

FIRST EDITION EUROPE.

Mail Dates to July 27. Religious Reforms in the Russian Empire—The Church Bill in England—Confagration in Paris—Attempted Assassinations in Spain—The Coming Rowing Contest.

On Saturday the transatlantic mail steamship Union arrived at the port of New York, bringing with it the following news: GREAT BRITAIN.

Tunnel Under the Straits of Dover. The tunnel under the Straits of Dover, which has been so long discussed, appears to be given up. It is stated that the engineers of France and of England have just now pronounced decidedly against the scheme. Thus the agreement that the tunnel is quite feasible, but then they add that the cost of it would be £1,000,000, which puts it quite out of the question, unless the Governments of France and England should, in the interest of international amity, think it right to proceed with it regardless of expense.

Comments on the Passage of the Irish Church Bill from the London Morning Star.

The Irish Church bill awaits the royal assent. Its reception in the House of Commons, as finally amended in pursuance of the Cairns-Granville compromise, was cordial and all but unanimous. Indeed, when we come to look at the concession more closely, the Lords have had less of their own way than at first appeared. They demanded on Lord Carnarvon's clause about £810,000 on the curates' case £490,000 more, and on the glebe houses £120,000. This extra claim was £1,410,000. The added five per cent. on the annuities will only give them £250,000, which, for people who have asked for something like six times that sum, is not so very much after all.

Plots to Assassinate in Spain. The ordinary complexity of Spanish affairs is increased in this case by the fact that concurrently with the late Carlist agitation a movement has been set on foot for the restoration of Queen Isabella. The scheme finds no favor among the Carlists, and a second edition of Isabella's regime would be much more repugnant than the rule even of Don Carlos; but certain officers and priests are still on the side of the ex-Queen. The plot to assassinate Serrano, Prim, and Rivera, who are the Carlist plotters, got up by these adherents of the deposed sovereign, and according to the Independence Belge, it was of a very extensive character.

English Opinion of the Harvard Crew. The London News has the following: We can at once pronounce the physique of the Harvard crew to be superior to that of the best amateur four we could send against them.

Another Version of President Grant's Sentiments. Mr. Domingo Ruiz is supposed to have written a letter of which the following is an extract: "I went to the headquarters of General Grant, and not being able to see him, because he was much occupied, received notice, through one of his aides, that he would see me the next day."

Pre-emption by the Patriot Gen. Céspedes. At date of July 7 the following was promulgated: CUBA. We cannot ignore the happy successes which have accrued since April 10, and those which are being achieved by the arms of the revolution of Cuba under one government.

The Request for the Attorney-General to Resign his Position. The Sunday Republic of yesterday refers as follows to the trouble about the State Attorney-Generalship: "The rumors current for some months relative to the removal of Benjamin H. Brewster, Esq., from the position of attorney-general of the State, have at length taken such definite shape, that it will no longer be improper to refer to the matter. There is no denying the fact that no single act of Governor Geary has manifested more respect for the honor of the appointment of Mr. Brewster. When the appointment was made, and we believe it was accomplished, it was done with the greatest care and deliberation."

THE CONTINENT. The Skoptzy See—Who Are Its Members. A correspondent writes from St. Petersburg, July 14: In a previous letter, not wishing to delay any longer my report of the famous Plotzkin trial, I omitted to mention some facts of importance, which I now communicate to you, with some observations, from the government paper, or Modier (Pravoslavny Vestnik). The principal prisoner, Maksim Plotzkin, merchant of the town of Morskansk, convicted of "belonging to the Castelet sect, fomenting sedition to members of the same sect and actively propagating its doctrines, is sentenced to the 'deprivation of all his rights and privileges belonging to his condition, to be stripped of three medals and the order of St. Anna, banished to some distant part of Siberia, and there committed to the strictest surveillance of the local civil authorities,' though not deprived of personal liberty. The same sentence, under the same heads of accusation, with the exception of the stripping of honorable signs of distinction, for the want of any such, is passed on the other prisoners to the number of twenty-seven, both men and women, exclusively belonging to the peasant and lower merchant class, in considering the character of the prisoners are of a high old age and must have entered the sect a very long time—perhaps half a century—ago, there is a clause enjoining the court to solicit the pardon of such prisoners. The money found in the possession of Plotzkin are to be transferred, according to the law in such cases, to his heirs-at-law. As for the missing money, no search or investigation is to be instituted about them. Thus what formed the chief end, indeed, the only motive of the accusation, is left quite out of view by the court's ultimate decision, and the poor people severely punished for a fact of which many thousands are known to be guilty, nor ever have a public accusation directed against them. In Petersburg alone hundreds of Skoptzy openly walk the streets and freely attend to their trades or professions, without dreaming of concealment, and it is notorious that the money-changers are Castelets, almost every mother's son of them. The money found, it cannot be said that this trial has left any very favorable impression on the public mind.

