THE DEMAND FOR A NEW LEGIS LATIVE TICKET.

THE demand for the removal of the obnoxious renominated legislators from the Republican ticket has been greatly strengthened by the late action of the Democracy. No measure would add more to the strength of the Republican party than the ejection from its ranks of Stokes, Davis, Bunn, Adaire, Cloud, and Hong. It is impossible to rally the masses cheerfully to the support of a ticket embracing such names, when the fact is well understood that they seek power only for the purpose of profiting by new betrayals of their constituents. If party discipline is to be strictly and stringently enforced, it should have its court-martials as well as its orders exacting implicit obedience, and under any well-organized courtmartial system these candidates could be indicted, tried, and convicted of such misconduct at the last session of the Legislature as would forever disqualify them from obtaining honorable partisan distinction. If there are any possible means of inducing them to retire, they should be employed; if they can be deposed or driven from the tickets, they should be unceremoniously stricken off. But if these expedients fail, the Republicans should take good care to defeat them by voting for their opponents. Faithless representatives do no possible good to a party; they only reflect back disgrace upon the men who elect them: and while they plunder their constituents and the State, they at the same time bring reproach apon their supporters. If we must send men to Harrisburg only to revel in corruption, it is better for the Republicans to permit Democrats to monopolize such infamy; and they can commit no graver error than to sanction by their votes the re-election of candidates who are irretrievably disgraced by tainted records.

DEMOCRATIC CITY PROGRAMME. It is now well understood in political circles that the new Democratic ticket was formed in the manner we announced yesterday; that is, each retiring candidate named his successor. Instead of the respectables gaining a clear victory over the roughs, they formed a coalition for mutual advantage. The roughs, seeing that their prospects of success were perfectly desperate, withdrew to place more reditable proxies or representatives on the course. The contest now is to assume an aspect similar to that of a trotting match or a horse race. . The original nominees, instead of being distanced on the track themselves, have a faint hope of winning through the good running qualities of their substitutes: and the new programme may be fairly stated. in something like the language of the turf, as follows:---FOR THE TRASURY SWEEPSTAKES, S, Gross Fry names William C. Patterson. FOR THE CITY COMMISSIONER'S PEROUISITES Charles B. Duncan names John R. Coxe. FOR THE HEAVY RECORDER OF DEEDS PLATE. C. M. Hurley names John G. Brenner, are perpetually seeking opportunities to enrich themselves at the expense of the taxpayers on the one hand and the defenders of the country on the other. Every step which restricts such operations will receive the cordial approval of the country, while every facility granted to those who trade upon the sorrows and sufferings of the Union soldiers is sure to be used for discreditable and dishonest purposes. WOMAN AS A POLITICIAN.

THE Woman's Rights movement, as perverted by Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Anna E. Dickinson, George Francis Train, Theodore Tilton, and the rest of the crazy agitators of the day, has found a determined and formidable opponent in Dr. Horace Bushnell, one of the most eminent divines of the country. While he believes that the condition of the workingwomen should be materially bettered, he does not look with much favor upon the female suffrage project. Dr. Bushnell quotes, with apparent satisfaction, an incident which will not go far towards reconciling the masculine portion of humanity to the scheme. It is generally known that | law to protect the community, the said Evans the maids and matrons of New Jersey, in consequence of the ambiguity of the original Constitution of the State, were suffered on several occasions to deposit their votes. On one occasion they voted "not only once, but as often as by change of dress or complicity of the inspectors they might be able to repeat the process !" Here is a fine specimen of "the beauty and sentiment, the bloom and sweetness of womanhood," which inspired the pen of the great Quaker poet when he espoused the cause of the disfranchised sex. Just think of it for a moment, men and brethren, especially ye who have enlisted with us in the crusade against ballot-box stuffing and all the other villainies by which the will of the people is now perverted.

