CITY INTELLIGENCE. A DEMOCRATIC RUMPUS.

The Split in the Thirteenth Legislative District

The Split in the Thirteenth Legislative District —Forsyth Defies the City Executive Committee and Throws Himself Upon the People. The Thirteenth Representative district of this city is so strongly Democratic that for years the party within its borders has been split into rival factions, within its borders has been split into rival factions, each endeavoring to get the apper hand of the other. Last year the Michael Mullin faction had the best of the fight, and Mullin was elected to the State Legis-lature. When the time came for nominating his successor, recently, the antagonism was so bitter that the convention was split, Mullin being renomi-nated by one section, and Mr. Forsyth by the other. Mullin referred the question to the Democratic City Executive Committee for settlement, and that com-mittee, previous to taking any decisive action, admittee, previous to taking any decisive action, ad-dressed the following note to Mr. Forsyth:-

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5, 1869. - Dear Sir - You are regneated to meet the win-committee or the Democratic City Executive Committee on with instant, at 5 o'clock \mathbf{P} M, at room Americas Club, N. Enwano R. WORRELL, Sourcearing.
To John Fonsyth, Esj.
Mr. Forsyth, however, was unwilling to slaughter himself in this fashlon, and responded to the letter of the committee in the following strain:—
PHILADELFURA, Ang. 6, 1862.—Gentlemeni.—Your note, per sub-committee, of the 5th inst., was received by my requesting my attendance on your body to swear that 1 will abide by your decisions, and support the nominees of the Democratic parts.
In answer, permit nie to reply that 1 am always willing to shide by your decisions when legally and fairly given, and that I have always and ever expect to support the regular nominees of the Democratic party. Yet, I must express a regret that 1 cannot allow my nomination as a candidate for the Legislature in the Thirteenth Representative district (to which I presume you refer in your note) to be a called in question by any action of your body my nomination as a fairly and justly entitled. The matter was reforred by you to a subcommittee, a majority of which committee face of all parliamentary mage and right, at the instagation of your body for the response of your body regret that I was entitled to the nomination, yet in the face of all parliamentary mage and right, at the instagation of a potential member of your body from the Fourth ward, you rejected their report and decided adversely to me for eity and county conventions warm ne to trust mose to the homes and fair minded men of my district that to follow the yam hope of expecting an impartial decision from you.

The to follow the vain hope of expecting an impartial decision from you. The people of my district refuse to allow me to refer my momination to you, and in their hands I have placed myself. The shortness of the time between your note and time of meeting will not allow me to place before you for your information and to allow the to place before you for your information and to place the matter beyond a question of doubt. The conclusion, permit me to express a hope that you may so decide upon the various questions in dispute among our candidates as to secure harmony, goodwill, and success in our coming elector. Remaining yours most respectfully. Joint for the Legislature, XIIIth Representative District.

To the City Executive Committee, Democratic Party. To the City Executive Committee, Democratic Farly. The committee thereupon threw Forsyth over-board entirely, and declared Mullin the regular can-didate of the party. The chances of Mr. Joseph A. Geisz, the Republican candidate in this district, may therefore be considered as slightly above par,

A LETTER ABOUT HESTER VAUGHAN. —The case of the young woman Hester Vaughan, who was tried and sentenced to death for the murder of her baby some months since, but was subsequently pardoned by the Governor, is familiar to all our residents. A friend of hers has addressed the following letter to

