The City Amusements. AT THE CHESNUT Miss Laura Keene will have a benefit this evening, when Sheridan's comedy of The School for Scandal will be performed. The experiment that Miss Keene is making at the Chesnut is one that is entitled to the warmest regards of all who admire true dramatic art, and who wish to see the theatres at all times places of refined and elegant. entertainment. Such an experiment ought not to be a doubtful success, and the public favor that has been accorded to the Chesnut since it has been in Miss Keene's hands proves that there is a public to support such an establishment. The plays that have been brought out there have been of a character to appeal to the popular sympathies and tastes, and at the same time they have been worthy of hearty praise from an artistic point of view. Miss Keene herself is an actress of great ability, who has an assured reputation in a wide range of parts that is second to that of no lady on the American stage. She has gathered about her an unusually talented corps of artists, who are fully capable of presenting almost any work in an entirely acceptable manner, and the stage appointments are usually all that good taste can desire. The Chesnut, since its alteration, is an exceedingly beautiful theatre, with very superior accommodation for the comfort of the audience, and it ought to be crowded this evening to its utmost capacity.

A new play entitled Bogus, by an American author, is announced for Monday.

AT THE WALNUT Miss Lucille Western will have benefit this evening, when she will appear in East Lynne,
A matinee will be given to-morrow, when Bouel-cault's drama of The Octoroon will be performed.

HERIMANN is announced to appear at the Academy of Music for the last times this evening and to-morrow. A number of first-rate tricks will be performed on both occasions.

MAD'LLE CARLOTTA PATTI Will give a farewell matine to-morrow at the Academy of Music. This will be Mad'ile Patti's last appearance previous to her departure for an extended tour through the West. to commence at the Academy of Music on Monday, November 15. The operas will be interpreted by such well-known and popular artistes as Mesdames Frederict, Rotter, Johannsen, De Zinta, and Messrs. Hermanns, Armand, W. Formes, Steinecke, Himmer, and Weinlich. The musical director will be Carl Anschutz. It will be seen that Mr. Grau relies rether upon the strength of his troupe than upon rather upon the strength of his troupe than upon any particular singer, and with the artists above named performances of a very high order of merit may be expected.

There will be twelve night performances and two matinees, for which the following works are announced:—Faust, Magic Flute, Der Freischutz, Robert ie Diable, La Juive, Martha, Fidelio, Masaniello, Den Giovanni, Huguenots, William Tell, Merry Wives of Windsor, La Dame Blanche, and Fra Diavolo.

HUMORS OF JOURNALISM.

The Religious Reporter in America.

The Philadelphia Sunday Mercury, says the Pall Mall Gazette, keeps upon its staff a "religious reporter." For five years, we are told, "Charley Graffen" was the man. Charley originated the department, and did a world of good by "tomahawking hypocrites." Death put an end to his labors a year ago. "One year ago last Wednesday," writes his successor, "Charley folded the mantle of sleep around him and lay down to pleasant dreams, " looking not upon death with terror, but as a bluff and trusty friend, whose hand he could grasp in full confidence that he was gathering the expiring journalist into the realms," etc. The present wielder of the tomahawk carries on Charley's work with zest and spirit. He The Religious Reporter in America. carries on Charley's work with zest and spirit. He writes anonymously (for which there seems to be sufficient reason), and tells us very little about himself. Even our knowledge of his conversion is due sufficient reason), and tells us very little about himself. Even our knowledge of his conversion is due to that process having gone on simultaneously with the conversion of "Deacon Jacob, a gardener, our old schoolmate in Adams county."

But the Mercury's reporter is voluble enough about other people. Not a pastor, deacon, or humble brother, even is safe from him. He knows something about them all, and tells it with a frankness which must be the delight of many a tea-table in Philadelphia. A few choice examples of his style when dealing with "the cloth" appear in recent articles. The pastor of the Tabernacie Methodist Church took no holiday this year. Nevertheless, says the reporter, "we do not expect to survive our dear brother. Through the instrumentality of black tea and fried potatoes, he will, doubtless, extend his longevity to the year of our Lord 1892.