Great Fire in Paris. In Paris at midnight on Friday, July 23, the depot of the Compagnie de Petites Voitures, in the Rue Stanislas, took fire, and the dried wood, varnish, and other materials, used so extensively on the premises, fed the flames, which spread with fearful rapidity to Dewaters' factory, as well as to the neighboring houses. The troops were early on the spot, and rendered aid in the extinguishing of the flames. The furniture from the blazing apartments. The task was all the more difficult as the men were literally enveloped in a shower of sparks, which had a dazzling and almost blinding effect on them. The space formed by the Tués Yavin and Breteuil, quickly rendered impassable in consequence of the furniture, broken mirrors, mattresses, and household goods piled in one promiscuous heap of confusion in its centre. In spite of the gallant efforts of the fire brigade, the troops, the Municipal Guard, and several companies of police, the fire was not under till four in the morning of Saturday, and even at that hour but little impression was apparent to the spectators as a consequence of their exertions, for flames leapt up every now and then. The number of persons who were killed and families of workmen, artisans, and mechanics, whose scanty furniture was not insured, have suffered severely. Poor women, scarcely clothed, who had rushed out of their beds, were all night to be seen crouching in the midst of the household furniture, which was piled up in a most strange and relate, lying on the heaped-up mattresses, children and babies, fast asleep, laid there by their distracted mothers, apparently enjoying their siesta in the open night air as though they were not in the midst of a conflagration which had not only destroyed their property, but had also destroyed their families. A young girl of singular beauty, wrapped in a scarlet curtain, wandered amid the wreck of her father's property. Four hundred and fifty cabs and £80,000 worth of property have been destroyed. M. Rousseau's organ factory, which was organized at the same time, was also destroyed.

THE NEW YORK MARKET. The Philadelphia Trade Report. MONDAY, AUG. 9.—There is no new feature to present in the Flour market, and only 1100 barrels were taken, in lots, by the home consumers, at $5 50 for superfine; $5 00 to $5 75 for extra; $4 50 to $5 00 for low, Wisconsin, and Minnesota extra; $4 25 to $4 75 for Pennsylvania do.; $4 00 to $4 50 for Indiana and Ohio do.; and $3 50 to $4 00 for fancy brands, according to quality. Rye Flour sells at $4 25 to $4 50 per bushel. There is but much activity in the Wheat market, but prices are unchanged. Sales of 1000 bushels net at $1 40 to $1 55, 400 bushels poor Indiana white at $1 20, and some Kentucky at $1 80. Rye is quiet at $1 20 per bushel for new and old. Western Corn is steady, with sales of Western at 74c; new and old Pennsylvania at 56c to 75c; and New Southern at 56c to 60c. Nothing doing in Barley or Malt. There is no change in the absence of sales, we quote No. 1 Quartered at $4 75 per ton. Whisky is quoted at $1 60 to $2 00 per gallon, tax paid.

Philadelphia Cattle Market. MONDAY, AUG. 9.—The tone of the market for Beef Cattle was somewhat stronger to-day, and under the influence of a comparatively light supply an advance was made in the price of the article. The receipts were good, particularly for prime lots, which were in small supply, and common descriptions advanced a fair share of the advance. We quote choice at 9 50c, fair to good at 8 50c to 9c, prime at 7 50c, and common at 4 50c to 7c per pound gross.

Philadelphia Sheep Market. MONDAY, AUG. 9.—The market for Sheep was steady, and prices were steady. Sales of 10,000 head at the Park and Avenue yards at 5 50c to 6 50c per lb. gross.

SCANDAL.

A Western Elopement—How an Honest St. Louis German Lost his "Dear Kathrin."—The Follies and Infatuations of Married Life. From the Chicago News, July 31.

St. Louis is a first-rate place to emigrate from. So thought Louis Hansel, the proprietor of a lager-beer saloon at No. 1128 North Seventh street, in that city. Where would he come to, being a sagacious and sensible man, but to Chicago, the centre of civilization, the centre of commerce, the centre of attraction, and probably the centre of gravity? He packed up his new valise, a brand-new second-hand one, for which he paid $5 currency, and then sat down to give his wife a last and most touching adieu. His last words were, "I shall be back in a week, and I shall bring you a fine new machine when I was far away. It was a sight worthy of a sign painter. He dandled a two-year-old flaxen-haired baby—the solitary result of his love—upon his new pair of breeches. His last words were, "I shall be back in a week, and I shall bring you a fine new machine when I was far away. It was a sight worthy of a sign painter.