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Sir:—New York ladies have endeavored to get the address of Hester Vaughan, which the writer could have given them, but was prevented from doing so from sheer mortli-cation. Had she done so she would have been comwrong done Hester Vanghan, there was not one in dividual in this State who voluntarily came forward with the offer of a dollar to replace the clothing that was stolen from her, or offered to contribute and send Hester Vaughan to her parents. From this charge I may except a whole-souled Irishwoman, who came to the writer with a dollar in her hand, which contribution, under the circumstances. I de-clined to receive. I thank God that Hester is now with fler parents, though she is poor, with a shat-tered constitution, and her reputation damned for FLOURISHING CONDITION OF THE INTERNAL REVENCE DEFARTMENT IN THIS CITY. --Col. C. A. Appel, a special agent in the Internal Revenue Department at Washington, by direction of Commissioner Delano, has been in the city for the past three weeks examining the books and papers in the various collectors and assessors' offices, and inspecting the workings of the different distilleries and rectifying establishments. He has completed his labors and is about returning to headquarters. He has found all the different departments working harmoniously, and will report that everything is being conducted in a way from which the Government will derive the most benefit. He will also report that the collectors are received for several years past, and that with a decreased capacity, owing to the stoppages of the distilleries during the has found failteries during the has found failteries during the has the stoppages of the distilleries during the has cound found all the endities of the department. The section of country contributing to this supply extended from Lower bay, on the Delaware coast, to Chesapeake bay and its tributaries, as far down as Chester river. The propellers Whilidin and Decatur, of the Philadelphia and Baltimore line, together brought 14,000 baskets to 24,000 ox Satur-day last. The quality of the peaches, however, is improving with each shipment, and the finer varie-ties are beginning to come into market. Shipments to New York were active yesterday, and this will have the effect of stiffening prices, and making the rates more remunerative to the fruit-growers. From the N. Y. Herald of to-day. Again the wild waters of the ocean have made sad havoc with the work of man. Not all the ingenuity, skill, and enterprise of the human mind could pre-vail against their power. Whenever for a series of months there is no terrible disastor at sea to be de-tailed to an awe-stricken public, one settles down almost to the belief that the progress of civilization is about to triumph over the terrific forces of nature. But soon we are argued, and the foolbardiness. is about to triumph over the berrifle forces of nature. But soon we are aroused and the foolhardiness, the self-complacency of main is terribly made apparent. It is but a few months ago that the United Kingdom steamed out of this harbor with flags waving cheerly in the breze and her freight of human beings rejoicing and congratulat-ing themselves at the prospect of a speedy return to the mountain ranges of Scotland. Alast man may hope and wish and make his calculations for the immediate future, as if he could command the powers and forces of nature, but often, and only too often, he is badted by his utter inability to counteract them, and is made to feel his own insignificance, the poverty of is made to feel his own insignificance, the poverty of his own pigmy strength. Merrily and cheerily as the United Kingdom sailed from our shores, no human eye will ever see her again, no human ear will listen to the harrowing tales of her passengers, no human voice will give an account of her last days and the sufferings of her last moments. She is gone, and the bed of the ocean will not surrender its prev.

On the Scaffold.

Orme ascended the scattold with a firm step, and uletly and composedly listened to the Sheriff while he read the death warrant. His Last Words Declaring his Innocence. Orme was then asked if he had anything to say. when he called for a glass of water, and, after drink ing, made some remarks, during which he said he was not guilty of the murder, and had not had a fair trial, was convicted on false evidence, and, as he hoped to see his Maker, was innocent of the murder, although he had committed other crimes. Although he had committed other crimes. He did not like to say anything against the people of Monroe county, but complained that he had been badly dealt with during his imprisonment, and ac-knowledged many acts of kindness that he had received from citizens. He attacked Brodhead's evidence against him, and gave his version of how the murder was committed. He spoke of Brodhead's contradictory statements it the time of the murder and during the trial, and hought the District Attorney should have marked the difference. He complained of being a stranger, and everybody was prejudiced against him. He was also very severe on the judge and jury that tried his case,

FROM GREENSBURG.

Second Day of the State Teachers' Educa-tional Convention.

Special Despatch to The Ecening Telegraph. GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11 .- The exercises this morning are more than ordinarily interesting. When the session opened at nine o'clock, the attendance, outside of the delegates, was large. After the routine business was ended, Colonel C. Cornfirth, of McKean county, made a report on "The Family, School, and Church, as Educators of Youth." In the discussion which was evoked by this paper, Amos Row, Esq., of Lancaster county, led off, and was followed by Professor Schumacker, of Chambersburg, Pa.

