This play was written expressly for Miss Keene, and the part of the heroine is admirably suited to her style of acting. Herital Doors was played by Mrs. Bowers two seasons age, at the Chesnut, for a few aights near the end of an engagement, and to the majority of our playgoers it will be a new piece. The story is very interesting, the characters well sketched, and some of the situations highly dramatic. The cast we give above is an assurance that it will be acted in first-rate style. The performance will be eated in first-rate style. The performance will be eated in first-rate style. The performance will be onclude with an amusing afterpiece.

At the Valnut Mr. Booth commences his fifth week this evening in Bulwer's play of Richeless. Mr. Booth's performances during this engagement have broved him to be a studious and progressive artist. There is searcely one of his personations that does not show great improvement in many pents, and his acting is riper and more finished than it has ever been before. The audiences that have attended at the Walnut during the last four weeks seem to indicate that Mr. Booth's popularity is increasing rather than otherwise, as the house has been crowded to everflowing every evening.

Mr. Gibbons Appointed to the Office Pro Tem.

This morning a number of lawyers were in attendance upon the Court of Quarter Sessions, Judge Ludlow on the bench, to learn what disposition was to be for the present made of the office of District Attorney, knowing that a writ of certierari had been taken by Mr. Sheppard to move the record of his case to the Supreme Court. Also a jury were in attendance for the trial of homicide cases, but no one for some time appeared within the bars, but no one for some time appeared within the bars, as the Comtendence for the trial of homicide cases, but no one for some time appeared within the bar as the Commonwealth's officer. At length, however, Mr. Sheppard and Mr. Hæggert entered and took their usual places, and soon Mr. Gibbons, who had been sent for by Judge Ludlow, came. Mr. Sheppard at once advanced to meet him, and the two gentlemen having shaken each other's hand, proceeded together to speak in private with the Judge. After a few moments of consultation, Mr. Sheppard arose and addressed the Court as follows:—

May it please your Honor, on Saturday last a majority of the judges of this Court, acting upon certain views of the law and of the facts expressed in their opinion, decided that the present incumbent of the office of District Attorney had not been duly and legally elected. To this decision a certiorari has been taken to the Supreme Court, and I desire to avoid all unseemly discussion as to whether or not this written a supremeless or how far the learner. this writtle a supersedeas, or how far the learned gentleman who is my confistant, or myself, is legally entitled to administer the duties of the office in the

Such a discussion at this time could effect no good object, but might lead to the delay and confusion of the Commonwealth's business. Besides, it is an unpleasant thing to minimizer an office before a tribunal that has decided that I am not entitled to it.
Under these considerations, I have concluded that it is my futly to withdraw from the office, and therefore, with the profoundent respect for the dourt, I now decide to prosecute the pleas of the Commonthe county has a perfect right to adopt whatever steps he deems necessary in the present juncture of affairs. I entirely concur in the propriety of his de-clining to presente the pless of the Commonwealth while the writ of certiorari is pending, since the de-cision of the majority of this court, from which it is known I dissented. It is highly proper that he should abstain from prosecuting the pieas during the pendency of the writ in the Supreme Court; but I must see that the public interests do not suffer in the meantime.

There is a large criminal calendar, including a There is a large criminal calendar, including a number of homicule cases, and there is one case of special importance fixed for trial on Wednesday next. If the gentleman whom I shall appoint receives a certificate from the Governor upon the decision of the Supreme Court, he will be called upon to con-tinue his management of the business of the office; should the decision of the writ reverse the judgment should the decision of the writ reverse the judgment of this court, the present District Attorney will be called upon to resume the prosecution of the pleas. Nothing remains for me but to appoint the gentleman whom the Court has adjudged to have been duly elected, and I therefore direct the following order to be entered:

And now, to wit, October 18th, 1862, the present

District Attorney declining to prosecute the pleas of the Commonwealth, Charles Gibbons, Esq., is ap-pointed to the office of District Attorney pro tem.,

during the pendency of the writ of certiorars in the Supreme Court.

Mr. Gibbons here arose and said:—May it please your Honor, the determination of my friend Mr. Sheppard, just expressed, was quite unexpected to myself, and I regret that he has felt it his duty to retire from his present position at this time. I hoped he would have remained in the office until he had prosecuted some of the important cases now awaiting trial, and that in their prosecution the Court and the community might have received the benefit of his experience and skill. Neither of us has regarded the contest that has just ended as a personal matter: I am sure I have not, and I believe he has not. Under the decision of the and I believe he has not. Under the decision of the Court pronounced on Saturday, and under the appointment just made by your Honor, nothing remains to me but to accept that appointment. But of course your Honor can perceive that in the present condition of affairs it will be impossible for me to proceed with the cases fixed for trial this morning; I am unfamiliar with them, and feel obliged to ask am unfamiliar with them, and feel obliged to ask your Henor for an indulgence of a day or two, say until Wednesday or Thursday. Judge Ludlow—The case fixed for Wednesday, Mr.

