The Governorship. PHULADELPHIA, July 19, 1869.

Beiter of Evening Telegraph .- Dear Sir :- I am an attentive reader of your excellent paper, and being a eredulous individual, am influenced to a considerable extent by its teachings. The many diatribes that have recently appeared in its columns against professional politicians and unprincipled and corrupt office-seekers, and your many laudations and recommendations of upright business men for positions of public trast, being singularly coincident with my own views, have made a deep impression upon my mind. You may, therefore, imagine my astonishment upon views, have made a deep inspective may astonishment upon reading the leader in your Saturday's impression, en-titled "Can a Railway King Become a Disinterested Governor 7" in which you claim that the qualities which you have frequently enumerated as almost essential to the intelligent and faithful performance of important official duties entirely unfit Asa Packer for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. - The Republican candidate for Governor is, in every respect, a professional politician—a valu, unscrupti-lous, unreliable, unprincipled man. Mr. Packer is a spiendid specimen of a business man—of that class of men who have made our State what she now is, the foremost in wealth and influence in the Union. Nobedy who knows Mr. Packer will affirm that he will be influenced, to half the extent of his political adversary, by a desire to subserve his own interests while a inclusioning the affairs of the office to which he aspires.

while a iministering the affairs of the office to which he aspires. The leader to which I refer is exceedingly captions, and a careful reader can easily perceive that the writer was arguing against his better judgment. Why not, in endeavoring to detent Mr. Packer, op-pose him because he is a Democrat, and declaim against the principles of that party, rather than con-denn qualities which, in the minds of nearly all our best men, render him a desirable candidate? If Judge Packer's position as an active business man, heavily interested, pecuniarily, in an important interest, disqualifies him for office, then are very many of our really great men disqualified. The difficulty in our country is that men who are too inclosed, and possess too flue steriling integrity of character, to succeed in honorable business, generally thra their attention (alas: aided by papers fluat are bound by partisan thongs too successfully) to politics, and make out to live upon official stealings. It is not likely that Judge Packer, if elected Governor, could be induced, for aconsideration, to sign such an un-just measure as the Twelfth and Sixteenth Streets Passenger Ikaliway bill. The well-written editorials that have recently

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

A FALSE RUMOR .- Since Saturday Third street has been considerably excited over a rumor that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had obtained the Pennsylvania Kaliroad Company had obtained the control in the mauagement of the Reading Rairoad Company. Rumor had it that the former company had forwarded an agent to Europe with the express purpose of buying up the stock, which is the control-ling interest owned by foreigners in the latter com-pany, and that he had telegraphed that he had been necessful in his mission. We called upon the provide the model of the moreing and they emuccessful in his mission. We called upon the efficers of the Reading this morning, and they em-phatically deny the report. They themselves had been informed of the rumor, and had, in response to a telegram received from their agent in London, made a positive denial of the truth of the statement.

SINGULAB RAILWAY ACCIDENT.-Last evening, as a Seventeenth and Ninet enth Streets Passenger Railway car was crossing the switch at Ninetcenth and Arch streets, the passengers were considerably alarmed by seeing the floor on the passage way ripped up by a piece of rail. Fortunately no one was injured, though the piece of iron passed in very close proximity to the feet of a lady. The rail which exceted so much excitoment was a short piece and created so much excitement was a short piece, and the splices in it had been rendered useless by con-stant wenr. As the front wheels crossed the upper part of it, the weight of the car caused the other end to fy up, and before the vehicle could be stopp considerable damage was inflicted to the flooring.

THE MUNICIPAL CONTESTS .- This morning, at half-past 10 o'clock, the proceedings in the munici-pal election contests were resumed before Exami-ners Messick and Battars, the respondents still continuing their testimony. The following witnesses were heard:-James R. N. Miller, John F. V. Pole, Joseph Chambers, Arthur Mullen, John Downey, Michael Marcus, William Russell, Samuel Rogers, Jeseph Taylor, and John Loughrin.

