MEW-FORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

A $100,000 Horse. Mr. Robert Bonner owns the New York Ledger. It is the fasiest trotter out. Sometimes it trots out an edition of 250,000. There is only one other trotter in the world that can beat it, and that is Dexter. Mr. Bonner has the reputation of understanding a horse's foot better than any other living man. He applies similar theories to his story paper, and understands how to make it put its best foot forward. When Mr. Bonner is not driving Dexter he is driving the Ledger, and don't like to trust either of them to any other hands. Dexter trots without books, and the Ledger bandles without gloves those who seek to injure it. The Ledger is a $1,000,000 paper. Dexter is a $100,000. Mr. Bonner offers that amount for any horse that will equal Dexter's recent performance-a mile to heavy wagon in 221%. It is understood that when this champion jockey-journalist has retired from his newspaper ambitions, he will write a history of the herse as symbolized in Dexter. Judging from present appearances, however, the time is distant when he shall have grown veteran-and veterinary. The proverb says time is money. By means of his two trotters, Bonner makes both-time by means of Dexter and money by means of the Ledger.

Sebriquets of the Sanctuary. We give healthy names to our favorite churches here. In Paris they indulge in such sweet profanities as Hotel God and Holy Ghost street, and the idea is at once Roman Catholic and French. In New York they nickname church and chapel, and baptize them with such cognomens as Barlesque might invent wherewith to christen the temples of Baal, For instance, the Rev. Dr. Houghton has in Twentyninth street, between Madison and Fifth avenues, a church whose legitimate title is the Church of the Transfiguration. It is a rambling oblong affair, overrun with creeping plants, and half-hidden with trees, a regular character in its way, a queer ambush for a clique of Protestant Episcopalians. It is never mentioned by its right name. I almost wonder they have got it down right in the directory. It is called variously the Church of the Holy Cocumber Vine and the Church of the Holy Grasshopper. Another example of a profane nickname-perhaps it might be called an Old Nick's name-is that of the Brooklyn Unitarian Church, in Clinton street, near Congress, presided over by the Rev. J. W. Chadwick, It is a round, ungainly sort of building, low, large, roomy, and gloomy. Outside it is something the hue of clay before it becomes brick. You will see the exquisite propriety, therefore, of terming it the "Church of the Holy Mud Turtle." That is what it is called, not alone by the profane world, but by the saintliest of that peculiar sect of saints who constitute its congregation, and who do not hesitate thus to siap the one God whom they adore on the shoulder, and to hail feilow well met with Him. To mention one or two other examples, however, the proper name of the church of which the Rev. Dr. Bellows is pastor in New York is All Souls. Its architecture, however, is unique, being somewhat suggestive of Mohammedism finding an exponent in American marble, brick, and mortar, which are so inter-sandwiched as to present a very striped appearance. This opportunity was not to be lost by the pious nicknamers of Gotham, whe accordingly bestow upon All Souls three odd pseudonyms, viz.; — the "Church of the Holy Gridiron," the "Beefsteak Church," and the "Church of the Holy Zebia." One more illustration, and I shall have said enough to convince the reader of the sacred character of this pseudonymee tendency among metropolitan devotes. At the corner of Twenty-ninth street and Fifth avenue stands a handsome Dutch Reformed temple, the weather-vane of which is a gilded rooster. In a fit of happy inspiration some spiritual-minded bird-fancier conceived the idea of calling it the "Church of the Holy Shanghat," which has stuck to it ever since. There is also a fashionable church in Lexington avenue which goes by the name of the "Church of the Golden Calf," from the notorious proportion of successful gold gamblers.

Wall Street Rippies. As the wires will have informed you, the feeling in the street all yesterday was extremely anxious. and no business of any great consequence was transacted. A committee of Gold Room members was appointed to investigate the status of each gold broker at the Clearing House. Coin dealers in Wall street purchased coin at 182 and sold at 125 to their customers. Money was very stringent at 11 per cent, per day, the estensible cause of the stringency being the fact that £14,000,000 in gold were reported locked up in the Clearing House. At the Tenth National Bank affairs were preternaturally quiet, and the tide of business flowed on, to all appearance, as usual, the President of the bank claiming that it is creditor to the Gold Exchange Bank to the extent of half a million. In the Supreme Court Chambers, a number of injunctions were granted, upon the application of certain lame ducks whom the gold gamblings of Thursday and Friday had compelled to waddle. Attachments were likewise granted against William Belden. Alexander McKinley, and George W. Hooker, for secreting themselves and their property, with intent to defraud their creditors. One of the more tragic of the Wall street ripples was the suicide yesterday morning of Mr. Solomon Mahler, a broker of some standing. He had been largely interested in the gold market, and the fluctuations were too disastrons to him for him to desire to live. So he made himself the target of three shots, two of which took effect. Well! well! the step from the Gold Room to the grave is a very short one. The Cresus who speculates is but a suicide in embryo, and Wall street is one of the widest paths conducting in a slantindicular direction to the tomb. He whose heart is in his coffers is merely accelerating his body towards his coffin. "Shronds have no pockets" is what the moralist mentally inscribes over the Gold Indicator in Maiden Lane.

