Philadelphia During the Year Ending June 36, 1869.
The twenty-eighth monthly report of the Deputy Special Commissioner of the Revenue has now been issued, and from it and the preceding reports we compile some interesting and valuable statistics conserning the commerce of the port of Philadelphia.

In the table below are given the foreign commodities imported, re-exported, warehoused, withdrawn from warehouse, and remaining in warehouse, together with the value of domestic exports during the first six months of 1869; the imports being placed at their sworn specie valuation at the foreign place of exportation, the re-exports mainly at their specie value, and the domestic exports at their sworn currency value. The figures for the first quarter are as follows:—

But $580 of the exports and re-exports belonged to the latter class, as shown above. It will be seen that nearly 63 per cent, of the imports for the month were included in those brought from Cuba and Porto Rico. The total imports for May reached $2,486,850, of which $1,908,674 were from Cuba and Porto Rico, being a still larger proportion, fully 77

DIED.—Mrs. Eliza Soper, who was accidentally shot by her husband, Alonzo D. Soper, on beard the canal boat Security, at Catharine street wharf, a few days since, died at the Pennsylvania Hospital this days since, died at the Pennsylvania Hospital this morning. Alonzo is in custody awaiting the result of the Coroner's investigation. The allegation is that he was suffering from delirium tremens, and imagining that some one was after him, drew a revolver and fired, the ball from the weapon passing through Mrs. Soper's hand and then into her side.

DESERVING MENTION.—Daniel F. Kelly, of the Good Intent Hose, and Policemen Thomas F. Murray and — Ruff, of the Sixth district, are deserving of public notice for the services rendered by them last evening, at the fire on Chesnut street. These gentlemen, with Special Officer Randall and the Chief of the Fire Patrol, were the first to enter Scott's store, and succeeded in saving a vast amount of property. FIRES THIS MORNING. - Shortly after two o'clock this morning the weaver shop of Mr. Miller, at Elia and Amber street, was damaged by fire. Loss $1000.

At about three o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the shoe manufactory on the fourth floor of a building in Ranstead Place, above Fourth street. The flames were discovered and extin-guished by the Insurance Patrol.

A Description of the Edifice—Its Cost, and Dedication To-merrow.

To-merrow, with solemn service, the beautiful and capacious house of worship of the Third Street M. E. Congregation of Camden, N. J., will be dedicated. On a chill November day, now two or three years since, the old church building was burned to the ground. The present magnificent structure has risen, Phoenixilke, from its askes. Removing some little distance from the old site, the new church stands on Third street, its grounds extending from Bridge avenue to Mickie street. Its dimensions are 58 by 100 feet, and the grounds cover a space of 160 by 150 feet.

by 150 feet.

Having three fronts, even a superfluity of light and air is provided—no obstraction, building or wall rises to darken its windows, and prevent the free ingress of ventilating breezes. It has yards or open spaces upon three sides, greenly sodded and planted with trees, the whole surrounded by a neat and pretty iron railing.

Entering the main door on Third street, you find convert in a venture of the street of the st

Entering the main door on Third street, you find yourself in a vestibule, who h leads back to the Sunday-school or lecture-room. The first floor is admirably divided. The large lecture-room, of course, occupies the greater portion, but then there are four fair sized class-rooms and a library-room to the back of all. The Sanday-school room is 52 by 84 feet; the class-rooms, 12 by 24 feet, and the height of the celling is 12 feet. of the ceiling is 12 feet. The arrangement is perfect.

Ascending now by a stairway, which rises from the back portion of the building to the chief andience chamber above and over to the galleries, you come at once into the body of the church. Here everthing is light and beauty. The chamber is finished in uniform style, and presents to the eye of the beholder a line appearance.

The aisless are covered with Brusselss carpeting, as is also the pulpit platform and the steps leading thither. The pulpit itself is an exqui-site piece of workmanship, and the only one of the kind in the State, being of marbelized slate of the richest shade.