When called to the harvest of the Lord, he will certainly come bearing with him a two-horse load of first-class sheaves." Brother Murphy, too, kept his church open all the summer. He is another devoted man. "The first sheaf he garnered—and it has proved to be the base of the biggest kind of a subsequent stack of them—was Alfred C. Harmer, now engaged in plously laying out the saints in the glades and delis of lovely Old Oaks." The Rev. Francis E. Arnold is described as "an extremely fine specimen," whom the ladies of his parish regarded as "by long odds the best-looking tremely fine specimen," whom the ladies of his parish regarded as "by long odds the best-looking pastor in all Pennsylvania. He deesn't need any artificial oloom of roses; while his moustache is as a trumpet vine throwing its laughing tendrils over the arch of a garden gate. trumpet vine throwing its laughing tendrils over the arch of a garden gate.

Placed in the vestibule of a house, with morning-glory seeds planted in his boot legs, and no ornament could quicker bring to halt a crowd of bypassers.

The Rev. Samuel W. Hallowell is a pastor of another stamp. He is "upwards of seventy years of age, and has constantly kept the Devil with a black eye since the first day he received boly orders." The reporter, having heard this Devil with a black eye since the first day he received holy orders." The reporter, having heard this gentleman preach in a suburban church, was offered the hospitality of a brother "from New England, the land of cold Sunday dinners and sixly-minute prayers." The hospitality was declined, because after such a sermon nothing short of brothed fowl would do: and luckily, Mr. Brick, of the American House, had a spring chicken ready. Having done justice to the chicken, the reporter went to hear Brother Badger, of St. Stephen's. Mr. Badger is a small man, and "as he emerged from the vestry-room in his white surplice, we thought of Zaccheus climbing the sycamore on the day that our Lord took dinner at his house." Moreover, the worthy pastor is so shortsighted as not to know his principal warden from "the clam-dealer who operates in bivalves across the way," and he passes operates in bivalves across the way," and he passes his time in a state of warfare with Brother Joe Parker, who holds out-door prayer-meefings, and "addresses the Lord in shockingly ungrammatical English." In both these matters the reporter sympathizes with the parson; but ex-City missionary Rev. John Street gets the tomahawk:—"He made the missionary hygings furnish a next confice of the control of the contr missionary business furnish a nest-egg for a luxurious competence. " " Street lives in lavender—ale and claret. You can see both, the latter in packages on the freigdt cars, at frequent intervals, bearing his address in turpentime and lampblack;— The Hill of Zion yields