Our Philadelphia Visitors, consisting of Messrs, G. W. Plummer, D. P. Ray, A. Kline, H. C. Oram, F. Miller, Samuel G. King, A. M. Fox, E. A. Shaderop, A. R. Eilis, W. B. Hanna, D. W. Stockham, M. B. Diskerson, M. Horter, W. B. Barton, M. L. Johnson, George C. Holt, and Nelson Crop, of the Philadelphia Common Council, arrived here late on Sunday evening, and spent yesterday at Central Park, and in reviewing the various kinds of previously in use in Lois etc. payement in use in this city. Their preferences, far, seem to be given to the Miller payement. The have been very quietly received—in fact, they have not been received at all, but left to tote themselves around. There was no attempt trade to receive them publicly, and they returned last evening with exceedingly diminutive ideas of New York municipal hospitality. The ediquette of the Connells of New York is founded upon the principle of people at home looking out for themselves, and leaving the stranger to the devil.

Mysterious Disappearance Business is being successfully nied by a young man who dresses neatly, and reads the newspapers to some advantage. Familiarizing himself with every advertisement of persons who have mysteriously disappeared, and for information of whom a reward is offered, he presents beyond for the given address, and for a given address, and himself at the given address, and for a stipulated sum agrees to give the desired details. Algernon Melbourne is the name of the last youth who has adopted this method of raking the money in. His eye is fishy and blubber-like: he has the smell of the dead, house about him, and looks as though he might dead-house about him, and looks as though he might have once been hid out in the Morgue himself. He has already obtained large sums of money from the nas already obtained large sums of money from the friends and relatives of the mysteriously-disappeared, and is spotted by Superintensient Kennedy. When correspondence fails me, I think I shall mysteriously disappear, and claim the heavy reward that will be surely advertised, by suddenly coming to light and giving information of ALI BABA.

CITY INTELLIGENCE. THE NEW PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The Plans of John McArthur, Jr., Accepted-An Outline of the Design-How the New City Hall will Look when Built.

An Outline of the Design—How the New City Hall will Lock when Built.

At the meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the New Public Buildings, yesterday afternoon, the plan of Mr. John McArthur, Jr., was awarded the first premium of $2000. The Committee on Plan and Architecture were authorized to engage the author to make such changes and modifications in the same as in their opinion may be desirable, and to have the plan, when completed, submitted to the Commission for approval. This actica virtually accepts Mr. McArthur's designs, and thus makes one of our own citizens the artist to supervise the erection of what will be the grandest structure in our city. Not a more deserving architect could have been selected than the gentleman whom fortune has favored, and the compilment is the more valuable as the premium of merit was honorably won in a fair competition with nine fellow-artists who already bear proud names in the profession. It is somewhat singular that, although the Committee on Plan and Architecture, of which Thomas N. Walter, Esq., architect of Girard College and of the Capitol Extension, is chairman, reported unanimously in favor of this award, yet a desperate struggle was made yesterday to reverse their decision and to favor a competitor. Our citizens ask only that the most meritorious shall be honored, but it seems self-evident that educated artists should be the judges.

General Description. The style which the architect has deemed best suffed to express his design is Renaissance. Its proken outlines and the comparative freedom from the arbitrary rule is its proportions render it pecu-lisrly adapted to public architecture where so many rooms of unequal dimensions, and for such varied uses, must be arranged and constructed. Every room required by the printed schedule has been pro-vided of the proper size. In the general arrangereom required by the printed schedule has been provided of the proper size. In the general arrangement of the plan three principal divisions have been made. The Judiciary on Walnut street; Connects, with the Departments of Gas, Taxes, and Water, on Chesnut and Sixth streets; the Mayor, City Treasurer, and Survey Department on Chesnut and Fifth streets. Care has been taken to locate the principal courts so as to render them entirely free from the noise of the streets, and at the same time aford readiness of access and abundance of light and air. Every room in the entire building is well lighted, ventilated, and readily approached from the surrounding street by spacious starcases and continuous certifors. The mode of heating and ventilating intended is by steam "colls" in the basement, forcing warm fresh air by powerful fans into each room intended is by steam "colls" in the basement, forcing warm fresh air by powerful fans into each room in winter, and cold in sommer, and at the same time driving the vitlated air through ducts to the boilershaft situated between the principal courts behind the Walnut street front.

