cross-examined ar an sixty-four years of age; the trial of Colonel Alexander ended on the 4th of De-cember, 1868; it commenced on November 20; Mr. Buil cross-examined Mr. Brooks very fully; I had not visited the house of Keller at that time; I subseand found the windows of the cellar to be very small, with a high blank wall and a three-feet alley-smail, with a high olank wan and a three-feet altey-way opposite them; i could not sit down and write out literally all the testimony given in that trial; Mr. Brooks had then, from information given me, threatened that Colonel Alexander should go to the Penitentiary, and should not escape; I was aware of a combination against Colonel Alexander, and I was very particular with reference to Mr. Brooxs' testimony; a suit had been instituted against Messrs Rollins, Tutton, Luther, and others, for a conspiracy to remove Colonel instituted against Mesers Rollins, Tutton, Luther, and others, for a conspiracy to remove Colonel Alexander from the assessorship; I now undertake to answer that I can give literally the important facts of Mr. Brooks' testmiony. John P. O'Neill, Esq., sworn-1 am a member of the bar; I prosecuted the case against Colonel Alex-ander; there is a portion of Mr. Brooks' testimony which I remember substantially; he was called to rebut the testimony of Moret, who had been asked "if he had not a certain conversation with Keller in Keller's house;" he denied it, and said he had not; Mr. Brooks was called to rebut; a discussion arose as to the admission of Brooks' testimony; it was admit ted; I put to him two questions, "You have hear Moret testify here to-day?" "Yes, sir." "Is that the same voice you heard in Reading?" "Yes, sir." The testimony was then admitted; he did not say anything about seeing Moret; he testified that by arrangement with Mr. Keller he was at his house; he was in a room, when two men came in; he went into the cellar and there heard all that passed; he did not pretend to recognize Moret in any way other than by his voice; he did not describe his whiskers; I was subponsed to appear here this morning. The case is still proceeding as we go to press.

MANAYUNK.

A Gas Explosion.

A Gas Explosion. On Main street, Manayunk, there is, or rather was, a confectionery store, of which a Mrs. Whittaker was the proprietress. Now, the house in which the store was located differs from the majority of dwellings in this wise; it has no cellar, but only a sub-cellar. In one corner of this hole was fixed a gas meter, which, from what we are abont to mention, must have been supplied with a different quality of gas from that now used in this city. Early this morning the strong odor gave notice that there was a leak somewhere, and a man was Early this morning the strong odor gave notice that there was a leak somewhere, and a man was sent into the sub-cellar to examine. Of course he needed a light, and of course he at once struck a match-presto, up went the floor, Mr. Man, candles, cakes, shelves, etc.; and what only a few moments before was a nearly arranged store was turned into a state of confusien. Mr. Man went as high as the celling of the place, but being somewhat portly, was unable to get through. On the downward track he struck a pan of what the juvenlies call "Yaller Jack," and it stuck to him, thereby preventing his sustaining any serious injuries. sustaining any serious injuries.

sustaining any serious injuries. The noise created by the affair arguesed the whole community, and people came pouring in from all sections; the bridges leading from the other side of the Schuyfkill were all filled with mud, and the canal boatmen were busily employed in washing their clothes. No little excitement was created by the report that several boys and girls had been blown to pieces; but a careful investigation by our reporter brought to light the fact that.—they were made of panet.

The Insurance Patrol of Roxborough and the The insurance Patrol of Roxborough and the Fire Department of Wissahickon were soon on the ground, and preparations were at once made to tura the noble Schuyikill upon the flames, but the Wis-schickon was found all sufficient. Smith, of Select Council, did most excellent scrylce in directing the operations of the Department of the Wissahickon, and our remoter was informed that in and our reporter was informed that it was the intention of the residents of Manayunk to present him with the first second-hand boat-horn that may be found in the mud after a freshet, as a token of their esteem for him as a fireman. From a reliable policeman we ascertained that two hundred dollars would cover the loss by the explosion.

WHAT WE WOULD DO IF WE WERE MAYOR .--- WE would not have robberies and burglaries daily re-ported, with no arrests. -We would put an end to policemen on night duty gathering in knots on street corners. —We would not have citizens, whilst waiting for a car, ordered about at the whim of every member of the force.

We would, whilst enforcing temperance princ - We would, whilst enforcing temperance princi-ples, put an embargo on side-entry manaceuves. It is not quite the thing to see a policeman wiping his mouth when emerging from said entries. --We would see that Ninth street, from Race to Market, be visited at least occasionally by members of the force. —We would not prohibit patrolmen from "taking something" now and then, and yet allow our higher appointees to visit drinkeries at their pleasure. It looks like partiality, you know ! —We would station officers at Eleventh and Arch streets, nightly, and have them arrest the numerons "street walkers" that annoy the residents of both streets -We would see that if burglars are to be allowed to operate when and where they piease, public notice be given so that our citizens may prepare to -We would see that an end be put to a thieves'

den on N. Third street, known as a concert saloon

-We would have our pawnbrokers kept to a strict account. There would then be less thieving. -We would see that the ordinance in reference to close driving be enforced. We would have this don at once. -We would advise certain officials not to be seen so often in the company of "professionals."

