The Opening of the Arch Street Theatre.

As the management announced the performance of Saturday evening as the opening of the regular fail and winter season, it is to be presumed that the spell of dirty drama which preceded it may be con-sidered as something entirely exceptional, and not as a specimen of the line of business to be adopted in the control. It will be well if this is the case, for the Arch has

It will be well if this is the case, for the Arch has a reputation as a decent theatre which it cannot lightly peril, and although such exhibitions as have lightly peril, and although such exhibitions as have held the boards for several weeks past may yield an immediate profit and prove attractive to a certain class of persons, they will certainly drive away those who have patronized the theatre most libe-rally in the past, and who are likely to prove its most certain support in the future, pro-vided they can take their families there at any time without fear that their eyes and ears will be passailed by blackguardism of the most disgusting type. There is no present excuse for the prostitu-tion of the Arch street theatre to the base purposes assalled by blackguardism of the most disgusting type. There is no present excuse for the prostitu-tion of the Arch street theatre to the base purposes of the blonde burlesques, as its last season was a most prosperous one, and the usual plea could not be made that it was necessary to present mastiness because the public would not patronize decency. It is with no common satisfaction that we an-nounce the return of a creditable style of perform-ances at this theatre, and welcome to the boardis actors who can lay some claim to the title of artists. Bulwer's comedy of Money was given on Saturday evening to inaugurate the season and to introduce the new company to the public. The piece is well adapted to this purpose, as it is an animated and pointed satire at the vice of money worship—a vice, by-the-way, not at all peculiar to our day or genera-acters that will enable the actors to show what their acters that will enable the actors to show what their abilities are. The 'hero of the play, "Alfred Evelyn," was per-sonated by Mr. J. F. Cathcart, the new leading man. This gentleman last appeared here as the support of Charles Kean, and he is remembered by many of our playgoers as an actor of much ability. Mr. Cathcart's "Alfred Evelyn" was not as satisfactory as the rendition of the same part by either Mr. Barton Hill or Mr. Charles Walcot, but we think that in Hill or Mr. Charles Walcol, but we think that in many, if not in most, rokes he will prove himself their superior. Mr. Cathcart is a good actor, but his style is too melo-drainatic and heavy for such a part as that assigned him on Saturday, and although his foreible acting was much applauded, as force always will be, he fell very far short of the critical require-menter the case. ments of the case ments of the case. The honors of the evening were carried off by Mr. George Stoddart and Mr. Craig, both of whom gave excellent pieces of character acting in the roles of "Sir Frederick Blount" and "Mr. Graves," Mr. Mr. Stoddart is not an entire stranger here, as he was at one time a member of the Arch Street Com-pany, under the management of Wheatley. He was at that time a very young man and he has im-proved greatly. His "Sir Frederick Blount" was a genuine bit of acting, too refined and too near the genuine bit of acting, too refined and too near the fruth to be considered as a caricature, and Mr. Stod-dart took his place at once in the regards of the audience as a thorough artist. Craig's "Mr. Graves" was a caricature, but such a one as the text perhaps justi-fies, and such a one as the actor knows how to perlies, and such a one as the actor knows how to per-petrate without spoiling his effects by overdoing a good thing. Mrs. Maeder's "Lady Franklin" is also to be considered as an excellent performance. The part of "Clara Douglass" was suistained by Mrs. Drew, who certainly appears to less advantage in this and other sentimental parts than she does in pure corneds. Mrs. Drew's concerned is meanly hearty and comedy. Mrs. Drew's comedy is usually hearty and maffected, while her sentiment is generally just the contrary. Miss Price would have made a more contrary. Miss Price would have made a more pleasing "Clara" than the fair manageress, whose abilities, though great, are limited. Miss Annie Firman, a blonde whose golden hair is

Miss Annie Firman, a blonde whose golden hair is seemingly all her own-we hope she has never been in the blonde "business"-made a good impression as "Georgiana Vesey," and Mr. F. Mathews, another new comer, gave a creditable personation of "Lord Glossmore." The other parts were well sustained, as follows:--"Sir John Vesey," Mr. Mackay: "Cap-tain Dudley Smooth," Mr. L. L. James, and "Benja-min Stout, M. P., "Mr. S. Hemple. Miss Lizzie Price appeared in the farce of the Pears Sisters, which was given as an after piece, and Four Sisters, which was given as an after piece, and acted with much spirit as the sisters.

The City Amusements.

