Father Hyncinihe at Notre Dame The following description of the preaching of this eloquent monk was furnished in a letter to the Evangelist two years ago, by a correspondent

But now the tall Swiss halberdier, making a assage along the aisle, announces the approach of Pere Hyacinthe, and instantly this whole sea of faces is turned towards him, with an expression of sympathy so intense, as seemed enough to electrify one who came in all simplicity and sincerity to bring to them the words of life. He followed slowly, with his eyes cast down, his face pale, and, mounting the steps of the pulpit he knelt down, and buried his face in silent prayer. Then rising, he stood, with erect and najestic form, and for some moments regarded in silence those to whom he was to speak; while a deep sigh involuntarily escaped from his large

Although I was already under the magnetism of this extraordinary man, my eye as an artist took in all the surroundings of the scene. In scenic effect nothing could exceed the beauty of the tableau-the dark background of the pulpit, in ancient carved oak; the form of the preacher, rendered more striking by the robe of his order (he is a Carmelite monk, and wears a long gown. with only sandals on his feet), with his white shaven so as to leave only a chaplet of hair upon his brow, while the light from above fell upon his bare head, and his countenance, so sad and beautiful, yet responding with quick sympathy to all the regards turned towards him. Surely If he had studied all this mise en scene, he is a master in the art.

He began to speak, and from that moment I wished to believe in the sincerity, in the piety, in the Christian faith of this man-or if he is not all that, he profanes the most beautiful gifts of Providence, Never did a voice more sympathetic strike my ear; never did art more perfect captivate and control the human heart.

He announced his text, first in Latin and then in French. It was in Ecclesiastes—a warning to diligence and activity, which he applied to stimulate men in the work of salvation, repeating with emphasis, "Agonize for your faith; combat for your soul!" He described the agony of Christ, that he might hold Him up as an example. As it is the season of Lent, all thoughts are supposed to converge towards that central theme, and all motives to radiate from the Great Sufferer. He depicted the sorrows of the Sa viour of the world, the drops of blood falling to the ground and the last scene on the cross. During this description all was hushed and still. The vast cathedral seemed to wear a deeper gloom, as if in sympathy with the darkness which was described, and when he repeated our Saviour's words, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me!" it seemed as if every heart shuddered at the cry.

As Christ suffered and agonized for man's salvation, so should man himself struggle and suffer unto death that he may be saved—there was his theme. But how do men carry on this spiritual war? Here the preacher turned from the Divine Sufferer to the world which He came to redeem-a world full of sorrow and sin. Instantly we were in the midst of the nineteenth century—with examples of guilt which all could recognize. He drew his pictures from actual life, portraying the tempter and the tempted; and in his charges of selfishness and crime, he seemed as if he would arraign all men at the bar of Divine justice. He did not spare any class or profession-not even his own-but drew a

"It is not by hypocrisy," he said, "that the bad priest dishonors his ministry. Hypocrisy is a thing vulgar and base, soon unmasked, which cannot long deceive any one. But it is by that cold, cruel Pharisaism which puts the letter in place of the spirit, the dogma in place of charity, in a religion which is all love. It is not with hands hard and cold that the priest must touch the wounds and sores of humanity, but as a mother in her love for her children covers the plague spots which mark the outbreaking of revolting disease. It is with burning lips he is to suck the poison from the very blood of the death-smitten; it is with tears of charity and of tenderness that he is to wash and to purify As he said this, there was in his voice, and in the whole expression of his sad and beautiful countenance, something of the tenderness of a father-he seemed to yearn towards those who listened to him with an irresistible attraction, and with one of his electrifying gestures he threw open his arms as if he would take upon his own heart the griefs and the remorse of every troubled spirit.

I give you but a faint outline of his sermon.

though it seemed that every word was engraven on my memory. But merely to repeat his argu ments and illustrations could give you no impression of his power, for it lay in the man, in his eye, his gesture, and his voice. In true eloquence there is something which escapes analysis-a power beyond words-a magnetism vibrante et subtile which penetrates like lightning which cannot be described, but which is only felt as the intensest action of the human soul To make you understand its effect, I must paint for you that countenance so mobile, now grave and stern, and now wearing a look of ineffable tenderness. His gestures were full of energy and animation. There was intense life in every limb and every motion. Now he appeared as if were the accuser of his heavers, flashing the light of conscience on every deed of guilt. At such a moment you might believe that you heard another Savonarola thundering against the vices of the age. Then suddenly his tone changed and his manner became tender and almost caressing, as If he would draw the multitude to the feet of Him whose agony he described.

