NEW-YORHISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. Review of the First Division, National Guard. The review of the First Division of the National Guard took place yesterday afternoon, and the display was gratifying in every respect, for the weather was bright and bracing, the streets were thronged, and the men in excellent spirits and condition. Of course the review took place on Fourteenth street, as it always does. The line of march was much shorter than usual, owing to the fact that most of the men are obliged to undergo inspection next week, and it will not do for them to lose two days. The march commenced at 3 o'clock, and the entire review was over by 5, the whole line of march being simply down Fifth avenue from Twentythird to Thirteeath street.

The Fisk-Corbin Imbroglio. According to Ralph Waldo Emerson, there is a law of compensation which regulates in some mysterious manner all the relations of people to each other. How that law applies to the relations between Mr. Corbin and Mr. Fisk it is, at the present muddled stage, impossible to determine. The private secretaries of both these gentlemen are perpetually kept busy in writing to the newspapers denials and counter-denials. Mr. Corbin, on his side, emphatically denies that he ever exchanged a word on financial matters, either verbally or in writing, with Mr. Fisk from the commencement of the gold speculation until the day of the crisis. He with equal emphasis denies that he ever, either verbally or otherwise, authorized any haman being to buy or sell gold for him or any one else. The odium that has lately attached to his conduct has made him seriously ill. At the best of times he is not a very wise man, He is a sort of child-man, lacking that dignity and consistency of behavior which give to ones character the appearance of carnesiness. He has been a journalist as well as a speculator, and though he has learned considerable willness in both of these fields, he will find it difficult to explain away his statement that he "did not associate with such men" as Mr. Fisk. Mr. Corbin's crowning merit is that he is an ardent church member, and a furtherer of everything that is lovely and of good report in Zion. Piety and peculation, I should say speculation are scarcely inconsistent with one another. The present generation has learned the secret of serving God and Mammon simultaneously, and of getting (or of thinking they get) the most out of both. "No More Wanted !"

This is the information placarded up on the fence surrounding the ground of the new Post Office, and which carries discontent, not to say despair, to many an expectant bosom. It is intended for the crowd of laborers of all classes surrounding the grounds and clamoring for work of some kind. The men have just been paid off for the month of September, the masons averaging five dollars per day, and the common laborers two dollars and seventy-five cents. In all, about sixteen thousand dollars was paid out. About five hundred men in all are employed, and two hundred of these are kept busy from sunset to sunrise. The new Post Office, while it is in process of building, is like heaven in this respect, that there is no night there. A multiplicity of lanterns are distributed around the grounds, at night, and there is not an hour of the twenty-four when the clang of the workmne's tools is not heard. Fortunately the precautions taken by Superintendent Hubbard, in banking up the excavations, prevented the rain's doing any material damage. Not a single slide of earth or sand has taken place. By the tenth of next month all the area walls are expected to be up to their prescribed height, as well as the piers of the support of the main walls. The report was started that some Italian marble had arrived here from Leghorn, but the fact is, no Italian marble for that purpose has been contracted for. Meanwhile the principal door to the Post Office grounds is constantly besieged with crowds of lookers-on whose curiosity, I hope, is satisfied. I stood there one morning myself for five minutes, and I saw thirteen cart loads of dirt go out and twenty-two empty carts go in. My curiosity was satisfied to repletion.

Our Night Schools. The fullness of attendance which characterizes the city evening schools of New York is a very happy indication. At some of them the course of Instruction embraces not only several of the modern languages, but also some of the very highest departments of discipline in algebra, astronomy, political science and navigation. Of night schools of not quite so advanced a class there are no less than three for [colored pupils, eleven for females, and fifteen for males. A great number of foreigners attend for the purpose of becoming thoroughly acquainted with the English language. The Free School of Science, at the Cooper Institute, is one of the very best of its class, and Mr. Peter Cooper, at the commencement of the present season, very generously endowed it with twenty thousand dollars, which are to be speat in enlarging the stock of instruments. It is not to be doubted that these night schools exert an influence which has not hitherto been appreciated, but which, in some degree, restrain the demoralizing tendencies of Black Crook and kindred isms.

A Limited Divorce. This is what Mrs. Agatha States has secured from Judge McCunn, of the Superior Court. It will be remembered that this pleasant carollist has, or rather had, a husband who was so uxorions that he followed her around the world, and threatened to shoot her during the performances. This was decidedly unpleasant to Agatha. It was quite enough for her to be stabbed by criticism, and poisoned by stage direction, without being shot at by a maniae sea captain from a private box. No wonder her voice sometimes quivered into an involuntary tremolo, and she found it impossible to hold a note with her accustomed tenacity. Cruelty and ill-treatment are the grounds on which she supported her application, and the referee, I rejoice to say, reported in her favor.