AT THE WALNUT the demand to see Mr. Booth as 'Hamlet' has been so great that he will appear in that character this evening, to-morrow, and on Wed-nesday. On Thursday The Lady of Lyons will be given, and on Friday Much Ada About Nothing. AT THE CHESNUT Charles Reade's drama of Rashel the Reaper; or, Clouds and Sunshine will be presented this evening. This is a beautiful play that is well worthy of the attention of those who can appreciate what is refined and good in dramatic art. The char-acter of "Rachel" is one of Miss Keene's specialties, and she has been very successful with it in other cities. In calling attention to this as one of the earliest of Reade's dramatic efforts, Miss Keene alludes to the success of his play of Deerin Roaten annerently obligious of the fact of Dora in Boston, apparently oblivious of the fact that it has been produced here. The New York and Boston critics made the same mistake, and spoke of Dora as if it was an entirely new piece, We believe that Dora was first performed in Philadelphia; at any

An Adjourned Meeting of the Board-The Question of the Validity of the Law Creating the "City Trusts" to be Decided by the Court. Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning the Board of City Trusts met, pursuant to adjournment, in the Supreme Court-room. William Weish, Esq., pre-sided, and Henry M. Phillips, Esq., acted as secre-tary.

tary: Judge King, of the committee appointed for the purpose, reported the following:— The committee appointed to make the necessary arrangements for carrying into execution the duties prescribed by law to the Board of City Trusts, re-prescribed by law to the Board of City Trusts, re-spectfully report:---That upon organizing and preparing to enter into the performance of the duties imposed on them by board, they found that on thesth of July last, the the Select and Common Councils of the City of Phila-delphia had passed a resolution entitled "Of in-structions to certain City Officials." By this resolution it is declared " that all parties having under their control or supervision any pro-perty left to the city of Philadelphia for charitable purposes, be and they are hereby instructed not to permit any one, notifully anthorized by these Coun-cils, to examine any of the deeds, books, records, or securities under their control or in their care; and they are further instructed not to surrender such deeds, books, records, or securities, nor to grant pos-session of any real estate except upon similar autho-rity given.

"And they are further instructed to notify all parties to continue the payment of rents, interest, of dividends, as heretofore, to the officers and agents acting under the authority of these Councils." Of the same day the City Councils adopted a resolution declaring that the Committee on Girard Estates by decharing that the committee on Griard Issues be and is hereby instructed to employ counsel to contest the validity of an Act of Assembly entitled, "A further scoplement to an act entitled an act to incorporate the City of Philadelphia, ap-proved the 3d of February, 1854; approved June 30, 1869, and to defend the city of Philadelphia in the possession, custody, and control of all property be-queathed or devised to them under the will of Ste-ohen City of Market and Control of Stephen Girard, deceased." The first step deemed necessary by your com-mittee to be taken was to notify the city authorities that the "Board of City Trusts" was duly organized and ready and desirous of entering into the per-tormance of the duties imposed on is by law. This was done through one of their members, William Weish, Esq., who gave notice to this effect to the Mayor, the City Treasurer, and the City Controller. Admonished by the above resolutions of Council

A general discussion was entered into by the members as to the powers of the Board, pending the decision of the Supreme Court, and several pro-positions were submitted, all of which were with-drawn and the following, offered by Mr. Stuart, was

THE RAIN.

Its Flooding Descent Yesterday—The City In-nadated—Diamage Done by the Waters. The water famine has it length ended. The thirst of the city has been slaxed, and the parched fields have been refreshed. Rain, anxionaly desired and long looked for, has visited us in torrents, and the world around Philadelphia is glad. About 6 o'clock yesterday morning it started, heavily at once, and continued, without intermis-sion, during the entire day and svening. During the afternoon it was accompanied by a strong south-

sion, during the entire day and evening. During the sion, during the entire day and evening. During the afternoon it was accompanied by a strong south-westerly wind, which at times almost approached the dignity of a gale. It was the first, and in fst: the only heavy and continued rain we have had for months. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon it poured in torrents, and the various inlets to the culverts throughout the city were tested to their utmost to carry off the water that flooded the streets. Partly in consequence of the lowness of the ground, and partly because some of the common sewers became choked up and failed to carry off the water which came down in such floods during the afternoon, the vicinity of Twelfth street and Wasn-ington avenue presented a novel sight. The latter-named street, from half-way between Twelfth and Eleventh, and as far west as Thirteenth street, and also Twelfth street, from some distance above Wash-ington avenue, down to a point near Federal street, were completely submerged. The entire width of Washington avenue and Twelfth street, between the points named, presented an unbroken sheet of water, which at one time was between two and three feet in depth, and stretched from house to house on either side of the way. The neighborhoad was, of feet in depth, and stretched from house to house on either side of the way. The neighborhood was, of course, entirely impassable for wagons or pedestri-ans, and there was water enough to sail fair-sized boats.