Gaudiner's Island-Their Surrender. From the N. Y. Sun of to-day. Marshal Barlow despatched Deputy-Marshals Greig, Christy, and Winslow in the revenue cutter Mahoning to Gardiner's Island, to capture the remnant of the Cuban filibustering expedi-tion existing there. Captain Webster, com-manding the Mahoning, the deputy-marshals, and a dozen marines, were received on landing by several of the leading Cubans. Colonel Ryan and Lieutenant Crevier were not to be found. Cantain Webster proposed a surrender. Ryan and Lieutenant Crevier were not to be found. Captain Webster proposed a surrender, and offered to guarantee an exemption from imprisonment. Ten accepted his terms. The rest refused. News of this was sent to Marshal Barlow, and he forwarded twenty-four more marines, who arrived at the island on Friday morning, under command of Lieutenant Breeze. The marganet Cudans on society this access. The unarmed Cubans, on seeing this acces-sion of strength, concluded to surrender, but not as captives, and, to the number of one bundred and twenty-four, were taken on Seturday evening to Fort Lafayette. Here they were temporarily confined in five different casemates, but on complaining of the heat were admitted into the open courtyard. The men are well educated and well bred. They assert that they might easily have overpowered the few marines had they so desired, and certainly would not have surrendered had they suspected an imprisonment Captain Harrison, formerly of Company D, 1st New York Volunteers, is regarded by the pri-soners as their present leader. It is asserted that in sending the men to Fort Lafayette, Barlow neglected to provide them with rations, and that the sparse supply of the small garrison at Fort Hamilton opposite has barely sufficed to sustain life among them. The Mahoning reached Geltson's Landing, Fort Hamilton, shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Without any unnecessary delay, the captives were embarked on board small boats, and taken into the Bastile. They did not forget, before they were taken from the Mahoning, to thank in the most cordial terms the gallant Captain Webster and his subordinates for their uniform kindness and courteous deportment.

IN THE BASTILE.

As the frail boats, with their cargo of human freight, sped over the waters of the Lower bay, the unfortunate captives stared with apprehension at the dismal, dingy pile which was to be their prison, and perhaps their tomb. As each stroke of the oar brought them nearer to their prison-house, they saw more and more distinctly the forms of the armed soldiery, the iron-barred loop-holes of the filthy dungeons, and, above all, the wiry figure of the generalissimo in command. One by one they climbed the rotten, dilapidated steps, and at length found themselves face to face with the outer walls of the dungeon.

"MY GOD! WHAT A PLACE!"

exclaimed-one of the number as he caught a glimpse of fallen walls, the ruins, the bricks, and mortar which were strewn in every direction, the burned timber and the dirty cells within. Despair was pictured upon every man's countenance as he looked upon the dismal den. They had surrendered on condition that they should be liberated as soon as they reached New York. An officer of the United States had pledged them a safe conduct. How had that promise been kept? "Forward! march!" was given, and the prisoners, single file, began their tramp to the grave.

And such cells!

ANDERSONVILLE IN THE SHADE.

The noisome cells of Fort Lafayette defy all description. And how those poor souls who for hours were packed in such a hell can be expected to come out alive, is more than your re-porter can imagine. The General in command a young stripling, about twenty years of age, a year from West Point, and the first time that he has had duty of any importance to perform. That the commanding officer should have as signed so delicate and responsible a task to one young could very well be accounted for i the fact that no other older officer would take the place. An older officer would never have dreamed of holding human beings in such a But Generalissimo Second lace for a second. Lieutenant Allyn Capron thought he would spread himself just once, and accordingly had these poor fellows locked up until ing this action of the United States Government In sending the prisoners to such a dangeon as Fort Lafayette. They say that it is not a place fit to keep swine in. They are of opinion that if these men are to be restrained of their liberty they could just as well be confined in Fort Wadsworth, opposite Fort Hamilton, where the accommodations are all that could be desired. Colonel Driscoll was a primer in Libby Prison, and Colonel Maynedier shared the same fate at Charleston. They unhesitalingly assert that, so far as the quarters are concerned, those at eo far as the quarters are concerned, those at Fort Lafayette are more disgraceful, if anything, than those of the prisons above mentioned. It is the meanest, vilest, filthiest place we ever saw, not even excepting that loathsome hole, Ludlow street jall.

AN ELEPHANT TRAINER.