LOCAL ODDS AND ENDS .- Temperance lectures at the Twentieth Street M. E. Church on Tuesday next. —Is there any necessity for the conductors on the Fourth and Eighth streets line to loaf at street corners, to the detention of passengers ? -Rather tough, the yarn that the disfigurement of the statue of the "Noble George" was caused by a ball from a street-cleaning machine.

-Our citizens need not fear gas explosions at pre-sent, the miscrable substitute now being furnished will scarce ignite, let alone explode.

-What has the Board of Health oone in regard to the streets of the Pifth ward reported dirty ? -The practice of washing pavements such weather as this should be immediately abolished, —The Pennsylvania Peace Society meets at Ninth and Spring Garden streets to-night.

-Why is not the practice of crowding venicies in one continuous line abolished ? -Queen Victoria has not taken a suite of rooms at the Continental, as reported.

-Germantown presents a lively scene on Saturday nights.

The New Circuit Judges-Opposition to the Pennsylvanin Nomination. Special Despatch to The Econing Telegraph.

Rescial Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A careful canvass of the Senate shows that there is a strong opposition to the confirmation of Judges Yeaman, Pearce, and McKennan, nominated for United States Circuit Judges. All the others will be confirmed without opposition. Republicans are anxious to get a man for the district to which Yeaman is nominated—in-cluding, as it does, Kentucky—whose position on all questions arising out of the Rebelion is unequivocal. Besides, it is held that Yeamen is not fit for the place. Tharges said to be well founded have been brought against Pearce for attempting to defraud the revenue. McKennan is not regarded as quali-fied, and many Senators will vote against him on this ground. The probabilities are that all three will be rejected. be rejected.

The Virginia Members-No Opposition. All opposition having been withdrawn to the ad-mission of Virginia, and ex-Governor Wells having written a letter in favor of annesty, and for imme-diate admission, the Reconstruction Committee are preparing the forms, which will be presented on Monday next.

The Franking Privilege.

Large numbers of members and Senators are greatly incensed at the statement of the Postmaster-

General in his report that the franking privilege costs the Government five millions annually. Statements are being prepared to show that it does not cost the Government more than a million annu-ally. The assault of the Postmaster-General is re-garded as uncalled for, and calculated to have a bad effect upon the party, affording capital for opposi

The McGarrahan Case.

Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WAEHINGTON, Dec. 11.-Attorney-General Hoar attempted yesterday to get the attorneys in the celebrated McGarrahan case to agree to have a mandamus case against Secretary Cox advanced in the docket of the United States Supreme Court. The latter would not agree. Hoar puts it on the ground of the public interest involved, although there are several hundred cases ahead of this, which is making of the public interest fuelow. is really of no public importance. The contest is not between the United States and McGarrahan, but between the New Idria Quicksliver Company, who are in possession, and McGarrahan, who is trying to oust them. Some surprise is manifested at the in-terferance of the United States officials in a case in-volving only private interests.

It will be remembered that after the brutal attack upon him, he fired his platol and wounded Griffin in the right arm, frac-turing the bone below the elbow. The wounded man was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where the arm was attended to; thence he was removed to prison, where he remained until brought to court for trial. Here it was discovered that the odor arising from the wound was almost intolerable, and therefore an examina-tion was made, which resulted in discovering that the bandages had not been renewed since his con-finement in prison, and the cut bore the appearance of an explanation. THE POST OFFICE TO BE ENLARGED .- Some time ago General Bingham proposed to the authorities at Washington the consolidation of the sub-stations, making the Chesnut street office the Post Office of making the Cheshut street on was the only barrier. the city. The want of room was the only barrier. This difficulty is now to be overcome. An addition, to extend from Library street half way to Chesnut street, and across the wagon-road to the Custom House wall, is to be erected. The plans and specifi-cations have been made, and the contract will at an early day be entered into. The trees which have so long shaded the wagon-drive have been removed, and the walliness for the builder. The and everything is in readiness for the builder. The addition will be of brick, a single story, with high ceiling. The roof will be chiefly of heavy glass, in order to make the interior as cheerful as possible. The addition will be principally devoted to the re-ception and delivery of mails, packing and assor-ing. The room gained by the addition in the presening. The room gained by the addition in the present building will be set apart for the carriers, the num-ber of whom will be considerably increased by the closing of the sub-stations, from which a very large proportion of the mail matter is now delivered, as well as collected, previous to forwarding to the central office.

THE TRINITY PRESBYTEBIAN CHURCH .- This church is situated on Frankford road and Cambria street. The size of the main building is 75 by 42 feet; the chapel at the end is 42 by 30 feet, style fect: the chapel at the end is 42 by 30 fect, style Gothic, pointed grey stone, with tower and porch entrance. Value of the building, when completed, $30,060. It will cost to finish, furnish, and pave around the main building about $2500. The neigh-borhood is good and improving, and a church of this kind is greatly needed there. As this is a mission church, if must depend upon the liberality of the community to meet its pressing demands. A debt of about $2500 is now pressing upon the church, which, together with what is required to finish the building, about $5000 in all, is the amount which the Treasurer requires to put the church upon a permanent basis. Rev. N. A. Brown is now ministering to this church, and the congregation is increasing. It is hoped, therefore, that the funds needed to ensure the success of this enterprise will be soon contributed. THE CLAYFOOLE FAMILY - A counde of what we