The chamber itself, below the galleries, is 54 by 82 feet. Galleries extend on the two sides, and another stretches across the front, the latter being intended stretches across the front, the latter being intended for the use of the choir. The side ones project to feet into the room; the other, taking in the space designed for the organ, has a depth of 16 feet. The ceiling is 31 feet in height. The windows are of enamelled giass, admitting a light so subdued that shades or blinds are nameled. The gas fixtures are of an entirely new pattern, handsome in design, and so arranged as to afford awandant light. The aisles are four in number, two along either wail, and two running equidistant from these up the body of the running equidistant from these up the body of the room. Not a pew or seat in the church juts against the walls. The side aisies are three feet in width, the centre ones four feet six inches. The room is ventilated from the floor in winter time, and from the lated from the floor in wheter time, and from the ceiling in the summer time, upon the system known as "Leeds." It is warmed by two heaters situated in the cellar. The organ, which is to be large and strong, is not yet entirely finished, but the space reserved for it in the church has been prepared for its reception. The upholste y and furniture throughout are in keeping with their surroundings. The building is not only an ornament to Camden, but has added to the city by imp oving an entire square, which on account of its 15 mg below the grade, had served as a dividing line between Bridge avenue and the streets south of it.

It was erected under the supervision of a building committee, of which 8 5 m. Cowperthwait was the need.

all of the leading clergymen and laymen in New Jersey and adjoining States, making the occasion a grand reunion of the aposties and followers of Methoosm. That eminent patriot and divine, the Rev. Bishop Simpson, will officiate at 10 o'clock in the morning; the Rev. J. Walker Jackson at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the Rev. T. M. Eddy at 7% in the evening. Such an array of illustrious talent would be studied at the draw together a large attendance at any time, but upon an occasion no less important than that of dedicating the largest Methodist Church in West Jersey, it cannot be doubted a vast concourse will be present.

WHO ARE ENTITLED TO THE NATIONAL CONFIDENCE?-This was the subject of an address before the Union League last evening, delivered by Colonel Joseph A. Nunes. It was attentively listened to and appreciated. Colonel Nunes concluded his remarks appreciated. Colone: Naties concluded his remarks in the following eloquent manner:—

"Let not any man, therefore, who has heretofore stood by the country be now tempted to betray the country. Unite not with a party whose practices have been avowedly treas mable; a party without principle, and which but though yells disloyalty under the party of conservations. nothing by its success but to undo all the good which has been accomplished by almost inconceivable sacrifices, and to arrest the course of all rational and national progress. To the grown man, the man whose matured vision and formed judgment has witnessed the grand events which the last few years have evolved, an appeal should be unnecessary, for he has seen, felt, and anown all that has been alleged. It is principally the young and inexperienced—those who have learned but historically or traditionally the momentous character of the last decade—who are in danger of being deluded by the baseless assertions and pharisnical assumptions of our alversaries. Even the youthful must have been poorly taught, or must have read history with perverted glauce, if they can find anything seductive in Democratic offers or anything attractive in the Democratic party, offers or anything attractive in the Democratic party, which is only like the frightful maelstrom pretending to yield a haven to vessels that have lost their latitude and longitude, or like a rocky, iron-bound coast tendering its fluity and rainous hospitality to storm-pursued ships. If there is one poor tempest-tossed mariner on life's ocean in this presence, I would warn him alke against the rugged rocks, the terrible vortex, and the benocratic party, for they are alike destructive, and will alike result in wreck terrible vortex, and the Democratic party, for they are alike destructive, and will alike result in wreck and ruin to those who may be seduced into trusting and ruin to those who may be seduced into trusting them. To all who hear me, but especially to the young, I would say:—Be men, in mind as well as in stature; do your own reading and your own thinking, then there will be no canger of over credulity in accepting for facts the interested and mendacions assertions of charlatans a didemagogues, nor will there be any risk of your deserting the glorious cause which the courage and patriotism of your fathers and brothers have made trumphant. Look before you at the subline edifice which was reared by your you at the subline edifice which was reared by your revolutionary sires; which was vainly assailed by the Democratic party and its allies, and which was the Democratic party and its allies, and which was defended, preserved, extended, and beautified by republicanism and loyalty? It is the light and the hope of the world, and to your charge it is now entrusted? Guard it, 0 young men, with jealous and sleepless watchfulness; and if it should ever be assalled again, interpose your hearts and your arms as an invincible wall for its protection. Be reinspired by the glories and the successes of the past, and again triumph as your fathers triumphed."