The reporter deals with the laity as well as the clergy. Noting the appearance in church of Brother Harry Dreer after a lengthened tour in Europe, he says:—"Brother Dreer so long sang hymns in the American chapel at Paris that he could not quite the county of the parising account." says:—"Brother Dreer so long sang hymns in the American chapel at Paris that he could not quite eradicate from his vocalization the Paristan accent." The same brother is also reported to have "done up his devotions in wayside chapels on the lewer lifts of the Alps." A Mr. Jordan, "who so long supplied Philadelphia with bottled stout," having joined a Catholic Church, is described as "one of the few men over thirty years of age that hasn't lost the faculty of blushing:" and Brother William Matthews, just fresh from California, is credited with "a heart about the size of an egg plant," and a pocket-book to match. "It is a nice thing, mides the reporter, "to have treasures laid up where burglars can't get at them: a big balance in bank is also a good thing. We should like a taste of the sensation." Noticing the departure of a gentleman from the Reformed Presbyterian Church, the writer says:—"Brother Dunlap, like so many useful Christians, finds the road to fortune a good deal shorter by way of New York than by way of Philadelphia. The only drawnack to New York is that its distance from Heaven exceeds that of this city about 45,000 miles. When Brother Dunlap starts for Paradise he intends to do so from Philadelphia. "The history of another brother who, being tempted, went astray, is told at edifying length. We refer to it only for the sake of the reporter's preventive against sach lapses:—"With ten hours' labor per day, and a diet of saltedifying length. We refer to it only for the sake of the reporter's preventive against such lapses:— With ten hours' labor per day, and a diet of salt-herrings and potatoes, this gentleman in all pro-bability would have lived up to the teachings of his master, and have ultimately brought up in a first-class seat among the oberubim and seraphim." It is added:—"The status of the brother in the Church will not be disturbed by his affairs. In the words of a co-brother, 'we can't afford to lose him." The public is assured that Mr. A. List, a beershop keeper, was not converted on a certain evening. "A fine-looking man experienced religion at Ebenezer on that evening, but it wasn't the silken-haired Adolf." After visiting a suburban church the reporter writes:—"Our brother John Stone, the oliman on Adolf." After visiting a suburban church the reporter writes:—"Our brother John Stone, the oilman on Walnut street, was there, and the manner in which he acknowledged himself a miserable sinner was succulently refreshing. Our Adonis, like brother Lockwood, the Hercules of the envelope and paper collar trade, smiled benignly benind an cieven-dollar prayerbook; he admitted himself a miserable sinner, but the admission is to be accepted cum grano malis."

"We don't believe," writes the reporter in one of his exordiums, "that when Moses came down the lawa-strewn slope of Sinal he had any more idea of lava-strewn slope of Sinai he had any more idea of a Sunday Mercury than he had of a galvanic battery, a locomotive, or automaeit machines for making bricks." Which is very likely.

A POSER.

Ore Woman Marries Another and Commences a Sult.

She has married a woman. Such is the position of a plaintiff before a law court of Santiago, Chili. The wife has sued for a divorce, founding the application on the sinple fact that her husband is of the same sex as herself. The swas enough to procure a divorce, but not enough to create an embarrassing law case; and yet the bench of Santiago is sorely puzzled over the matter. It was easy to separate husband and wife; but how about the property? The one of the two ladles who undertook the part of husband had married the other for her money and for her had married the other for her money and for her prospects. She was in the habit of frequenting the baths of Colina for the purpose of seiling fresh eggs and other such commodities to the world of fashion who seek health and repose in that watering place. The police had watched the egg-seller, and noticed that he or she always wore a cloak, and that on no account was it ever put aside. Otherwise, the eggseller's dress and gait were that of a man. On the other hand, the wife of this singular mate is of a simplicity and innocence so great that for some time after the marriage she had no suspicion as to the nullity of her husbands' pretensions. In the meantime madame the husband, in all sions. In the meantime madame the husband, in all the pride of manhood, employed herself busily in making purchases and contracts in her wife's name and with her wife's marriage portion. Now the question arises whether the wife should be responsible for the debts incurred by the husband while managing her affairs. There is another question also—what punishment should be inflicted on the nusband for contempt of law and for forgery committed in signing the marriage contract and other mitted in signing the marriage contract and other locuments under an assumed sex? The legal aspects of the case may be left to the learned magistrates of

MARTYRDOM.

A Christian Woman Tortured by Chinese.