Much valuable room, easy of access and well lighted and ventilated, is reserved for future use in the basement on Sixth street, and also in the third

The absence of full detail drawings prevents an accurate estimate of the cost being made; but from the present plans the architect estimates their execution at $2,385,000.

The specifications of material and mode of construction are substantially as described in the circular issued by the Commission to competing architects. The whole building is to be thoroughly fire-proof throughout. Foundation and basement walls to pavement are to be of the best quality building stone; exterior walls, steps, and cornices of dressed sandstone, backed with bard bricks. All the interior walls and archings are to be of brick; interior columns for support are of cast iron; stairs of marble; doors of rolled iron and brick covered with marble floors of rolled iron and brick covered with marble tiling; roof of iron covered with state and tin; plate glass on all the street fronts, and best American on the court-yards and areas. All locks and other door and window furniture of best Philadelphia manufacture; gas piping a cording to city regulations; plumbing, wherever practicable, of galvanized iron; heating by tubular steam-boilers; ventilating by two afteen feet fans, driven by a steam engine; draining through terra-cotta pines into the public source. through terra-cotta pipes into the public sewers; dressed granite curbings on all the streets, and dressed blue flags on all the pavements. Architectural Outline.

Architectural Outline.

The main front of the new City Hall will be upon Walnut street. The building will consist of a basement, two main stories, and a Mansard roof. The central entrance on Walnut street, leading to a central corridor, will be through a stately columniated archway, which supports like ornamental porches on the two upper stories, terminating on the third with an over-arched pediment containing sculptured arms of the State, city, etc. From this springs a high tower, containing on each of its four faces a huge ornamental clock face, and divided by semi-dormer windows into four additional stories. A balcony encircles this tower two-thirds up, and another observatory is furnished by the roof. About twentyobservatory is furnished by the roof. About twentytive arched windows will be on each story of this

On the Fifth and Sixth street corners will be three storied rotundas, surmounted by weil-proportio domes. These will be clevated, and reached by broad steps, and will contain staircases, as will also the central corridor. The fronts upon Fifth and Sixth streets will correspond closely, the plans having streets will correspond closely, the plans having been so carefully drafted that, although the inner divisions are different, the same architectural eleva-tions are to be used. Midway upon each square will be an ornamented archway, supported by columns, with upper balconies, all closely corresponding with the central entrance upon Walnut street. Upon the third story, which of itself rises far above the connected wings, towers another Mansard roof, with an elevated tower. Each story of these fronts has nearly thirty windows.

The Cheshut street front will be divided into two

The Cheshut streets in the pendence Hall proper. This similar buildings by independence Hall proper. This venerable building, sanctified by old-time memories and associations, will now, as ever, be scrupulously guarded from alterations, and a vacant space will be left at either side; but the ugly wings of later con-struction, now defaced with Row offices, will soon become things of the past, for which everybody will be truly thankful. These new buildings will con-sist of two stories with French roofs, and will each e reached by two flights of steps, corresponding th those at the corners of Walnut. The elevated observatories, from which views may be had of the city, will be abundant for some generations to come, as the peculiar adaptability of the Renaissance style allows many graceful breaks in the ground plans and roofs, and all of these have been artistically turned late use for the accommo-dation of the curious-uladed who are not to be intimidated by the prospect of stair-climbing. The only apparent disadvantage in this arrangement is that, in the intere ages, when these buildings come to be finished, Coancilmer will be very apt to pare: the care of these towers out among their precinct adherents, and we shall have a battalion of jaultors to be hunted up by visitors anxious to get the "Open sesame" of tickers.

Third Floor.

Upon Wainut street are placed the Recorder of Deeds Department general office and transcribing room, each 39 by 59; Index and search room, 21 by 50; and Boiler Inspector, turee offices.

On Sixth street are situated four offices of the Register of Wills, Girard Estate offices, Guardians of the Poor committee rooms and Connect Calleries. Register of Wills, Girard Estate offices, Guardiaus of the Poor, committee rooms, and Council galleries.
On Fifth street are the Departments of Markets and City Property, Port Wardens, City Commissioners, 24 by 45, with adjoining offices for assessors' lists and room for five thousand ballot-boxes, 29 by 24; School Controllers' offices, Highways. The offices of the Board of Health are situated over the Mayor's office.