A Budget of Blood. I reserve my most thrilling items for the last. They are bloody enough to make the most sanguinary city-editor's heart beat with joy. In Seventh avenue a negro named Robert Fry shot dead a laborer named Patrick Rooney; in the Burdell-Cunningham house in Bond street a man named Felton is found mysteriously dead in bed; by one of the Park avenue (Brooklyn) cars, Mr. McGuire was run over and almost instantly killed while crossing the track; Mrs. Jane White, upon Tenth avenue, took a dose of eyanide of potassium and set off for the other world, because she couldn't make enough money out of a photograph-gallery in this; and in West Thirty-eighth street, Philip Heffner assaulted Henry Metz with a cart-rung and almost smashed the vital spark out of him. You see the weather is cold, mercury's down, and blood's up.

City Affairs.

-The Public Schools of this city will be closed to-morrow to give the pupils an opportunity to gather the walnuts and chesnuts in the Park. A number of meetings of the representatives of the various sections have been held, and satisfactory arrangements have been made for some of the sections with the passenger and steam railroad companies to convey them to and from the Park. The teachers, parents and children belonging to those sections that have not made special arrangements, can reach the Park by the

A resolution was passed declaring that, believing half-pilotage charges to be unjust and unconstitutional, the association was opposed to paying them any longer when assessed against vessels enrolled and licensed in the coasting trade. —Last evening, a boat containing Charles Smith and his son, twelve years old, was cap-sized by a ferry boat, near Smith's island. Mr. Smith was rescued, but the lad sank before assistance could reach him. The body was not Philadelphia Baptist Association.

At the session of the Philadelphia Baptist Association yesterday the following resolutions, fiered by Rev. Dr. J. Wheaton Smith, were debated and unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That in reaffirming the action of last year we declare more fully:—
First. That in common with Baptists generally we hold the burial of a believer with Christ in aptism naturally and scripturally precedes his participation at the table of the Lord. Second. That believing, with our Christian brothren of whatever name, that baptism naturally and scripturally precedes communion, we protest against the manifest unfairness of bandyng such terms as close-communion, exclusive ness, etc., in application to a people whose only closeness, if closeness it be, is the closeness of Scripture baptism. Third. That while we distinguish between the utter neglect of baptism and a mistake as to what constitutes baptism, giving our brethren o other denominations the benefit of the distinc ion, we cannot endorse what we believe to be their error, by inviting them to communion in our churches, and we protest against their demand for such endorsement as indecorous, ungenerous, and an assault upon Christian unity.

Fourth. That while we hold against all comers and in our Lord's behalf that mode in which alone the spirit of a Christian baptism is symbolized-we are still more firmly set when an ordinance of God's own fashioning, marred and mutilated in the house of His friends, is administered to unregenerate subjects.

Fifth. That while we marvel at the temerity of those who, in the sprinkling of children, can repeat, "Seeing now, dearly beloved brethren, that this child is regenerate and grafted into the body of Christ's Church," we wonder hardly less at the practice of others who, disclaiming this form of words, still keep their substance, commingling even an infant's consecration with be lievers' baptism, and forcing us to say with the good old patriarch, "The voice is the voice of acob, but the hand is the hand of Esau.

In the evening session the claims of the Pennsylvania General Baptist Association were pre-

GENERALITIES.

Will "Nappy" Abdicate? The Leeds Mercury of Sept. 18 published a telegram to the following effect:—"We have received a communication from a member of Parliament who is assured by officials in confidential communication with the Emperor of the French, that a formal abdication will take place in a few weeks at latest. The Prince Imperial will be proclaimed Emperor, with the title of Napoleon IV, the present Emperor holding office as President of the Council. The Emperor deems his life precarious.'