In rebuking the spirit of this world, which has such empire over men, a priest has an immense power from his own example of self-abnegation. The Protestant pastor comes to the pulpit from his comfortable home, from the sweet companionship of his wife and children. But the priest has no domestic ties. He has no home and no one to love him more than others. If a monk, he has taken a vow of poverty and lives in a cell. His life is one of daily selfdenial-at least such is the theory of his orderand he speaks to the popular heart and con-science, exalted in public esteem by this impression of extraordinary sanctity. I need not say that many priests are far enough from realizing this ideal of their profession—that they are very coarse and common men, alike wanting in intellect and in moral elevation. But others there are of a different stamp, who at least try to live up to a saintly ideal, with whom life is a daily self-crucifixion-men full of all the sweet impulses of nature, yearning for human society, who are yet doomed to live in solitude; craving a love which they can never know. In the good priest this contradiction between his tastes als actual existence gives a sadness to all his life. But what a power does it give him when he speaks out of his lonely and desolate heart to others in sorrow, using the very words of the

SUMMARY OF CHURCH NEWS.

CATHOLIC.

-Says the Independent: -There has been for some weeks a great deal of interest in Cincinnati on the question of how the Roman Catholics could be induced to attend the public schools. Very liberal offers were made to them, and compromises of various sorts suggested in the school board, and a committee of the board visited the archbishop to find just what would satisfy him: but the report which they brought back was not such as to satisfy them. What they seem determined to get is a share of the school money proportionate to their population, which they may use as they please, teaching their creeds and catechism and their own text-books. The school board was not quite ready to accede to the demand of Archbishop Purcell, who said:-

"The entire government of public schools in which Catholic youth are educated cannot be given over to the civil power.

"We, as Catholics, cannot approve of that system of education for youth which is apart from instruction in the Catholic faith and the teaching of the

"If the school board can offer anything in conformity with these principles, as has been done in England, France, Canada, Prussia, and other countries where the rights of conscience in the matter of education have been fully recognized, I am prepared to | his design "for some weeks."-N. Y. Indegive it respectful consideration.

LUTHERAN. -On the 1st of September, we learn from the Latheran Observer, the Danish-Norwegian branch of the Augustana Synod opened a school in Marshall, Wisconsin, called the Marshall Academy and Theological Seminary. Professor John Anderson is the principal, assisted by two professors of theology. CONGREGATIONAL.

—During the last year the 40,000 members of the Congregational churches in Illinois made an average contribution of twenty-five cents to the Home Missionary Society, while the 80,000 mem-bers in Massachusetts contributed an average seventy-five cents each. At the same time the Advance admits that the average wealth of these churches in Illinois is not much less than the average in Massachusetts. The Chicago (Illinois) Seminary has opened with forty students, while more are to come. A goodly number of the students have been preaching as missionaries during the vacaion. The walls of the chapel are going up rapidly. -The Congregational Union, in its sixteenth annual report, says that, from the organization of the society to the passent time, 375 churches have received aid, and 383 houses of worship been built. Of these, thirty-seven are in New England, sixty-two in Illinois, and Axty-one in

-Rev. W. C. Smith, formerly a Congrega-tional pastor at East Saginaw, Michigan, has accepted a call to the Presbyterian church in Urbana, Illinois. -The "Congregational Club" is a new organiation of ministers and laymen in Boston and Its first monthly meeting was held -Rev. Francis Norwood has been appointed Chaplain of Essex County Asylum, Ipswich, Conn., in place of Rev. Dr. Fitz, deceased.

-The college building at Benzonia, Michigan, costing about $10,000, is now completed, and was dedicated September 19. -A church was organized, September 10, on Portage river, four miles east of Bowling Green, Dhio.

-Now that out of a vote of a quarter of a mlllion the laity have decided in favor of lay repre-sentation in the Methodist Church, the ministers who compose the conferences are voting on the same question. It is necessary that three-fourths of the members of the conference should accede to it in order for the matter to be presented for final action to the next General Con ference. Thus far reports have been received from 18 conferences, which have given 1205 votes in favor and but 372 voted against the measure This is the full three-fourths required and a

There seems to be not a fittle trouble in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in connection with the church which lately left the Wesleyan Metho dists for the Congregationalists. The minority have claimed all the church property, and un seemly conduct has characterized some of the public meetings. The pastor, W. W. Lyle, re-fuses to occupy the church again until the rival claims to the church property are adjudicated. or the proper authorities can give assurance that the disturbances will not be repeated.

—It is stated that in the Methodist Church the net increase of houses of worship last year wa 570. Besides these, over 140 new and improved churches were built in place of old ones, making the number of dedications of Methodist Episco pal churches during the last year 710. The esti-mated value of the new edilices, including the improvements on old ones, is nearly $6,000,000. -The statistics of all the Methodist bodies in England show a decrease in every one, with the exception of the parent body, which reports an increase of 3146 only. These results would appear to us a strong argument against the divisions of British Methodism, and especially against the continued separate existence of the smaller bodies.

PRESBYTERIAN.