A Catholic paper in England gives the following ac-count of an incident which it says recently occurred at Canton:-"A native Christian woman, much reat Canton:—"A native Christian woman, much respected by the Christians, and by the pagans who were acquainted with her, has devoted herself for 20 years to the rescuing and baptizing infants abandoned by their parents. At the beginning of July she was arrested on the charge of practising sorcery upon young children, and of taking out their eyes, the marrow of their bones and even their sands with a marrow of their bones, and even their souls, with a marrow of their bones, and even their souls, with a view to the preparation of magical remedies. She was several times put to the question, and savagely beaten on the face with leathern straps to induce her to confess her guilt. In the midst of her tortures, however, she maintained the greatest courage and constancy in confessing the faith. She was condemned to death, and it was feared that the sentence would be immediately executed. Upon this M. Gerardin, the resident missionary, succeeded in obtaining entrance to the prison, heard ceeded in obtaining entrance to the prison, heard ceeded in obtaining entrance to the prison, heard her confession, and administered to her the Holy Viaticum; while the Bishop, Mgr. Guillemin, left no means untried to obtain a respite. This was granted, and the Viceroy spread a report that the cause would be carried by appeal to Pekin. But in the meantime the populace were excited to fresh violence, and the the populace were excited to fresh violence, and the mandarins subjected the accused to fresh examina-tions, forcing her to remain for many hours kneeling upon iron chains. All of a sudden, however, the victim of persecution was set at liberty and received with public demonstrations of joy by the Christian part of the population."

TRAGEDY.

A Marder at a Wedding. At a wedding in Texas, Cctober 21, a man and a young woman were murdered. The story is told by a local paper:—"On Thursday night, while a party was assembled at the residence of Mr. Hargreave, in Reed's prairie, Grimes county, to attend the mar-riage of Mr. Hargreave's daughter, and a few mo-ments after the ceremony had been performed, a company of soldiers, in pursuit of some one supposed to be there, surrounded the house and demanded its surrender. Mr. Hargreave offered to surrender the house and every one in it, and went out to the captain of the squad. The report is that while Mr. Har-greave was out a pistol in the hands of a young man in the house went of accidentally. The soldiers in the house immediately opened lire. A Miss Russell had just stepped upon a gallery, when she was hit in the head with a minie ball and in the leg with a buckshot, and instantly killed. A Mr. Fowler was also killed. Rolla Pearce and Mrs. Autery were wounded. With the first shot the gentlemen in the house started every one to lie down flat upon the core. But for the meany more lives would have been floor. But for this many more lives would have been lost. The groom and several others were arrested The groom and several others were arrested and carried off.

Chinese Suspension Bridges. The construction of suspension bridges has been thought a signal achievement by the Western na-tions, but in China they are of great antiquity, and tions, but in China they are of great antiquity, and many still exist. They are made of iron chains, and their mode of construction resembles in the main that used in the Western countries. They are, however, generally confined to mountainous regions, and span rivers whose navigation is interrupted. There is one over a river in the Yunnau Province There is one over a river in the vunnar Province that is said to have been first built by one famous Chu-koh-liang more than two thousand years singe, and there is a second and much larger one in the Kwelchow province, spanning the River Pei. This latter was built during the Ming dynasty. It consists of many chains stretched across the river and fastened firmly in the stone on either bank; from natural elevations above other chains depend, and are made fast to the span; and there are also chains fastened to it from below, the object being to make the bridge as firm as possible. A plank floor is laid on this bed of chains; it is repaired at regular intervals of from three to five years at the imperial intervals of from three to five years at the imperial expense. The span of this bridge is said to be several hundred feet.

A Boy's Herolsin.
From the Woodland (Cal.) Democrat, Oct. 16. A resident of Knight's Lauding sends us the follow-ing account of an act of Juvenile heroism:—On Sating account of an act of juvenile heroism:—On Saturday last two men went to the farm of Philip Prather, on the Sacramento river, about two miles above Knight's Landing, and found only a small boy at the house (a son of Prather's), who, upon seeing strangers approach, went into the house and locked the door. The men demanded admittance, and threatened to kill him if he did not open the door and give them what money was in the house.
The boy went up stairs, ostensibly to get the money, but instead he brought down a loaded rifie, and told them to leave or he would shoot. One of the men told him he could not do it, and they then attempted to break in the door with clubs, when the boy almed to break in the door with clubs, when the boy aimed at the larger of the two through the window, and shot. The result he does not know, as the fellow halloed and ran away. The boy thinks he hit his man a centre shot. The little fellow is only eleven years old, and his mother was at Knight's Landing trading. Mr. Prather is at present in the East. The boy deserves credit for his heroism.