In conclusion, an examination of the foregoing plans shows that a careful study of the wants of the multiudinous departments and the needs of easy access to them all for the public has been made by Mr. McArthur, and results practically achieved which are worthy of great praise. These considerations have not been overslaughed to secure an imposing structure, while in addition to these is planned an ornamental facade which will be an addressment to our city. adornment to our city.

TAXABLES.

The Regular and Extra Assessments, and the Totals They Show.

Below we give the number of taxables in each ward in the city, as made up by the Assessors and returned by them to the City Commissioners. The regular assessment has been made to conform as strictly as possible to the requirements of the new Registry law, while the extra assessment was made entirely under its provisions. The corrections to be made by the canvassers on Saturdayand Monday next, before the lists will be ready for the use and guidance of the election officers, will slightly change the figures, but not to any great extent. All tickets are expected to be at the bank at 1.30 today. No account not equally balanced will be received. Gold deposited with the bank would be strictly accounted for, and the gold of dealers who had failed could be sold out under the rules. Report was accepted. It was moved that the Board open for buying and selling gold. Mr. Kepler opposed the motion. He said that fifty or sixty millions would be thrown on the market to settle the affairs of Wm. Belden & Co., and thus gold would be driven to par, and business ruined. It was then proposed that the Board be opened for loaning and borrowing only. Adopted. Mr. Kepler moved that all loans be made flat. It might be a small loss to individuals, but would be of immense benefit to the majority, and would relieve the market. Adopted amid wild cheering. Stocks are irregular, with slight recovery in prices. Money still continues stringent. The Government is said to have limited acceptances of gold to-day at 132.

That election, although confined to State officers, now have an effect beyond State limits, and exercise an important influence hereafter on the politics and destiny of the maion.

Arrayed against ux, and endeavoring to secure your votes for its candidates, is the same Democratic party which was overwhelmingly repudiated by the people at the last Presidenthal election.

It has changed none of its principles and reformed none of its practices, but is as odious to-day to all loyal men as it has been heretofore.

Its Southern wing caused the Rebellion, and strove by armed force to rend in twain that glorious Union which was cemented by the blood of our fathers; its Northern wing gave all the sympathy, aid, and comfort to the Rebellion that it dared, by resolutions in its State and national legislatures against all propositions and bills offered by loyal men fending to strengthen the arm of the National Government in its efforts to crush the Rebellion.

That party caused the expenditure of four them.

That party caused the expenditure of four thousand militons of deliars of the public money, and is the guilty author of the heavy debt that is now pressing down the national industry.

In its National Convention the northern wing per-mitted the Seuthern Rebeis to dictate the National Democratic piatform and policy, and has again taken to its arms the men whose hands are not yet cleansed of the blood of Northern patriots.

office, a gentleman unknown to the profession, and whose limited experience renders him unable to grapple with the great questions that are continually presented to our Supreme Court. Such men, surely, are not entitled to the support of loyal and intelligent freemen.

On the other hand, we assert that the Republican party is the party of loyalty, of devotion to the Union and to the rights of all men. It stood by the Government in the hour of its great extremity. Its young men went to the battle-field and offered up their lives in defense of the integrity of the Union, while its opponents staid at home and

His history is known to you all. We need not repeat it. His military exploits are written on the rocks of Cerro Gordo and the walls of Chapultepec. They are inscribed on the ridges of our Gettysburg, on the passes of Wanhatchie, on the forests of Ringgold and Missionary Ridge, and above the clouds on the heights of Lookout Mountain. Lookout Mountain. He rendered service in sixty battles, received four

In Judge Williams we present an able and accomplished jurist, who has sat long on the bench, and had a large and varied experience, and whose numerous decisions, supported by the Supreme Court, have been recognized by that tribunal as being sound law, and expressed in a manner worthy of its bigh commendation. The election of these two men will be of vital importance to the people. It will destroy the sham pretensions and professions of the Democratic party, always arrogant and never finitied. It will establish the prosperity of the people on an enduring basis.

We exhort every iriend of genuine republicanism to go to the polls and vote for Geary and Williams. Do not wait to be solicited. Do not let an apathetic indifference render you careless in the exercise of what is not a mere privilege, but a duty.

Remember that the election of Geary will give us an honest administration of State affairs, while the election of a man who evades the payment of his taxes would be likely to be the advent to power of dishonest men.

his taxes would be likely to be the advent to power of dishonest men.

Remember, too, that the present election may have an important bearing on the next Presidential election, and if Pennsylvania should now fall into the hands of an effete and corrupt Democracy, it may throw the next National Administration into the power of rebels, free traders, and repudiators. A full Republican vote is a full Republican victory.

Let every patriot do his duty and all will be well.