A Journalist has a Talk with Hirz-Politics

Eschewed-How an Illustrious Pachydera Carries On.

A Detroit paper has the following:

"'Baby Annie,' exhibited on Friday and Saturday in this city, is as popular and well known as the majority of human actors who tread the boards instead of the sawdust ring. Like them, she endeavors to please, and in her way feels chagrin as deeply when she fails to receive the approbation believed to be merited. She is now five years old, and though far from her 'teens, is nevertheless a pretty good lump of a body, weighing eighteen hundred pounds. Her history has been carefully kept, and McLaughlin, her trainer, can tell you everything about her.

"At the time of her capture she was only two years old; but Smith, the captor, assisted by a party of Africans and dogs, found her as hard to control in her infancy as most women are at mature age. After a few weeks training she was started for the coast, eight hundred miles away, and Kenyon has yet in his cages two large hyenas that rode in baskets slung over Miss Annie's back. Her cost in New York was eight thousand dollars, and at the time of her purchase she was the smallest elephant in this country, and is still the only genuine African elephant. Though she has never been hard pushed to test her endurance on the road, she once took a stretch of forty-two miles over the rocky roads of Pennsylvania in eleven hours.

with her trunk as to harm a human being who treated her courteously. Last winter, in her quarters at Philadelphia, she exhibited love and hate in a very singular manner. McLaughlin had imbibed rather freely, and, returning to the barn, got into a difficulty with a policeman, who was bent on arresting him. The cop had been around the barn a good deal, and was somewhat acquainted with the elephant. The trainer fied to the barn, and getting behind Baby,' refused to submit to arrest. The M. P. boldly advanced to bring him out, when the elephant thrust him aside with her trunk. This was repeated several times, the trainer encouraging her, when the policeman gave her an angry blow with his baton, and sought to push by. Blowing her shrill trumpet, 'Baby' caught him around the waist, and giving him a strong whirl, deposited the frightened blue coat in a barrel of oats thirty feet away. As he had no instruc tions to arrest elephants, and could not arrest the man without her, he cencluded not to press matters further.

night, McLaughlin s t down beside 'Baby' on a bale of hay, and soon fell asleep. Near him was the cage of the Bengal tiger, a fierce and ungovernable animal, and treacherous to the last degree. By lying down the beast could get his paws at full length under the bars, and on his paws at full length under the bars, and on the morning of that very day he had thus given his unsuspecting keeper a stroke with his claws and tore open the man's check in a horrible manner. Restless, McLaughlin rolled about, and the eyes of the Royal glistened as he saw the body coming nearer to his cruel claws. At length, just as one of the keepers entered the door, the trainer rolled down so near that the tiger reached out and saught his clothes. With a savage snarl, he was straightening back for a pull to get the was straightening back for a pull, to get the flesh under his nails, when the elephant, who had also been sleeping, rose up at the growl, and seeing the situation at a glance, rushed forward before the man at the end had scarcely advanced a step, and with a blow of her trunk made the tiger let go his hold and scream with pain and fury. "Since her capture she has increased seven hundred pounds in weight, and six inches in height. Three years ago she had not a sign of a tusk; now, she has ivories six inches long, and growing finely. In the summer, when the wea-ther is dry, she gets a bath at every creek, and her trainer gives her a dozen pails of water over the back if standing long in the tent. About twice a year she gets six gallons of linseed oil rubbed over her skin; without it, the hide would get so dry as to feel and sound like a board. Her usual feed per day is a bushel of oats and one hun-dred and fifty peunds of hay, and she drinks, if moderately thirsty, twenty pails of water at a time. As stated, she is very docile, minding readily if she understands what is wanted. Doing wrong, through ignorance, let her trainer 'bless her eyes' a little, and 'Baby' shows as much sorrow as a repentant infant. As this is her third season, the person must be sharp who can impose upon her a worthless gift. About four weeks ago a man gave her a stick of candy which had been soaked for some time in tobacco juice. Seeming not to mind the joke, 'Baby waited a little, and when the joker had almost forgotten the incident, she took up a huge piece of liver lying near the cage of lions, and sent the mass full against the fellow's breast, knocking him down, and altogether spoiling the bosom of his white shirt, and his ideas of superior

RABIES.