-A correspondent says:-"Mathias Baldwin established more churches in Philadelphia for the New School Presbyterians in ten years than have been gathered of the Congregational Orhodox societies in all Boston, with Roxbury and Dorchester now added, in the last twenty years. What was his plan? He said to some minister: 'There,' pointing to some particular part of the city, 'is a field of labor. Go there and work. Open a Sabbath School and preach the Gospel. I will foot your bills, and build you chapel or church, as the case may require This is what he said to the Rev. E. E. Adams D. D., when he commenced the North Broad Street Church, now one of the strongest in that city. The same was said to several other ministers. They went to the field, and the result has been seven or eight strong churches.

-One of the results of the Presbyterian reunion will be to give the denomination better newspapers and better sustained. Already the Presbyler and the Christian Herald of Cincinnati, which have labored together in favor of re auton, have determined to consolidate, even i advance of the meeting of the General Assembly in Pittsburg, and come out this week in a new form, and under the joint editorial charge of Dr. Monfort and Rev. Mr. Babb, making a sheet equal in size to any other of that denomination's in the country.

-The Rev. Dr. John C. Smith preached his thirtieth anniversary sermon as pastor of the Fourth Church, Washington, D. C., on Sabbath, September 19. In these thirty years the number communicants added were 1192; of deaths and dismissions there were 583; the total number now in communion is 609. Dr. Smith also has captized 677 infants and 130 adults; total, 807. The marriages have been 607.

-Fifteen new students have been already recrived in the Union Theological Seminary, Virginia, and they have information of two or three more. It is probable that the junior class this year may reach twenty; at any rate, the whole number will be greater than for many years past. -There has been a very interesting series of meetings at the Philadelphia Church, Georgia, recently. Twenty-two persons were added to the church on profession of their faith. Of these sixteen were young men. -There is an interesting work of grace in Arkadelphia, Arkansas, which has resulted, so far, in the addition of thirty members to the Presbyterian Church.

EPISCOPAL -Rev. Dr. Newton, of this city, an Epis copalian of the most liberal and evaugelical type, and who has the reputation of being one of the most successful preachers to children that there are in the country, was lately invited to preach a sermon in the Congregational church to the children of Woburn. It is an immeuse build ing, accommodating an audience of 1600; and no other church in the town would hold the children and adults of the various Sabbath Schools. But there is a snug little Episcopal church, having an average audience of not over 50; and the pastor, hearing of Dr. Newton's coming, addressed him a note, offering the intruder the use of his little church, but on the authority of the revised canons of Episcopal Church forbidding him to preach elsewhere in the limits of his parish. Dr. Newton preached according to appointment, giving the opportunity for another Tyng trial.

-In one of his late sermons, the rector of St. Albans Protestant Episcopal Church, in New York, affirmed that the Episcopalian and Roman Catholic belief is positively alike, although the members do not commune together, owing to intrigues at the Court of Rome at the time of the Reformation. The preacher boldly asserted that the churches referred to are but actually one, and that the members are all Roman Catholics; and he hoped to see the day when both should be united under the latter name and unite

-Two-thirds of the students in the General Episcopal Theological Seminary in this city have just gone over to the Roman Catholies. The institution is under decided High Church control. The dean of the seminary did his best to dissuade them from their course; but in one case he did not know of the young man's intention till a day or two beforehand. Otherwise he till a day or two beferehand. Otherwise he thinks he might have induced him to put off street.

MOSAIC BREASTPIN. The finder will be liberally rewarded on leaving the same at No. 139 N. FIFTEENTH Street.

-The Rev. Alexander Shiras, D. D., has resigned the principalship of the Protestant Episcopal Mission House, West Philadelphia, to take effect as soon as a successor shall have been secured.

Bishop Huntington, of Central New York, has organized his diocese into six missionary districts, with two missionaries for each. BAPTIST.

-The Baptist Sunday School National Convention, to be held in St. Louis during the first week in November, promises to be very largely attended. Half fare arrangements have been made with most of the rallroad companies. The National Baptist says:-"Send Your Superintendent .- No class of Christian workers deserves recognition more than the superintendents of our Sunday Schools. For the most part they give much time, talent, and money to advance the interests of the schools. They are hard-working, earnest, large-hearted men. Their self-denying toil is simply for love of Christ and love of souls. They deserve appreciation. Now, we propose to every Baptist Sunday School in the country to send its superintendent as a delegate to the great National Convention of Baptist Schools, to be held in St. Louis, the first of the coming November; and make provision to pay his travelling expenses. Every school which thus honors its laborious and worthy superintendent will be richly rewarded. The generous act will give him inreased devotion to his work. At the conver tion he will meet the most enthusiastic and sucessful Sunday-school workers. He will hear discussions on the most important subjects con-nected with Sunday-school teaching and discipline. He will learn the latest and best methods as pursued in the most efficient schools. He will imbibe the spirit of the great gathering and return to his work at home with enlarged devotion. By all means send your superintendent. It will be a handsome compliment to him, and will be repaid in bringing back into your school the elements of greater prosperity.
