

NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.

Mr. Bigelow Retires. As was foreseen by those who know anything of the interior arrangements at the Times office, Mr. Bigelow has finally retired from that journal. His career came definitely to an end there on Wednesday evening, but he lingered around the loved spot until yesterday noon, when a solemn convocation of the gentlemen at the heads of the several departments was held. Anybody who knew much about the personal proclivities of Bigelow and the peculiar personalities of Jones, could have told that the shock must come sooner or later. It has come sooner, and all the departments in the office of the Times are in a state of oscillation, and no one is found worthy to stand in Mr. Raymond's shoes. Meanwhile, during the nine days' wonder of Mr. Bigelow's editorship of the Times, it was entertaining and instructive for an impartial observer to read the advice which a bevy of commissive weeklies bestowed upon him. Wilkes' Spirit of the Times was particularly fruitful of warning, and went so far as to prescribe a programme for him. Now that Mr. B. has finally gone, it seems that no one is to take his place. A little while ago the Tribune had its managing editor decapitated; now the Times has submitted to the same beheading process. It has become the fashion to dispense with managing editors among New York newspapers. During the short time Mr. Bigelow remained, he earned his $250 per week easily, taking comfortable little trips to Long Branch, and leaving the well-planned machinery he had left behind to work itself. I presume the columns of the Times will now resume the heavier appearance which they were previous to the ex-editor's advent.

The Episcopal Convention. The Diocesan Convention of the Episcopal Church has commenced. It is being held in St. John's Church, Varick street, and among the audience were a large number of the most fashionable devotees in New York. Among the distinguished of the audience were S. B. Ruggles, Erastus Brooks, Secretary Fish, ex-Judge Uphoff, Julian C. Verplanck, and ex-Judge Vanderpoel. As yet the convention has not had time to discuss the ritualistic charges which are to be brought against Father Morrell and Dr. Ewer. Their time is coming, however. All the feminine worshippers of St. Alban's are interested in these charges. The investigation will possess all the interest of a criminal trial, with all the spirituality of a pious dilemma. When it is over we shall definitely know whether lights, flowers, incense, processions, genuflections, etc., are the thing or not.

What Becomes of all the Croton? We are being visited by the same plague, the want of water, that has recently caused a cry to go up from Philadelphia. This morning at seven o'clock a well-conceived plan for sprinkling the streets goes into operation. The highways have been exceedingly dry during the past few days, and the waste of Croton over them has been shameful. That waste is to be repaired to-day, October 1. Four steam engines are to be stationed at the foot of Grand street, the Battery, Canal street, and Twenty-third street, for the purpose of sprinkling the streets. There is one thing, however, in which we are much more saving of water than you. Our ladies don't change the pavements, as a religious duty, any time between seven and eight o'clock on Saturday mornings. That is an institution peculiar to the City of Brotherly Love and the Fairmount Water Works.

Mr. Fisk's Body-Guard. The Wall street panic has occupied Mr. Fisk's time so much that he has not been able to attend to the interests of his newspaper. He has, however, succeeded in surrounding himself with a body-guard, which the Sheriff granted him upon Mr. Fisk's making special application to him. The sum paid to this body-guard was $10 apiece, and the sum offered to the Sheriff $500. Such are the trials of a successful gold gambler. Uneasy lies the head that wears a head of hair like Jim Fisk's. Royalty amid revolution was not in more danger than the Admiral was among the sans culottes of the Gold Room. One day this week a gentleman made the remark to him that he ought to be a happy man. "Happy!" he exclaimed. "Me happy—me, who live day and night in an atmosphere of pistols? Not if I know it!" And he forthwith went up to the Opera House to look over the cast of the Tempest.

Amusements. I might say that Miss Lisa Weber is to appear as "Ariette" in the Tempest, to be produced on Monday evening at the Grand Opera House. As the last lingering exponent of the leg-business, and as a most vicious young creature, I presume she will attract a good many young New Yorkers. But what do you think of Miss Western as "Miranda"? That will be very sweet, will it not? George Francis Train has been making a speech at the Fifth Avenue Hotel about gold gambling. He thinks the Wall street panic originated in London, and that Peter B. Sweeney fanned the flame. He says that the Government is the greatest gambler out, and that the only cure is for Grant to either demand instant payment of the Alabama claims or to declare war. He declares that "he told us so" years ago, and that precisely what has happened in Wall street within the past week was predicted by him. All through his speech Mr. Train labored under great excitement, and strained of his blue coat several brass buttons that were grabbed for by the crowd.

The New Pavement along Fifth avenue is thought to be a fraud which brought money to the King politicians, and probably the members of the Common Council of Philadelphia, who were lately here, prognosticated the fact that in six months' time it would all have to come up. The mixture of hot pitch, wood, sand, and pebbles which was lately put down along the avenue between Thirty-second and Thirty-fifth streets, had to be taken up in three weeks' time, and in many other places the pavement is extremely loose.

