126 votes Mr. Greene was declared elected, when a motion was agreed to that the temporary sec retaries and doorkeepers be continued. Colonel Greene then, in a few remarks, returned his thanks for the honor of having been selected to preside over the deliberation; of the convention.

The Chair then appointed the various Com mittees on Contested Seats, and during this interval the delegates amused themselves by running around loose. An occasional knock down was a part of the amusement. At one time a ring was formed in a corner, and two of the representatives of the unterrified indulged in a regular set-to. The rougher portion of the convention, which was largely in the ascendancy, encouraged the fight, which lasted for some time. Both combatants bore the marks of each other's fists, and the eye of one of them was completely closed.

Just after this encounter there was a rush at the door, during which one individual lost his watch and another a breastpin. A number of outsiders obtained admittance into the room during this rush, and among them was Detective Miller.

Order being once more restored, the convention proceeded to general nomination for City Commissioner. The following candidates were named:-Colonel A. H. Reynolds. William W. Able, Christopher Snyder, Charles F. Jones, George W. Hare, Charles B. Duncan, Matthew Crawford, and John Robbins.

Prior to the ballot being taken, a difficulty occurred about the manner in which the vote should be taken. It was finally settled, and Messrs, John P. McFadden and Lawrence Tobin were appointed tellers.

Five ballots were had, with the following re-

Whereupon Captain Charles B. Duncan was declared the nominee for City Commissioner. During the balloting the proceedings were characterized by the same disorderly behavior that had prevailed for the previous five hours. A crowd of the lowest kind of roughs-delegates and outsiders-took possession of the space between the benches and platform, and kept up such a shouting that it was scarcely possible for the tellers to hear the responses of the delegates. Occasionally some one would answer the name of another delegate, and when recognized the crowd would rush for him, some one give him a poke, and he would retire to the rear of the room, only to return again and repeat his offense.

Fights were of frequent occurrence, and the only wonder was that the convention did not on several occasions break up in a grand

The President, armed with a huge piece of a packing-box, rapped, and rapped, and rapped, until the stick was shivered almost to splinters; in an effort to preserve order; but it was no use-this crowd of ruffians just did as they pleased; they shouted, they yelled, and they fought, and eventually, so outrageous did their behavior become, that the respectable part of the convention left the hall, disgusted not only with the brute whom they had selected for companions, but with the manner in which the Democracy choose their standard-bearers.

The announcement of the result of the last ballot was succeeded with another almost indescribable scene of confusion. While some of the delegates were calling for an adjournment, others were demanding that candidates be put in nomination for City Treasurer. Partial order would be restored, when some half drunken fellow would move for an adjourn ment. This would be met with deafening cries of "No!" "No!" In the midst of thi unruly conduct, Folyard Degan mounted a stand and made a short speech to those around him, and all that could be heard above the din was, "The eyes of the people are upon the action of this Democratic Convention.

The President put a motion that the con vention go into nomination for City Treasurer, and it would have been a difficult matter for any one to have decided whether the yeas or nays had it.

A delegate then mounted a settee and read the following letter:-

Dear Sir:-It is my earnest wish that my friends withdraw from the convention as I consider it the merest farce as conducted. Please have this publicly made known to my friends. hely made known yours, Jos. N. Petrsol.

This was followed by a harangue by one of the delegates, and whatever he said must have been satisfactory to those surrounding him, for a great crowd pressed towards the door, which was so well guarded that none could get out. The clerk, in the midst of all this noise, commenced calling the roll without any nominations having been made. For an instant order was maintained, and it was for only an instant. The call was frequently in-terrupted by the cries of the delegates, but the clerk managed to get through the roll in some sort of a way.

The ballot resulted as follows:— Joseph N. Peirsol...... 73

As will be seen, many of the Peirsol men refused to vote, they expressing their dissatisfaction loudly at the way in which the convention had acted. They claim that the nomination of Mr. Fry was irregular, inasmuch as no names were put in general nom! nation, as prescribed by the rules of the

On the motion to make the nomination unanimons, there were a great number of nays. At half-past 10 P. M. the convention adjourned sine die. THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

Hardly had this convention reassembled at 3 o'clock, when the scener of disorder which had been prevalent during the morning were re-enacted. The trouble originated from a number of outsiders having obtained admission into the room. Many of the delegates made suggestions as to the manner of getting these fellows out, but all to no purpose.

At last matters were reaching such a crisis that Sam Josephs, with the aid of a distinguished commander-in-chief, jumped on to the platform and intimidated the chairman into putting the motion to the meeting. The proposition was a welcome one, as the delegates were getting thirsty with their recent vocal exertions, and was unanimously carried. The crowd was then forced out of the hall, and the seats rearranged.