Horrible Case of Hydrophobia. Rochester (Minn.) Cor. Milwaukee Sentinel.

On last Thursday a man known here by the name of John Callahan, but whose right name is believed to be John McElligatt, showed signs of that terrible disease known to the medical faculty as hydrophobia. For several days pre-vious he had shown symptoms of the disease, and had been watched closely. He has had seve ral terrible raying fits or spasms, the first of which lasted some four hours, and, though a small-sized man, it required four men to hold him while they lasted, so violent were they. He has several times begged his attendants to put an end to his sufferings by taking his life. He has such a horror of the occurrence of the raving fits that he tries to bite all who approach him Doctors Mayo, Cross, Galloway, and Allen have visited the unfortunate man, and all agree in pronouncing it hydrophobia, and, of course, inurable. The disease is traced to a bite the vicecclved at Owatonna, a town forty miles of Rochester, on the Winona and St. Peter ad, about a year ago, from a dog that was I by the proprietor of a fast mag known as elle of Owatonna. The man was bitten on el, but the wound was slight and soon over, and the affair was thought no more a few days ago, when signs of hydroappeared. There are conflicting storie concerning the condition of the dog in on at the time the man was bitten. who made his appearance towards dusk, and ordered their immediate liberation from the dungeons. When they stepped out from these swine pens they rushed into the open air like so madmen, and, as the weather was intolerable, they made a rush for the cistern for water to quench their thirst, and such water! Lieutenant-colonel Discroll's dog Dixle, who can do almost anything that his master tells him to do, refused point blank to approach within a foot of it. And yet the prisoners drank two and three mugfuls before their thirst could be satisfied. Towards nightfail, supper, consisting of coffee and bread, was sent over from Fort Hamilton. Three hours afterwards, the only noise that was heard was the measured step of the solitary sen-tinel as he paced his post. The captives slept upon the hard flags of the court-yard, with no other shelter than the starry heavens above them.

SUNDAY MORNING.

At sunrise yesterday morning their breakfast, which again consisted of bread and coffee, wa served. After they had concluded that beggarly meal, they were ordered to fall into line and answer roll call. That terrible man, the Gene-ralissimo, after the call had been concluded. announced that one man was missing, and, in order to ascertain who that lucky dog was, he would forthwith lock every man of them up. The guard was formed, and the culprits were marched to their dungcons, 64 being thrust into one dungeon, 38 into another dungeon, and the rest into a little cell. The Generalissimo then with a drawn sabre in one hand, a cocked Colt' six-shooter in the other, and a spy-glass visible from the southeast corner of his southwestern coat tail pocket, ran to the parapets, and began to level his instrument in every direction. - A1 length the Generalissimo descended, and began to tramp around the ruins of the Fort. Then, hearing the prisoners clamoring for water, he ran to the door of their dungeons (standing at a respectable distance, however), and told the sentinel to shoot the first man that dared raise a mutiny. Utterly exhausted, the great man now gently squatted beneath the shade of a huge eam on the pier, and awaited the coming out of the prisoner. Then the missing man was found never to have been missing. The Generalissimo shortly after this began to overflow with the wilk of human kindness, and adminis-tered a well-directed kick to one of the French company. His threats to shoot were without number. The terrible man frightened everybody. The rest of the day was spent in trying to sleep.

THE PRISONERS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON Our reporter, in company with Colonels Dris oll and Maynadler, visited the fort yesterday afternoon. He found the men poorly clad, some of them half naked, grouped in the yard roast-ng in the hot sun. The officers were not much better off. Eight lay packed in a dungeon. The captives are of course indiguant at the breach of good faith on the part of the Government officials, and threaten vengeance on some of them personally. The Generalissimo especially is sure not to be spared. Every one that has visited the pen exclaimed on entering, "What! does the United States Government keep a human being in this place ?" The prisoners are loud in their praises of Colonels Driscoll and Maynadier, who have been unremitting in their attentions to them. Mr. William C. Churca, of towards Hotel, has also contributed much towards making them comfortable. them. Mr. William C. Church, of Church's