Doats. The cellars of the dwelling-houses on Twelfth street, above and below Washington avenue, were overhowed, and the coal offices and other structures overflowed, and the coal offices and other structures on Washington avenue were completely inundated. The cellar of the large five-story building situated at the northeast corner of Washington avenue and Twelfth street, known as Campbell's "Caledonia Mills," was overflowed, and some damage to ma-chinery, etc., was the result. At one time the water swept around the corner of this building to the depth of nearly three feet. "The registered distillery establishment at the northwest corner of Twelfth street and Washington avenue came in for a share of the inundation. The cellar was overflowed, and a quantity of timber and other material was dashed about by the water in all directions.

inections. Late in the afternoon some men, by the use of poles, managed to clean out the sewer at the corner of Tweifth street and Washington avenue, and by that means a considerable quantity of the water was carried off. About 7 o'clock in the evening the streets were nearly clear of water, but a thick coating of slippery mud remained on the sidewalks and washed from her feet and broke an arm by her fall. Many of the cellars in the Tenth Police district were flooded to the level of the sidewalk. The water was two feet deep in the vicinity of Mascher street. A portion of the front wall of the new school-house in course of creation on Third street, above Baiton-wood, gave way, in connection with some of the brick work in the interior of the building. The por-tion which was blown down was quite new, the work having been done on Saturday. Fortunately no one was injured was injured.

GAS EXPLOSION .- At 7 o'clock this morning a gas explosion took place in the variety store of William Barnes, corner of Main and Orthodox streets, Frankford. The gas had escaped from a leak in the pipes. The back windows were shattered, and the wares in the place propelled into the stratered, and the wares in the place propelled into the strate. A large tin kettle struck Alderman Holmes, who was pass-ing at the time, on the back, and lifted him to the other side of the way. The store caught fire, but it was extinguished before any damage had been done.

VESSELS SUNK .- Yesterday morning the schooner S and C. Carson, Captain Carson, was discovered to be in a sinking condition off Richmond. The Dalaware Harbor policemen boarded her, but finding no pumping apparatus on board, could not prevent her sinking.

At about the same hour a large brig near by was observed by the officers to be rapidly filing with water and sinking. They could render no assistance in this case either, and the vessel sunk.

ALL COLORS .- Charles Green, black, and Henry Blue, black, have been committed by Alderman Kerr^{*} for highway robbery upon Samuel Stroup, Jr., white. Mr. Stroup resides at No. 9 is Souder street. Yesterday atternoon, while wending his way along Lombard street, between Seventh and Eighth, the two "mokes" made a grab at his watch secured the chain. They were arrested. Result aaforesaid.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE STEAM COLLIER RATTLESNAGE. - Much in terest is feit in this city in the line of steam colliers of which the Rattlesnake was the first to go into operation, and there was therefore a general feeling of regret when the intelligence was received that ishe had met with a serions mishap. On Thursday last, as the Rattlesnake was passing through Hell Gate, a tow of two schooners and a sloop which preceded her broke adrift and drifted down upon her. In order to avoid a collision she was forced to make a broad sheer, and unluckly struck upon a small rock that stove a hole in her starboard bilge, so that to avoid sinking it was found necessary to run her on shore. The wreckers went to work as soon as on shore. The overed the hole with quilting and canvas, so that she could be pumped out, a.d she was taken to Brooklyn, where she is now discharging her cargo. It is expected that the cargo will all be out by this evening, and as the damage is not very great, she will probably be ready to reload and proceed to Portiand, whither she is bound, by Thursday. This is one of those accidents to which any vessel is liable. Captain Mershon is much praised for his good judgment in placing the Rattlesnake upon sunken marl about three miles from where she struck, thus saving her from greater loss. The vessel has proved herself all that was expected of her, reliable, strong, and efficient. Her own pumps were sufficient to keep her free, and, with the rest of the machinery, sustained a test in this case which effectually proves their reliability, 1869, when he secured his present nomination. It charges him with being, up until 1867, in sympathy with the Copperhead party. —There is considerable dissatisfaction among the wealthy residents of Germantown, in reference to the Republican candidate for the Legislature. They claim that that district, of all others, should have a man with at least a small quantity of brains, -Invincibles, attention! See order No. 3 for parade to Broad and Chesnut streets meeting to-night, and Order No. 4 for the mass meeting at Broad and Girard avenue. The turnout for the parade Tuesday evening should be a good one, as a me display will be made on. North Broad street

ine display will be made on North Broad street. —Republicans should take notice that the can-vassers will meet at the place of voting in each election division, on Saturday next, Oct. 2, for the pur-pose of adding names to the registry lists. If you have not been assessed, do not neglect this last opportunity, or your vote is lost.