Colliery Fires in England. Three collieries are on fire in England. In one (at Kidsgrove, Staffordshire) the cause of the fire is said to have been a large "blower" of gas. The seam of coal worked ordinarily throws off a great quantity of gas, and a large blower having been added to it, a flame was created, which spread to the coal and set it on fire. The manager and the men used every endeavor to put out the fire, but without avail. At length the horses and men were drawn out of the pit for safety, and the water-engine was stopped, so that water might accumulate to exclude the air. Several explosions have occurred in the pit since with this editorial squib:-"Jeff. Davis is on the Atlantic, sailing to America. Poor old man! A traitor, an outcast, a beggar, without honor in his own country or any other, the murderer of 600,000 brave whose graves dapple the land from Lake Eric to the Gulf, or whose bones are bleaching in the wilderness up and down the Mississippi, on the heights of Lookout, along the bloody banks of turbld Chickamauga, or in the brook whose waters lave the logs of Barbara Freitchie's lowly cabin—why is he coming back here? To haunt with ghostly apparition the widows and orphans he has made? To mourn the irretrievable loss of the Lost Cause? Nobody cares very much. Grant proved his Delilah, and he is harmless. Let him alone! His conscience will finish him.

A Bear Whistle.

Clerk's office of Hamilton county, Ohio. A young girl, who says she is seventeen years of brings suit against a woman and her husband, who keep a house of bad fame in Cincinpath, seeking to recover from them damages in the sum of $5000 for forcibly compelling her to debauch herself and become a public woman in their house. She alleges that she was a virtuous girl, and that she was ignorant of the character of the house when she was employed in it as a domestic servant. At that time the landlady represented herself as keeping a boarding house, and as being desirous of obtaining the services of the plaintiff as a domestic. She states that after she became an inmate she was compelled, contrary to her will and by actual force, to sub mit herself to the dissolute men who visited that establishment. The girl's father also brings suit of $5000 against the same parties for loss of service of his daughter.

Buying up Women. A Hong-Kong paper of a late date has the fol-owing about the women traffic in China:— We hear from Shanghai, and that moreover from a source which we cannot but consider as rustworthy, that agents of the vile crew who traffic in women for the California brothel market have found their way to that port, and are buying up the surplus stock of girls for their purpose. Now, it is folly to pretend that the local papers have no knowledge of what is o, for we have good reason to know that the matter is one of public comment. Yet not a line appears in any of the Shanghai journals exposing the miscreants or saying a single word in opposition to a practice which is injurious to Chinese opinion of California and foreign prestige in China.

The Proud Turk. The Sultan has made an innovation upon a org-established custom in Eastern etiquette. Hitherto every Musulman who wished to pre-sent a petition to the Padisha was obliged to wait until a Friday, and to choose a moment when the latter rode on his weekly visit to the mosque. This often gave rise to great confusion. bustlings, and to vigorous plying of bamboo ancs on the part of Turkish policemen. Henceforth petitions may be deposited every day of the week, and at any hour, in a large letter-box which has recently been placed at the principal entrance of the imperial palace. An aide-de-camp of the Sultan and a feftich of police are entrusted with the care of this box, and with the duty of remitting its contents to headquarters. On the day after they have deposited their petitions the supplicants are to call at the palace, and receive a verbal reply.

Musical and Dramatic Items. —Carl Rosa filed a declaration of his intention to become an American citizen on the 2d instant.

-Olive Logan has a new comedy that will shortly be put in rehearsal at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. -Taglioni, the dancer, is said to be dying of consumption at Brunn, in Moravia. Sae retired from the stage in 1847, and is now 65 years old. -Effie Germon, who has been in Washington the past two weeks, visiting her mother, reappears at Wallack's, shortly, as "Polly Eccles" in Caste.

-Kate Bateman continues her performance of Leah, at Booth's Theatre, which will shortly be withdrawn to make room for Mary Warner, now in active preparation.

-John Collins has been kindly received in Omaha, where he opened on September 20, as will be seen by the following notice from the Omaha Herald of September 21:—"John Collins made his first appearance last evening before one of the largest houses of the season. The pieces selected for the occasion were the elegant comedy of The Irish Ambassudor and the very laughable farce of His Last Legs, two productions which have ever been almost exclusively identified with him both in Europe and America, his extraordinary humor and skilful delineation of Irish peculiarity being peculiarly adapted to this style of pieces. Mr. Collins' appearance on the stage is elegant and gentlemanly his singing is really fine, his voice is melodious; the style in which he sang the 'Bold Soldier Boy' has, we think, never been equalled, and was rapturously encored. In the afterpiece, Mr. Collins kept the audience in a perfect roar of laughter. His song of 'Widow Machree' is simply immense. The characters were well sustained by the excellent company,'

-CONDITION OF CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN. - A correspondent, writing about Charlotte Cu hman, says:-"After a few weeks at Malvern she went to Edinburgh to have an operation one of the most hopeless in surgery-performed by Sir James Simpson, and she now lies at the point of death, quite given up by her nearest friends, and those who should be the best judges of her condition. It may be that her strong constitution will carry her through, but no one seems to entertain the least hope, and the news of her death may have already reached you." To which a London doctor adds that the complaint was an indurated gland, not immediately dangerous; that its extirpation was one of the simplest and safest of operations; and that the only subsequent danger was from erysipelas, which by its own limitation, must have resulted, long before this, either in death or recovery, and we have consequently reason to believe that she is now convalescent.