Applitional Particulars. - The following are additional facts concerning the destructive fire at Broad and Wallace streets:-The property was occupied by Mr. David Werthington as a livery stable, and on the premises were stabled some thirty-eight horses. Of these only a few were saved, and the rest perished in the fames. In all thirty-three horses and two mules were burned to death. They belonged

OBITUARY.

John Durlyage.

This gentleman, known all over the country s a journalist and actor, died in Memphis, Tenn., on Friday morning. He was a native of Bosten, and was a kinsman of Edward Everett. For the past twenty years he has been connected with the press of Boston, New York, New Or-leans, and California. In San Francisco he was one of the founders of the Alta California. He wrote readily and pointedly, and some of his humorous productions enjoyed a wide reading. He was also the author of several successful farces and burlesques. Durivage was a genial, warm-hearted man, but he was his own worst enemy, and his 1'fe was therefore a sorrowful one. For some years he has acted in the leading theatres of the West His last permanent engagement was with Spaulding & bioweil, at the academy of Music, New Orleans. There some of his newest and pleasantest burlesques were performed. A few weeks are he went to Memphis with an itinerant company of actors. The manager, after brief season, ran away and left the company without means and in trouble. Durvinge was taken sick and carried to the hospital, where he lingered until his dissolution, on Friday. was only forty years of age, and leaves a wife in

THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

The following extracts show the state of the New York money market yesterday:— From one A. Y. Herald.

"Under the bulish speculation at the Stock Exthe rate to betrowers on call ranged at six and seven per cent., with the majority of the stock loans at the latter ligure. On Governments the rate was six, with exceptions at five. Commercial paper was dull, and rates remained unchanged. Foreign exchange was dull, weak, and lower.

"Government conds were steady and without important feature. The currency sixes have come in for a large share of attention lately, and sold to-day at 1112. The European market is firm and higher, the nolicy of the Secretary of the Treasury seemingly not being known there until to-day.

"The gold market was quite steady under the equiending on either side of the premium. have not unloaded, and they are said to be striving to put the price to a figure from which they can gracefully drop. Their game is a desperate one, as every day brings nearer the period of cotton ship-ments which is to give the 'bears' the untold power of natural influences for a decline. On the other hand, the 'bulls' are sanguine that the Comptroller of the Currency will unearth some curious secrets on the 8th of September, which will cause, if not a panic, a furry among the 'shorts.'

"Cash gold was in less active demand and the cur-rency collateral advanced upon it commanded rates of interest ranging from two and a half to six per cent. kefore Clearing House, and from six to seven per cent, in the afternoon. The steamship Silesia. or Furope, took out $72,000 in Mexican silver. The lisbursements of coin interest amounted to $24,317. At the Gold Exchange Bank the gross clearances were $63,300,000; the gold balances, $1,552,087; and the currency balances, $2,182,639."

CAPE MAY, Sept. 1 .- Peter P. Boyton, better known as the Pearl Diver, was subparaed yesterday as a witness in the case of the late disastrous conflagration. There was neither complainant nor prosecutor, but most remarkable to relate, Boyton was held to ball in the sum of two thousand dollars to appear at 10 o'clock this morning for a further hearing. The bail was promptly entered by Mr. J. M. Maris, and another gentlemen from Philadelphia, two perfect strangers to Mr. Boyton. The Mayor's room was crowded, the audience being mostly composed of women and children. Mayor Miller resumed the investigation. A number of witnesses were examined. At the close of the examination, Mr. Ernst, of Philadelphia, as counsel for

Mr. Boyton, desired the Mayor to observe the rant such a proceeding. He said that there is no charge against him what-

and integrity has suffered by this proceeding, and it may impair in future his honest efforts in the discharge of his usiness pursuits. Under these circumstances Mr. Ernst deemed it emi-