One of McMullin's patriotic crowd marches up to the polls before he has taken his early morning bitters, and votes the straight ticket. After the bitters, he persuades some genial and congenial companion to knock a dent in his hat, and thus disguised presents another ballot and defies identification. Then another draught, another dent, and another ballot; and so on through the day, until sunset winds up the process. This is bad enough, of a verity; but it is mere child's play in comparison with the rogacry of those naughty Jersey women. A Democratic politician's hat is capable of bearing the impress of a multitude of dents, but a woman's dress of the present day has the capacity of infinity for sustaining discernible modification. "The beauty and sentiment, the bloom and sweetness of womanhood," are very good things in their way and in their place; but it is possible, as history has recorded, to have a little too much of them. If the placing of the ballot in the hands of our wives and sisters is to be followed by the perpetration of such unblushing frauds as are portended. it would be better for us to hang millstones about our necks and be swamped at once. than thus to place our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor at the mercy of such unscrapulous demagogues. A HORTICULTURAL GENIUS. THERE is a genius on the committee of the Horticultural Society who ought to be looked after. The excitement of getting up the exhibition has been too much for him, and his wits have apparently run to seed. His attention, to the press, in particular, have been of a rather overpowering description, and he has favored us with a collection of facetize, to be worked into our remarks upon the exhibition as occasion may require, but which we much prefer should be credited to their proper owner. We don't wish to use any borrowed thunder, and we must therefore decline to use as our own any of the hints and suggestions which have been so kindly furnished. These choice specimens of bucolic humor, however, must not be allowed to pass into oblivion unrecorded, and we therefore give the following sample of what we were expected to say on behalf of the committee about the banquet this evening:-"EDITORS PLEASE NOTICE .- It is a secret as yet but i is whispered about, pray don't say we told you, that the managers of the Horicultural Reception Banthe managers of the nortenitural Reception ban-quet have such an excess of magnificent fruit that they intend to give to every lady, at least, at the close of the feast to-morrow evening, a two-quart basket of fine specimen fruit, foreign grapes, etc., to carry home to Aunt Sarah and her unfortunate sis-ters, who must be prevented from attending by the impossibility of providing lickets, or space, for al." There is a certain gay and festiveness about the above that we find particularly delightful. The allusion to "Aunt Sarah" is particularly fine, and there is an ingenuousness and total disregard for conventionalities about the whole affair that in a measure excites our admiration. The compassionate forethought that suggested the idea of enlivening the members of the press with a little original humor cannot be too highly commended, and we only hope that the author of the following has done himself no mortal injury: -- become the prey of the hungry sharks who | of the committee gets a few glasses of choice California wine under his waistcoat. We hope, however, that his friends will keep an eye on him, for the sake of his family; he might do some injury by laughing at his own jokes.

> OUR FIRESIDE BUTCHERIES. APPARENTLY not content with the frequency of the murderous assaults to which the citizens of this city have been given over during the past fortnight, our State authorities seem supinely content to fold their hands and allow a series of more fiendish butcheries to be perpetrated from day to day in our own peaceful family circles under the sanction of a prostituted law. It is a matter of common notoriety that explosions of coal oil lamps are of frequent occurrence, resulting in lamentable injuries to life and limb; and in THE TELEGRAPH, a few days since, a conscientious expose was made of the manner in which the law is constantly violated, and the removal of Robert M. Evans, Inspector of Coal Oils, was demanded of Governor Geary, upon the ground that, instead of enforcing the provisions of the strove only to fill his own purse.

In another column of to-day's issue is presented a plain communication, to which we invite the attention of our readers. The writer tells how he, through the mercy of his Creator, saved his family from the disastrous consequences of an explosion: but there are many heads of families in this city who could tell sadder tales of how loved ones in their homes were slaughtered by like criminal acts of their neighbors. With shrewd common sense, the gentleman urges the public to inspect their oils before burning, and at present this precaution is the only safeguard the public have. Governor Geary neglects to interpose his authority for the protection of our citizens, that he may sustain the perquisites of an incompetent politician of his own party. If the people begin in earnest to apply the remedies they hold in their own hands, they will teach their rulers that they have certain rights which must be respected, and that the protection of life must be secured by all the power of their Executive.

HAVE WE A MCKNIGHT AMONG US ?-MCKnight is a Gothamite, a Deputy Sheriff, who recently arrested one Conklin on suspicion that he was a party to the recent robbery of the Merchants' Union Express Company, and under the pretence of getting a confession from him detained him at his (McKnight's) house, instead of taking the prisoner before the magistrate who issued the warrant for his arrest. By some means Conklin managed to send word to his friends of the private confinement he was undergoing, and so was released on a habcas corpus, Mc-Knight being required to produce his captive before Judge Clerke, when he was admonished that it was not in his power to constitute himself a judge of what the police magistrate should do in the premises. Now we are not surprised at anything done in New York city, but this procedure on the part of Deputy Sheriff McKnight, in view of what has transpired of iate and is daily transpiring in our city, raises the grave question, Is it not possible that we have one or more McKnights among us? That is the query, and a pertinent one. Rewards, nowadays, amoun to nothing when criminals and their friends can outbid those offered by the constituted authorities. Had Conklin, during his imprisonment in McKnight's oed-chamber, clothes-closet, or cellar, confessed and given the names of the parties to the robbery, the Deputy Sheriff would have come in for a large share of the reward, and everybody will suspect that it was with this view that he kept his prisoner at his house. Having made a confession, if guilty, a molety or even a modicum of the spoils would, in all probability, have effected the prisoner's release and ensured the arrest of his confederates. The heavy reward offered by Commissioner Delano for the arrest of the villains who attempted the murder of Mr. Brooks has failed in its aim. It may be that their friends have "gone $5000 better," and that those who have their eyes upon the ruffians are waiting for the Government to go $5000 more. This being the case, it is difficult to imagine when, or whether ever, the would-be assassing will be brought to justice. But the question will also find place upon the lips of thousands of our law-abiding, law-loving citizens, Is it not just possible that we have a McKnight among us ?