GET THE BEST.—The Parham New Family LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE. Salesroom, No. 704 CHESTNUT STREET. NOW IS THE TIME to repair the larads made upon the physical strength by the heated term which has closed with September. The vitality that has been oozing through the pores in the form of perspiration, for the last three months, requires to be replaced, as a preparative to the cold season which makes such disastrous havoc with relaxed and untuned systems. The reserve of vigor with which the stoutest man commences the summer campaign, is drained out of him at its close, and unless by some means he acquires a new stock of vital energy wherewith to encounter the shock of a colder season, he may droop and wither like the falling leaves whose life-juices are exhausted. If it is thus with the strong, how much more perilous is the condition of the weak and ailing! Their reason must suggest to them, more forcibly than these printed words, the necessity for invigoration, and the world having decided, after an experience of almost a quarter of a century, that HOSSETT'S STOMACH BITTERS embrace such restorative properties as are not possessed by any other tonic and alterative preparation in existence, the importance of resorting to that GREAT RESTORATIVE AND REGULATOR OF THE HUMAN MACHINE, at this critical season, is as obvious as the light of day. Let all who desire to escape an attack of chills and fever, bilious remittent fever, dysentery, diarrhoea, dyspepsia, rheumatism, hypochondria, or any other of the diseases of which the fall season is the prolific parent, have recourse promptly to this celebrated preservative and restorative.

Mr. JOHN WANAMAKER, the best known clothier in Philadelphia, has made "Receptions" an essential feature to gentlemen in this city. No longer are the ladies allowed to monopolize the delights of the "Opening Day;" the sterner sex are now beginning to regard these as a necessity, and are in no wise inclined to neglect them. This assertion cannot be questioned by any who have seen the hundreds of visitors thronging the spacious rooms of Mr. Wanamaker, on Chestnut street, yesterday. The occasion was alike pleasurable to the proprietor and his guests, and was a complete success. Many who came without any prepossession in favor of the house, and some even with prejudices against it, could not but be well pleased, and give a hearty approval, while the friends and customers of Mr. Wanamaker were enthusiastic in their congratulations of him, and of themselves, too, in view of their prospects for beautiful dress this season. It was a success on the appearance which the place was made to assume. Pictures and flowers, hanging baskets and pyramids, tastefully arranged goods, everything that could contribute to that end, was brought into service to make the house beautiful and attractive; and yet, so skilfully were all these decorations arranged, as never once to suggest the idea that this was any other than a place of business, and business only was the meaning of it all. The taste and judgment everywhere displayed in the getting up of the house spoke volumes of promise in reference to the clothing manufacturer there. Good taste is the first requisite of a first-class tailor.

And yet only the half has been told; for the endless and tasteful assortments of dress and business cloths displayed were superior to all previous stocks ever offered in our city. Such ready-made clothing, we hesitate not to assert, was never before offered for sale in Philadelphia, let alone manufactured here—silk-lined, velvet collars, quilted and embossed—everything which has heretofore been regarded as the fine touches and fineries which were the special prerogatives of the finest custom-made garments. Mr. Wanamaker, one of the hardest working and yet most composed business men in our city, has unequalled facilities for furnishing the best clothing for everybody he meets, and his policy of honorable dealings with all has developed his trade into immense proportions.

In his palatial Chestnut street store he has one hundred and thirty-three salaried salesmen, and cutters, and to supply the constant needs of these able employees, four hundred hands are constantly at work. At his well-established house at Sixth and Market streets, one hundred and fifty salaried and cutters are always as busy as many bees, and they keep just as steadily at their piping the needle eight hundred hands. Thus, Mr. Wanamaker takes daily upon his shoulders the responsibility of supporting fifteen hundred people, and yet bears the burden so easily as to have a choicy word for everybody he meets. Truly, Mr. Wanamaker has found the secret of success and happiness for himself in doing good to others; and never have we seen him look more contented than when— as we saw him on a bright morning last summer—at the head of his Mission School of hundreds of children, he was leading them for a pleasant recreation into green pastures and beside still waters. Like a modest man as he is, he hides many of his virtues, but one so plain as to be visible to all is that he has succeeded in establishing a FIRST-CLASS CLOTHING HOUSE.

THE LARGEST WORKSHOP OF THE BODY is the Liver, whose office it is to withdraw the bile from the blood; when this important organ does not act, the skin assumes a yellow appearance, and generally a sick headache sets in, with chilly sensations, and cold hands and feet, accompanied with loss of appetite. The system becomes clogged, the machinery does not work well, and both mind and body are disordered, the afflicted becoming cross and fretful, finding fault with everything around them. To any person in this condition DR. D. JAYNE'S SANGUINE PILLS are recommended; by their stimulating action the Liver soon recovers its healthy tone, and is enabled to perform its proper functions. Coughiness is cured, and all the aggravating symptoms of Biliousness removed. Sold everywhere.