Gibbons, is one that requires your attention, and whether it will be tried then or not depends of course upon you. I will adjourn until Wednesday.

Mr. Gibbons was qualified to the proper execution of the duties of the office pro tem., and the Court adourned until Wednesday.

In this connection it is proper to state that upon earning Mr. Sheppard's intention to withdraw, Judge Ludlow tendered the appointment pro tem. to Mr. Hagert, who has served as Mr. Sheppard's as-sistant; but that gentleman had resolved to go out with Mr. Sherpard, and declined the proferred ap-pointment. Mr. Gibbons also requested Mr. Hagert to remain with him, at least until he should become acquainted with the state of the business, and get it properly under way; but this also Mr. Hagert, expressing his regret at being unable to accommodate Mr. Gibbons, declined to do.

CITY COUNCILS.

A special meeting of these bodies was held this morning, the object being to approve the sureties of the city officers. Common Branch.

This Chamber was called to order at 10:30 o'clock, the President in the chair.

The Clerk then read the call for the special meet-ing, the object being "for general business."

The President then submitted communications:—

One from S. P. Hancock, City Controller, submit ting the following gentlemen as sureties, E. J. Kenney and David Jones.
One from R. Peltz, Tax Receiver, submitting Hugh Gamble, John H. Jones, and Samuel Miller as sure

One from T. J. Worreil, City Solicitor, submitting Messrs. Benjamin Fletcher, Joseph Ferguson, and Thomas K. Finletter as surcties.
Resolutions approving these surcties were offered and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Hetzell held that this was undue and hasty action, as the business could be as well transacted on a regular as well as at a special meeting. He pronounced the decision of the court on Saturday last as one emanating from partisan judges, who had really arrogated to themselves the power which was vested in the people. It was a power of usurpation, which he could not sanction.

The motion of Mr. Huhn was agreed to by a vote of 81 to 5.

Major Alexander McCuen, City Commissioner, submitted as his streties Messrs. Joseph C. Tittermary and John C. Tittermary. This was also referred to the Committee on Finance.

The chamber then adjourned until half-past 11 o'clock. The Committee on Finance then met in the mittee-room and took action upon the surelies

At the hour named the Chamber reassembled. Mr. Shoemaker, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, reported an ordinance approving the sure-ies of Thomas J. Worvell, City Selicitor elect.

Select Branch. On the adjournment of Common Council, the Stokley.

The Clerk of Common Council was announced, and having stated that that chamber had agreed to the above ordinances approving sureties, and having stated that they chamber had agreed to the above ordinances approving sureties, Mr. King moved to refer them to the Committee on Finance. In support of this he said that this was hasty action. The Committee on Finance should have more fully investigated the matter. As for the securities and the mea named, they might be sufficient, but he for one was willing to investigate the subject thoroughly and properly. This hasty action was unprecedented.

He hoped the Select Council would not condeseend to do what the Court has done, in the political trickery which had just resulted in forcing out of position men who had been the choice of the people.
All men were not corrupt. There were members of this body who are the poers of the Judges of the

The conceived that the cause for this hasty action was to avoid an ection to Court. But there was a power behind Conneils, and that was the Mayor. In the case of John Given Mayor Henry exercised the power, and he did not believe that Mayor Fox would join the Court in the trickery which they had practised upon the community.

its nature. A number of gentlemen had been kept out of positions to which they had been elected for nearly a year, and these men were anxious to get possession of that which properly belonged to them. The cases of Melioy and Given were widely different. In the case of the former, the Court has decided that he was not elected while in the case of the that he was not elected, while in the case of th latter, a notice of contest had been filed, and on that Mayor Henry acted. The speaker was astonished that Mr. King would rise in his place and retard the transaction of business for which there existed an actual necessity.

Mr. King complained that the time of the meeting of the Finance Committee was at an irregular time, and as such he had not had an opportunity of examining the searches, etc.

Mr. Franciscus replied that Mr. King had had the same notice as he and other members of the committee, who at 2s meeting had all searches and mittee, who at se meeting had all searches and everything that was actually necessary for an examination of the sureties before them.

Mr. Duny had but one dury to perform, and that was to bow in submission to the decree of the Court, who had pronounced the gentlemen named as legally elected, and though he had his doubts as to the honesty and justness of their election, he would vote for the approval of the sureties which had been passed upon by the Committee on Finance.

The motion to refer was voted down, and the resolutions as they came from Common Council were utions as they came from Common Council were agreed to. Adjourned.