The pretense that the Executive Committee nominated the new ticket was only a fiction. They simply ratified and gave a sort of official sanction to the selections of the retiring candidates, who, instead of being animated by a noble and disinterested spirit of self-sacrifice. acted on the sordid but common-sense maxim that "half a loaf is better than no bread." It remains to be seen how the people will relish the new bargain. It has at least the charm of novelty, for heretofore no set of partisan leaders were sufficiently audacious to form such a glaring compact. It is usually left for emperors and kings to nominate their successors, and since Johnny Ahern and his compeers have acquired this power, if the party submits to their dictation, they may well boast that they are its absolute masters.

THE PENSION AGENTS.

A WASHINGTON telegram states that an appeal is about to be made from the decision of a commissioner justifying the Government pension agents of Philadelphia in a refusal to pay to attorneys the amount due to pensioners. We are not apprized of the details of this particular controversy, but it apparently involves, to some extent, a principle of no little importance. The nation appropriates a large sum annually to wounded soldiers, or the dependent families of the martyrs of the war, and every possible precaution should be taken to insure the reception of this money by the persons for whom it is really intended. Extortionate agents and avaricious attorneys have absorbed by far too large a portion of the legacies of maimed heroes and the generous provision for the support of bereaved widows and orphans.

It is matter of record that thousands of Union soldiers, especially those enlisted in the South, have been cheated out of the whole amount of their bounties, and even in the North a fearful aggregate of tolls have been extracted on various pretences from the Government pensions. The further attorneys are thrown into the background in these transactions, the better will it be for the Government and the legititimate objects of its bounty. In spite of all its boundy. In spite of all with these examples of horticultural with Street, which is spite of all with these examples of horticultural with Street, which is spite of the spite before them, the visitors to the "banquet" is a General Infroductory by JOHN O'BYEN, Ess. cap, silk or linen-and such like. "The committee would also hint that the chance of finding an individual stove-pipe, in a chaotic pile of nye hundred hats (more or less), in the hat room (as fellows know who have been there small as the chance of finding a grain of hay-seed in a bushel of Bethlehem buckwheat.

"The committee respectfully say that Jenkins is particularly requested not to describe any of the ladies' dresses, for they don't like it. But we fear that Jenkins will do it, for all that.

Political.

-There will be an election in West Virginia October 28, for a new Legislature. The issue at the polls will be the enfranchisement of the ex-Confederates. The Wheeling Intelligencer, the leading Republican organ, takes the affimative side.

Uve side. —It is said that the Hon, A. O. P. Nicholson, of Columbia, Tenn., is a candidate for United States Senator in that State. Mr. Nicholson was a distin-guished member of the old Democratic party. It was to him that Mr. Cass wrote his famous "Nichol-son letter," in 1348. He was the editor of the Wash-ington Union, the organ of the Pierce administration from 1803 to 1857, when he was elected to the United States Senate from Tennessee.

States Senate from Tennessor. —A special from Tennessor. —A special from Little Rock, Ark., says the Republican members of the Legislature held a meeting at which resolutions were adopted for the formation of a liberal Republican party on the basis of universal suffrage and universal amnesty. A committee was suported to solver subscriptions and take other was appointed to solicit subscriptions and take other measures for the completion of the organization. The committee have published a call for a State Con-vention to meet on the 13th of October to carry out the purposes of the meeting. —Senator Brownlow published a card at Nash-ville, stating that he had disposed of his interest in work, stacking that he had disposed of his interest in the Kuoxylle Whig, but that paper will continue to support the Republican cause. He says so many Union men in Tennessee have gone astray that he would advise his Northern friends to accept the Tennessee Republicans only for what they are worth at present. The Press and Times, the Sentenorgan at Nashville, is advertised for saic.

-The Executive Committee of the Democratic party of Georgia deem it inexpedient to recommend an election for members of Congress this year, there being no law authorizing such an election till No-vember, 1870. The right of the members elected April, 1868, to be admitted to seats in the Forty-first Congress, is a question to be determined by the House of Representatives when said members pre-sent themselves for admission, and an expression of opinion by the committee is therefore regarded as unnecessary. unnecessary next May, five weeks afterwards, all of which upon being opened proved they were fire-proof indeed, for I witnessed the opening of the most of them, and in every case the contents were preserved, while Safes of other makers were partially or entirely destroyed. I at once concluded to have something that I could depend upon, and purchased one of your Safes. The safe I purchased of you at that time was subjected to a white heat (which was witnessed by several gentlemen that reside in the neighborhood) at the destruction of my Marble Paper factory, 921 Wallace street, on the afternoon and evening of the 24th inst. After digging the safe from the ruins, and opening it this morning, I was much pleased to find everything, consisting of books, papers, money and silverware, all right. I shall want another of your safes as soon as I can get a place to continue my business in. I could not rest contented with any other make of safes.