FROM TRUSTWORTHY DATA it has been estimated that at least one-fourth of all persons born in the United States have, at birth, lungs in a tuberculous condition, and in consequence are predisposed to Pulmonary Complaints; yet it is equally well established that this pradisposition need not end in Consumption, Asthma, or any other lung disease, if due care and watchfulness be observed, and all exciting causes promptly treated as they arise. It is in just such cases DR. D. JAYNE'S EXPECTOnant exercises its most beneficial effects, and has produced the largest proportion of its cures. Besides promptly removing Coughs and Colds, which, when left to themselves, are the most common cause of tuberculous development, the Expectorant allays any inflammation which may exist, and by promoting easy expectoration cleanses the lungs of the substances which clog them up, and which rapidly destroy when suffered to remain. Sold by all Druggists.

IMPAIRED DIGESTION .- All the organs of the body are, so to speak, the pensioners of the stomach. In that living laboratory is prepared the nourishment required to sustain them, and by the vessels and ducts connected with the digestive apparatus, that nourishment is conveyed to every part of the system. Upon the quality and quantity of this element of life, and upon the manner in which it is distributed and apportioned, physical health mainly depends, and as the mind inevitably sympathizes with the body, the vigor of the one is absolutely necessary to the well-being of the other.

It is because HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS ascomplishes this double object that it enjoys a reputation as a preventive and curative never heretofore attained by any medicinal preparation. But its direct beneficial operation upon the weak or disordered stomach is not its sole recommendation. It is the most comprehensive of a known remedies. It tones, strengthens, and regulates the discharging as well as the assimilating organs; gently moving the bowels, promoting healthful evaporation through the pores, rausing the inert liver from its torpor and inducing harmonious and natural action in the whole animal machinery. This benign result is not produced by any of the reactionary drugs which are used so lavishly in the old school practice, founded by Paracelsus; but by mild, safe, and agreeable vegetable agents intermixed with a pure and mellow stimulant which diffuses their in fluence through the system, and ronders their sanitary properties active and effective.

HALF HOURS WITH THE BEST AUTHORS. With Short Biographical and Critical Notices. By Charles Ruight, author of "A Popular History of Kagland," sto. etc. Elegantly printed on the finest paper. 6 vols. crown 8vo, cloth, bev. bds., glit tops, 810 80 or bound in 3 vols., thick crown 8vo, fibe English cloth, bev. bds., glit tops, per set, 8730.

Selecting some choice passage of the best standard authors, of sufficient length to occupy half an hour in its perusal, there is here food for thought for every day in the year; so that if the purchaser will devote but one half hour each day to its appropriate selection, he will read through these six volumes in one year, and in such a leisurely manner that the nobest thoughts of many of the greatest minds will be firmly implanted in his mind forever. We venture to say, if the editor's idea is carried out, the reader will possess mere information and a better knowledge of the English classics at the end of the year than he would by five years of desultery reading. They can be commenced at any day of the year. The variety of reading is so great that no one will ever tire of these volumes. It is a library in itself.

FERNITURE:

CAUTION! BEWARE

THE TRICK OF TRADE EXPOSED. THE TRICK OF TRADE EXPOSED.

It has been a plan of certain small houses in the Furniture trade to give 5 or even 10 per cent. commission to parties from other trades and stores bringing or sending customers to them, and then charging the purchasers a higher price for their furniture, or else sending them an inferior article.

This is to caution parties not to go to stores where they are thus alily recommissioned by these interested advisers. Measure, Gould & Co. do not pay any commission to carpet atcress, or any others, and can therefore afford to sell cheaper, and give their customers the full benefit of this saying. saving.

They have by honorable dealing secured the largest Furniture Trade in the city, and hope to merit its continuance.