-Le Salon d'Attente, by M. Prevel, announced to be in preparation at the Folies Marigny, Paris, has been produced. It is a clever dialogue between a Parisian elegant and an American girl who meet in the salon d'attente of a matrimonial agent, and end by dispensing with his services and arranging a marriage on their own account. Le Marr Perdu, which follows, has a plot rather like that of a portion of The Ricals. A youth who has fallen in love without regard to parental counsel, runs away from home to avoid marying a woman his father has chosen for him, and is unaware that his own choice and that of kis father have fallen on the same person. The success these pieces ob-tained was eclipsed by that of Le-Fils-a-Kahli-ko, a Chinese "buffoonery" which followed.

ARTHUR.

The Boyal Gosling is Most Outrageously Swindled by the Kanneks, From the London (Canada) Prototype.

We are afraid, when certain matters become known in relation to the Prince's visit, that out-siders will set us down as a set of vultures, or even worse. The fact that five dollars an hour was charged by cab-drivers here during the exhibition is a small matter compared with the account furnished for boarding and lodging the Prince and suite during their brief stay. The bill, as rendered to the Board of Agriculture, in detail, presents one of the most glaring cases of extortion on record. Only imagine a total sam of two thousand five hundred dollars being charged the association for entertaining the royal guest for the term of about two days a half. The whole thing is outrageous, we cannot wonder at the action board in reducing it to a figure less than half the amount—one thousand dollars which was considered more than amply suffi-cient to liquidate all expenses. In fact, many aver that five hundred dollars would have done the thing bandsomely. This, we think, is nearer the mark, judging from the charges made by Mr. Derby, of the Tecumseh, for accommodating the Governor-General and lady, Sir John A. McDonald, and the Governor's attaches, which did not exceed the latter sum named. We opine on the next occasion of a prince's visit that greater caution will be manifested as where the guest is to be lodged, and who shall -La Felite Fadette, by George Sand, has been produced at the Opera Comique, Paris.

A Cincinnati paper of Thursday says that a be his caterer. We much the authorities mor immediately interested will have by this tim learned a lesson that they will profit by. We have examined the account sent in by Mr. Glackmeyer, and feel perfectly disgusted at some of the charges. Imagine an item of $120 for dry goods; $40 for beer; $150 for horse hire; $100 for the use of the carriage in which the Prince rode, with $150 additional in another item; and this, after representations were made to the board that the Prince's carriage and horses would be furnished free; then there is likewise a claim of some $800 for omissions, use of house, etc., with other outrageous charges of a like nature "too numerous to mention." any wonder that the board kicked? The bill as it stands is worthy being preserved for future reference, or as a memento of the visit of Prince Arthur to London. As a proof of the exorbitant charges we may state that Mr. Glackmeyer consented to accept $1000 in settlement, but ulti mately refused the offer for some reason. Should the bill be taken before a court of law, some astounding revelations may be looked for. The residence in question was selected for the Prince at the owner's own request, and on the under-standing that honor would compel him to make a mere nominal charge for its use, the fact of the Prince occupying it being, in his estimation, almost sufficient to repay him for any temporary inconvenience he might be placed at, and that he would leave it altogether with the board to name what they considered a proper remuneration. How different then and now

The Byron Scandal.

HARTFORD, Oct. 6.-The Courant, to-mor-row, will contain the following card:-Mrs Stowe desires the friends of justice and fair dealing to publish for her this announcement:-That she has kept silence heretofore in regard to the criticisms on her article on Byron for two reasons-first, because she regarded the pub lie mind as in too excited a state to consider the matter dispassionately; and second, because she has expected the development of additional proofs in England, some of which, of great imortance, have already come to hand. Mrs. Stowe is preparing to review the whole matter with further facts and more documents, including several letters of Lady Byron to her, at the period referred to, and also Mrs. Stowe's letters to Lady Byron at the same time, which were returned to her by the executors soon after that lady's death. She will also give the public a full account of the circumstances and reasons which led her to feel it to be her duty to make this disclosure as an obligation to ustice, gratitude, and personal friendship.
