THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH-PHILADEL

NEW-YORKISMS. Our Ours Correspondent

NEW YORK, NOV. 30, 1969. Obltaary.

7 se local obituarists have had two deaths to chroni--those of Isaac C, Pray and of James S. Browne. Me Browne has been in retirement for many years, way eighty years of age, and will be remembered as a very pleasing comedian. His last engagement was at bie Olympic Theatre in 1858, with Laura Keene and her company, and his last appearance in the chas acter of "Sir Harcourt Courtley." He belonged to that genaration of actors of whom the late Mrs. Ver, on was one of the last lingering celebrities, Mr. Fray was equally well known in theatrical and in a wspaper circles, and had been by turns author, acto, editor, elocutionist, translator, playwright, and pagazinist. Without being very eminent in either of ty ese capacities, he had the substratum of a fine edu ation, which ought to have given more permanen, and solid results to his endeavors. During Ristori s season here he translated the Italian libretti, any the translations were very amusing specimens of a indiomatic English and idiomatic Italian. Of late yea,s Mr. Pray had been a spiritualist, and was a arn believer that one of his recent plays was inspired by Shakespeare, "Pity the Sorrows"

e poor "interviewer," who is ordered by the editor to interview such a person, and who has nothing to do but obey. "Interviewing" has grown ing so distinct a department of the New York newspay :rs that the question, "Is he a good interviewer?" is one of the first that an enterprising managing editor asks before effecting an engagement with a ne, hand. The question is tantamount to asking Haz he got cheek ? Can he buttonhole a bashful ma, into confession, and keyhole a closeted party self-betraval? Can he refuse to be snubbed and slighted, and is he impervious to the cold shoulder ? Is 1 impossible to "shake" him, and is he a stranger tota e process of being bluffed off ? Can he smile and mile beneath the sarcasm of the Sorosis, and my der reputations while he smiles ? Can he wait lik, a menial in the halls and ante-chambers of rich mea's houses, and endure to be browbeaten like a spaniel, for making his report one "stick" shorter the st that of a rival paper? If he can do and suffer al this for the brilliant salary of fifteen dollars per wesk, he will take rank as an accomplished intervie ver, and rise rapidly amongst newspapers whose mest and drink is sensation. All I ask is that you will pity his sorrows.

Chenp Lodgings for Girls, plan has been proposed by which poor girls may bet enclited, and it remains to be seen whether the lies who express so much sympathy for the "downtrot den and oppressed" of their sex will make an effe. t to put any of them at their ease. It is proposed for, everal ladies to club together and hire a house and at it up so as to afford a lodging for a moderate nun ber, and then to gather from the various workshous a sufficient number to make it worth while to initiate them at once into co-operative housekeeping. A viriety of good practical suggestions have been offered, and this is one of the best.

Business.

Ta B is not an attractive sub-head, I know; but then business is not an attractive thing. It was originally coupled with a curse, and if one is to belies all that business men say now-a-days, the curse has not been lifted from it yet. Business is very dul they tell us. Even the approach of Christmas has got yet pinched it into lightness. But what are the rowds doing who every afternoon throng Broadway? Are they out for the mere pleasure of gadding? What are all these ladies and children about in the shops? Is there no purchasing going on? Vervlittle. I am not an interviewer, but I dwell ame ng them, and some of their ink is on my pen. Fey, preparations have yet been made for Christmas. The shop windows show no evidences of the win--dresser's tas'e. It looks as though we were gol g to have a commercially dull Christmas.

Reliable Help. TAe Working Women's Protective Association announces that it has something new, and that somethiag is that reliable help of various kinds is to be obtained at No. 420 Montgomery street, by paying a fee of one dollar. I think I could single out a halfdozen heads of families who would gladly pay one handred times that amount for help that should really (and truly prove reliable. The Biddy of the Period is the domestic incubus of the nineteenth Railroad, at Mast Hope. Through the careless ness of an engineer and conductor, one freight train ran into another, smashing up twenty cars. Luckily no one was hurt.

