MEW YORKISMS.

From our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 31, 1869. The Hansom Cab Company has elected its officers. They are Wm. Watts Sherman, of the firm of Duncan, Sherman & Co.; D. V. Arquinbau, of Gomez, Wallis & Co.; John Hoey, of Adams Express Co.; Richard Schell, Robert Cochran, and James Brown, of James Brown & Co. It is expected that within two months fifty hansom cabs will be running. The rates have been reduced to a lower standard than was at first contemplated. One passenger may ride one mile for thirty cents; two passengers the same distance for forty-the same rates to be observed for every additional mile and fraction of a mile. The hansoms are also to be hired by the hour at seventy-five cents per hour for one person, or one dollar for two. As soon as practicable the rates will be lowered to twenty cents a mile and fifty cents an hour for one person.

Mr. Tayleure, the muscular Christian, until recently connected with Fisk's Opera House, is expending his electric energy in discovering new attractions for the fall and winter season, He and Mr. John S. Clarke are interested in the production in this city of a new picturesque play by a well-known London playwright, I will be illustrated by no less than twenty scenes. painted by one of the most skilful scenic artists of the London stage, and will, in fact, present a coup d'oil of historical London. Mr. Tayleure' other attraction consists in the projected engage ment of Mr. Ben de Bar, of the St. Louis Opera House and the St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans. Mr. Ben de Bar, who ha hitherto been de-Bar-red from perform ing in New York, is the oldest and richest low comedian in the United States; and if these constitute claims to popularity, that he will shortly be the low-comedy divinity of Gotham is a foregone conclusion. Mr. John Sleeper Clarke, bythe-by, has been working hard in London, but with nothing of the success that attends his labors here. He does not seem to know his own mind in regard to returning to this country, and his agents receive by every other steamer contradictory instructions from him with respect to the announcements they are to make of his first appearance. In good time I presume he will Toodleise as usus New York and Philadelphia.

Let me state, in a few words, the truth of the scandal about the Selwyn Combination Company, which passed through so unpleasant an experience at Wallack's Theatre last Monday night. They originated a strike in the middle of the second act of the Long Strike, because, they aver, they had not been paid their last week's salary. According to them, Mr. Biddle transmitted to Mr. Moss, the treasurer of Wallack's, the necessary stamps wherewith to pay off that indebtedness, which (still according to them) Mr. Moss omitted to do. Hence the strike. Mr. J. A. Selwyn, at his wits' how to appease the actors and the audience, both of whom were growing clamorous, at length presented to the gaze of the actors a signed check which represented the full amount of salaries due, and which he gave his word of honor should be cashed next morning. Next morning came, however, and the check was not cashed. The old members of Wallack's company were only too glad to jump into the shoes-the sock and buskin, I should say-vacated by their Boston rivals. This is the story as it comes to my ears, and it is of such profound importance that I thought you would like to hear it.

The visitors to Central Park last year numbered more than seven millions, and the work of construction cost nearly $250,000. The commissioners have just published their annual report. It makes a handsome volume, profusely adorned with exquisite photographic views. Only a limited number of these books are printed, and to obtain a copy is a favor to be compassed by but few. It makes a desirable ornament for the centre-table, and is worthy of being richly bound. Nearly $270,000 were last year expended for wages alone; and you will admit that the park which yearly has half a million spent upon it deserves to be the foremost one in the world.

A large and misunderstood class of people in New York are the Italian organ-grinders. They cannot be called vagrants, neither can they be said to belong to the industrial classes. They live very poorly, of course, for their merrymaking season is limited to the six warm months of the year. During that season they often make enough to support their families the entire year. A good many families live in the vicinity of Five Points, six or eight people frequently occupying one room. For this from five to eight dollars a month is paid. The possessors of fluteorgans frequently make five dollars in a They live mostly on their national dish, maccaroni, the cheap variety of which be bought for six cents a pound, and the genuine imported variety for twenty-five cents. For the most part they are a decent, quiet, well-behaved set of people. They are extremely sensitive to the severity of our winters. Even in summer they keep fires lit in rooms unventilated by open doors or windows. Baxter and Park streets are two of their great resorts. Many of the little Italian children whom one pities as he sees them in the streets on week days, attend mission schools on Sunday, and make more docile scholars than specimens of Young America do. It is very seldom that one of these Italian street musicians, boy or man, turns up in a police court. Their inoffensiveness is extreme. They would rather run than quarrel, and they fully deserve all the pennies that fall to their share.

The fact that one of the Ocean Bank robbers committed snielde yesterday within forty miles of Liverpool speaks greatly in favor of the efficiency of our police and of the cable in aiding eriminals to escape. I am afraid that, instead of these burglarious cases being "worked up" by the police, it is the feelings of the public that undergo that pleasing operation.

Much uncalled-for sympathy has been be stowed upon the sewing girls of New York and other large citles. But do they deserve so much commiseration after all? The whole city and country is pining under the oppression of its servants, and poor American girls, who are willing to work, have the means of revolutionizing the households of the Union if they so choose. Talk of importing coolies! Our neighbors in the Eastern States have the only good servants procurable in America, and those servants are American girls, who are not ashamed to receive good wages for making homes comfortable.

THE LEBANON CAMP-MEETING.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LEBANON, Pa., July 30, 1869 .- The religious exercises of this great Feast of Tabernacles began last evening. Nearly one thousand people were present.

Rev. Mr. Broadbent, of Cressona, preached an appropriate sermon from "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

The sermons to-day were preached by the Rev. T. Montgomery, of Dauphin, in the morning; Rev. Mr. Lindamuth, of Perryville, in the afternoon; and Rev. Mr. Purndells, of Pottstown, in the evening. There are about forty ministers present from various sections of the land, and representing different denominations of Christians. The best of spirit prevails, and the prospect is promising for a superior meeting. The air is refreshing, the woods beautifully shaded. and the order perfect.

It is hoped and expected that Bishop Simpson will be present to officiate on Sabbath morning, but this is not certain. Your city is represented by a few families from the Green Street M. E. Church, and their pastor Rev. J. B. McCallough. The wonder is that every church does not tent here. It is passing strange that so many prefer the sands and mosquitoes of New Jersey to the lively scenery and beautiful shades of Penn's

The run from Philadelphia is made on the P. & R. R. R. in about 31/2 hours. The cost of excursion tickets to and from is only $4.25. The meeting will continue till next Friday.
