OUR UNIVERSITY AND OTHER UNIVERSITIES.

The reason why the great colleges of Europe are so far in advance of our colleges is doubtless attributable to the fact that they enjoy a greater amount of popular sympathy than ours do. The reason why they enjoy such sympathy is because they can command it. The history of every successful college, either in this country or abroad, will show that its success is due to a faithful fulfillment of reciprocal obligations between the public on the one hand and the college on the other. No college, be it never so well endowed, can meet the constantly increasing demands of education without a steady increase of revenue, and no public will consent to be a source of revenue to a college if the fruits of former outlays be trifling or insignificant. Education, like everything else, is a matter of business. We contribute year after year to enrich and strengthen a good bank, because we have confidence in its directors and believe it to be an advantage to ourselves and the community in general; we support a good college for precisely the same reason. A very modest capital will be sufficient foundation for a safe bank, provided always that business is transacted within the limits of the capital, and every promise to pay be promptly honored; and a very modest endowment will be sufficient for a foundation for a safe college, provided brains are behind it and every promissory note of education be promptly taken up. The reason why so many American colleges have failed to attain the end which their establishment looked to, is because these reciprocal duties have never been faithfully observed. With three or four notable exceptions, our public has regarded all collegiate enterprises with distrust or, what is still worse, cold indifference; and, in their turn, these colleges have found themselves free from the sympathetic and watchful eyes of the public, and dependent, to a great degree, upon fees of tuition. What else could come of such unnatural relations than abortive universities, inefficient in their discipline and injurious to their alumni? We need not go out of Pennsylvania to prove that our system of college education is in need of a speedy and thorough reform. Our State is a wilderness of half endowed, half supported, and half operative universities, some of which have been struggling for bare existence these hundred years. So far as the fault lies with our people, we think it should be acknowledged and corrected. An opportunity is now about to present itself which may, and we hope will, inaugurate a new state of things. The friends of the University of Pennsylvania are again about to urge its claims before Councils, with some reasonable prospect of success. We earnestly hope that the vote on both sides will be more intelligently cast than the vote in June. We submit that those by whom a decision so fraught with interest to every Philadelphian is to be finally rendered, should investigate for themselves as to the merit and efficiency of the college which demands this favor at their hands, and so cast conscientious ballots for or against the measure. We would not be sorry to see the vote deferred until after the college examinations in December, to which, as we understand, the public is invited. To attend these examinations should be the fixed purpose of every member of Select Council who is in doubt how to give his voice and influence in the Alms-house purchase, and the purpose, as well, of every citizen who desires to see our University firmly and rightfully established. The public is invited freely, and the public ought to go. In justice to the college and in justice to ourselves we should make ourselves fully acquainted with the internal discipline of an institution which educates, or ought to educate, our children. If the University of Pennsylvania is solid and useful, we cannot understand why it should not receive the useful help it asks; if it is anything else, surely nothing is easier than to prove it in the way we have stated. We urge upon our citizens this plain duty. If we have indeed and in truth a University of Pennsylvania, no sacrifice is too great to cherish and protect it; if we have not, it is high time we had, and the sooner we make one the better.

ANOTHER SITE FOR A HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

It is reported that a joint committee of the two branches of Councils has recently visited a farm of two hundred acres, located near Holmesburg, which they are strongly inclined to recommend as a cheap and proper site for the proposed House of Correction. Years have been consumed in vain efforts to obtain a property which could command the approval of the City Fathers, and it is high time that a decision was reached. Heretofore the earnest appeals of scores of Grand Jurors and the remonstrances of courts have exercised such a slight influence that taxpayers have been reluctantly forced to the disagreeable conclusion that they must be perpetually victimized by idle and criminal classes, and that Philadelphia must forever maintain the unenviable distinction of being the banner's paradise. For years the invitation has gone forth to the world:—Come hither, thieves and able-bodied loafers; the Quaker City will feed, clothe, and house you well, without ever requiring from you a particle of labor, or inflicting any punishment more serious than incarceration among a horde of companions as worthless as yourselves. With enough of territory within her legal boundaries to form a good-sized German principality, she cannot find a spot of ground large enough to furnish a work-shop for her vagabonds, and her rogues and idlers will be forever relieved from the necessity of honest exertion by the incapacity of her Councils to agree on the momentous question of a site for the House of Correction. If the present Councils are at last really in earnest, let them not stand upon the order of their action, but act at once, buy a site, and erect the necessary buildings as quickly as masons and carpenters can put them up.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEYSHIP.

Increased doubt has been thrown around the final decision of the vexed question of who is the legally-elected District Attorney of Philadelphia, by the allegations contained in the petition presented to the Court of Quarter Sessions in behalf of Furman Sheppard, on Friday. It is asserted that Judge Brewster forgot or neglected to add to Sheppard's vote the thirty-six votes of naturalized citizens who testified that they would have sustained the Democratic candidates if they had not wrongfully been deprived of the right of suffrage, and that other manifest errors in the count of votes made in the decision amount in the aggregate to seventy-six, so that, under this reasoning, Sheppard is duly elected by a majority of forty-four, even if the correctness of all the principles enunciated by the majority of the Court is acknowledged. We presume that the truth of these allegations will be tested at the hearing which is to take place to-day. If well founded, the whole question will be resolved into one of arithmetic, and any ready reckoner can demonstrate by irresistible figures that Mr. Sheppard is justly entitled to the District Attorneyship. If this is really the true state of the case, we presume that the mere fact of Mr. Gibbons having been sworn into office will not prevent the conclusion of this comedy of judicial errors by the reinstatement of his predecessor.