DEATH OF AN OLD ACTOR.—An old actor, well known to the past generation of play-goers, male a melancholy termination of his career on the sth inst., by dying in the Almshouse. William Anderson was once a popular concellen, and he was a member of the Richmond Theatre company at the time of the termine for 1511. He was attached to the old The tertile fire in 1511. He was attached to the old South Street Theatre in this city, and also to the old South Street Theatre in this city, and also to the old Chesnut, under Warren & Wood, in 1815. It was here that he formed an attachment for Miss Jeffer-son, the daughter of Joseph Jefferson, Sr., and mar-ried her in opposition to the wishes of her father. Anderson was a man of fine education, but his in-discreet conduct estranced bim from his familie discreet conduct estranged him from his family, and finally forced him to abandon his profession and take shelter in the Almshouse. He was in the eighty-second year of his age at the time of his death.

FIRE.—This morning, shortly before four o'clock, the two-story stable, half brief, half wood, on Kater street, below Nmeteenth, was partially consumed by fre. It was owned by Andrew Galley, and occupied by him and other parties. Galley had one horse in it; George Boyd & Co., grocers, five mules and one horse, and John McCoole, a carter, two horses. A number of wagons were also in the place. The ani-nals and vehicles were all cotten out in safety. The number of wagons were also in the place. The ani-mals and vehicles were all gotten out in safety. The fire originated in the frame portion of the building and destroyed the loft and roof. A quantity of hay belonging to Gailey and McCoole was also burned. Gailey had an insurance of $300 in the Franklin, which will more than cover the loss on the building. About lifty dollars worth of personal property was destroyed.

HOUSE ROBBERY.—The residence of Mr. Baugh, No. 2130 Arch street, was entered at an early hour yesterday morning and robbed of a large amount of valuable goods. In consequence of the absence of the family from the city, the exact amount of the loss cannot be ascertained. The robbers, in their hurry to leave the premises, dropped several dresses in the alley leading to the house.

BOOTBLACK AND BOOTBLACK .- Charlie Green, a boothack, whose place of business is at Sixth and Chesnut streets, robbed another of his craft of the sum of fifteen cents. For this offense he was arrested, and committed by Alderman Kerr in de-fault of $500 ball.

very cannot y at lighters while apart. Towards noon some of the larger houses who had suspended through inability to obtain negotiation of their claims on others opened their doors and commenced making payments of such demands as they could meet. The Gold Bank at length began giving checks for balances where statements were not in dispute, and this still further quickened the sluggish stream of business but at the close of the wave the stimof business, but at the close of the week the situ-ation, while much ameliorated, was still embarrassed, and may remain so even up to Tuesday morn-ing, mless the holiday of Sunday has been improved to straighten out the confusion at the Clearing House. While the excitement on Saturday was not as great as on Friday, there was a very apprehensive feeling at one time for what might result from a run upon the Tenth National Bank, which, from its supposed affiliation with the members of the gold clique, had been taboocd by certain fellow institutions down town. The run was precipitated by the throwing out town. The thir was precipited by the thrown we way the thrown of its checks by the other banks, who were induced to this action by the debtorship of the Tenth at the Clearing House for over seven hundred thousand dollars. Fortunately for the community the panic which might have resulted from this run was obviated. The indebtedness at the Clearing House was made good at the time for average while the made good at the time for exchanges, while the checks presented over the counter were cashed in greenbacks until the last demand was satisfied, the greenbacks until the last demand was satisfied, the amount thus paid out being a million of dollars— within one hundred thousand dollars of the entire sum on deposit. Whatever the odium attaching to this institution for its connection with the Erie and gold party, it certainly withstood a stege yester-day which might have sapped the vitality of prouder institutions. The remark is made in no spirit of favoritism, but in commendation of what was really a magnificent response to a most hazard-ous attack. Had the Tenth National Bank failed on Saturday on the ion of the great break in stocks on ons attack. Had the Tenth National Bank failed on Saturday, on the top of the great break in stocks on Wednesday, and the bursting of the gold bubble on Friday, a panic might have ensued which would have dwarfed those of 1887 and 1887. As it is, the week opens on a state of affairs which, by the exer-cise of leniency on the part of creditors and of ac-tive honesty on the part of debtors, may yet be less aggravated than at the first flugh appears. "The locking up of currency in the Clearing House of the Gold Room has rendered money extremely active ever since the dead-lock commenced. In the necessity of some stock houses to have their stocks carried, rates ranging from seven per cent. gold per carried, rates ranging from seven per cent. gold per annum to one and one-half per cent. per diem were paid. "The bank statement shows a large falling off in deposits, so that the loss in reserve is only about half a million of dollars, despite the withdrawal of greenbacks and specie. The changes from last week