In a short time the delegates came into the hall as their names were called out. At one of the windows a head was observed peeping into the room, and as soon as it was found that the owner had no business with the convention, the window was uplifted and the man summarily precipitated into the street

At 5:20 P. M. all the delegates had taken seats, and this tumultuous convention was once more called to order by Mr. Hopkins, who had provided himself with an additional

Some persons assembled in the balcony, and this caused cries of "Get down! get down!" and Alderman McMullin, who manages these things in a wondrous manner, climbed up to the balcony and insisted upon the disobedient members coming down stairs and taking their seats. His orders were at once complied with. The chairman had a partiality for striking the table, which did not improve the nervous condition of the in li-viduals on the platform. At last a step was taken towards forming a

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

Philip H. Lowry and Isaac Leech were nominated for President, and, amid confusion of tongues and striking of the injured table, the nominations were declared closed. Mr. Mountjoy moved that two tellers be appointed, which was agreed to. The Chair asked whether he should appoint the tellers, but Mr. Robert Lister Smith objected, when another disorder took place.

At last it was decided that Mr. Hopkins should name the tellers, and George Mountjoy and Michael Magee were appointed.

Terrific cries of "One more" rent the air, but no notice was taken of them. The tellers were about to call the roll, when the Chairman left his position to attend to some altercation at the door, and another delay ensued. A general fight took place at the entrance, and after the door had been shut the Chairman mounted the platform and began pounding the table, thereby beating another strip off that most valuable piece of furniture. At this juncture Alderman Me-Mullin was seen to gallop in the direction of the other door, which had been forced open, and that gentleman soon secured the room against further intrusion.

The tellers then proceeded, and the first name called was "Apple," who voted for Lowry, after making as much fuss as he was capable of doing.

A drunken man answered to the name of "Abrahams," when up rose about two-thirds of the convention and shouted out that he was not "Abrahams." Cries of "Throw him out of the window" followed, but the besotted wretch collapsed ere the threat was

When the tellers had called a few more names, the secretary said a mistake had been made, and it was necessary to commence afresh.

After reaching the letter "D" another pummelling seene took place at the door, which lasted fully ten minutes, and some of the men, to use a Democratic phrase, "had heads put on them." The services of "the Alderman" were again called into requisition, and proved valuable in quelling the disturbance.

The tellers at last succeeded in reading the list, but such disgraceful scenes as took place each time a name was called we never expected to witness. A number of prominent Fourth-ward politicians seemed to control the election, and brought up men whose names had been omitted, according to their story, by the tellers, and whose votes were in every in stance recorded for Leech. Lowry lost his temper several times when he thought an unfair ballot was being cast by his opponents; and, taken all in all, the convention was a fine illustration of what a confusion a large number of men can cause when they set themselves upon it. Lowry, finding his cause hopeless, rose up and announced that he wished the reporters to notice that he withdrew from the contest. He was greeted with cries of 'Sit down! go home to bed!"

Mr. Leech appeared on the platform, and was loudly cheered. Some delegates proposed that he be elected by acclamation, but the Chairman ordered the tellers to proceed with the calling of the roll.

The report of the tellers was 151 votes for Leech and 137 for Lowry.

A number of delegates moved that his election be made unanimous, which was agreed to. The Chairman then announced that Mr. Leech, of the Twenty-seventh ward, was duly elected permanent President of the conven tion. Three cheers were then given for Mr. Hopkins, and Mr. Leech took the chair, and briefly thanked his friends for their kindness.

John W. Boileau and Thomas McGonegal were elected secretaries, and John Hancock treasurer. On motion it was agreed that the present doorkeepers and messenger be retained in their respective positions.

Dr. S. P. Brown and Andrew Brumaker were elected vice-presidents. The first business in order was the settlement of contested seats. On motion of Mr. Samuel Josephs, it was agreed that the Committee on Contested Seats should be announced this morning at 10 o'clock, to which hour the convention adjourned.

THE SENATORIAL CONVENTION. We gave the result yesterday of the First Senatorial District Convention. It appears that the "Hon." Sam Josephs received the nomination first, but he immediately entered the hall and declined the honor, delivering himself himself of the following address: -

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:-I feel compelled by information just received to say a word to you at this time. My position is a peculiar one, and thus placed I trust you will pardon me if I occupy your time for a brief period. I have been just officially notified that the Democracy of the Third Legislative District, as they have done for the last eight years, have by acclamation renominated me for I representative of their district. It would be worse than ungrateful upon my part if I were to refuse the honor thus thrust upon me. For many long and trying years I have been their trusted representative during the darkest hour of our party's history; they confided in me, and when I was most beset by political—treneral Canby has issued an order ex foes they stood around me like a wall of fire. tending the Stay law to the first of next year.

I assure you, gentlemen, this renewed tribute of their confidence, I cannot disregard—but while I am thus compelled to decline to be a candidate before your convention, I am none the less grateful for your convincing evi-dences of regard, and while I am satisfied that, despite newspaper clamor and personal slan-der, you, the representatives of the people, elected, I may say, without oppositions would nominate me for Senator of your district, yet I am still compelled to decline. Gentlemen, I owe you much, and I trust you will believe me when I say to you I am sincerely and honestly thankful, to those who are present who are my frien is, and I feel that a vast majority are. I have but one word to say in conclusion: I beg that they will give their support to Alexander J. Diamond, and in serving him in this hour my friends serve me; he is a gentleman against whom no word of reproach can be uttered one whose record is clean, one who is faithful to his friends; he is one who possesses and commands the esteem of the entire Demoeracy of this district.

Another vote was then taken, the result being the nomination of Mr. Alexander J. Diamond.