-Mr. Burlingame states that his conduct as Ambassador from China has received the entire approval of the Government of that country. His mission will last two provides the states of the country. His mission will last two years, and he antici-pates brilliant results from it for China. —On and after the 1st of January next, the postal rates on letters for France will be ten cents per half ounce; newspapers, two cents; and book packages and samples of merchandise four cents per four ounces or fraction thereof; in each case prepaid. —A suit has been commenced at Rochester, by the Attorney-General of New York, to detor-mine who were the legally-elected directors of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad, in August last. This is another complication in the Eric Railroad muddle.

Railroad muddle. —Latest advices regarding the condition of Mr. Richardson, shot in the New York Tribune office on Thursday, are to the effect that, although the crisis has not yet passed, the symptoms are favorable, and his friends have more hopes than ever for his recovery.

Foreign Affairs.

-Paris continues perfectly quiet. -Archbishop Cullen, of Dublin, is out in pastoral denouncing Fenianism. -The Captain-General of Cuba denies that there is any truth in the report that a Spanish flect is coming to New York.

Important Speech of the Emperor-Reforms Promised.

PARIS, Nov. 29 .- At the opening of the Corps Legislatif, the news of which has previously been sent by telegraph, the Emperor delivered a speech from the throne. It was hoped the Em-press might return in time to take part in the ceremonies, but she has not yet reached Paris. The Emperor said:---

"It is not easy to establish regular and peaceful liberty in France. For months past society seemed menaced by subversive passions, and freedom compromised by excesses of the press and public assemblies; but common sense has already properly judged these culpable exaggerations, which after all have served but to prove the solidity of the edifice founded by popular suffrage. But this uncertainty and trouble must last no longer. The will of the people must be known. France wants liberty with order, and order I answer for. Help me, Messieurs, to secure liberty. Between those who would change all and those who would grant nothing a glorious course may be chosen.' The Emperor then referred to the Senatus Consultum of September last, which he said he had proposed with the purpose of inaugurating a new era of conciliation and progress. He proceeded to enunciate the municipal reforms to be made. He pronounced the situation of the country satisfactory, and declared that the more he was ready, however, to grant reforms, the more decided he was to maintain the principles of the constitution. The relations of France with foreign powers were friendly. The Emperor continued:—"We have reason to be proud of our epoch. The New World suppresses slavery, Russia frees her serfs, England renders justice to Ireland, bishops are meeting at Rome for wise and conciliatory purposes, and the progress of science draws nations nearer to each other. While America unites the Atlantic and Pacific, everywhere capital and intelligence combine to connect by electric wires all nations. France and Italy will soon be joined by tunnel through the Alps, and the Suez Canal has already united the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. The Empress is not present to-day, because I desired her to testify the sympathy of France with the wonderful genius and perseverance of a Frenchman."

The Emperor concludes:-"Messieurs, you resume your labors after an unusual interrup-tion of the session. I hope the bodies of the State will apply loyalty to the modifications lately made in the Constitution. There is to be a more direct participation of the nation in its own affairs. This will be a new force for the empire. France can support free institutions which honor civilized nations."

LONDON, Nov. 29 .- The Times says :- "Whatever divergence of opinion may weaken the opposition in the Corps Legislatif, they should work together to overthrow men who have brought the Government into discredit. should be no compromise with passive instruments of personal rule. Possibly the present Ministers may still be at the head, but the Emperor is accustomed to look upon his power as built on odds of a hundred to one. For many years the opposition was composed of only four others besides Favre. In the face of one hundred and sixteen opposition votes the Emperor's posi-tion is already untenable."

PARIS, Nov. 29-Evening.-Large crowds were collected around the hall of the Corps Legislatif to-day, but no disturbance occurred. Within the Chamber the scene was one of great interest. Henri Rochefort was not present, and his name, when called, was received with hisses.

The Emperor's address was listened to with the deepest attention, and was frequently ap-plauded. At that point where the Emperor declared he would answer for the preservation of order the applause became enthusiastic. The official journals this evening praise the speech, while the opposition press complain that the