A paper read by J. C. Gilchrist, Esq., chairman, of Washington county, on "Absentceism as Related to Crime," provoked a short debate. A report on "Permanent Certificates," read by S. D. Ingram, of Dauphin county, was disenssed by David Evans, of Lancaster county, J. A. M. Passmore, of Pottsville, and a number of other gentlemen. The convention then took a recess to 2 o'clock

St. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 10, 1863. The pastengers and rew were successfully landed at Trepassy, and a tug has ne to their assistance

This was assurance that the entire number of uman beings who had left New York on the yes sel were safely returned to dry land, and would soo be taken care of by the agents of the company. Th apprehensions, if any were yet felt by those who had riends, relatives, or even acquaintances on were further quieted by learning of the receipt of the ollowing:-

Sr. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 10-3413 P. M. - To Kuhnhardt & Co., New York - The passengers and crew are still at the cene of the wreck. A tug left this morning to bring what he can carry here. R. H. PROWSE. The latest information is that the Germania is a omplete wreck, that she is breaking up and fast isappearing under the continuous shocks of the treus blows of the waves breaking up agains and over her. One despatch last evening expressed the belief that besides the passengers and crew the mails were also brought safely to land, but nothing upon which this belief could rest was mentioned. The vessel, cargo, and specie are a total loss, and in all probability also the baggage of the passengers, who, if the disaster happened at night, as appears to have been the fact, must have been in their berths and very likely could save but little of their ward robe.

RELIEF NEAR.

The Cimbria, belonging to the same company-the Hamburg-American-sailed yesterday at 2 P. M., it being her regular sailing day. The general agents, Messrs, Kuhnhardt & Co., had already been afivised of the loss of the Germania, and immediately gave orders to Captain P. H. Haack to make all po speed to St. Johns, and there take on board the pas-sengers of the lafe Germania, the sister vessel of the Cimbria, and Mr. Prowse, the North German Consul at St. Johns, was at once informed of this step 1 telegraph, and he was requested not only to con municate this to the passengers and to Captain Kier, but to do all in his power to make them as comfort-able as possible, and spare no expense in doing so until the arrival of the Cimbria. A special agent, entrusted with full power by Messrs, Kuhnhardt & Co., also went out yesterday in the same steamer to St. Johns. The passengers of the wreeked steamer St. Johns. The passengers of the wrecked steamer will be placed on board the Cimbria and conveyed to Europe.

LOSS OF THE CLEOPATRA. This iron steamer was constructed at Sunderland in 1865, and was classed as a first-rate vessel. She in 1865, and was classed as a first-rate vessel. She was owned by Temperly & Co., of London, and was commanded by Captain W. Donald. She had two decks and beams, and was registered at 982 tons. Her length was 221 feet; breadth, 30 feet 5 inches; depth of hold, 14 feet 8 inches. It is doubtful if she carried any considerable amount of cargo, there being very little goods shipped at this season of the year. year.

Unlooked-for Conduct.

When he had done speaking ex-Sheriff Henry, with execrable bad taste, advanced from the small crowd in the prison-cell, and actually entered into a contro-versy with the prisoner regarding his treatment during his term of office.

The Execution Stayed.

A message was received at the time from Judge Barrett, stating that if the spiritual adviser or the sheriff desired it, the execution could be stayed until the arrival of the one o'clock train, when a respite from Governor Geary might possibly arrive.

Waiting for a Respite.

After a short controversy it was determined to wait, and the prisoner, who was on the very brink of ternity, was conducted back to his cell to await the arrival of the train.

Back to the Scaffold. At half-past 1 o'clock Orme was again brought from his cell and conducted to the scaffold. About twenty minutes were consumed in prayer by the Rev. Messrs. Ridgway and price. At five minutes of 2 the white cap was drawn, and the halter affixed amid a scepe of horror. The Rope Breaks,