ANOTHER DEMAND ON THE NEW DOMINION.

The people of the New Dominion, who find their present confederation difficult to manage, are admonished by the British Government that it deems other consolidations desirable, and that it will be contented with nothing less than the union of the whole line of the British possessions in North America, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, under one colonial organization. Two reasons for this policy are assigned:—First, that it will promote the success of the favorite British project of a connected railway line across this continent; and second, that it would save the British home office the trouble of acting on perplexing questions about the Indian tribes and Government accounts. In this matter, as in all others, British statesmen make the interest of the mother country paramount to the well-being of the colonists, and they do not hesitate to burden the latter with oppressive taxation or endless annoyances, if they can gratify English ambition or pander to English avarice. It is not yet known how the people of Canada will relish the new demand, but there can be little doubt that it will increase the prevailing discontent and the craving for independence.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLISHED THIS DAY! LINDA;

OR THE YOUNG PILOT OF THE BELLE CREOLE.

BEING THE FIRST VOLUME OF AN ENTIRE NEW EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORKS OF MRS. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ.

Complete in one large Duodecimo Volume. Priced, $1.75 Bound in Green Morocco Cloth.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, No. 306 CHESTNUT ST., Philadelphia.

Have in Press, and will issue at once, an entire new, complete, and uniform edition of all the celebrated Novels (which have been out of print for years) written by the late MRS. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ.

The whole of the novels and stories of Mrs. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ will be issued complete in twelve large duodecimo volumes. Two volumes will be issued each month until the series is complete, one volume on the first and another on the fifteenth of each month. They will be printed on the finest paper and bound in the most beautiful style, in fine Morocco cloth, with a new, full-gilt back and gold at the top of the price of $1.75 each, in Morocco cloth, or in paper covers, $1 each. The Novels of Mrs. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ will be found, on perusal by all, to be the most exciting and popular works that have ever emanated from the American press. They are written in a stirring style, and can be read through all a thrill of deep and exquisite pleasure. They are works which the oldest and the youngest may alike read with pleasure and profit. They display an intimate acquaintance with all phases of human character—all the characters being exceedingly well drawn. They are delightful books, full of incident, sometimes bold and startling, and they describe the warm feelings of the Southern in glowing colors. Indeed, all Mrs. Hentz's stories aptly describe Southern life, and are highly moral in their application. In this field, Mrs. Hentz's works are unequalled, and their sale and circulation will be superior to any other novels ever issued. In the whole range of elegant moral fiction, there cannot be found anything of more inestimable value or superior to the charming works of Mrs. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ, and they are all gems that will repay a careful perusal. The Publishers feel assured that this series of Novels, by Mrs. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ, will give the highest satisfaction to the whole reading community; that they will encourage the pen of the novelist, and will give away many leisure hours with great pleasure and profit; and that they will also be recommended to others by all that peruse them. THE FIRST VOLUME is issued this day, November 1st, 1869, and is LINDA; OR THE YOUNG PILOT OF THE BELLE CREOLE.

The first volume, "Linda," contains a full and complete Biography of the late Mrs. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ, which has never before been published.

All the other volumes of the series will be issued in uniform style with this edition of "Linda," being bound in Green Morocco Cloth, with a full gilt back.

THE SECOND VOLUME will be issued on November 15th, 1869, and it will be ROBERT GRAHAM. A sequel to "Linda; or, The Young Pilot of the Belle Creole."

There will be followed, one on the first, and one on the fifteenth of each month, by ERNEST LINWOOD; or, The Inner Life of the Author. THE PLANTER'S NORTHERN BRIDE; or, Scenes in Mrs. Hentz's Childhood.

MARY W. WALTON; or, The Lone Moss Spring. HELEN AND ARTHUR; or, Miss Thua's Spinning.

COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE; or, The Jars and Sorrows of American Life. EOLIA; or, The Heiress of Glenmore.

THE SNOW BIRD; or, A Tale of Real Life. THE LOST DAUGHTER; and other Stories of the Heart.

THE BLESSED SON; and other Stories of the Heart. LOVE AFTER MARRIAGE; and other Stories of the Heart.

This series will no doubt prove to be the most popular series of Novels ever issued in this country, as yet any are written by the most popular and successful of our living Authors. Address all orders, at once, to receive immediate attention, for all or any of the above books, to T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Publishers, No. 306 CHESTNUT ST., Phila., Pa.

Above books will be for sale by all Booksellers, or copies of any or all of them will be sent post-paid to any one, to any place, on receipt of their price by the publishers. It is
