THE NOISE AND MISHAPS.

The Carpival of Crackers—The Glare of Rockets—The Mishaps of all Sorts.

The noise and confusion on both Sunday and Monday far exceeded that heard on any previous anniversary for ten years past. There had been no general prohibition of the firing of pistols and guns, and the consequence was that all day Sanday and Monday there were a constant report of firearms and the lattering of fire constant. clattering of fire-crackers.

was the signal for a row, and would bring around dozens of inebriated men, who would fire right and

CITY INTELLIGENCE. FALSE ALARM.

A Supposed Filibuster Stopped by a Revense Cutter.

On the lith of June inst, the Firedy, a fast side-wheel steamer, built on the Clyde, in Scotland, but now owned by a gentieman named Middleton, a resident of this city, was seized by the United States Marshai for the purpose of securing payment for damages inflicted on a canal boat which she had run down. This boat—one belonging to Uniter's line—was laden with coal, and was sunk, cargo and all. On Friday the Firefly's owner entered all needful security in the case, and his vessel was released, Mr. Larkins, the Marshal's watchman, who had been placed on her to await the settlement of the case, being instructed to return the vessel. But the Firefly's troubles were not ended. She bore a rather shaky reputation, having a number of times successfully run the Southern blockade dering the Rebellion, and was suspected by the authorities at Washington, justly or unjustly, with being engaged in fitting out as a Cuban filibuster. Special instructions had been sent been not to permit ber absarree from this port; and or unjustly, with being engaged in fitting out as a Cuban filibuster. Special instructions had been sent here not to permit her departure from this port; and a week or two since she was boarded by certain officials and searched, they alleging that she had in her coal holes one hundred and sixteen cases of arms and animunition. After her release by the Marshal, a number of gentlemen chartered her for the perpose of taking a fishing excursion to Cape May. On Sanday morning they started down the river from Shackamaxon street wharf, stopping again at Lombard street wharf to take on more passengers, and proceeding thence quietly and without interruption till near Chester. She was going then at the rate of almost sixteen knots an hour. A revenue cutter hove there in sight, fred a shot across her bows, when the Firefly hauled to, or

She was boarded from the cutter, turned back again towards the city, conveyed to the Navy Yard, and there detained. Her passengers did not secure their release until yesterday morning, not until the Navy Yard authorities became satisfied that all was right. The authorities became satisfied that all was right. The gentlemen upon her scout all idea of her being a filibuster. Mr. Middleton, her owner, was accompanied by his entire family. No arms were on board her—nothing more than a pistol or two. She was simply bound upon a fishing excursion, and intended proceeding no further than Cape Island. It is all well enough for our national authorities having control of such matters to rigidly enforce the neutrality laws, but does it not place them in a ridiculous light to selze upon no ground whatever, a peaceful vessel, bound a pleasure

How Gotham Celebrated the "Fourth" and "Fifth" of July—The Military and Pyrotechnical Displays—Social Game of Ball Between the Athletics and Atlantics.

Special Despatch to The Beening Telegraph.

NEW YORK, July 6. The Fourth of July opened here, as usual, with the firing of a salute from the Battery at sunrise, The prominent feature of the day was the military parade which took place in the morning, the head of the line moving at half-past 7 o'clock. The streets were lined with people, who applanded the men as they marched along the various thoroughfares. There were, at the least calculation, 10,000 men in line, and had the regiments turned out in their strength, double that number would have been the result. As it was, the display was in every way creditable to the city. At the Worth Monument, at Twenty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, an immense stand had been erected for the accommodation of the Association of the Officers of the Army of the Potomac, who were to have their annual meeting in the morning. About five hundred of these heroes were on the platform, and they were tendered by command of General Shaler a marching salute. On the stand were Major-Generals Sheridan, Meade, Burnside, Butterfield, Ingles, Baxter, and other celebrities. As the troops recognized the faces of their old commanders the air was filled with their huzzas, particularly was this the case with General Meade, who had endeared himself, while in command of the Army of the Potomac, to the men of that division. So prompt were the orders executed that by 10 o'clock the parade was over and the men dismissed to their homes. At noon the officers of the Army of the Potomac assembled at Steinway Hall, and, after a spirited contest, General P. H. Sheridan was elected the presiding officer for the ensuing year. Generals Meade and McClellan were candidates for the position. The latter received, on the second ballot, 102 votes out of nearly 400. The initiation fee was fixed at $3. In the evening about one hundred and fifty of the association partook of a banquet at Delmonico's.

The day, taking it altogether, was rather quiet, in consequence of the order of Superintendent Kennedy prohibiting the firing of pistols. This order was faithfully executed, and at night but few arrests for this offense had been reported at headquarters. There were the usual excursions during the day to the Fishing Banks and up the Hudson, The pyrotechnical display in the evening was perfeetly grand. The exhibitions took place at the following points:-City Hall, Battery, Madison Square, Tompkins Square, East Broadway Square, Hamersly Square, Liberty Square, Mount Morris Square, and Jackson Square.

The following is a list of the larger pieces of fireworks exhibited in front of the City Hall :- Yankee windmill, pot pourri, jewelled cross, cross of honor, polka quadrille, a velocipede race, revolving sun, variegated pyramid, tree of liberty, and gallopade of serpents. There were in all twenty-two pieces, of which the above were the most brilliant. There were also rockets, bombs, and small pieces almost without number, the whole winding up with an allegorical design in lance work. In the centre, supported by a pedestal, was a statuette representing our country. In the centre of the piece there were the words, "Our Country," and on either side an Indian, a a civilian, and a miner. This piece was forty feet

Some twenty thousand people, the largest crowever seen on any ball field, congregated in the afternoon on the Capitoline grounds, to witness the first of the series of social games between the Atlantic, of Brooklyn, and the Athletic, of Philadelphia. It was considered a sure thing that the Atlant c would win, and, surprising to everybody, there were no bets made on the result. The game throughout ex-hibited magnificent battlag qualities on both sides, but this was overshadowed by the execrable field-ing. Musling was the order, and it seemed that each player was endeavoring to rival the other in that peculiar forte. The victory of the Atlande was not by any means a creditable one, as they should have easily conquered the disorganized and almost demornized Athletics by a score of not less than two to one. The score was as follows:-Athletic. O. R. Atlantic,

Despatch to the Associated Press.

Washington, July 6.—In the interview of Repressentatives Edwards and Clift and Dr. Cuiver, of Georgia, with the President, on Friday last, the Macon Postmaster appointment was merely incidentally mentioned by the President, in connection with the Augusta appointment, and was not a matter with which they interfered one way or the other. The business which these gentleman had with the President was not to ask the appointment to or removal of any man from office, but to secure the size of the Government laboratory building at Mason, Georgia, for the purposes of the Agricultural Exposition next November.

The report of the Treasury Department shows a decrease in the public debt of $16,410,152 for the month, and an aggregate of $36,640,779 since the 1st of March.
